DEMOCRATIC CHOICE FOR CONGRESS IN THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

When Col. Lewis Perrine, of Trenton, was nominated by the Democrats of the new Fourth Congressional district as their candidate for Congress, the Democrats of Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon counties believed that they had found a man who would make a strong run against Judge Lanning. The Democrats of Somerset had wanted James J. Bergen, of Somerville. To most of the residents of North Plainfield and vicinity, Col. Perrine is entirely unknown and so a brief sketch of his career and a picture of him would not be out of place.

Col. Lewis Perrine.

Colonel Perrine comes of an old Jersey family, distinguished for its Democracy and its military service. His father was Major-General Lewis Perrine, who served as Quartermaster-General of the State for 35 years, and who armed and equipped all the troops that went from the State to the Civil War.

The Congressional candidate was born in Trenton, August 12, 1859, and received his early education at the Trenton Academy, where he had for a preceptor ex-Judge William M. Lanning, who is now his opponent for Congress on the Republican ticket. He graduated from the State Model School in 1876, and from Princeton University in 1880, standing well up in his class and receiving honorable mention.

After leaving college he entered the law office of Levi T. Hannum, and in 1883 was admitted to the bar of New Jersey. In October of the same year he was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the old Trenton Horse Railroad Company, and subsequently was made president and general manager. He consolidated the street railroads of the city, and for 15 years managed the system with much success. He transformed the entire system from horses to electricity as a motive power, and to this enterprise is largely due the development of the miles of suburban territory hereabouts.

In May, 1881, Governor Ludlow appointed him Assistant Quartermaster-General, with the rank of Colonel, and he was re-appointed by Governor Abbett in 1884, and again by Governor Green in 1887. He refused a reappointment in 1890, and also declined to be considered for Quartermaster-General of the State, as the successor of his father, who died in the fall of 1889. Outside of his post as Assistant Quartermaster-General, Colonel Perrine has never held political or military office. He has, however, always been an enthusiastic Democrat.

Colonel Perrine disposed of his interests in the local trolley system in 1895, retiring from the presidency. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of law and in banking and financial matters. He is a director in a number of railroads affiliated with the Pennsylvania system. He is also interested in a number of other enterprises.

For a score of years, Colonel Perrine has been well-known in Episcopal church circles. He is the senior warden of Christ P. E. church and has repeatedly been a delegate from the church to diocesan conventions. He attended the general convention of the church of the United States held in San Francisco last October and is very active in church matters. For many years he has been trustee of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, and is also a trustee of the general funds of the Episcopal church.

Colonel Perrine married a daughter of Major W. B. Slack, of the United States Marine Corps. The couple have one child and reside in a handsome home on Greenwood avenue. They also have a country place, "The Birches," located on the banks of the Delaware river, on the Pennsylvania side.

COUNTY CONVENTIONS.

Both Parties Will Meet in Somerville Court House Monday and Wednesday of Next Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 1—The Republican and Democratic hosts of Somerset county are now preparing for the county conventions and great activity is displayed in all sections. The Republicans will convene Monday morning at 11 o'clock, in the Court House here, and the Democrats will have their convention two days later at the same hour and place.

The primaries of both parties will be held on Saturday afternoon of this week, excepting in the different boroughs, which will have theirs on the evening previous.

Somerville, too, will have evening primaries, the first in years.

HOSPITAL AFFAIRS.

Routine Business Done at Meeting of Board of Governors.

Aside from the resignation of Dr. J. B. Probasco, there was little other business at the meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday evening. There was nothing to report concerning the new hospital, except that the contractors are progressing with it favorably.

The monthly medical report showed the number of patients at last report to be seventeen. The total admitted since was eighteen males and seventeen females; discharged cured, eight males and twelve females; discharged improved, four males and four females. There was one male that died. In the dispensary there were forty-eight males and seventeen females, while there was a total number of 196 visits to the dispensary, 145 males and fifty-one females.

CANDIDATES TALKED OF BY COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Newark News Correspondent Reviews Democratic Situation in Union County.

SEVERAL LOCAL NAMES

MARTINE AND CODDINGTON TALKED OF FOR STATE SENATOR.

H. W. Marshall Mentioned for the Shrievalty—Chas. L. Moffett May be Renominated for the Assembly Ticket—Other Candidates.

The great bone of contention at the Democratic Union County convention, which will be held here next Thursday afternoon, writes Michael Gannon, the Elizabeth correspondent of the Newark News, is over the shrievalty nomination, for which half a dozen aspirants are now in the field, with indications there will be more before the convention convenes.

The cause for all this anxiety on the part of several Democrats anxious to be nominated for sheriff are the reports that are being received here from Plainfield, the Republican Gibraltar, that the bitter factional fight there over this office has not been healed, but that long knive will be out there on election day to slaughter B. F. Coriell, the Republican nominee for that position.

This talk has given much encouragement to the Democratic leaders, who will concentrate their best efforts to regain control of this office. The multiplicity of candidates threatens, however, to be a stumbling block in the way of naming the strongest man who could be selected to make the race.

At present there are being placed in the field Captain Robert Lee Swart, collector for the Breidt Brewing Company; Fire Commissioner John J. Collins, of Elizabethport; former Sheriff William H. Hicks, License Inspector James J. Brennan, former School Commissioner Charles H. Moore, Charles A. Sulzer, all from Elizabeth, and Harry W. Marshall, of Plainfield.

For State senator the names prominently mentioned are former County Clerk John L. Crowell, of Rahway; former City Attorney James C. Connolly, of Elizabeth; James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," of Plainfield, and former City Judge William A. Coddington, of that city. Mr. Martine declines to run. Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, has also been mentioned for senator, but as he wants to be reelected this November for mayor, it is almost certain he would not accept a senatorial nomination.

Former Mayor Peter Bonnett is also being talked of in connection with this office. Judge Coddington, of Plainfield, and Alderman Walter Hetfield, of that city, are talked of for surrogate.

Who will be the Assembly nominees has not as yet been much spoken about. Charles A. Sulzer, of Elizabeth, may be one, and Charles Moffett, of Plainfield, another. Both these young men made good runs last year for Assembly and, in view of the fact that a fight is being made in Plainfield against Assemblyman Hall on the part of the strong Republican organ there, it is thought there may be a chance to elect a Democratic Assemblyman.

There seems to be a concensus of opinion, however, among the Democratic leaders that not in ten years has the outlook been so bright for a Democratic victory in Union or a part at least of the county ticket, and that to bring this result about and at the same time help the candidacy of Congressman Flanagan, only the very ablest men in the county as vote getters should be placed on the Democratic ticket.

Grey Eagle Visits Plainfield.

Several persons who were in the vicinity of Central and Stelle avenues, Monday afternoon, were startled to see a huge bird rise from the ground, near the woods, and soar high in the air. A well-known taxidermist, who saw it a few feet from the ground, declared it to be a grey eagle, the first that has been seen in this vicinity in years.

To Give Oratorio.

William E. MacClymont, organist of the Holy Cross church, is planning to give the oratorio of "Elijah" some time during October.

Accepted New Bridge.

AUTO CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Called on to Decide Constitutionality of the Township Ordinance.

REGARDING THE SPEED.

Reed & Coddington, Attorneys for Hermann Unger, Have Obtained a Writ of Certoirari to Review Fanwood Township Ordinance Under Which Mr. Unger Was Arrested.

Because a Scotch Plains constable decided that Herman Unger, the Newark merchant, was running his automobile through the streets of Fanwood township faster than ten miles an hour and arrested him on the charge of violating the township ordinance on the subject, the Supreme Court of New Jersey is going to decide whether a municipality has a right to make laws singling out automobiles from other kinds of vehicles and fix a special limit for their speed. Mr. Unger was to appear before Justice Clark, of Scotch Plains, this evening, to answer to the charge but his attorneys, Reed & Coddington, have obtained a writ of certiorari from the Supreme Court which will temporarily halt the proceedings.

This writ, which was served on Township Clerk Edward Hand and a certified copy of which was served on Justice Clark, both of Fanwood township, requires the township authorities to send up to the Supreme Court the ordinance and all the proceedings relative to the passage of the ordinance pertaining to the speed of autos. These will be reviewed by the Supreme Court and a hearing called when both sides will have an opportunity to argue their points. Meanwhile, the proceedings in Justice Clark's court are at a standstill and will remain so until a decision is given as to the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Former Judge W. A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, who represent Mr. Unger in this case, was interviewed by a Press reporter this morning, as to the reasons for the action.

"We claim," said Mr. Coddington, "that the ordinance is defective and void in law because it discriminates between the speed of automobiles and other vehicles. We also claim that the ordinance is a restriction of private rights of persons travelling on the public highway and that the ordinance is unauthorized by the township act."

This case promises to attract much attention, not only in Scotch Plains but throughout the State, as it is the first time that a legal fight has been made on the constitutionality of the local ordinances which affect automobiles and no other vehicles. There is no precedent in the case, except the ruling as to bicycles, and the decision of the Supreme Court in the case will naturally affect the local ordinances on the subject throughout the State.

BOEHM'S ANNEX.

Was Opened to the Public Yesterday With Many Attractions.

Yesterday morning witnessed the opening of I. H. Boehm's new annex at 126 Park avenue. There was a large attendance of shoppers anxious to see Mr. Boehm's new stock of women's goods, and all of these were shown through the place by the proprietor in person.

The new portion of the store is splendidly stocked with all manner of fall and winter goods suitable for women. In the well-appointed basement is the carpet and rug department. A new steam furnace has been placed in the basement, so that the heat question is solved, inasmuch as it is possible to burn soft coal in the furnace.

Visitors are always welcome to look at Mr. Boehm's stock, and it will well repay anyone to take a trip through the new annex.

To Watch It.

When Woodhull & Martin take possession of their new building on East Front street they will engage a night watchman, whose duty it will be to see that everything is all right during the hours the building is closed. This provision is considered not only wise, but a saving one in the end.

Miss Elizabeth Meaney, of East Second street, is visiting at Jutland, N. J.

SOCIABLE TIMES AT A TRINITY GATHERING

A Christian Endeavor Social Was Given in Successful Way Last Evening.

PLEASING PROGRAMME.

THEN THE GUESTS PLAYED SEVERAL AMUSING GAMES.

Retiring Committee Made its Final Effort Which Was Decidedly Successful—The Programme—Those in Charge.

A most enjoyable sociable was given at Trinity Reformed church last evening under the auspices of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, of which Miss Nettie Krietling is the efficient chairman. It was the closing social of the season to be given by this committee as a new committee will be appointed soon. The Sunday-school room, where the affair was given, was prettily decorated with greens and autumn leaves.

There was a very large attendance of young people and the committee made it a special point to see that everyone had a good time. The programme was chiefly of a musical character and was thoroughly appreciated by all. The programme opened with a piano solo by Herbert Harold, followed with a vocal solo by Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross, and trombone solos by C. K. Shupp. In these last two numbers Miss Lillian A. Force was the accompanist.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, PhD., the pastor of the church, made a few remarks of a congratulatory nature. He praised the social committee and spoke of the excellent leadership of the chairman, Miss Krietling. He also referred to socials in relation to church work. He said he felt sure that it would be the unanimous sentiment of the society that the same committee be continued another year.

After a piano duet by Miss Etta Raybert and Miss May Randolph, Miss Bessie Martin, a member of the social committee, read a humorous letter from E. E. Anthony, former superintendent of the Sunday-school. Aside from the lighter vein, Mr. Anthony took occasion to congratulate the society and wish it God-speed and success.

A piano solo by Miss Jeanne Lindsay and a banjorine solo by Wesley Randolph, accompanied by Miss May Randolph, brought the musical programme to a close, but there were two other features which made the social a great success.

There were two guessing games. One of these consisted of the guessing of the names of flowers and trees. Cards, upon which were printed the names of these flowers and trees with the letters mixed up, were distributed and there was no end of fun in putting the letters together correctly. The other game consisted of an observation table upon which were placed a great many different things. Those present formed a line and as they passed the table were to write them down on a piece of paper.

After this part of the enteratinment, refreshments consisting of glace and cake were served by the committee. This social committee is composed of the following persons: Miss Nettie Krietling, chairman; Miss Nettie Young, Miss Bessie Martin, Miss Kate Bodine, Miss Emma Lindsay, Clarence Rittenhouse and Fred W. Dunavan.

Officers for Howell Division.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, has elected officers as follows: Worthy patriarch, Mrs. Robert Mattis; worthy associate, Miss Etta Remsberg; recording scribe, S. B. Scribner; assistant, Miss Adele VonOhl; financial scribe, John Manley; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Mattox; chaplain, Mrs. Emma Cox; conductor, Mrs. Keoyer; assistant, Mrs. John Bowers; inside sentinel, Mrs. Percy Ohl; outside sentinel, W. E. Keoyer.

A New Honor.

Prof. A. A. Phelps, A. M., president of Plainfield Business College, has just received the degree of doctor of laws from Nashville College, Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Phelps already holds two college diplomas. He has had much experience as editor, author, teacher and lecturer.

At Somerville Hospital.

Miss Olive DeLany, the trained nurse, who formerly lived in Plainfield, is now in charge of the hospital at Somerville. She is at present enjoying a vacation at the home of her mother in this city.

FOUND NO INDICTMENT AGAINST AUTO DRIVER

Somerset County Grand Jury Investigated the Cause of Death of Mrs. Snyder.

AUTO GOING SLOWLY.

SEVERAL CASES UP FOR TRIAL IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Dr. Nixon, of Raritan, Lost a Damage Suit Brought Against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 1—In the Somerset County Courts here Monday morning it took only about an hour to finish the case of Boice, Runyon & Company against Brooks Carson, which was adjourned over on Thursday, as told in The Daily Press. The dispute was over some book accounts, and it was a very complicated affair. G. V. S. Moy, of Plainfield, was counsel for the plaintiffs and W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, for the defense. The jury, after being out about two hours, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs, less one item of $26.

The next case taken up was that of a Raritan party, Dr. Warford Nixon, against the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company. Last November, as he was alighting from a car in front of his home, he alleges, it did not stop for him sufficiently and he was thrown violently to the ground. For nearly two months he was laid up from the injuries he received, he says. During that time Drs. Heckt and Stillwell, of Somerville, and Dr. Ard, of Plainfield, attended him. His suit is to recover damages for the injury, his doctors' bills and the money he lost while unable to attend his practice. His lawyer is W. V. Steele and Hon. Alvah A. Clark appears for the traction company. The attorneys summed up the case yesterday morning. After Justice Garretson charged the jury yesterday afternoon no more cases will be taken up in the Circuit list until Monday next. The jury rendered a verdict of no cause of action.

The Grand Jury, which completed its labors last week, as told in The Daily Press, did not find an indictment against the automobilist, who, it was said, was responsible, in an indirect way, for the death of Mrs. W. V. Snyder at Bernardsville.

It is said an investigation of the circumstances in connection with the case was made, but the evidence showed that the auto as running at a speed not over ten miles an hour. The condition of the road is thought to have been partly responsible for the accident.

DISPLAY OF HATS.

Millinery Opening is a Decided Feature at Hill & Shupp's Store This Week.

A decided feature at Hill & Shupp's store this week is the grand millinery opening which is in charge of Miss M. A. Guest, a new and very fashionable milliner. Today and every day for the rest of the week this department will be a centre of attraction for the display is certainly one well worth seeing even if one does not buy.

The leading shape this fall is the shepherdess in velvets and scratched felts, while there are many shirred panne velvet shapes, with plumes and wings. The shades of green and blue are being used extensively in combination effects, while the white felt hats with green wings and panne velvet are very popular. Another attractive color in trimmings is the new burnt orange shade. There is also a special department devoted to the display of mourning hats. The children are well provided for, there being a large assortment of flats and beavers. There is still a good assortment of outing hats which are seasonable at present.

Attached Levine's Goods.

Justice Huff has issued papers of attachment for Cormick Caufield on goods belonging to Isaac Levine, the grocer at 1035 West Third street, whom Mr. Caufield claims is an absconding debtor to the amount of $24. The goods have been attached and inventoried and a hearing in the case will be given on Monday, October 20.

MICHAELMAS DAY.

Was Observed Here With Services in Episcopal Churches.

Michaelmas Day was fittingly observed by the Episcopal churches in the city, Monday, although the Roman Catholic churches did not hold any services to commemorate the day.

At Grace Episcopal church a morning service with Holy Communion was held, and at the Church of the Holy Cross the regular All Saint's service was given. At both the churches the attendance was good.

Michaelmas Day has been celebrated annually by Catholic churches for more than 1500 years. St. Michael is the patron saint of France and it was he who inspired Joan of Arc according to the history of French Catholic churches. The old legends have it that it was St. Michael who announced to the Virgin Mary the ruin of her death and who carried her soul to Heaven after death.

SIGNOR MARTINI.

Will Appear Here With the Royal Marine Band of Italy.

Signor Ettore Martini, one of Italy's greatest composers and conductors, has been specially engaged by Giannini's Royal Marine Band of Italy and Grand Opera Company, which is to appear at the Casino, Tuesday, October 7, to lead and stage the grand operas of this organization. Signor Martini is one of Italy's most sensational musicians. A friend and compatriot of Mascagni—they went to the same school together—they studied together; and eventually they composed together. When the great opera of "Amico Fritz" was completed, Mascagni chose Signor Martini to lead. This is enough to show that as a leader Martini is of Italy's musicians the greatest of the great.

MANAGER MONRO.

Chosen to Manage City High School Baseball Team Next Spring.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the City High School Athletic Association Monday, Herbert Munro was elected manager of the baseball team for the season of 1902-1903. Munro played third base on the High School team last year and ably covered the same bag as a player on the Hope nine. He is much interested in the National game and when the baseball season again comes around he will doubtless be a figure on the local diamond.

INTERESTING RELIC.

Bugle Sounded Reveille at Fort Sumter at Start of War.

Another interesting relic is now on exhibition in J. Hervey Doane's show window in Park avenue. It is one of the old bugles in service in the Civil War. This artillery bugle is the one that sounded the revielle in Fort Sumter April 14, 1861. With this bugle other calls were sounded during the bombardment and it was brought out with the honors of war upon the surrender of Fort Sumter to Gen. Beauregard of the Confederate States Army.

A Skyward Trip.

Mountain climbing is one of the most fascinating of pastimes and particularly so when done by train. The ascent with grand vistas in every direction is exciting and even exhilarating. The new and extended views which are presented are nothing short of panoramic and all in all there is interest in every move. The trip to Mauch Chunk and then over the Switchback to Summit and Mt. Pisgah via the New Jersey Central consists of one of the most novel bits on mountain climbing imaginable, and the Pennsylvania Mountains through which the journey leads are magnificent in their grandeur. On Sunday, October 5, the New Jersey Central will run one of its popular priced excursions to Mauch Chunk by special train leaving Plainfiled at 9:20 a. m. Tickets $1.50 for the round trip, which will include the trip to Glen Onoko. Switch-back tickets 50 cents extra. Mauch Chunk is reached shortly after noon, and as the return trip does not leave until 5:30 p. m., there is ample opportunity for a day of rare enjoyment. c

COUNTY JAIL IN POLITICS

A FUNNY SITUATION IN MIDDLESEX OVER CONDITION OF JAIL.

Sheriff and Freeholders Are Lined Up Against Each Other on the Question.

New Brunswick, Oct. 1—A good deal of politics seem to be involved in the aftermath of the jail delivery here two weeks ago, when George Donack, of Newark; Michael Teeling, of Elizabeth, and William Collins, of New York, went out through the roof, down into the jail yard and out of the gate. Sheriff Barclay's term expires this fall, and his deputy, William Carman, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office. Mr. Carman naturally does not wish it thought that the escape was due to lax methods in the jail's administration. The sheriff and Mr. Carman say that if the jail yard gate were of iron, instead of wood, it could not be forced open. Sheriff Barclay asked several months ago that the Board of Freeholders supply an iron gate, but this was not done. Even though the prisoners had gotten out through the roof that would have helped them little had there been no means of escaping from the yard.

The sheriff thus puts the escape up to the Freeholders. It happens that Asbury Fountain, director of the board, is looking for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. The board consequently puts the escape back to the sheriff, and Jeremiah Donovan, of the county buildings committee, points out that there is an iron door between the jail proper and the cook house, through which the prisoners had to pass. Mr. Donovan says that if this had been locked the men could not have reached the yard at all. The sheriff replies that if this had been locked the cook would have been shut off from the jail. As the cook is a prisoner himself, the sheriff hardly thinks that this would have been justified.

No steps have been taken since the escape to improve the jail's security, but an investigation of the escape and two previous attempts is under way. John Budkevitz and Walter Rhein, prisoners who tried to get away three weeks ago, say that the escape, which was foiled, was planned by Frank Smith. Smith was in jail charged with stealing a violin, and gave information of the plot. He was let off scot free for giving the information. Budkevitz and Rhein, who were in jail awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on larceny charges, will now be held on charges of attempted jail-breaking.

The ludicrousness of the jail situation here was heightened one night last week, when Policeman John Faulkner discovered Michael Pierson in the corridor leading to the sheriff's office, trying to get into the jail. The man is an old rounder, and often goes up to jail and annoys the jailer by trying to open the door. Faulkner arrested Pierson, and he was sent up for thirty days. The incident has been magnified into an attempt to break into the jail.

Great Surprise Sale

Commencing Saturday, Sept. 27, for ten days only—no more, no less. Owing to recent strikes we have had in New York in the cloak trade we could not get all the goods in time for our fall opening. Now that the strike is over, we commenced to get in goods that ought to have been delivered by the manufacturers two months ago, as well as goods contracted for the present delivery, and therefore we find ourselves with a good deal larger stock than we anticipated to have at this time of the year, and as the trade of Plainfield is limited we had to take heroic measures in order to dispose of it in time as named above. Hence our loss is your gain. The following items will give you an idea of the bargains awaiting your call:

50 sample suits at less than half regular prices. We purchased from two prominent manufacturers about fifty new fall samples of finest Tailor-made Suits, the regular retail price of which should be from $18 to $25. The coats or Etons are lined with very best taffeta silk, the skirts with best nearsilk, - - $9.98

WOMEN'S JACKETS.

Jaunty fly front Jackets of broadcloth, lined throughout with fine grade of satin, regular price $7.98, for this sale - - - - $3.98

DRESS AND WALKING SKIRTS.

We have about 600 Skirts which must go regardless of cost. Call and see our 98c and $1.50 Walking Skirts.

You are cordially invited to attend this sale and see for yourself.

HOW TO BURN SOFT COAL

NEW YORK TIMES GIVES SOME VERY TIMELY ADVICE.

Tells How to Burn Bituminous Coal in Furnaces Built for Hard Coal.

Now that the local supply of hard coal is nearly exhausted, householders in city and borough are seriously considering the question of burning the bituminous fuel for household uses. The following extracts from an editorial in the New York Times on that subject will be of timely interest:

"Soft coal in a range or cook stove will meet all the requirements of domestic use if ordinary intelligence is displayed in the management of the fire. The same is true of hot-air furnaces. With the low-pressure boilers used for steam heating somewhat more trouble may be expected, but this is largely a question of the type. Even in such devices soft coal can be burned without an amount of inconvenience comparable to that of an uncomfortably low house temperature. probably the greatest difficulty will be that experienced in changing the habits of servants who have never known any fuel except anthracite. Filling the fire pot of a range to the lids with soft coal will not give good results, and attempts to broil over fresh fuel will be disappointing, though for this purpose a bed of glowing coke is vastly better than one of incandescent anthracite. Care must also be taken in keeping oven temperatures uniform. Soft coal ignites very quickly, dies down with equal facility, and needs constant watching and frequent replenishing to maintain even a measurably constant fire. In these respects it more resembles wood than anthracite, but it burns nearly as well in an anthracite range as in one built for a market where only soft coal is used as a domestic fuel.

"In an anthracite-heating furnace soft coal needs to be treated very differently from anthracite, but the difference consists in the management of draughts and checks. In the feed door of every furnace there is a slide damper to admit air over the fire. When anthracite is used this is opened only if it is desired to deaden the fire and lower the temperature of the house. With soft coal it must be left open all the time. The great volume of gases evolved from it in the coking process, which is the first stage in its combustion, calls for more air than can be had through the body of fuel, and unless this is supplied above the fire the greatest value of the fuel is lost up the chimney in unconsumed gases. Too much air for good combustion can be admitted over the fire, but this is not likely to be the case if the slide damper in the feed door of a furnace built for anthracite is left wide open all the time. The draught opening in the ash pit door, on the other hand, needs to be less widely and continuously open than for anthracite. With the same amount of bottom draught which it is customary to give hard coal, soft coal would simulate the combustion in a blast furnace and call for constant stoking. The householder must also remember that the check draught in the smoke pipe, which with anthracite is usually kept open in moderate weather, cannot be opened much, if any, with soft coal, or the house will fill with smoke. The best way is to leave it closed altogether. With attention to these details, which reverse the customary practice with anthracite, a furnace may be run on bituminous coal so as to keep a house entirely comfortable."

WASHINGTON.

Six-Day Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

October 11 has been selected as the date for the first personally-conducted tour of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Washington for the fall and winter of 1902-1903. This tour will cover a period of six days, affording ample time to visit all the principal points of interest at the National Capital, including the Congressional Library and the new Corcoran Art Gallery. Round-trip rate, covering railroad transportation for the round trip, hotel accommodations, and guides, $18 from New York, $15 from Philadelphia.

These rates cover accommodations for four and three-fourths days at the Regent, Metropolitan, or National Hotels. Special side trip to Mount Vernon. All tickets good for ten days.

For itineraries and full information apply to ticket agents; Tourist agent, 263 Fifth avenue, New York; 4 Court street, Brooklyn; or address Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia. 3 24 2w is scarcely more agonizing than the recurrent pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distention of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

A MANUAL OF PRESBYTERY

CONVENIENT PAMPHLET ISSUED BY THE ELIZABETH BODY.

It Includes a Brief Historical Sketch of the Elizabeth Presbytery.

A manual of the Presbytery of Elizabeth, giving much desirable information concerning that important body, has just been issued. It was prepared by the clerks of presbytery and gives in convenient form the list of churches, pastors and elders, the standing committees, the general rules governing presbytery, and other data.

The following historical sketch, giving in brief the story of the years, appears in the manual and will be read with interest by all whose churches are included in the Presbytery of Elizabeth:

Two of our churches, Elizabeth, First, and Woodbridge, belonged to the first Presbytery in this country, that of Philadelphia, formed in 1705 or 1706. In 1733 the Presbytery of East Jersey was organized by the Synod of Philadelphia. In 1738 the two Presbyteries of East Jersey and Long Island were dissolved, and the Presbytery of New York was constituted on the same ground, embracing the same churches. In 1809 the Presbytery of New York was divided, and out of its churches lying in New Jersey the Presbytery of Jersey was constituted. When the Synod of New Jersey was constituted in 1823, and out of its churches and ministers the two Presbyteries of Newark and Elizabethtown were formed. The records of the Presbytery of Jersey were divided between these two Presbyteries, those prior to April 27, 1813, being given to the Presbytery of Newark and the remainder to the Presbytery of Elizabethtown. The latter are kept by the stated clerk in the fireproof safe of the Presybytery. At the reunion in 1870 the Presbytery of Elizabeth was constituted, embracing all the ministers and churches of the Presbytery of Elizabethtown, together with certain opes from the Presbytery of Newark, and the dissolved Presbyteries of Passaic, Raritan and Philadelphia, Fourth. Its boundaries were defined by Synod as follows: "To comprise the counties of Union and Somerset (except the churches of Kingston and Bound Brook) and all Hunterdon county between the Newton and New Brunswick Presbyteries, and Middlesex county, north of the Raritan river." The Presbytery then consisted of forty-three ministers and twenty-nine churches. Of the ministers only three now remain on the roll, Robert Street, Joseph G. Williamson and Everard Kempshall, D. D. Since 1870 the following churches have been added to the Presbytery by organization: Elizabeth, First German; Elizabeth, Madison Avenue; Rahway, First German; Bayonne City, First; Maurer, German; Carteret and Cokesbury. Lower Valley has been received by letter of dismission from Morris and Orange.

The churches of Summit, Central and New Providence have been dismissed to the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, Bayonne City, First, to the South Classis of Bergen, and Summit, West, has been dissolved. At present, 1902, the number of our ministers is forty-six ,and the number of our churches is thirty-three. In the first report of this Presbytery to the General Assembly, in 1871, the membership of the churches was 5,283. In our last report, in 1902, it was 9,618. The contributions to benevolent objects in 1871 were $25,113. In 1902 they are $55,490, and the contributions to congregation expenses are $163,228.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth, though not so large in area as some others in the Synod of New Jersey, is one of the most important, and includes in its membership some of the best-known clergymen and laymen in the State.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

STAGECOACH HELDUP

Wild West Performance In Orange County, N. Y.

MASKED MEN ROB THE PASSENGERS.

Inmates of the Pioneer, Making Daily Trips Between Warwick and Goshen, Have a Novel Experience.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The stagecoach Pioneer, which makes daily trips between Warwick and Goshen, was held up and robbed by three masked horsemen late yesterday afternoon.

The coach was bowling along the road two miles from Florida, and at a lonely spot on the road Clinton and Horatio S. Wisner, who own the coach and were on it, saw the men on horses suddenly emerge from the dense woods which line the highway. Clinton was driving. The robbers ordered him to pull up his horses. This he refused to do, and the highwaymen opened fire with revolvers. None of the shots took effect, but the shooting had the effect of compelling the whip to bring his horses to a stop.

Inside the coach were Mrs. J. A. Chamberlin, Mrs. Fred Webster, Mrs. James Fuller, Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Ed Johnston, all of Florida. While two of the highwaymen covered the Wisner brothers with their revolvers the third, using many threats, compelled the passengers to give up all their money and valuables.

After the robbery had been completed the robbers spurred up their horses and escaped.

When news of the holdup became known, this whole section of Orange county was first astounded and then excited. Posses of armed men were hastily formed and at once started a search for the highwaymen. Clinton Wisner is president of the village of Warwick.

Growth of Rural Free Delivery.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne has issued a circular letter to the postmasters of all rural free delivery postoffices instructing them that postmasters and rural free delivery carriers are not permitted to condemn the letter boxes used by patrons. The order directs that they shall continue to serve boxes already erected until a regular inspection of such boxes can be made by the route inspectors and special agents, who will condemn the boxes found unsafe or which otherwise fail to meet the requirements. There will be 14,000 rural free delivery postal routes in operation on July 1 next, and the estimate for appropriations for the next fiscal year provides for 12,000 more.

Cutlers' Feast at Sheffield.

SHEFFIELD, England, Oct. 1.—Four hundred covers were laid at the cutlers' feast which was held here. The principal guests of the occasion were Lord Kitchener and Embassador Choate, who sat respectively at the left and right of Master Cutler Hobson. Military officers predominated among the guests, and the distinguished persons present included Gerald W. Balfour, formerly president of the board of trade; the Duke of Norfolk, General French and General Ian Hamilton. Responding to the toast, "His Majesty's Forces," Lord Kitchener avoided political topics and confined himself to eulogizing the conduct of the army and the colonial forces in South Africa.

Louisville and Nashville Sale.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—At the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. official announcement is made of the absorption by the Atlantic Coast Line Railway company of the Louisville and Nashville line. Mr. Perkins of the firm made the announcement. He said that the railway company and not the Connecticut holding company had bought the Louisville and Nashville road. The papers had been signed and the whole transaction finished, he said, by which the Atlantic line had taken over 306,000 shares of the Louisville and Nashville stock at $150 a share.

Wreck on the Rock Island.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 1.—The Rock Island fast mail, westbound, was wrecked at Newton, forty miles east of here. It is said traffic will be completely tied up twenty-four hours as a result. No loss of life is reported. Three cars left the track. The accident occurred while the train was attempting to get around the wreck of a freight train which went through a bridge across Skunk river.

A Profit of 160 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Members of the original United States Steel underwriting syndicate today received another 5 per cent dividend of $10,000,000, notices to that effect having been sent out by J. P. Morgan & Co. This makes a fourth dividend of $10,000,000, a total profit of $40,000,000 on an actual outlay of $25,000,000, a return of 160 per cent.

Rhodes Memorial Committee.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Earl Cowper, chairman of the committee which has in hand the erection of a national memorial to the late Cecil Rhodes, announces that the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Salisbury, Lord Rosebery, Earl Roberts, Lord Kitchener, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal and Colonel Francis W. Rhodes have joined the committee.

The President Gaining.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The president is reported to be doing nicely. He maintains his cheerful and buoyant disposition, the wound continues to heal, and Dr. Lung announces that the case is progressing satisfactorily.

COLER HEADS TICKET

Democrats at Saratoga Chose Him For Leader.

DEVERY CAUSES SOME TROUBLE.

Leader of Ninth New York District Denied Place on Temporary Roll, but Likely to Be Seated.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The ticket promulgated from the headquarters of Senator Hill and which will probably be named by the Democratic state convention today is as follows:

For governor, Bird S. Coler of Kings; for lieutenant governor, Charles N. Bulger of Oswego; for comptroller, C. M. Preston of Ulster; for secretary of state, Frank H. Mott of Chautauqua; for attorney general, John Cunneen of Erie; for engineer, Richard W. Sherman of Oneida; for treasurer, D. J. Van Auken of Ontario; for judge of the court of appeals, John C. Gray of New York.

This was the result of a long conference of many of the state leaders, in which Senator Hill and Hugh McLaughlin took a leading part. Others present were William F. Sheehan, John L. Shea, Elliot Danforth, Frank Campbell, Charles N. Bulger, Samuel Beardsley, Eugene Woods, Andrew Hamilton, Senator Sullivan, Perry Belmont, A. A. McLear and Martin Littleton.

The announcement of this tentative ticket was received quietly by the throngs in the hotel corridors, and later rumors were circulated that when it got before the convention it might not stand. The Kings county delegates led by Senator McCarren were prominent in talking of prospective changes. Despite this the Hill people went serenely on making arrangements for the nomination of the ticket. In all of this preliminary work Tammany took no part, and, in fact, after the first conference Kings county absented itself.

The name of Judge Parker was not dropped by the delegates despite the fact that the slate was given out. It was said that a special emissary had been sent to Judge Parker during the day to have a final talk with him and ask him to serve his party. His answer had been consistent with his previous course—that he would not serve.

The most important news, which comes from semiofficial sources, but still lacks authorization, is, first, that the committee on platform has decided to declare for a 1,000 ton barge canal, and, second, that the committee on credentials, to avoid further trouble, will seat the delegation headed by William S. Devery.

It was almost 12 o'clock before the delegates to the state Democratic convention began to move toward the hall. The big auditorium was almost bare of decoration, and there were no signs to show where the various county delegations sat.

At 12:32 o'clock State Chairman Frank Campbell called the convention to order and announced the selection of John B. Stanchfield of Elmira to be temporary chairman. Mr. Stanchfield was freely applauded as he spoke.

At the close of Mr. Stanchfield's address the temporary roll of delegates was read.

When the Ninth New York was reached and Goodwin's name was read as the second delegate, there was a volley of hisses, and in an instant the convention was in an uproar, hisses and cheers alternating, but all through it could be heard the monotonous call of the roll as the clerk went on reading. W. S. Devery was all the time on his feet, waving his hat and shouting for recognition. Women on the side waved handkerchiefs and parasols and urged him on. The gallery, evidently filled with Devery men, cheered Devery until the entire roll had been called. At the end of the roll call Devery said, amid cheers:

"I rise to request a privilege, Mr. Chairman. I ask the question of privilege from this convention. The Goodwin delegates should not be seated as regular delegates. I want honest politics. The rights of the people must be protected. Mr. Chairman, anything you may do under the rules is all right. Mr. Chairman, I call your attention to the fourth amendment of the United States constitution. Anything you do after this will be illegal. The people must be protected."

Except to those near him not a word could be heard by the audience. Many delegates hissed, but the great mass of the audience cheered and drowned them out. Finally the chair got a chance to announce that the roll was approved.

THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Although it was not generally known that the City Board of Education would select this particular time to resume the much delayed movement to secure a new High School for Plainfield, it was well understood by those who have made any attempt to keep in touch with municipal affairs that the day was not very far off when the School Board would proceed along those lines. The announcement made in yesterday's Daily Press was not therefore any great surprise. The Plainfield Board of Education has made a formal request to the Board of School Estimate for $125,000 for the new High School, the latter board will pass on the request and forward it to the Comon Council, probably in time to be acted upon at the meeting next Monday evening.

It will be remembered that the School Board started the movement for the new High School two years ago. Action was then taken under the Stokes School act, which was afterwards declared unconstitutional and was amended to its present form. The first the public knew of the plan at that time was when the request was presented to the Common Council having passed the Board of Education and Board of School Estimate. The Common Council voted the money without discussion or delay and brought down considerable condemnation on the head of its members for "railroading" the matter through. Proceedings were halted, however, by the discovery of errors in the school law and now the same ground has been gone over again.

It is pleasant to note that the Board of Education has changed its methods this time in going about the matter. A special meeting of the Board of Education was called for Monday night and due notice of it given to the newspapers. The formal request for the necessary funds was made in open meeting. Now the Board of School Estimate will consider the matter and then the Common Council will have a turn. The project will not be sprung for the public is now fully aware of the facts.

Those who are aware of the lack of facilities in the present High School and the congested condition of all the grades realize that something must be done to relieve it. The only question is the proper remedy. The members of the Board of Education believe that their plan is for the best interests of the city. They certainly ought to be fully cognizant as to the situation and they are certainly best fitted to know the needs. Of course, $125,000 is considerable money to spend and the board should proceed carefully and without secrecy.

When the Common Council has had the subject formally brought to its attention, it would be well to delay action on it until a public hearing can be set. It would only mean a week's delay and it would prevent any objection being made that the new High School was railroaded through without giving the public a chance to be heard. Many muncipalities have to vote on the question of bonding for new schools and surely here, where no such vote is required by law, it would be only right that the public should at least have an opportunity of expressing itself. A public hearing need by no means mean the defeat of the project. It simply gives the public an opportunity to which it is entitled when any large amount of public funds are to be spent.

It can be said honestly, from the point of view of the impartial observer, that the Democrats of Union county have not had for several years the opportunity now before them of electing a portion of their ticket at least in the coming county election. There are troubles in the Republican ranks. Whether those troubles will last through until election day, no one can tell. If they do, the Democrats will have a splendid chance to overcome the regular normal majority of the Republican ticket. The delegates to the Democratic county convention were elected Monday night. If special care is observed this year to put the strongest men possible on the ticket, the Democrats will be greatly increasing their chances of winning.

The Democrats of Union county are even talking of James E. Martine as a candidate for State Senator. Mr. Martine says that positively he is not a candidate. Mr. Martine has been the forlorn hope of the Democratic party on so many occasions that it really seems as if they ought to nominate him once when there was a fair chance of election.

FUNERAL OF C. S. GUION.

Services Were Held From Home of Geo. S. Clay, Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Charles S. Guion were held yesterday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. George S. Clay, of La-Grande avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors.

Rev. Dr. Carey, of Saratoga, a nephew of the deceased, conducted the services, and he was assisted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace P. E. church, and Rev. Floyd Appleton, of Brooklyn. During the services there was sung hymns from the Episcopal Hymnal.

There was a large display of floral emblems including a cross of white roses and a number of other tributes. The honorary pall-bearers were A. D. Cook, Henry O. Halloway, W. D. W. Miller, Gen. Stirling, C. P. Bull and E. L. Finch. The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

THROWN FROM CAR.

Mrs. Wm. Claassen Seriously Injured When Alighting From Car.

While Mrs. William Claassen, of Liberty street, was alighting from a Dunellen trolley car, a few days ago, it started suddenly, throwing her to the street with great force. She was rendered unconscious and remained so until taken to her home. Dr. Hedges was called and found her to be suffering greatly from shock, beside numerous cuts and bruises, from which she is still confined to her home.

Engagement of Former Residents.

The engagement has been announced of Roland Weston and Miss Fanny Gardner, of Brooklyn. Mr. Weston for a number of years lived with his parents corner of Washington and Mercer avenues, Plainfield, and Miss Gardner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner, deceased, whose residence was on Sycamore avenue.

DUNELLEN.

J. C. Gaskill, of North avenue, had a narrow escape from death while riding home from work last evening. He was riding down the hill at Clinton avenue. A heap of dirt had been thrown up alongside the road for some distance, leaving a very narrow space between the walks. Mr. Gaskill is entirely deaf and did not hear the bell of an approaching car. He was riding on the right of the road close to the track and the foot board of the car struck his wheel and threw him upon the road. The car passed within six inches of his head and the passengers for a minute thought the man had been killed. Almost miraculously he escaped even slight injuries and mounted his wheel, which was also uninjured, and rode home.

A full church greeted Rev. Dr. Hull last evening when he gave his lecture the "Blockade and Capture of Fort Fisher," in the Methodist church. Dr. Hull is a veteran of the Civil War and as a participant was able to make his talk very interesting. After the lecture a collection was taken up for the benefit of the debt fund of the church.

The Bound Brook trolley did not run for some time yesterday morning and the rest of the day ran on an hour schedule. The cause is not known.

The rainy weather recently has tested the culverts and drains around town and some have been found wanting.

The auction sale of the personal property of Mrs. Mary Vail was not very well attended yesterday.

Lewis Churchill has been taking examinations at Columbia College to enter the sophomore class.

The wedding of two out of town parties will take place this evening in St. John's church.

The Craig Manufacturing Company is sending a large amount of furniture to New York.

Prayer meeting will be held in the local churches this evening, at the usual time.

The brass band held regular practice last evening.

NEW MARKET.

One of the most attractive as well as interesting sights at present is the field of corn on Lloyd Nelson's farm, near the pond. The corn is standing and is eleven feet high. The ears are of a mamouth size, some measuring fourteen inches. The field is the wonder of all who see it and Wallace Vail, of Plainfield, who picked one of the ears yesterday, said that he believed he could pick a thousand ones of similar size. The large growth is attributed to the abundance of fertilizers used.

The members of the band expect to appear in their new uniforms shortly.

C. A. Brown is spending a few days vacation out of town.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Everybody in Scotch Plains has been quite anxious to possess a picture of the baseball team which has made such a fine record for itself this season. Sometime ago the team was photographed in front of the backstop by Miss Marjorie Morse Collins. Through the courtesy of Miss Collins, The Daily Press will tomorrow reproduce that picture and give a brief sketch of the team and the men which compose it. Every resident of Scoteh Plains, whether a regular reader of The Daily Press or not, should be sure to get a copy of tomorrow evening's Daily Press as it will contain the picture and the sketch. It will be well to make arrangements with Charles Elliott, the regular carrier, for any extra copies of the paper desired.

The several burglaries of late in the borough has raised the question once again of having a watchman or night marshal to patrol the streets during the night and afford some protection to the residents. The experiment was tried two years ago, a marshal being on duty until midnight, but when Samuel Taynor resigned no one was ever appointed to fill the vacancy. The residents are demanding some sort of protection from the Borough Council and they can hardly be blamed, for Fanwood has been a most successful field for burglars for sometime past.

Manager Johnston has closed Saturday afternoon with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. team, one of the few teams Westfield has not met this season. The Elizabeth team is considered one of the fastest in this part of the State and the locals will have to play fast ball to win out. This is not only the benefit game to Mrs. Frentz, but will be the last game on the local diamond this season, so a large crowd will not doubt be present.

The management of the baseball team denies the report appearing in another paper stating that George Bolsterle, of Plainfield, has signed to play short stop with the locals next season. From present plans and indications there will be no change in the local infield next season, especially at short stop, where "Chick" Crugins has become a fixed figure.

John Alberts, who has purchased the Allen livery business, has taken possession and will for the present use both the Forest avenue stable and the Allen stand, corner Park and Westfield avenues.

George Baldwin, who has been kept at home for several weeks with a crushed foot, is able to be around again but it wil be another week or two before he is able to return to work again.

Captain Tuzo, of the borough, left Saturday for Porto Rico, where he will visit his son, Louis, who is engaged in business there.

There will be the usual mid-week dance at Ivamy's pavillion tonight. Music will be by Naylor's orchestra.

Roy Day has returned from a pleasant visit with friends at Far Hill, this State.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Have you see the new black and white effects in suits shown at Werner's clothing house? They are natty looking and attract attention by merit alone. They are only part of Werner's fall display of men's suitings.

Every person who walks into John H. Doane's shoe store on West Front street for a pair of shoes, walks out with a peculiar feeling of satisfaction. There is comfort, durability and grace in every pair of shoes sold here.

Because the weather is beginning to get cool don't think Fowler's ice cream is out of season. It is always welcome and is just as delicious now as when the summer sun beat down its scorching rays. Take home a quart and see how you like it.

Charles L. Stanley, the florist of 142 North avenue, has a stock of cut flowers and plants that cannot be duplicated in any portion of the State. It is worth a long trip simply to go through Mr. Stanley's store. He is always glad to welcome a visitor.

Powlison & Jones, the East Front street furniture dealers, have one of the largest displays of furniture in the State. Their entire large first floor is taken up with parlor and bedroom suits, dining tables, chairs, couches and go-carts. Hundreds of designs to select from.

If you are thinking of purchasing new carpets, rugs, oil cloths, etc., you will visit Woodhull & Martin's carpet department before looking elsewhere. There are no better carpets to be found and you can save money. Manager Johnson will be pleased to show you carpets and give estimates.

Some people object to wearing glasses because of the fear that glasses will make then look older than they really are. When properly fitted they produce the reverse expression. This firm claims to understand the science of fine frame fitting as well as the science of fitting the eyes. Stiles & Company, Philadelphia eye specialists, 107 East Front street, this Thursday.

There is no better druggist in North Plainfield than John P. Powers, of 45 Somerset street, and anyone going into his store is sure to receive courteous treatment. Mr. Powers is not only an excellent prescription druggist but he carries a fine stock of fall tonics. Among the best of these is Powers' Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Every one should give it a trial. It is excellent.

One has but to look at the advertisement of Hill & Shupp to get an idea of the great bargains now being offered. This store is filled with the season's best goods and it will be an easy matter for you to get suited. From the dress goods department to the housefurnishing department, every line is complete and in comparing prices you will be astonished to learn how much you can get for a little money.

Suppose you wish to gather a group of guests for an evening to do honor to an occasion or a friend? One of the nicest things to please them will be some of Vantines' oriental delicacies of delicious teas, which can be had at the Oriental Tea room. To those who do not already know of this place it will be a pleasure to go there and have a look around. P. D. DuBois, formerly with Vantine & Co., 326 West Front street.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

MAY AFFECT GAS SUPPLY

SHORTAGE OF COAL WOULD HAVE SERIOUS EFFECTS AT GAS WORKS.

Enough Coal, If Used Carefully, to Last Nearly Two Months—Trusting in Providence.

If the coal strike continues for many more weeks a new danger will confront the people of this city. It is not impossible that the local gas works may have to suspend operations for a time.

While such action is not looked for, however, it is within the bounds of possibility. It is not possible for this company to burn soft coal although the engineers have tried to do so by mixing it with anthracite. The only way in which the company can make any degree of saving in its present small supply of fuel is to mix the anthracite with coke. Such a mixture is not entirely satisfactory but it enables the engineers to run their engines sufficiently strong to keep up the supply of gas to the normal.

One of these men stated to a Daily Press reporter yesterday that the company was, in a great degree, "depending on providence and the kindness of the public." But the situation is not quite as bad as that.

Probably under present conditions the people of Plainfield can be well supplied with gas, both for heating and lighting, for a couple of months yet. If, by that time, things have not come to a focus in the coal regions, some other contingency will probably crop up.

The officials of the local electric light plant, owned by the same concern, the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, is not worrying about the strike a particle. They have been burning soft coal for six weeks and will continue to burn it until they can secure the hard article at a reasonable price.

HOLE IN DAM.

It Was Discovered When Water in Tier's Lake Was Let Out.

The fish commissioners have completed their work of clearing Tier's lake of carp. The work was finished up yesterday when two remaining carp were taken from the lake.

It is now considered very fortunate that the lake was emptied for a serious accident might have resulted, as was discovered yesterday. At the head of the raceway there was discovered a hole which extended through the bank in the direction of the head gates of the pond. In a short time the water would have worked an opening through to the big gates and much damage would have resulted by the giving-way of the embankment and sudden deluge.

Well-Known Somerset County Resident Has Passed Away.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 1—The funeral of Peter E. Cramer, aged seventy-eight, one of the most well known residents of Somerset county, was held this afternoon at North Branch. He was a wealthy coal and lumber dealer. In 1878 he was elected to the Board of Chosen Freeholders. In 1879 he was elected again to the same office. He married a daughter of Capt. George Hall, of this place, and is survived by two sons, former Assemblyman George H. Cramer and Constable Frank D. Cramer.

COAL STRIKE TALKS

President and Cabinet Officers In Long Conference.

SEEKING MEANS TO END STRUGGLE.

Situation Seems to Present No Case Which Warrants Federal Interference—Question of a Receivership Considered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The president has taken initiative steps to ascertain what if anything can be done by federal authority to settle the coal strike.

The result was a rather general expression of opinion by the advisers of the president who were parties to the conference to the effect that the federal laws and constitution did not afford means of federal interference to end the strike, but another conference will be held, and the president will do all he can properly and legally do to bring about a settlement.

At the temporary White House a conference was held with three cabinet officers, Attorney General Knox, Secretary Moody and Postmaster General Payne. Governor Crane of Massachusetts was also present. These gentlemen met with President Roosevelt first, and after the subject had been considered for some time they adjourned to another room and conferred together for an hour. They all returned later in the day and held another conference with the president, and the strike situation was discussed further.

President Roosevelt is deeply concerned over the situation. The approach of winter, with a coal famine imminent and the distress and suffering that must ensue unless coal becomes available, presents a situation which he thinks should receive the attention of the administration if there is anything that can be done by the government. Many appeals have been made to him, and many suggestions have been received by him, and it was with a view to ascertain what if anything could be done that the conferences were held.

During the conference every phase of the situation was discussed. The general opinion of the advisers of the president was that the situation did not present a case in which there could be federal interference by any warrant of law. There has been no interference with federal authority in the mining region either by stoppage of the mails or resistance of the United States court process. It was pointed out that there was no occasion for the use of federal troops, as Governor Stone of Pennsylvania had not called on the government for assistance, nor had he even exhausted the resources of the state by calling out the full strength of the state militia.

The question of the right to seek appointment of receivers for the mines in order that they might be operated was discussed, but neither in the constitution nor in any known law could any legal warrant be found for such action, though the discussion on such lines even went so far as the consideration of how the properties could be relinquished and control surrendered after the object of supplying coal had been accepted, assuming the federal government could intervene through receivers.

The tenor of the whole discussion was to the effect that there was a lack of power in the federal administration to take any action at the present stage of the strike, although the seriousness of the coal famine now and the much greater evils soon to follow were considered at length and with a wish to discover some method of ending the industrial deadlock.

Governor Crane's presence naturally brought into prominence the proceedings begun in the Massachusetts courts to secure the appointment of receivers for the coal properties, but the opinion was expressed that the situation could not be met successfully by this method.

Coal Famine In Maine.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 1.—Mayor Boothbay has issued orders that during the scarcity of coal all old trees shall be cut down and removed to the almshouse, where the inmates will reduce them to firewood to be distributed to the poor. A plan to close the schools during the three cold months of the winter if the strike is not settled and omit the July and August vacation next year is being considered by the school board. A Freeport coal dealer who had secured his supply for the winter trade before prices advanced has made a name for himself by selling freely to the citizens of Freeport at $6 a ton. No one residing outside of Freeport, however, can buy from him at any price.

Mayor Jones Calls Mass Meeting.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1.—Sam M. Jones, the Golden Rule mayor, has issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of Toledo to gather in mass meeting tomorrow to adopt appropriate resolutions in support of the movement by Boston citizens to ask the federal courts to appoint receivers for the anthracite coal mines and coal carrying railroads. Mayor Jones in his proclamation rehearses at length the conditions arising from the present strike of coal miners and urges that Boston should have the "moral support of all good people everywhere."

Many Strikers Arrested.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Oct. 1.—Sheriff Knorr of Columbia county arrested 127 strikers at Centralia. They were charged with rioting and inciting to riot. The sheriff attended a special meeting of the Centralia local union of United Mine Workers, at which the 127 men were surrounded. Hearings in the cases will be held at Bloomsburg today.

Record Price For Coal.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 1.—A record price for anthracite coal was set in this city when a prominent manufacturer purchased four tons for $100. A great many large manufacturing concerns are so seriously handicapped by the lack of fuel that unless relief comes quickly they will be obliged to suspend operations, in part at least.

Bread Follows Coal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Along with the price of meat and coal and milk, the bakers announce that the price of bread is to be advanced 1 or 2 cents a loaf.

Killed Sweetheart and Self.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Theodore Tuthill shot and killed Jeannette Sloder and immediately shot himself. Tuthill was enamored of the girl and had asked her to marry him. This she refused to do and was preparing to go to the home of her stepfather, James Ellis of 332 Ninth street, Jersey City. The girl had lived here for several years, and Tuthill had threatened to kill her if she persisted in her refusal to wed him. The two had a dispute over this matter on the street, and Tuthill followed the girl to her boarding place and killed her, a moment afterward shooting himself. Tuthill was twenty-six and Miss Sloder seventeen.

Sites For Exposition Buildings.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—Under a lowering sky and swept by a chilling wind more than 1,000 persons, delegations from different states and spectators, witnessed the ceremonies in connection with the allotment of sites for the federal and state buildings at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition grounds. Sites for the government buildings and state buildings of Missouri, Louisiana, Texas, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Kentucky, Arkansas and Wisconsin were presented and accepted. Each site was marked by a red staff bearing a flag facsimile of the state seal and a silk American flag.

Coney Island Bridge Falls.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The draw and a portion of the West End bridge have fallen into Coney Island creek. The Bath Beach electric line uses this bridge. Several trains on the Gravesend side of the creek were delayed. It will be three or four days before repairs can be made. The part of the bridge which fell into the creek obstructs the channel so that no water traffic can be carried on until it has been removed. An electric train had just crossed the bridge and the draw had been opened to permit the passage of a tug when the accident happened.

American Crook Caught.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Henry Conrad of Baltimore, a man about fifty years of age, whose real name is believed to be Fisher and who is said to be a well known criminal, has been committed for trial on the charge of attempting to secure a wax impression of the key of a postoffice box in Copthall court, near the Stock Exchange, on Sept. 15 by distracting the attention of a letter carrier who had opened the box.

Tobacco Prices Restored.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Imperial Tobacco company has issued a circular giving a revised list of prices, confirming the reported discontinuance of the Ogden bonus and expressing the hope of presenting an entirely new bonus scheme for the next financial year. This revised list practically restores the prices which were in vogue prior to American operations in the English tobacco field.

American Generals In London.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Major General Corbin and Brigadier General Wood and their party are at present at the Carlton hotel here and intend to remain in England until Oct. 18. Major General Young is expected here today. The social invitations accepted by the American generals include dinners with Earl Roberts, Lord Kitchener and Secretary of War Brodrick.

Floods In Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 1.—Serious flood conditions are reported all over southern and southeastern Iowa as the result of excessive rains varying from two to five inches. Rivers are swollen out of bounds, and heavy property loss is reported. In several cases rivers approach the high water mark of last spring. One man is reported drowned near Agency.

Carnegie's Munificence.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Mr. Carnegie, according to his own computation made to a friend recently, has given away nearly $4,500,000 per annum. He averages about eight libraries per day, giving an average of $15,000 to each. Apparently he does not anticipate a cessation of his daily donations.

FISHES' FACES DECEIVING.

One Cannot Always Tell by Their Expression What Their Characters Are.

"Fish are a good deal like people," said Superintendent Spencer, of the New York aquarium. "You can't always tell by their countenances what to expect of them. Look at that fellow there, now!"

He pointed to a tiger fish which was butting its nose against the glass of its tank. No more villainous face of the pugnacious sort could be found in a day's search in the haunts of the third-rate pugilists.

"Looks as if he would fight at the wriggle of a fin, doesn't he?" the superintendent continued. "See those jaws! Had eye, too. Well, sir, that is the most gentle fish in the aquarium—one of the clinging kind, that seeks affection and kindness. Now over there is a lady fish. Just observe those brilliant colors, and that dear, innocent face, and notice the coaxing, graceful movements of its tail. You'd think it would eat out of your hand, and droop if you scolded it.

"On the contrary, it's the most unladylike fish in this collection; its temper is shrewish, and its habits are bad, and if you give it a chance it would bite you like a savage bull pup. It's a vicious fish, and doesn't deserve all those fine airs it has."

Mr. Spencer put his hand near the glass front of the tank, says the New York Mail and Express. There was an instant commotion; the insinuating tail lashed the water, and that angelic mouth bumped sharply against the barrier in a swift effort to nip the tip of the superintendent's finger.

"Would you ever think it?" said Mr. Spencer. "Lady fish, indeed!"

SHOE TRADE OF CUBA.

Shipments by American Manufacturers Have Been Very Largely on the Increase.

From statistics relating to the boot and shoe trade of Cuba, while under United States control, as shown by the last commercial summary of the island for May, 1902, published by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department, it appears that for the period mentioned purchases, including sandals, were made to the amount of 9,545,098 pairs, valued at $6,812,017, the importations coming chiefly from Spain and this country in the ratio of 73 per cent. for the former, against 26 per cent. for the latter, though a comparison by years discloses the fact that under an equitable adjustment of the tariff rate on merchandise of this class, in effect prior to United States intervention, American manufacturers of boots and shoes have largely increased their trade with Cuba.

In connection with this statement the fact is mentioned that during each month of the three calendar years, 1899, 1900 and 1901, the total importations of boots and shoes into the island were $680,621, $335,643 and $467,778, respectively, considerably in excess of the shipments from our customs houses destined for all Europe (excepting the United Kingdom), the exportation from the United States for this trade being $212,935, $285,172 and $400,431 during the periods mentioned.

DAINTY WOMEN OF JAPAN.

The Picturesque Little Ladies Certainly Cannot Be Accused of the Sin of Overeating.

The almond-eyed, dainty little female of Japan is easily satisfied in the matter of food. She begins the day by eating when she wakes a couple of little green plums pickled in vinegar and rolled in sugar. This traditional breakfast of Japan is completed by a cup of tea. The dinner, which is brought on a red lacquer tray, is the drollest affair. The viands are in tiny cups with covers and among them are such dainties as a hashed sparrow, a stuffed prawn, a salt sweetmeat, seaweed with sauce and a sugared chili. After these dishes, which are mere "frills," the substantial part of the meal is begun. A wooden bowl, bound with copper, is brought in, filled to the brim with rice plainly boiled in water. From this the flower of Japan fills her bowl—a capacious one—and, having mixed it with a black sauce flavored with fish, she then lifts it to her mouth and crams it down with the aid of her chopsticks. Thus ends her dinner.

AUTO CLIMBS A TOWER.

Two Hundred Pound Machine in Copenhagen Performs a Most Remarkable Feat.

A curious performance was lately accomplished by an automobile in Denmark. Copenhagen possesses a circular tower 100 feet in height, which was formerly used for astronomical purposes. Its top is only reached by ascending a spiral passage 12 feet broad which winds between the outer wall of the tower and an inner circular wall. From the base to the top it is entirely without steps, and the gradient is seven inches per ell. An automobile of five-horse power, weighing 200 pounds, and carrying three persons, ascended the tower the other day, taking one minute for the journey, and afterward making the much more dangerous descent with equal success. It is of interest to recall that the Czar Peter the Great, on visiting Copenhagen in 1716, made the same ascent and descent in a carriage drawn by four horses.

ROUGH GOODS POPULAR.

New Weaves of Zibeline—Bright Colored Velvet Appliques.

Zibeline in a closer make, but still rough and hairy, is revived for autumn and winter wear, but the looser textures wore so badly that they will not be repeated this year. Himalaya is a rather poetic name for a rough goods powdered with white dots which are irregular in shape and produced in the weaving process.

The introduction of bright velvet on gray and white zibeline is quite Parisian, but requires to be skillfully treated, and on some gowns the bright hue of the velvet is subdued by silk passementerie or braiding. Braiding of the fine soutache order, grouped lines of stitching and narrow tubular braid arranged in scrolls and tabs or applications of braid in motifs and piecements are quite the fashionable trimmings for tailor made gowns, but velvet is almost invariably introduced in addition.

All neutral shades of the leather type are popular, and these contrast admirably with the bright colors now in vogue, of which the most chic are emerald red, bright orange and orchid pink. Sometimes the only touch of velvet consists in a collar and belt of brown or green on mastic or antelope color, and the same vivid color is worn on the hat.

The three-quarter coat shown is of mastic faced cloth trimmed with oriental embroidery. It is collarless and has a double cape with rounded edges. The sides are confined in a belt of the embroidery, which is passed under the straight front pieces. The hat is of braided felt and velvet and trimmed with a single white ostrich plume.

FASHION HINTS.

Three Cornered Hat Again Seen. Useful Wraps.

The three cornered hat is again in vogue and is perfectly charming where it suits. It seems to harmonize admirably with the old fashioned stock and cravat.

Pelerines are still being worn. The prettiest are made of coarse lace over taffeta in pale shades. The ruffle, the pelerine and the short cape all seem very near akin, and they have their uses as the evenings grow chillier.

The favorite wraps of the moment are the three-quarter coats made in pale shades. They are both smart and useful. Coats of white cloth are decorated with embroidery. Some of the dust coats are very elaborate and are chiefly cut in the Japanese style.

A pretty gown of blue novelty goods is here shown. The waist is trimmed with deep folds of tiny buttons and appliques of lace. The sleeves are laid in folds to a little above the elbow, where they flare in a huge puff, which is gathered in its turn into a tight fitting cuff of embroidery and lace. The skirt is divided into panels by means of open stitching, and there is a box plaited flounce headed by three folds.

CHAPTER V.

And now, it seems to me, begins the most interesting part of my story, the beginning of the end. One day the ladies, ever thoughtful, had sent the carriage down to see if I would not like to go for an airing. It was quite late in the afternoon, but I had told them that it was the only time when I could possibly accept their kind offer, as then my daily round had been accomplished. It was tiresome to drive alone, but Miss Elizabeth had a severe headache, and Miss Evelyn could not leave her.

I first knocked at the door of my lower-front to see if she would not like to take the vacant seat. In truth, it came into my mind that perhaps in the close companionship that a long drive brings about she might be willing to say a little more about herself, and I was anxious to learn what there was to tell before I began to suggest anything to the ladies. I knocked, but no voice responded; I opened her door a little way, but the room was empty. I almost wished that I could bundle up Aunt Jane Mary and take her out with me. Then suddenly I bethought me of Dr. Wynne. I ran up to his room and knocked. He came slowly to the door, as became an old and weak man, and my heart reproached me that I had not thought of him at first.

"Dr. Wynne," said I, "will you take a drive with me? I won't say a little drive, because I shall stay out just as long as I can."

"Let me see," said Dr. Wynne, smiling and showing his fine teeth. I always wondered to see them so white and firm! "Isn't this my day for President Smith?" He went to his table and fumbled with a calendar with the trembling uncertainty that is so pitiful in old age.

"Ah," he said, "here it is. No, he does not come to-day. Yes, I am at liberty to go with you. I shall enjoy it very much. Can you show me the old Swedes' meeting house? I have always wanted to see it."

"Certainly," said I. "Our road lies that way."

"That pleases me very much," said Dr. or Elder Wynne, as he preferred to be called. He came slowly down the stairs and out through the garden and climbed into the great, roomy carriage. I covered his thin old knees with the lap-robe and we were off.

"Where to M'?" said old John.

"Along the Winchester road and through the Overly lane to the Swedes' meeting house." John touched his hat, and we sped swiftly along. The day was balmy and we had the windows down, but Elder Wynne kept pulling up the lap-robe when it slipped away.

We drove several miles and then turned into the Overly lane. Here the young trees, which were just bursting into earliest bud, met overhead. I felt sure that the woods must hold for me some treasures in the shape of woodland flowers.

"Would you mind, Dr. Wynne, if I were to get out a moment to search for flowers?"

"No," said he, "not at all." I went through an opening in the fence and along the stream. There were little patches of snow still lying in the shaded spots, and I realized that there could be no flowers, that I had come to the wrong place; then I turned to retrace my path, when just under a great tree upon a flat stone I saw something lying. I picked it up. It was Miss Dacres' pocket-book. I had seen it in her hands several times. I put it in my pocket, and quite forgot it as I continued my search for flowers. There was nothing to reward me, and I returned to my carriage.

Elder Wynne was quavering about the Lost Tribes (and I can truthfully say that I wished many a time that day that he had never found them) when John drew up at the door of the church. The stone step was but a few paces away from the road, and I alighted and helped the old man down. I was wondering if I should have to go on to Maltby's, the sexton of the new meeting house, and get the key, when I saw that the door was open a little crack. I pushed it, and it gave at my touch. I walked into the semi-darkness, holding to Elder Wynne's hand that he might not stumble, and together we entered the vestibule of the church, and then I pushed on to the main door. This, too, I thrust open, and then we stood in the central aisle of the old stone building.

"Hist!" The sound came out of the darkness.

"Who is that?" said I.

"Maltby, is that you?" I heard. "We've—I've seen enough. It's a very interesting old——" By this time the speaker was close to me, and we recognized each other at the same moment.

"Oh Mrs. Brathwaite! Is that you? What a queer place to meet you in." He spoke in a very loud tone of voice.

"Softly, sir, softly! You are in the Lord's House," said Elder Wynne in his soft, quavering tones.

"I beg your pardon, I was so surprised! There's nothing to see—nothing, I assure you. I've been all over the old ram-shackle affair—there is really nothing." He stood in the middle of the aisle. His so standing blocked our way.

"What! Not the carving of the Resurrection and the font given by the first Swede pastor? Why, where were your eyes, Mr. Beldon? We must see those, of course. Come, Dr. Wynne."

My lower-back backed slowly down the dark aisle, talking volubly to us and occasionally glancing over his shoulder. The church was dimly lighted, and I suggested having one of the windows opened—the blinds, rather. "I will go in the carriage and get the sexton," said I.

"I think we can send for him more easily," said Mr. Beldon. "Hi, Johnny!" and there appeared out of the darkness the little deformed child whom I had often seen playing round the door of the Maltby homestead. "Go and tell your father that Mrs. Brathwaite wishes the blinds opened."

"He's gone to the village," replied Johnny, "but if you and the lady had enough of light——"

"The lady says she cannot see," said Mr. Beldon, breaking in, "however——"

"I mean the other lady," said Johnny.

"Go! at once, Johnny," broke in Mr. Beldon, "and see if he hasn't come home yet." There was a sudden gleam of outer sunshine as Johnny ran through the door, and by its ray I perceived a handkerchief on the cushioned seat near where I was standing. I picked it up at once. It had a variegated border which I knew well.

"Thank you," said Mr. Beldon, holding out his hand.

FLIGHT OF AIRSHIPS.

A Short Sail at Coney Island—One Balloon Wrecked.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Both the Santos-Dumont and the Leo Stevens airships made sensational voyages through the cloudy air at Coney Island yesterday afternoon. They started from Brighton and Manhattan Beaches respectively. One landed in a meadow at Sheepshead Bay, and the other, the Stevens ship, is perched on the top of a telegraph pole at the corner of West First street and Sheepshead Bay road, Sheepshead Bay.

Stevens, who was in the car, clambered down in safety to the ground when he found that his ship was stuck.

Santos-Dumont's machine, which, it is said, was sailed by Edward C. Boice, was taken out first and rose to the estimated height of nearly a mile. Then it set its course around the northern end of the Brighton Beach hotel and across the island, finally descending in the meadows a mile and a half from its starting point.

It was after the Santos-Dumont ship had disappeared that Leo Stevens brought his ship out and set sail in pursuit. His ship sailed rapidly across the island in a westerly direction and about 1,000 feet in the air. It met with no mishap until it reached Sheepshead Bay road, when it began to descend and finally struck the top of a telegraph pole at the corner of West First avenue and became stuck. Stevens climbed out of the basket, crept to the telegraph pole and began to climb down.

He reached the ground in safety and was at once surrounded by 1,000 persons who had chased the airship on its course and proceeded to congratulate him on the "success" of his first sail.

General Roe Injured.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Major General Charles F. Roe, commanding the state national guard, has been badly injured. He was horseback riding, as is his usual daily custom, and when opposite the summer home of J. P. Morgan his horse stumbled, and the general was thrown forward, striking his head upon a bowlder in the highway. When assistance came, he was unconscious. He was conveyed to his house, and Dr. Glennon of the Cadet hospital at West Point was hurriedly sent for.

Young Stratton Will Compromise.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 1.—I. Harry Stratton announces that he has been approached by one of the executors appointed by his father in the will with a proposition to compromise the contest case and answered that he would withdraw his suit upon a settlement of $1,000,000. Attorneys for the executors, administrators and the son have had a long conference, and the announcement of young Stratton is believed to be the conclusion that has been arrived at.

Bodies Found After Many Months.

PADUCAH, Ky., Oct. 1.—The bodies of L. L. Hunter and L. B. Magill, who were lost in the burning of the City of Pittsburg last April thirty miles below Paducah, have just been found four miles below the wreck and had apparently been covered with sand. They were wealthy men of Tidioute, Pa., and several thousand dollars had been spent by relatives in the effort to find their bodies.

Hay-Wadsworth Wedding.

NEWBURY, N. H., Oct. 1.—The wedding of Miss Alice Hay and Mr. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., was solemnized yesterday at the Falls, Newbury, N. H., the summer home of the secretary of state. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Dr. H. C. Hayden of the Stone church, Cleveland, O., who performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. and Mrs. Hay.

Wisconsin's Fast Run.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The navy department has received a cablegram announcing the arrival of Rear Admiral Silas Casey aboard his flagship, the Wisconsin, at Panama after an almost unequaled run down the Pacific coast of 3,277 miles in one day less than two weeks. Rear Admiral Casey will assume general command of the American naval forces on the isthmus.

Russian Pianist Arrives.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the young Russian pianist, engaged by Daniel Frohman, arrived here on the steamer Friesland. He left at once for Worcester, where he will inaugurate his tour of sixty concerts by appearing at the Worcester festival which opens tomorrow.

Four Cases of Scarlet Fever.

CLINTON, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Only four of the supposed scarlet fever cases at Hamilton college are really fever, the other cases under suspicion proving to be tonsilitis. No new cases have developed, and it is believed the contagion has been entirely checked.

Bank Robbers Get a Good Haul.

FORT MILL, S. C., Oct. 1.—The vault and safe of the City bank here have been dynamited by unknown persons. Three thousand dollars were secured. There is no clew to the robbers.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The city prison that replaces the old Tombs was opened in New York.

A fire started by children at play destroyed the village of Voshnik, in Russian Poland.

An attempt was made to wreck a Philadelphia and Reading express train near Pottstown, Pa.

At Vincennes, Ind., Hudson Autler, his wife, Emily, and five children were fatally poisoned by arsenic being put in their food.

RAVAGES OF CHOLERA.

Nearly Three Thousand Deaths In the Province of Iloilo.

MANILA, Oct. 1.—It is announced that 5,124 cases of cholera and 2,740 deaths from that disease were reported in the province of Iloilo, island of Panay, on Monday. This is the highest record for any district since the outbreak occurred and exceeds the total of Manila and many of the provinces since the commencement.

The town of Miago, in the province of Iloilo, was the worst sufferer, 1,173 cases being reported there Monday. At Cabatuan there were 939 cases, and at Dumangas 395 cases were reported Monday.

The people are fleeing to the mountains, leaving the dead unburied and the dying uncared for. The government has ordered additional doctors and medicine to be sent to Iloilo. The number of victims makes ordinary sanitary measures impossible.

The totals for all provinces Monday were 5,390 cases and 3,091 deaths.

General Chaffee has relinquished the command of the division to Brigadier General Davis. General Davis and his personal staff assembled at headquarters, where the orders were read. The ceremony was brief.

Improved Financial Conditions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The stock market, which closed utterly demoralized Monday as a result of stringent monetary conditions and other unfavorable circumstances, made a sensational recovery yesterday. The chief causes for the complete reversal were the action of the secretary of the treasury in removing the restraint on bank reserves and persistent reports from various quarters that the coal strike had at last reached the point where negotiations for a settlement were actually under way. Another influence for better prices was the decline in call money rates, though during the morning loans were made as high as 19 per cent. A large part of the day's loans was made at around 10 per cent, and the rate at the close went down to 2. Secretary Shaw's visit to the street and his talks with the leading banking interests helped in no small measure to restore confidence. Local banks loaned moderately.

A Florida Hanging.

BRONSON, Fla., Oct. 1.—Theodore Smith and Thomas G. Faircloth, the young white men who killed the aged Lewis couple one month ago, have been hanged by Sheriff Sutton. The trap was sprung at 11:12 o'clock, and both men's necks were broken. Faircloth was pronounced dead in fifteen minutes and Smith in twelve and a half minutes. Both men had wonderful nerve and ascended the scaffold with steady step. They had their coffins opened and inspected and commented on them. Faircloth remarked that they were all right, and both men addressed the immense crowd with clear and unbroken voices.

DEMOCRATIC HEADQUARTERS.

Opened in the Old Crescent Clubhouse Last Evening.

The Democratic club rooms and headquarters in the old Crescent Club house on East Second street, were formally opened, last evening. All Democrats will be made welcome and will find lots to interest them. It is purposed to have a number of meetings in the rooms before election, the first of which will be held Monday evening. It will be in the nature of a ratification meeting and all interested are asked to be in attendance.

Wedded Independence Day.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Anna Benson, of Duer street, and Harry Bogert, of this city, which took place July 4. Mr. Bogert is employed in the carpet department at Woodhull & Martin's store. He and his family are living on Duer street.

Spelling Bee.

A "spelling bee," participated in by all the pupils of the North Plainfield High School, was held this morning. The best words were written by the competitors, and none but words in every day use were given. The contest aroused much interest.

Not a Candidate.

Former Judge W. A. Coddington states this afternoon that he will not allow his name to go before the Democratic convention tomorrow as candidate for State Senator. Great pressure has been brought to bear to have him accept it.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

New faces will be seen at the Central Theatre, this evening, in the vaudeville programme. Manager Schorb has procured some excellent talent to augment his opening bill and now gives one of the best entertainments ever seen at a local playhouse. The style of performance at the theatre will shortly shift from vaudeville to repertoire as Manager Schorb is negotiating with one of the finest road companies touring the country. The company gives nothing but the latest metropolitan successes, all well staged.

SCHOOL TENNIS.

Finals in Singles Will be Between VanAuken and Briggs.

In the Plainfield High School championship tennis tournament in singles yesterday afternoon. Chester A. Briggs defeated Vincent B. Miner 6-3, 7-5. This brings Briggs and Fred T. VanAuken together in the finals which will be played off tomorrow afternoon.

Play was also commenced yesterday in the doubles championship tournament. V. B. Miner and F. T. VanAuken defeated R. W. Meeker and H. M. Slauson 6 1, 6-2, and A. D. Beers and G. A. Brakeley defeated the faculty team, Lindsey Best and I. W. Travell 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Tomorrow VanAuken and Miner will meet Briggs and Clarence C. Rocap and the winner of this match will meet Beers and Brakeley in the finals.

POUND SOCIAL.

Given by Women's Foreign Missionary Society of First M. E. Church.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First M. E. church, held its first meeting of the fall, yesterday evening, in connection, with a "pound" social. Each member attending was required to bring a pound of something which could be placed in a box and sent to south Africa to the same station where the late Miss Rachael Mair worked.

Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Derby and Mrs. N. A. Miller and further entertainment was furnished by the members who related their vacation experiences. Refreshments were served at the close by a committee composed of Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Shupp, Mrs. N. W. Pike, Mrs. D. E. Davis and Miss Sharp.

INSTALLING BIG SAFES.

Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company Completed a Big Contract.

The Hibbard-Rodman-Ely SafeCompany has just completed a large contract for installing safes and vaults in the new Savoy apartment house on Riverside Drive, New York. A gang of twelve men in charge of Alex. Muir has been engaged in the work for the past three weeks and the contract was completed to the entire satisfaction of the owners.

A bank has been established on the first floor and the local company installed several of its most improved vaults that have attracted a great deal of attention. It is in the Savoy that Charles M. Schwab, president of the Steel Corporation, has taken a suite of apartments at a cost of $40,000 a year.

STORE FLOODED.

Workmen Left Aperture in Roof Through Which Rain Came.

Carelessness on the part of workmen who are putting up the Frucht building, on Park avenue, resulted in the flooding of Miss A. E. Lincoln's flower store, this morning. A small aperture had been left in the roof where beams were to be inserted and through this the rain poured in torrents all last night. When the clerks arrived this morning, the floor was covered with half an inch of water and all Miss Lincoln's private papers had been ruined, as the desks came in for a share of the wetness.

Another Milkman Fined.

Kussel Sacher, a West End milkman, was arraigned before Justice Moffett, yesterday, charged by the local Board of Health with adulterating the product he sold. Through his counsel, W. S. Angleman, he entered a plea of not guilty, but the court deemed he was and fined him $50 and costs. Notice of appeal was immediately given.

Sound Financial Condition.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Park Club was held at the Park Club house last evening. The object was to hear a report from the treasurer, preceding the annual meeting of the club which will be held Tuesday night. The report showed the club in a good financial condition.

Trolley Tracks Completed.

The work of repairing the trolley tracks at the corner of Front and Somerset streets was completed yesterday, and it is believed that in the future no further trouble will be experienced.

Miss Leila Howard, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. G. Harry Squires, of Arlington avenue.

THE PHYSICIANS IN SESSION

THE SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION OF NEW JERSEY HOMŒOPATHS.

Began This Morning at Brookside—Address by the President—Other Business.

Physicians from all parts of the State arrived here this morning to attend the forty-ninth semi-annual session of the New Jersey State Homoepathic Medical Society.

The session opened at 11 o'clock, at Brookside Sanitarium with Dr. James Franklin Ackerman, of Asbury Park, president of the association, in the chair. He opened the meeting with a fifteen-minute address, after which the secretary, Dr. Isaac Cooper, of Trenton, read the minutes of the previous meeting. Following this a reception to delegates and visitors was given, and the members then adjourned for luncheon.

After lunch, at the early afternoon session, the report of the censors was read and the election of new members then took place.

The late afternoon session will be devoted to the discussion of medical subjects by specialists, and this speaking will probably be a source of much interest. Twenty-one subjects will be gone over exhaustively, and these will cover a large range of practical medical questions.

AT SUMMER HOME.

Wedding Took Place at Greenbrook Yesterday Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Oct. 1—At her pretty summer home in Green Brook the marriage took place yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock, of Miss Mary Brown, only daughter of William Brown, of Jersey City, to Alexander Morton, of the same place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. N. J. Sproul amid a bower of flowers and decorations. Hosts of guests were present from Jersey City and other places and large number of beautiful and costly presents showed the appreciation in which the young people were held. The bride was beautifully downed. The couple have left on an extended wedding trip.

New Ferry Boat.

The New Jersey Central has placed an order with Harlan & Hollinsworth for a new ferry boat, to be built on the same lines as the Red Bank and for service on the Liberty Street ferry. The new boat will be placed in commission at the earliest possible moment, and the New Jersey Central fleet will then be the most up-to-date on the river. c

Consecration Service.

There will be a consecration service at the Mt. Olive Baptist church Friday evening. The vestry has been thoroughly remodeled, including a new floor and new paper, at a cost of $5, which has been paid. Pastor Jackson will preach a special sermon on the subject of "How to Enter God's House." A silver offering will be received.

BALL PLAYERS WHO HAVE REPRESENTED SCOTCH PLAINS ON THE DIAMOND

For years Scotch Plains has been noted for its baseball players. Ever since the National game became a prominent factor in sport, the little village has generally been represented upon the diamond by a team that was a credit to the town. But it was not until last season that a number of the lovers of the game came together and organized a ball team upon business principles.

Grounds were hired and one of the best diamonds possible was laid out. A line of bleechers were built as an experiment. George H. Johnston was made captain and manager of the team while Arthur Haskard looked out for the financial end. The support given the experiment was far better than had been anticipated by the most ardent supporters of the movement. Expenses were cleared and a small balance was found in the treasury at the end of the season.

During the winter months the ball fever was not allowed to die out. Several drawings were held to help swell the treasury. Early in June the team, assisted by its friends held a strawberry festival, netting $100. This gave the club several hundred dollars to begin the season upon and Manager Johnston felt as though an even stronger team than the one of 1901 should represent the village on the diamond this season. New men were signed, weak spots were strengthened, the men were brought out for daily practice both in the field and at the bat, and the results obtained have been more than successful as the record of the team will show. Only three defeats are recorded for the season's play of twenty-five games, and these were evened up in return games by such bad defeats that there could be no doubt left as to which was the better team.

The line up of the team during the season now at a close has included Brogan as catcher. Pete, as he is more familiarly called, is one of the fastest all around players it would be possible to get, but his stronghold is behind the bat and his stick work. Manager Johnston landed Pete from the Marquettes, of Brooklyn.

Harvey, pitcher, or Dick as every one calls him, is the idol of the fans. He came from the strong Bay Ridge team. For two seasons he has been doing all the pitching and much of the success of the team is due to his work in the box, for no matter how the game is going Dick never looses his head but keeps right on putting them over. Ashcroft on third base, or "Hen," as the boys call him, came from the strong Sidneys, 1901 champions of Brooklyn. During the early part of the season he occupied the catcher's box, but when Brogan was signed was put out to cover third base territory and it has got to be a pretty fast ball that can make its escape on that part of the diamond.

George Crusius, or "Chick," at short, needs but very little introduction. Manager Johnston signed him from the Brooklyn Field Club early last season and he has remained with the team ever since, everything going his way is as good as out when it leaves the bat. J. Flannery at right is a new addition from the Bay Ridges but in the few games played he has put up fast ball and is fast becoming popular with the crowd in his territory. Baldwin on second base is one the locals who began playing ball on the school team several years ago and has gradually worked up until he is one of the best second basemen about this section.

Ed. Hand at first needs no introduction as he is one of the veterans who have been at the game for years and understands how to cover first base with the best. Manager Johnston who goes into the game occasionally is another veteran and at one time member of the Kingston, of the New York State League, when the manager is out in right garden that part of the territory is well guarded.

H. Flannery at center and Joe Alberts at left are the two youngest members of the team. Both began playing the game several years ago with the school teams and Manager Johnston would have trouble in finding two outfielders who could cover more ground than the youngsters or who are surer on a catch. Unfortunately Alberts' photograph does not appear with the group as he was playing with Garwood the day the photograph was taken.

Altogether Scotch Plains is proud of the team and well it may be.

MANY PLAYED EUCHRE.

Successful Affair Given Last Evening Under the Auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

A successful euchre was given by the Knights of Columbus, last night, in St. Mary's School Hall. There was a large attendance, twenty-five tables being used. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion and an orchestra furnished music for dancing after the card playing was over.

Some handsome prizes were distributed. Lawrence Doyle won the first men's prize, a silk umbrella, while Mrs. A. A. Cannon was presented with a costly Japanese fan. Much amusement was caused by the presentation of the consolation prize to Frank Conner. This was a drum on which was printed in large letters: "Here is something you can beat."

It was a late hour before the party broke up. Much of the success of the entertainment was due to the efforts of the committee which consisted of A. A. Cannon, chairman, D. J. Gilbert, C. R. Guinee, M. J. Whalen and J. C. Trainer.

RECTOR'S RECEPTION.

Monthly Reception Tendered to the Congregation of St. Stephen's Church Last Evening.

Rev. Dr. Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephen's church, tendered his monthly reception to the congregation, last evening. It was well attended despite the inclemency of the weather, the number being thirty-five. In a social way it surpassed its predecessors, the two hours during which it lasted being spent with informal conversation and listening to piano selections contributed by Mrs. Buckley.

The purpose of Dr. Dawson in giving the receptions is to bring the congregation closer and put all members on a friendly basis. He has succeeded admirably in his purpose and the church is constantly growing in membership and inuflence.

S. T. Ford to Entertain.

S. T. Ford, who opened the Y. M. C. A. Star Course in 1899, will entertain at the formal opening of the physical and educational departments of the Y. M. C. A., Saturday evening. Admission free to men.

ICE GOES UP.

Price of Artificial and Natural Ice Goes Up 15 Cents a Hundredweight.

As a natural result of the enormous raise in the price of coal, there is also a proportionate raise in the price of manufactured ice, in this city. Yesterday the Hygeia Ice Company tacked fifteen cents a hundred on its commodity and the natural ice dealers immediately followed suit. The price of the manufactured article is now fourty-five cents a hundred where it was formerly thirty cents, and natural ice has taken a jump from twenty cents to thirty-five cents per hundred.

F. T. Ostrom, manager of the Hygeia Ice Company, stated to a Daily Press reporter this morning that such action on the ice company's part was absolutely necessary. He is, he states, paying three times as much for coal as formerly and it is simply as a matter of protection that ice prices are being raised.

PLIGHTED TROTH IN CHURCH

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARY E. M'KAY AND JOHN F. STRAPPE.

Ceremony at St. Mary's Church—Reception Followed at the Bride's Home.

By a very pretty ceremony which took place in St. Mary's church at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Mary Ellen McKay, of this city, was made the wife of John Francis Strappe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Egan in the presence of numerous friends and relatives.

Miss McKay, who was prettily attired in a gown of mousseline de soie, was attended by Miss Anna Marky. Both carried pretty bouquets. Mr. Strappe's attendant was Joseph McLaughlin, who acted as best man. Miss Clara Smith, organist of the church, played the Lohengrin march as the party entered the church and other selections followed the ceremony.

When the words had been pronounced which made them man and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Strappe repaired to the home of the bride's parents on West Third street, where a reception was held which lasted until after midnight. The couple will take up their residence in the West End as the groom is employed in the Pond Tool Works.

THE THIRD GAME.

Was Originally Understood in First Negotiations That it Would be Played in Westfield.

To many local fans who have been following the games of the Consolidated-Westfield teams, it has been a cause for wonderment as to why the third in the series should be played at Westfield. The reason will be plain when it is made known that it was understood between Charles B. Morse, of The Daily Press, and Manager C. H. Denman, of the Westfields, that if a third game was necessary it was to be played on the latter's grounds.

The accommodations at Westfield are better than those in this city and as the trolley company puts on extra cars, the trip consumes a small amount of time. It was subsequently agreed in arranging the games that the proceeds of the third should be divided equally between the two teams. This matter is explained in order that Plainfielders may not conceive the idea that Westfield is getting the third game for pecuniary purposes.

DEATH OF MRS. MILLER.

Passed Away Last Evening After a Long Illness.

Mrs. Caroline Augusta Miller, wife of Theodore J. Miller, and eldest daughter of the late Wm. L. and Mary Conklin, of New York City, died last night at her home, 967 Park avenue, after a long illness. She leaves a husband, two sons and two daughters. The funeral services will be held from the late residence Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment in Greenwood cemetrey.

Husky Young Agents.

Colonel Clark Mack and Major J. Augustus Barth, the gigantic advance agents of the famous Duss band, paid another visit to The Daily Press office this afternoon. They are the smallest of eight sons, each measuring seven feet, two inches, in height, but the doorways were a trifle too low to accommodate them, so they had to stoop as they entered. They told of the coming of Duss and his band October 23 at the Casino.

ARCTIC EXPLORER AT MEETING OF DOCTORS

Address by Dr. Dedrick, of the Peary Expedition, Was a Feature of the Meeting.

OF THE HOMŒOPATHS.

SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING OF THE STATE SOCIETY AT BROOKSIDE.

Many Physicians, Including Dr. Dedrick, Spoke—His Address Was on Medical Conditions in Arctic Regions.

Those who attended the afternoon session of the New Jersey State Homoeopathic Medical Society, yesterday, at Brookside Sanitarium, had the pleasure of hearing an unusually interesting address from Dr. T. F. Dedrick, of Arlington, the official physician of Lieut. Peary on that officer's latest attempt to discover the North Pole.

Dr. Dedrick is not a member of the society but was present by special invitation. He took for his topic medical conditions in the Arctic regions and the various diseases of Esquimo tribes. He described at length a peculiar nervous trouble prevalent among the Esquimos. It was, he stated, a sort of emotional insanity and is, from the psychologists' viewpoint, a most interesting study. It was brought on, Dr. Dedrick thought, by the extreme monotony of the life of the average Esquimo.

In reply to a question the physician stated that the Arctic dwellers have no objection, and are even anxious to secure the services of a Caucasian doctor in time of sickness and he told several stories to illustrate the people's anxiety to secure the attendance of white physicians.

It will be rememebred that Dr. Dedrick is the man who, at the latter portion of the trip, tendered his resignation to Peary and thereafter lived among the natives instead of accompanying the expedition. The rumor was prevalent in all parts of the United States that the doctor was mentally unbalanced.

At the conclusion of Dedrick's discourse yesterday one of the doctor's present asked: "And what was your mental condition throughout the trip, Doctor?"

The explorer's reply evoked much laughter and considerable applause. He said: "Two thousand five hundred miles away everybody said that I was insane, and the further away the report got the crazier I was." He then went on to state that the mental condition of everyone when there was no work to do, was one of entire apathy. The same effect would be brought about, he thought, if, in this climate, a man was obliged to remain almost inert for a period of several months, and was unable to take much physical exercise.

Dr. Dedrick is a good speaker and his remarks yesterday showed a well-balanced mind. The society gave him a vote of thanks at the conclusion of his discourse.

There were sixty-five physicians present at the meeting. They came from all portions of the State, as told in yesterday's Daily Press. Four women doctors were present. They were: Dr. Burnett, of East Orange; Drs. Lawrence and Smalley, of Newark, and Dr. Bruce, of Irvington.

Dr. Cooley, of Brookside Sanitarium, gave the members an elaborate luncheon at noon. The meeting broke up about 6 o'clock.

Among those who read papers of medical subjects were: Dr. Chas. A. Church, Dr. Wallace McGeorge, Dr. Carl H. Wintsch, Dr. William F. Honan, Dr. Edward H. Baldwin, Dr. Chas. A. Groves, Dr. Herbert W. Foster, Dr. Edward D. G. Conkling, Dr. Wm. A. Wakely, Dr. Caldwell Morrison, Dr. Bernard Clausen, Dr. C. C. Straughn, Dr. Harry C. Reynolds, Dr. Wm. F. Beggs, Dr. George F. Laidlaw, Dr. William Duffenbach, Dr. Alvin A. Atkinson, Dr. George H. Richards, Dr. Eugene Witte and Dr. Egbert G. Rankin.

Pleasant Surprise.

Miss Sadie Doyle, of Plainfield avenue, was tendered a very pleasant surprise party, last evening. The affair was arranged by Miss Bertha Hill and Miss Mabel Pierson, who with fifty young people were in attendance. Games and dancing were the means used to pass the hours pleasantly and at the close of the evening refreshments were served.

—Tier's ice cream is second to none. All kinds of candy made daily on the premises, 134 Park avenue.

NO NEW SCHOOL.

Somerville Citizens Voted Down Project to Build a $60,000 School House.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 2—A public meeting for the purpose of voting on the erection of two new school buildings was held here Tuesday night. It was proposed by the Board of Education to tear down the present main school structure and in its place erect a larger and more suitable one, and also to erect a two-room building in East Somerville. All this was to be done at a cost of $60,000.

A deep interest was manifested in the citizens' meeting, even women turning out in force to cast their ballots. James L. Griggs was chairman and Sheriff Calvin D. McMurtry secretary. There were 421 votes polled and of these 171 were in favor of the new buildings and 250 against. There is said to be much bitterness over the result.

WOMAN WAVED A REVOLVER

MRS. SMITH GREW EXCITED AND THREATENED TO SHOOT MRS. TOBIN.

Placed Under Arrest and Despite Excuses City Judge Runyon Made it $8.

Mrs. Bridget Smith, of West Fourth street, adopted extraordinary measures, this morning, to emphasize a few remarks she was addressing to Mrs. William Tobin, who occupied rooms in the same house, with her.

The two have not been on friendly terms for the past few weeks and Mrs. Tobin sought to terminate the trouble by moving out. As she was leaving the house early this morning, Mrs. Smith appeared on the stairs with a revolver in her hand and informed her that the less she had to say about her (Mrs. Smith), the better, else she would get shot. Two women friends of Mrs. Tobin who came in at that moment, also had the weapon poked threateningly at them. Policeman Higgins was called and Mrs. Smith was placed under arrest.

To City Judge Runyon she said she had only carried the pistol to scare Mrs. Tobin, and although it was loaded she wouldn't fire it off because she didn't know how. His Honor thought she had been a little indiscreet and fined her $8 or twenty days. Her husband produced the money.

A. J. BRUNSON WEDDED.

Married Miss Gertrude T. Iszard, at May's Landing, Yesterday.

Agustus J. Brunson, of this city, and Miss Gertrude T. Iszard, of May's Landing, N. J., were married yesterday noon at the home of the bride in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Rev. Walter E. Smith, of the Presbyterian church, May's Landing, performed the ceremony. The bride is a niece of Dr. G. W. Endicott, of this city, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Iszard. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Plainfield.

Course Tickets.

A course ticket, including a reserved seat for the Y. M. C. A. Star Course, may be obtained at Hodge's pharmacy this evening at 8 o'clock. Any member of the Association may obtain a reserved seat ticket for the course upon the presentation of membership ticket and the payment of a small sum. For further particulars see advertisement and apply at the Y. M. C. A.

To Dispose of Old Furniture.

The entire furnishings of the Hotel Plainfield, which has been purchased by A. B. Rosell, will be disposed of at auction by H. K. Hand, October 11. The new proprietor will fit the place anew immediately afterward.

Plans for Ball.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein was held last night in Saengerbund Hall. Routine business was transacted and the plans perfected for the ball to be held on October 6.

Granted Letters of Administration.

Surrogate Furman, of Middlesex county, has granted letters of administration to Sarah C. Fisher, of Dunellen, for the estate of Richard S. Fisher. The personal estate does not exceed $1,600.

First Meeting of Fall.

The Junior Christian Endeavorers of the First Baptist church will meet Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This is the first meeting of the fall, and the friends are urged to be present.

Typos in Session.

Typographical Union, No. 399, met last evening, and transacted routine business. The label was granted a local printer and two new members were elected.

IT MAY BE CAPTAIN LEWIS

TALK OF SUCCESSOR FOR CAPTAIN BROWNING OF COMPANY K.

Members Say That Present First Lieutenant May Have the Command.

Company K held no drill last night, although it was generally understood that there was to be one. The first drill of the season, therefore, will be held next Wednesday night.

In the matter of the election for the captaincy of the company, one of the most prominent non-commissioned officers stated this morning to a Daily Press reporter that if First Lieutenant John M. Lewis formally declared himself a candidate he would win "hands down." This man stated that Lieut. Lewis as a popular and efficient officer and could win out on his own personality. It would be also a matter purely military courtesy, he stated, for the enlisted men to support the senior officer in the command.

Robert M. Clark, another member of the organization, spoke in the same strain. He said: "If Lieut. Lewis is a candidate, every man in the company will stick by him. He is a good officer." In Mr. Clark's opinion Lieut. Lewis will, without doubt, declare himself in the race for the double bars.

Although an Elizabeth paper has stated that Captain Martin, of that city, had been offered the oppointment, this does not seem to be the case. While Captain Martin was at one time a strong candidate it now looks as if the Elizabeth captain was not in the running. Among members of the local company the opinion prevails that the appointment should not go outside of Plainfield.

A FINE CHOIR.

M. J. Cashin Has Agreed to Take Charge of St. Mary's Church Choir and Strengthen It.

After much influence being brought to bear, Matthew J. Cashin has consented to once more take charge of St. Mary's church choir. When the offer was first made him Mr. Cashin hesitated and finally declined to assume the responsibility and it was only after long arguments by those high in church circles that he consented to undertake the work.

In a conversation with a Daily Press reporter yesterday Mr. Cashin said: "At first I scarcely thought that I would find time to undertake this labor, but now that I am about to do so, it is my intention to make St. Mary's quoir second to none of its size in the State." In after words he intends to put the body on the same basis that it was five years ago.

Among other changes in contemplation by Mr. Cashin is the radical increase in the number of voices. He also intends to increase the quality of the vocal music. In all respects he will spare no pains to make St. Mary's choir the standard of excellence in this portion of the State.

CONCERT AT CASINO.

Italian Marine Band Will Play Here on Tuesday Night.

Giannini's Royal Marine Band of Italy and Grand Opera Company will play an evening performance at The Casino, Tuesday evening. The management will be pleased to receive votes of communication from citizens as to what opera they most desire to have sung here and the opera receiving the most votes or favor will be the one given. This is in addition to the regular band programme. Communications may be sent to the Casino. Reserved seat tickets are now on sale.

WANTED A FIGHT.

Boys in Borough Dosed Dogs With Red Pepper.

Chief Campbell, of the borough police, shot two dogs this morning on Greenbrook road. Some boys had caught the animals and dosed them with red pepper, ostensibly for the purpose of making them fight. When the chief arrived on the scene the dogs were in such a condition that it was necessary to kill them at once and get them out of their misery.

Democratic Borough Primaries.

The Democratic primaries for the borough of North Plainfield will be held tomorrow night. The meeting of the First district will be held in the schoolhouse, while that of the Second district will be held in Spencer's store. Saturday afternoon is the date fixed for the township primaries. Delegates will be elected to attend the county conventian next week.

Gladys, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Weaver, of South avenue, has recovered from a severe illness.

MISS MAI COLEMAN WEDS ARMY OFFICER

Quiet Wedding Took Place at Mrs. Coleman's Cottage Yesterday Afternoon.

ONLY A FEW GUESTS.

SIMPLE AFFAIR ON ACCOUNT OF RECENT DEATH OF BRIDE'S FATHER.

Groom Was Lieut. Clifton Carroll Carter, of the United States Regular Army, Now Stationed at Fortress Monroe.

Very quietly and with as little display as possible, Miss Mai Coleman, daughter of the late Frederick W. Coleman, and Lieut. Clifton Carroll Carter, of the regular army, were married yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Mrs. Coleman's cottage on LaGrande avenue, Netherwood. Rev. M. J. Farley, curate at St. Mary's R. C. church, performed the ceremony according to the rites of the Catholic church. It was intended to have a very large and brilliant wedding at Washington, but the recent death of the bride's father made this impossible. Aside from the immediate relatives, the only guests present were Gen. Wager Swayne and Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, the most particular friends of the bride's father.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a beautiful gown of white mousselin, trimmed with old lace which was used on the wedding gowns of her mother, her grandmother and great-grandmother. The groom was attended by Lieut. Frederick W. Coleman, brother of the bride, who has just returned from the Philippines after a service of four years. He also gave his sister away in marriage. The wedding march used was one composed by Frank Furst, of New York, for the wedding of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Carter is a young woman of striking beauty, besides being an accomplished musician and linguist. She made her debut in Washington four years ago and was an acknowledged belle in the army and diplomatic circles. During her stay in this city and at the Hotel Netherwood she was popular in a large circle of prominent society folk.

Lieut. Carter is the son of Col. John R. Carter, of Kentucky, and is related to the Carrolls, of Maryland, and Carters of Virginia. He is a graduate of Weest Point and for three years he was on the staff of Gen. Wood in Havana. He is now stationed at Fortress Monroe, where he and his bride will reside after a wedding trip to Newport, R. I.

An attractive feature of the wedding was the fact that the groom and best man were attired in the new regulation army uniform, which has just been adopted. This was the first time it has been worn by any member of the army, with the exception of Gen. Corbin. It is a brilliant uniform, there being much gold lace used for decoration.

Following the ceremony a very informal reception was held, after which the bride and groom left Plainfield for Newport. They were the recipients of a great many gifts of value and use.

LOST THE MONEY.

Little Walter Payne Was Afraid to Go Home Without It.

Walter Payne, the Washington Valley boy who was reported to the local police, yesterday, as missing, was picked up yesterday afternoon on Somerset street. When pressed for the cause of his remaining away from home Walter said he had lost the $5 bill given him to buy groceries and he was afraid to return. He was taken home by his father after he was assured that no harm would befall him.

Wheelmen Collided.

While speeding home on his wheel, last evening, Arthur Sherman, of Astor place, collided with Alfred Aitken, of West Third street, who was also riding. Both were thrown heavily to the ground and their machines were smashed. Severe cuts and bruises constituted the chief injuries of the young men but both were able to proceed to their homes.

Address by Dr. Richards.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the church parlors. There will be an address by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and plans for the winter's work will be considered.

E. F. Sheppard, of Orchard place, stenographer for the Lawrence Cement Company, of New York city, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

George Fuller, who has been engaged in business in Buenos Ayres for some time past, has returned to his home in this city for a brief stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Blair have returned to their home on East Second street, after spending the summer at their summer home in Belmar.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Odiorne, of West Fifth street, who have been spending several months at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, have returned home for the winter.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The service of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company afforded patrons of the Westfield baseball game, Saturday, was abominable. Not only were the cars provided insufficient to carry the passengers, but it required an hour or more to make the trip to this city. Every two or three blocks the power would give out and it would be a five or ten minute disagreeable wait before the journey was resumed.

The scramble for transfers at the North avenue station was like a stampede. But one man was in readiness to give out the slips and so many were clamoring for them at once that half were crumpled and torn before they were clutched and borne away. Many paid a second fare in preference to getting mixed up in the crowd.

Annual Bazaar.

The Faithful Workers, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, are preparing for their annual bazaar, which will be held the last of October. The proceeds will be for the remodelling of the parsonage.

—Miss Ella Bird, of this city, has accepted a position at the local telephone office.

—Dr. N. W. Currie is now living at 417 Central avenue, having moved yesterday from West Fifth street.

EXAMS FOR CIVIL SERVICE

TO FILL POSITIONS OF CLERKS AND CARRIERS IN POSTAL SERVICE.

Requisites for the Place—What the Candidates Must First Consider.

As already announced the United States Civil Service Commission will conduct an examination in this city soon for the positions of clerk and carrier in the postoffice service. It has been some time since a similar examination was held, and it will afford the local office an opportunity to secure extra men to assist in the service, with good prospects for steady positions.

This examination offers an excellent opportunity for entering the Federal service to bright, energetic young persons who are not afraid of hard work, and the commission hopes that a large number of intelligent, active persons will present themselves for this examination. It may be stated that there is a wider field for advancement upon merit in the Federal service than in many private employments.

The nature of the examination is a test of practical, general intelligence, and of adaptability to postoffice work. The age limitation for this examination are as follows: Eighteen to forty-five years.

All persons who have been examined for the position of clerk of carrier within the past year and failed to pass may be re-examined upon new application in due time.

All applicants, male and female, must have the medical certificate in Form 101 executed. Male applicants must be at least 5 feet 4 inches in height, and weigh not less than 125 pounds.

The names of all male eligibles will be entered on both the clerk and the carrier registers, and appointment from either register will remove the eligible's name from both registers.

This examination is held to secure eligibles for appointment either to existing vacancies in the present force.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements. Competitors will be rated without regard to any consideration other than the qualifications shown in their examination papers and eligibles will be strictly in accordance with the civil service law and rules.

For application blank, Form 101, full instructions, specimen examinations and information relative to the duties and salaries of the different positions, application should be made to the secretary of the postal board at the local office.

THEATRICAL.

Klaw & Erlanger, who purchased and took possession of the New York Theatre, New York, September 15, will present a great amusement and educational attraction at this house beginning Monday evening, the like of which has never been seen in this country—Carl Hargenbeck's trained animals, direct from his great animal educational school in Hamburg, Germany. Kerr Hagenbeck exhibited several groups of educated beasts in this country during the World's Fair, but they will not compare with those to be seen at the New York next week, either in numbers, variety of animals presented or novelty of features.

Two special features will display the greatest achievement in animal control in all history. The first of these consists of seven full grown Polar bears, the first ever trained, and a great German boarhound, in a novel performance which introduces Prof. Dudak, their educator, and the mammoth bear Muf'e in a two-bout Greco-Roman wrestling match for points. The second great special feature, nothing like which has ever been seen in this country, presents in one group three lions, three tigers, a hybrid (half lion and half tiger), two leopards, two pumas, two jaguars, two Polar bears and five German boarhound dogs. Appreciating the value of laughter in any performance, Herr Hagenbeck has trained many of his animals as comedians, so that the performance will have its comic as well as its serious entertaining side.

The curtain will rise evenings at 8:15 o'clock and at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2:15 o'clock. Popular prices, 25 cents to $1, will be charged for the evening performances and the Saturday matinee. The Wednesday afternoon exhibitions will be family matinees, for which the prices will be but 25 and 50 cents. Seats will be reserved on orders by mail, accompanied by remittance, directed to Klaw & Erlanger, managers New York Theatre.

POISONED HIS OWN PET

AN OAK TREE MAN DISCOVERED A CHICKEN THIEF.

Laid a Trap and Found His Pet Collie Had Been Stealing the Chickens.

In an effort to apprehend the thief which had been destroying his valuable flock of game chickens, Z. T. Powell, a well known agriculturist living near Oak Tree, learned he had saved one kind of pet only to lose another.

For several mornings in succession he found one or more fowls lying beneath a tree where it was their custom to roost, with their bodies mangled. Surmising that dogs were responsible, he made a dummy fowl with a piece of meat fastened to its head, saturated with strychnine and awaited developments. For several nights nothing transpired but on the fourth morning he found the trap to have been sprung.

A valuable pet collie which he owned and which was a favorite with the children was lying dead on the ground, with the remains of the meat in its mouth and the dummy fowl lying beside it. It was this dog which had been making havoc with the chickens but he had never suspected it.

MT. HOLLY FAIR.

October 7, 8, 9 and 10, 1902.

To further accommodate those desiring to visit the fair at Mr. Holly, N. J., on the above dates, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all stations on the United Railroads of New Jersey division, in New Jersey, and from Atlantic City, Millville, Bridgeton, Salem, Pennsgrove, and intermediate stations on the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, at reduced rates, including admission to the fair grounds.

NO VISITORS CAME.

So Freedom Castle, K. G. E., Regaled Itself With Refreshments.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, made preparations to entertain visiting delegations from castles at New Brunswick and Somerville, Tuesday evening, but neither came. No word was sent in explanation and the local Knights are at a loss as to what was the cause. After transacting routine business, Freedom Castle disposed of the refreshments prepared for the expected guests.

Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Liquid Cream Balm is becoming quite as popular in many localities as Ely's Cream Balm solid. It is prepared for use in atomizers, and is highly prized by those who have been accustomed to call upon physicians for such treatment. Many physicians are using and prescribing it. All the medicinal properties of the celebrated Cream Balm are contained in the Liquid form, which is 75 cts. including a spraying tube. All druggists, or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Young Woman Wrongly Accused.

Frederick Marsh, of Elizabeth, counsel for Mrs. Charles S. Foote, of this city, who is suing her husband for divorce, told Vice Chancellor Stevens, Tuesday, that Miss Elizabeth L. Kennedy, of New York, who has been named as co-respondent, had been brought into the case, "wrongfully and by mistake." He asked for an extension of time in which the master may take evidence.

Preached by Plainfielder.

There are many Plainfielders who attended the Pontificial Mass in St. Mary's church, Sunday morning, who are unaware that Rev. Father Charles Kelley, who preached the anniversary sermon, is a Plainfielder. He passed his boyhood at his parents' home on West Seventh street, near New street. He is now in charge of a large parish at Hoboken.

Sold Grocery Business.

Abram G. Nelson, one of the heirs of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair, who recently returned from California, has sold his grocery business at New Market to Wm. Smith his half brother, who will continue the business. Mr. Nelson still owns the property.

—C. E. Gulick, of Lincoln place, has moved into his new home in West End Park.

GETTING READY FOR WINTER

THE CASINO IS BEING PUT IN A FINE CONDITION.

Many Repairs—New Decorations and a Thorough Renovation of the Building.

The renovation and improvements in the Casino, instituted by the manager, Maze Edwards, are nearly completed and those who have not seen the building for some time will be surprised at the changes that have taken place.

In the Casino proper the renovation is complete. It has been repainted and new decorations have taken the place of those of last year. The hall now presents a color scheme both pleasing and restful to the eye. Workmen are busy giving the place a thorough cleaning and before the week is out both the interior and exterior of the building will be so transformed as to warrant Mr. Edwards' assertion that the Casino will be one of the most popular places of amusement in the State.

An entire change is contemplated in the heating arrangements. Two furnaces of the most modern pattern are to be installed. One furnace is to be used exclusively to warm the entertainment hall and the other to heat that portion of the building formerly known as the clubhouse proper.

Judging from the number of applications Mr. Edwards has on hand, the hall will be in great demand during the coming season. Between dances, assemblies, receptions and concerts the place will be a centre of social activity.

CARTING AWAY HILL.

Historic Hill, Near Cranford, is Gradually Being Carted Away by a Contractor.

"Tin Kettle Hill," an historic spot of high ground located between Union and Cranford, is being despoiled greatly to the regret of the residents in the vicinity. For many years it has been pointed out to visitors as the spot where the American soldiers camped at one time during the Revolution and many of the older inhabitants declare Washington's headquarters' tent was pitched on its summit. No one who ever stopped at the Old Meeker Inn at Union was permitted to return home without seeing "Tin Kettle Hill" and hearing the historic stories connected with it.

The hill is being carted away by a contractor who is using the dirt for filling in purposes in the vicinity of Greenville.

ORANGE F. C. SCHEDULE.

Football Games to be Played by the Orange F. C. This Season.

The Orange Field Club has about completed its schedule of football games for the season. There are three open dates, October 18, November 22 and 29. The eleven will meet tomorrow evening for practice at 65 Westervelt avenue. The club has secured a field on Arlington avenue, which will be known as Orange Oval. The schedule thus far arranged is as follows:

October 4—I. C. T. Club, Orange Oval.

October 11—Emerald A. C. at Brooklyn.

October 18—Open date.

October 25—Lincoln High School at Westfield.

November 1—Leal's School, Orange Oval.

November 8—Lincoln High School, Westfield, Orange Oval.

November 15—Leal's School, Orange Oval.

November 27—Transfiguration Field Club at Brooklyn.

November 19—Open date.

Musical Treat.

A rare musical treat is in store for Plainfielders in the form of the oratorio "Elijah," which is to be given in Holy Cross church, October 24. The chorus will include a choir recruited from local singers, assisted by the choir of Holy Trinity church, New York.

Prominent Speaker.

Dr. George W. Clark, of the American Baptist Publication Society, preached at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Sunday. The collection for the last two Sundays amounted to $112.91 for this work.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

CONFERENCE CALLED

Roosevelt Decides to Attempt to End Coal Strike.

LEADERS OF BOTH SIDES SUMMONED.

President Has No Power to Compel a Settlement, but Will Use Persuasion to Bring About the Desired Result.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—President Roosevelt will make an effort to bring the anthracite coal mine owners and their striking employees together in the interest of the public good. This conclusion was reached after a series of conferences with his cabinet advisers covering two days. The decision was arrived at when the lawyers of the cabinet informed the president that there was no way under the constitution and the form of government of the United States for federal intervention to end the strike. Every phase of the situation was canvassed, and the determination to have the mine operators and President Mitchell meet the president was reached when it was found that no other method was open. At the conclusion of the conference, which was attended by Secretaries Root, Shaw and Moody, Attorney General Knox and Postmaster General Payne, at the temporary White House, a number of telegrams were issued.

The telegrams sent to the operators and coal road presidents all read:

"I should greatly like to see you on Friday next, Oct. 3, at 11 o'clock in the morning here in Washington in regard to the failure of the coal supply, which has become a matter of vital concern to the whole nation. I have sent a similar dispatch to Mr. John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America."

The telegram to Mr. Mitchell read:

"I should greatly like to see you on Friday next, Oct. 3, at 11 o'clock in the morning here in Washington in regard to the failure of the coal supply, which has become a matter of vital concern to the whole nation. I have sent a similar dispatch to the presidents of the anthracite coal companies."

The messages were all signed by President Roosevelt.

At the meeting Friday the line of approach toward the settlement of the strike will be an appeal by President Roosevelt to both sides to come together as men and not to allow false pride or a feeling of obstinacy to stand in the way of the termination of the great strike which is fraught with such threat of misery to thousands of people. It is stated by one of the president's advisers that beyond this the president cannot go. He has no powers of compulsion to bring into play against either side, and he must rely upon his persuasive abilities and his appeals to their sense of humanity if anything tangible is to be accomplished.

The president intends to lay before his hearers the situation as it appears to him, with all the prospective horrors that will follow a fuel famine, and will urge them in the interests of humanity to open the mines and supply the demand for coal. The president has taken this action because he feels it to be his duty to do so as the executive head of a nation threatened with great peril. The president has in a sense taken upon himself the burdens of an arbitrator in this great dispute between capital and labor, and though the arbitration is not compulsory and is not even known under the name of arbitration in any of the invitations issued it is the hope of the president and his advisers that it will be effective—just how no one can say, though there is the suggestion of a temporary arrangement which will tide over the cold weather.

It is stated by a member of the cabinet that there is no political purpose in this effort, but that the president is moved to exert his influence solely in the interests of the people.

In the other attempts, it is said, the operators felt that politics was the most prominent motive. In this connection the story is revived of the settlement of the strike in 1900. The operators claim that when that strike was settled under stress of a political exigency the way was paved for the present strike. They also claim that the strikers have hoped that political influence would again be exerted in their behalf and the operators compelled to make further concessions.

The efforts of Senators Quay and Penrose of Pennsylvania, Senator Platt of New York and Governor Stone of Pennsylvania have been pointed out as a verification of the claim of the operators. All this, they have asserted, is due to the settlement which was made in 1900. All these various questions have been discussed during the past few days, together with the legal situation and the power of the federal administration in the premises, and the conclusion was reached that the president could do more by bringing the interested parties together than in any other way.

There will be no one present at Friday's meeting at the temporary White House but the principals. It is true that Friday is cabinet day and that 11 o'clock, the hour appointed in the invitations for the meeting of the coal magnates, is the usual hour of assembling of the cabinet; but, according to the present understanding, that cabinet meeting will be postponed.

The purpose of the postponement is plainly to relieve the invited guests from the feeling of reserve that might naturally be created if they appeared before the entire cabinet, including some exceedingly clever lawyers whom the coal people might not care to meet in a business way in the absence of their own legal advisers.

So the absence of the cabinet will give the president an opportunity to do just what he wants—namely, to have a good heart to heart talk with the operators and Mr. Mitchell, to induce them to talk to each other freely and to reason quietly and soberly and finally to agree if possible to make concessions on each side which will terminate the strike, and at least, if this last object cannot be directly attained, it is hoped that the foundations may be laid for an agreement in the near future, perhaps an agreement between the principals to have further meetings and perhaps to refer open issues between them to third parties.

It is stated positively that the president has no assurances from either side which formed the basis of his call for this meeting.

Mitchell Seemed Pleased.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 2.—If the broad smile which President Mitchell wore when he opened President Roosevelt's telegram inviting him to the White House conference at Washington Friday was any indication, he was highly delighted with the president's message. "Of course I shall accept President Roosevelt's invitation," he said. "I have just sent a reply to the president's telegram. I shall leave here this afternoon and be in Washington early tomorrow morning. Of course I have no means of knowing just what matter will be brought up at the conference and would not discuss them now even if I had." The general impression is that the conference will agree upon a plan to settle the strike satisfactory to both sides.

Washery Compelled to Close.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Sterling washery at Plymouth, which has been in operation for some months past, has been compelled to suspend operations, a crowd of men and boys having cut the belting and plugged the machinery. When the employees of the washery came down from Scranton, they were driven away by a mob and forced to return home. Sheriff Jacobs was notified, and he requested Colonel Dougherty of the Ninth regiment to send troops to the scene. Two battalions were sent to Plymouth, but when they arrived they found everything quiet and the crowd gone. The owners of the washery say considerable damage was done to the machinery.

Coal For the White House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The first carload of anthracite coal received in Washington since the beginning of the coal strike has arrived here. It is held for the use of the White House, and on its arrival several policemen were detailed to guard it. Later two carloads arrived under consignment to the District of Columbia government and were distributed to schoolhouses. A conservative estimate of the amount of anthracite coal in the city, exclusive of that just received, is 950 tons, all of which is in the hands of four dealers.

Coal For Schools.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company, through a local dealer, has agreed to furnish the Columbia (Pa.) public schools with 216 tons of anthracite coal at last year's prices. The coal is expected to be delivered within a few days.

President Baer Will Attend.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—President George F. Baer of the Reading company will attend the coal conference at Washington tomorrow. In reply to a query he said, "I consider the president's request a command."

A Visit to General Salazar.

PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral Silas Casey, who arrived here Tuesday on the United States battleship Wisconsin, accompanied by Commanders McLean and Mason, two other naval officers and Acting United States Consul Ehrman, has visited General Salazar, governor of Panama, at the palace. The visitors were received by a Colombian guard of honor. When they entered the palace, a band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and as they left the building the Colombian hymn was rendered. The conference between General Salazar and the American visitors was most cordial.

Killed His Own Son.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 2.—A special to the Banner says John Byrum shot and instantly killed his twenty-year-old son in a family row at Mitchellsville. Byrum was whipping his wife and shot his son when the latter sought to protect his mother. Byrum is thought to have escaped into Kentucky.

It Was Only a Joke.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The holdup of the stagecoach Pioneer near Florida Tuesday evening is now acknowledged to have been a joke perpetrated on the passengers. The masked men were three young residents of Warwick. It is understood all the property taken has been returned.

The Month's Coinage.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The monthly coinage statement issued by the director of the mint shows that during September, 1902, the total coinage executed at the mints of the United States was $6,762,115, as follows: Gold, $3,560,800; silver, $2,831,165; minor coins, $370,000.

Governor Odell Ill.

ALBANY, Oct. 2.—Governor Odell is still confined to the executive mansion, suffering from a bilious attack, and has been compelled to cancel his engagement to speak at Elmira today at the Chemung county fair.

Great Surprise Sale

Commencing Saturday, Sept. 27, for ten days only—no more, no less. Owing to recent strikes we have had in New York in the cloak trade we could not get all the goods in time for our fall opening. Now that the strike is over, we commenced to get in goods that ought to have been delivered by the manufacturers two months ago, as well as goods contracted for the present delivery, and therefore we find ourselves with a good deal larger stock than we anticipated to have at this time of the year, and as the trade of Plainfield is limited we had to take heroic measures in order to dispose of it in time as named above. Hence our loss is your gain. The following items will give you an idea of the bargains awaiting your call:

50 sample suits at less than half regular prices. We purchased from two prominent manufacturers about fifty new fall samples of finest Tailor-made Suits, the regular retail price of which should be from $18 to $25. The coats or Etons are lined with very best taffeta silk, the skirts with best nearsilk, - - $9.98

WOMEN'S JACKETS.

DRESS AND WALKING SKIRTS.

We have about 600 Skirts which must go regardless of cost. Call and see our 98c and $1.50 Walking Skirts.

GOVERNING AUTOS.

When bicycles were first introduced, the wheelmen had all sorts of trouble in securing their rights. It was questioned as to whether they were entitled to the same rights on the highways as other vehicles and many municipalities legislated against them. After many fights in the courts of the country, it was finally established that bicycles were vehicles and entitled to the same rights on the public highways as any other vehicle. In New Jersey a State law was passed which regulated all local ordinances and made a general uniformity which was much to be desired.

It now looks as if the automobile was going to pass through a some what similar career and that the remedy would be a State law outlining the regulations on which local ordinances can insist. The Supreme Court has now been called upon to decide whether the township of Fanwood has the right to limit the speed of automobiles differently from that of other vehicles. As it is the first case of its kind and will make a precedent, it is not surprising that all the State is interested in the proceedings which Reed & Codding have started for their client, Hermann Unger, a Newark merchant who was arrested in Scotch Plains for speeding his automobile.

This question of governing the speed of automobiles is one which has been much discussed by the press throughout the State and country. New Jersey is specially interested and it has been demonstrated that there is need of some method of regulating them. It is also a fact that the chaffuers are entitled to certain rights which cannot be disputed even if some of their number do happen to abuse them. The unfairness of different ordinances on the subject in every municipality has been pointed out but the question now raised is that of unconstitutionality. In the abstract, it would seem that the same law should apply to all kinds of vehicles but it remains for the Supreme Court to say whether the Fanwood township ordinance on the subject is illegal or not.

It is not often that the people themselves get a chance to vote directly for the political leaders. While the leaders may prove very important factors in conventions and elections, it is the appointive offices that they usually select. Occasionally, however, they go before the people as is the case this year with Major Carl Lentz, the most prominent figure in Republican circles of Essex county. He is a candidate for sheriff of that county and his campaign promises to be a very exciting one. It will not only be a case of Republicans against Democrats but Lentz men against anti-Lentz men.

"Advertising spreads, multiplies and quickens wants, and hence is a very important agency in keeping the wheels of progress moving," is the way the Philadelphia Record quotes a successful advertiser. "It is folly," he continues, "to think that such a force will not become more widely appreciated as men shall understand better the results which flow from it."

It is the custom for the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club to annually entertain its friends with a combination of tennis, golf and social events. Saturday of this week is the day set for this fall reception and there is every reason to believe that it will be even more successful than those of past seasons.

And now the critics employed by the Metropolitan papers are in a merry harangue as to morality and immorality of the new play "Iris," of the "Sapho" and "Zaza" stamp. The controversy is accompanied by the musical jingle in the theatre box office as the crowd clamors for seats.

New York has just passed over four shudders for as many murders and the criminals are now awaiting trial. What a harvest is in store for the handwriting, chemical, psychological and other experts.

On the surface, at least, the factional disturbances in the Republican party are calming down. No end of pressure is being brought to bear to secure harmony before election time.

Now people are wondering what the Republicans of Somerset are going to do at their county convention next week.

PERSONAL.

Miss Florence Layton, of South avenue, is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. Edward Shearer, of West Front street, has returned from a visit with relatives at Westfield.

Miss Edith Wilbee, of West Fourth street, has gone to Tarrytown, N. Y., to spend two weeks with friends.

The Misses Mary and Florence Hunt, of Los Angeles, Cal., are visiting the Misses Marsh, of Madison avenue.

W. H. B. Drake, of Orchard place, is recovering from an illness which has kept him home for the past week.

Miss Mabel Murray, of Watchung avenue, has returned home from Madison, where she has been visiting relatives.

Miss Grace McCartney, of South Amboy, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Dixon, of West Fifth street.

Junius Flippin, of Park avenue, left yesterday for the Lynchburg, Va., seminary, where he will commence a four year's course.

Need of Better Drainage.

The need of a better and larger system of surface drainage on West Front street, opposite Washington avenue, has been evidenced of late. Nearly every one of the recent rains has caused an overflow of the sidewalk on one side of the street, and it makes walking not only disagreeable, but oftentimes impossible on that side. The sidewalk is altogether too low and the catch basin is too small to properly carry the water off.

Visiting in Plainfield.

Miss Hazel Cowperthwait, a leading belle in Philadelphia's smart set, is spending a few days with friends in this city in company with her fiance, Horace Jewett Biddle, also of the Quaker City. Miss Cowperthwait is connected with several of Pennsylvania's oldest families. Her mother was formerly Miss Eleanor Drexel.

Relief Association Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Relief Association will be held tomorrow morning, at the rooms on West Front street, at 11 o'clock.

P. L. Conde Back.

P. Ludwig Conde, the well-known violinist, will resume classes Saturday at the Park avenue studio in the Codington building.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The much adjourned automobile case of the Township against Herman Unger, of Newark, which was to have been heard in Judge Clark's court, yesterday, gives promiess of becoming one of the most famous cases in the local history as Mr. Unger has carried the case to the Supreme Court to test the constitutionality of the ordinance. As the decision from the higher court will be of vital interest to all auto riders in the State, the case will no doubt be watched with great interest. In the meantime the special officers will keep right on enforcing the ordinance regulating the speed to eight miles an hour.

The benefit ball game for Mrs. Frentz on Saturday afternoon will be called promptly at 3:30. Flynn, of the Brightons of Brooklyn, will be seen on second base in place of Baldwin who is still unable to play on account of his injuries received at the Campbell Press Company Works several weeks ago.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Percy Cannon, the blind boy, is an expert chair caner and any work left at Woodhull & Martin's carpet department wlil receive prompt attention. He will appreciate any favors given.

Scientists declare that pure confection is wholesome. If this be true there is no trouble about getting the pure kind. Campbell, of West Front street, sells confection made from the absolutely pure materials.

J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue market man, never has to make any apologies for his meats. He sells nothing but the best obtainable and charges an honest price. It would pay you to deal with him.

Don't left anybody tell you that Foss & Jeter haven't one of the largest seafood displays in the county. They have, and what's more they receive it fresh every day. The firm delivers all orders promptly, particularly those wanted for breakfast.

R. W. Barnes, 217 Park avenue, has an entirely new stock of syrups and high class canned goods on hand. He also has a good line of fruits and vegetables. Anyone desiring the best of everything along these lines would do well to give Mr. Barnes a call.

The question of the use of milk in the home is an important one and vitally concerns every member of the family. The milk sold by William Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, is the right kind to use for it is produced under strict sanitary principles.

Women desiring tailoring done are always more than pleased when they consult S. Kirsch, manager of the New York Ladies' Tailoring Company, 432 Watchung avenue. He now has a full line of imported models and if he can't please you no tailor in Plainfield can.

The recent spell of equinoctial storms has left many Plainfielders in the throes of annoying colds in the head. They needn't have them more than one night if the stop in at Nagle's drug store and purchase the remedy he has for that especial purpose. It is guaranteed to leave the head as clear as a bell in a remarkably short time.

It shows a great deal of enterprise when New York florists cater to Plainfield people. Yet this is what Wm. H. Brower's Sons are doing. Orders for all manner of flowers and plants may be left at the residence of John L. Brower, 127 East Fifth street, and customers, even without seeing the goods, will be amply satisfied with having Mr. Brower make the selection for them.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—It always pays to buy good butter. Thats why Rockdale print and creamery butter is used so much. Neuman Brothers sell it.

—Representatives of the telephone company are in Plainfield seeking new business. They report the installation of a number of new telephones.

—All bills against the city must be in the hands of the city clerk by tonight to insure payment at the next regular meeting of the Council.

—Geo. D. Small, who has been employed at the Pond Tool Works for the past year, will leave tomorrow fer Steelton, where he has accepted a position.

—Frank Dencklau, who has been at Asbury Park all summer. has returned home and taken a position with E. S. F. Randolph, corner of Watchung and North avenues.

—Raymond Cohen, who for some time past has been chief night operator at the local telephone office, is now assigned to day duty in another branch of the business. The night operators are Harold Cook and Edward Clarkson.

Fell From Trolley Car.

Miss Emma Ortleb, of Westfield, who is employed at the local telephone exchange, received painful hurts, Tuesday evening, as she was alighting from a trolley car in front of her home. The conveyance started while she was on the step and caused her to lose her balance. She was assisted home, where she has since been confined.

Postponed Indefinitely.

The entertainment planned by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church has been postponed indefinitely. There will be a business meeting of the society, this evening, at the home of Miss Florence Hawkins, when new officers will be elected. The new social committee will probably arrange later for an entertainment.

Dinner by Operators.

The telegraph operators along the line of the New Jersey Central will give a dinner, this evening at the Hotel Kensington, to their superintendent.

COLER AND BULGER

Slate as Already Announced Adopted at Saratoga.

DEVERY AND HIS MEN SHUT OUT.

Action of Credentials Committee Causes Bitterness—Straus Not Allowed to Voice His Opposition to Nominee For Governor.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 2.—A convention so strenuous in its closing hours as to bring almost personal conflict and yet closing in such perfect harmony as to allow the completion of the state ticket with less than a hundred delegates out of 450 in the hall was the result of the closing day of the Democratic state convention. It began in the early morning with a prepared slate of candidates. The slate was not broken in any particular, but the right of objection to it was given to all the delegates except when in the case of one New York delegate it was believed to be an infringement of the rules under which the convention was acting.

Naturally a great deal of the interest in the convention centered in the attitude it would take toward the seating of William S. Devery, former head of the police department of New York, who held a regular certificate of election from the Ninth New York district. It was not an unexpected event that the convention decided to unseat him, and it was not also unexpected that he and his followers, who were given ample room in the convention to make themselves conspicuous, were vociferous in their objections.

Mr. Devery's attitude and that of his friends was picturesquely objectionable. So thoroughly had he made up his mind that the convention would have none of him that he did not attend the meeting of the committee on credentials, but spent the earlier hours of the morning in the rear of the convention hall announcing his attitude. When the convention decided to adopt the report of the committee by the preponderating vote of 422 to 21, then Mr. Devery walked out of the convention after being allowed to declare himself a good Democrat and proceeded to hold a mass meeting on the steps of the United States hotel. He was assisted in this by James Graham of the Longshoremen's association of New York and Richard Butler of the United Bridge Workers of New York. Mr. Graham took occasion to say: "Labor has been overridden and insulted by different sets until they have risen up in arms against them. When they nominated Mr. Devery, they placed their hearts and souls, their everything, the dignity of their homes, in it, and yet by the work of this convention they have no representation whatever."

Mr. Butler said: "Hill and those others with him have put themselves up against it in a terrible style. Their styles will not be forgotten for many years to come."

Then Mr. Devery started for home and threatened all sorts of disasters for the ticket, but halted long enough in his denunciations of the leaders to assert that he was a good Democrat.

Perhaps the most dramatic situation during the long hours of the convention was the refusal to hear the opposition that developed to Mr. Coler from the Third district of Kings and from New York city. Moses Wafer of Kings and one other delegate attempted to make speeches in opposition, but the objections of various delegates and the attitude of the chair in ruling them out of order at that time forbade them continuing. But when Mr. Coler's name had been placed in nomination and the nominations closed Mr. Nathan Straus of New York arose and offered objections to Mr. Coler. He was allowed to go to the platform to present them, and he requested in an eminently fair manner the privilege of talking. He had hardly begun, however, to state his objections when he was roundly hissed and finally, upon motion of Delegate Milne, was ruled out of order. He started to leave the platform, putting the notes from which he was reading in his pocket, and when he had reached the steps leading to the auditorium he was surrounded by a number of newspaper men, who desired a copy of his remarks. He was attempting to determine who to give them to when a number of Tammany delegates surrounded him and, pressing him against the wall, took the notes from him and tore them up. Luckily he had preserved a copy in his pocket, and this copy he managed finally, after recovering his hat and glasses, to hand to the newspaper men.

The Straus incident ended objections to the ticket, and the rest of it was nominated without any question or objection whatever in a perfunctory manner.

The platform is looked upon by the delegates present as perhaps rather verbose, but as a whole one of the best documents of its kind that has been formulated in years. It touches almost every issue, national or state, that has been before the public for the last five or six years. It is strong in its denunciation of trusts and its advocacy of canals, in its denunciation of extravagance in state affairs and its pity for what is said to be the oppression of the insane and the poor by the interference of politics in the state management. To the surprise of even the most ardent Democrats it declares for the election of United States senators by the people and goes a step toward municipal ownership by advocating the public ownership and confiscation of the anthracite coal mines.

The following is the ticket named at the convention: For governor, Bird S. Coler of Kings; lieutenant governor, Charles N. Bulger of Oswego; secretary of state, Frank Mott of Chautauqua; comptroller, Charles M. Preston of Ulster; attorney general, John Cunneen of Erie; state engineer and surveyor, Richard W. Sherman of Oneida; state treasurer, George R. Finch of Warren; associate judge of the court of appeals, John C. Gray of New York.

Tammany Train Has Mishap.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—One of the sections of the Tammany special, returning from Saratoga, broke in two at Fishkill Landing, causing a delay of an hour. The train was finally moved, but several cars were left behind.

M'CULLOUGH GOVERNOR.

The Vermont Legislature Decides the Long Contest In That State.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 2.—A summer of political strife over the question of a new governor for the Green Mountain State has been brought to an end by the assembling of the legislature. General John G. McCullough, Republican, of Bennington is the choice. In this election there was a reversal of the situation which developed at the polls when the people registered their choice for governor. Then General McCullough failed to receive a majority of votes, although receiving the largest number of popular votes cast.

Now, however, he received his majority, having the support of 164 members of the convention. Percival W. Clement, the high license local option candidate, received 59 votes and Felix W. McGettrick, the Democratic candidate, 45. Z. S. Stanton, Republican, of Roxbury was elected lieutenant governor, the vote standing: Stanton, 181; Agan (local option), 35; May (Dem.), 37.

The choice of General McCullough for governor came as the climax to a day of excitement and great enthusiasm.

Ship Combine Incorporated.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 2.—The ship combine has been incorporated here by the filing of papers amending the certificate of incorporation of the International Navigation company which was filed in June, 1893, with an authorized capital of $15,000,000. The amended certificate filed changes the name to that of the International Mercantile company, with an authorized capital of $120,000,000, of which one-half is to be preferred stock, with 6 per cent cumulative dividend. The company is also authorized to issue $75,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds. The papers are signed by Clement A. Griscom of Philadelphia as president and Emerson Parvin as secretary.

Government Was Too Generous.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A day's reflection appears to have convinced many people that the government has treated the Cunard Steamship company too generously, and considerable objection is crystallizing around the question as to whether the government has not acted overhastily in thus departing from its traditional policy with regard to subsidies. The strongest objection is made to providing money with which to build new steamers. It is argued that so doing will form a difficult precedent, as other shipping companies are certain to demand similar privileges, which it will be hard to refuse.

Rhode Island Nominations.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 2.—The Democrats made memorable their state convention here by a harmonious display of enthusiasm not equaled in ten years, the potent factor at issue being the contest for the gubernatorial nomination, which was won by Dr. L. F. C. Garvin of Cumberland over Mayor J. J. Fitzgerald of Pawtucket. Dr. Garvin's majority was 18 votes. The rest of the state ticket is as follows: Lieutenant governor, Adelard Archambault of Woonsocket; secretary of state, Frank E. Fitzsimmons of Lincoln; attorney general, Denis J. Holland of Providence; general treasurer, Clark Potter of North Kingstown.

All One Way In Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 2.—The election for governor and statehouse officials held throughout this state passed off quietly, no organized opposition having been made against the Democratic ticket, which was elected in full as follows: Governor, Joseph M. Terrell; secretary of state, Phillip Cook; comptroller general, William A. Wright; attorney general, John C. Hart; treasurer, Robert E. Park; commissioner of agriculture, O. B. Stevens. The vote cast throughout the state was light as compared with the ballots of previous years.

Government Balance Sheet.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The monthly comparative statement of government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of September, 1902, the total receipts were $48,580,381, an increase of over $4,000,000 as compared with September, 1901. The expenditures for September were $37,554,798, leaving a surplus for the month of $11,000,000.

Postoffice Robbed.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The postoffice at Hancock, N. Y., has been robbed, and the burglars secured $1,000 worth of stamps and $200 in cash. The burglars blew open the safe with nitroglycerin, using fifteen horse blankets to deaden the report. The discovery was not made until the postmaster opened the office in the morning. There is no clew.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The blockade of Gonaives has caused a salt famine in Haiti.

New Guinea head hunters massacred villagers, and bitter fighting followed.

The divorce decree obtained by Lord Francis Hope against May Yohe was made absolute.

Clarence Thurston, son of former Senator Thurston of Nebraska, attempted suicide in St. Louis.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 5, "Resume of Progress of Methodist Missions"—Text, Ps. cxv, 1-3.

The more fully we know the work of our church in missions the more cause shall we see for gratitude to God for the success achieved and the increase of effort on our part for greater accomplishment in the future.

The report of the missionary society can be had by writing to the secretaries at New York. This will give very clearly and fully the changes taking place in all our fields. It will show the money expended in each and the work done and doing.

The missionary library selected specially for league use should be owned, if possible, by the chapter and meetings arranged at which various phases of the work can be given by different members in papers, select readings, conversations and lectures. Home-made outline maps and blackboard sketches will add interest and make more vivid the facts presented. It is well to have the history of the missionary movement in our church given, showing how the work began, and then follow its progress in the different lands where our workers now labor. Our domestic missions in the home land are of great importance and should not be forgotten. We have work among the Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese, French, Italians, Swedes, Norwegians and several other nationalities in the United States. Our German work is specially strong, and its publications are very ably conducted.

An evening can well be devoted to Mexico and another to South America. The work in Porto Rico, under charge of Dr. C. E. Drees, opens finely and should be kept in mind.

Bishop Hartzell is abroad in Africa, and in Liberia, Angola and Rhodesia is developing new strength in our missions. India is vast and has a mighty native church, with schools, hospitals, orphanages and the finest equipment of any of our missions. From Bombay to the Himalayas the great empire is feeling the touch of an awakening life. In Burma and far down the strait of Malacca, Rangun, Singapore and far Borneo all have Methodist churches and schools, of whose progress and popularity we need to take note.

China and Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii, and Europe from Italy to Scandinavia, have fascinating stories for us in these days. The romance has not passed from earthly affairs yet. To find it one has only to know our mission enterprises. Stories of devotion and daring from native and foreigner come to us from many lands. If you would have your heart thrill and gain a thorough love for God and man, do not neglect to note the advance in our mission work. Keep in touch with the upward march of God's hosts. Know what our own church is doing among heathen far off and near at hand. Then with an enthusiasm born of intelligence and pure devotion give cash and prayer and all effort to the extension of the kingdom of God.

Knowing and Doing.

The Holy Spirit is the spirit of power. To know is one thing and to be able to do is another. Mere knowing without the ability to do were an idle mockery. The spirit of knowledge is also the spirit of vital power. He gives Himself to us to dwell in us that we may live and yet our life be His, so saturating our own that when we live it is in reality Christ living in us by His spirit. This blessed fact alone makes the attainment of character a possibility. Moral impotence is the chief characteristic of the natural man and moral power that of the spirit filled man. The ability to do is present in the ability to know, and knowing and doing make possible the attainment of the fullness of the stature of Christ. But this spirit of power not only reflects our personal being, but fills with vitality our individual doing. The effort for others is filled with this selfsame power. It vitalizes thought, it fans aspiration and makes a word spoken a power, quickening whatsoever it touches, for everything lives whithersoever the spirit of power goes. —Episcopal Record.

Apathy.

Whatever may be the precise import of that sentence, "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force," it is very evident therefrom that nothing really religious is to be gained by apathy, but only by the vigorous exertion of all our powers; not by waiting, but by assault; not by expecting God to do everything for us, but by prompt, continuously and fully doing our part; not always by carrying on a war of defense, but by assuming the offensive whenever required; not by lazily encamping for a long siege, but by advancing on the enemy.—Christian Statesman.

Prejudice.

Prejudice never reasons, but moves and sways the mind and action from some instinctive or sudden or biased impulse. It has its seat in ignorance, weakness or idleness. It is a blindness of perception and relation which leads to personal and public injury. It acts as a hindrance to truth, knowledge and to progress. It is a neutralizing force that resists and modifies the most cogent argument, the most powerful discourses, the most moving appeals and the most stirring considerations.—Friend.

An Even Temper.

He who walks through life with an even temper and a gentle patience, patient with himself, patient with others, patient with difficulties and crosses, has an everyday greatness beyond that which is won in battles or chanted in cathedrals.—Dr. Dewey.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"It isn't yours," said I. "It belongs to my young woman boarder, Miss Dacres."

"Does it?" said Mr. Beldon, clapping his hand to his pocket. "Where, then, can I have left mine? Does that young woman penetrate even to the temple of the Lord? Is nothing sacred from her, not even this holy edifice?"

I did not like his tone, and Elder Wynne looked at him as if it jarred upon him.

"Young man," he said, in his quavering voice, "when you come to my age you will not speak slightingly of a pile like this, or of its Master."

"I don't call that slightingly, sir," said Mr. Beldon, respectfully. "I really am surprised at that young woman. I meet her everywhere on the road. She pries into everything, but she seems no more willing to make my acquaintance than I am to make hers. I wonder if she was here lately."

Elder Wynne began to cough.

"The church is damp," I said. "Oh, dear! How reproached I shall be if you have taken more cold. Do come out into the sunshine."

"The church is not really cold," said Mr. Beldon. "Let me see if I cannot open the blind without waiting for Maltby. It would be a pity, after you have come so far, not to——"

It came over me just then that he had declared that the church held nothing of interest.

"No! no;" said Dr. Wynne, hurrying towards the door much faster than I had thought possible he could, "I cannot stay here longer. I must get out, out into the air."

His tone frightened me, and I hurried after him. I never saw him show such vigor. He was standing on the church step when I came through the door, and was shading his eyes with his hand and looking down the road. My eyes followed his. "Who is that?" He indicated a flying figure silhouetted against the setting sun

"That?" said I. "That? Why, it looks very much like my other boarder, Miss Dacres." Mr. Beldon looked after the diminishing figure. "I believe you are right," said he. "That is Miss Dacres. I wonder where she came from?"

When we reached home I found Miss Dacres sitting on the piazza.

"Where have you been?" she said. "I am starving. I have been home for hours."

"Not quite hours," said I, "if that was you we saw spinning along Overly Lane."

"Well, that may be an exaggeration; but what made you think I was in Overly Lane?"

"I saw you. We all saw you. Mr. Beldon said it was you."

"Was he with you?" she asked.

"No, we met him in church, the Swedes' church."

At this she began to laugh. "Oh, that Swedes' church!" she said, "that Swedes' church!"

"Here is something that I found there, something of yours."

"Not mine!"

"Oh, yes, yours. Glorianna has ironed it too often for me not to know it."

She held out her hand and took the handkerchief. "So it is," said she. "Where do you say you found it?"

"In the Swedes' church—on the seat of one of the pews."

Elder Wynne was seated in a chair near by. He had taken up the evening paper, which concealed his face, and was looking apparently at the first page, but he did not turn it, nor make the rustling that newspaper readers usually do.

"Come into my room," said Miss Dacres suddenly, "I want to tell you something."

I entered the hall, then her room. When we were inside she closed the window which was open to the piazza and the door into the hall.

"Now I'm going to make a clean breast of it," said she. "I was in the Swedes' church, and this is my handkerchief. Now you sit there, and let me sit here; or wait, no, let me get down here." To my great surprise, Miss Dacres placed me in a rocking-chair and seated herself on a little stool at my feet. "There! we're all comfortable so. Now let me rise to explain. I did go into the Swedes' church." She laid her head against my knee confidingly. She looked up into my face with those lovely eyes. Why had I never seen before how lovely they were? "I was out on my wheel this afternoon, when I came across that queer old church. I had never seen it before. I jumped off and went up to the door. To my surprise, I found it open a crack, and I went in. The inside was so dark that at first I could hardly feel my way, but I went down the middle aisle and stood by that queer old tomb. It gave me a sort of shivery feeling, and I was glad to hear voices overhead. They were a man's voice and a child's. Their owners were coming down from the belfry, I thought, for they seemed to be in the front of the church. I was foolish not to run right out of the building. I had plenty of time, but I got dazed. I thought they would be going in a moment, and that I could hide until they were gone. And how foolish that would have been! Just think, if I had stayed there, and been locked up alone!" Miss Dacres gave a little shudder, and laid her head in the folds of my gown. Unconsciously, almost, I smoothed her boyish, yellow hair, and in my heart I was crying out, "Have I found you, little Amaranthe?

"Well, when you——"

"Well, I crouched down behind the front pew and waited. To my horror, that Mr.—Mr.——"

"Beldon?" I supplied.

"Yes, Beldon—Mr. Beldon—came in from the vestibule and down that central aisle, and as he was coming the door opened again, and you came in with that tiresome old Dr. Wynne."

"My dear," said I, excusing her in my heart, because she was so like my little Amaranthe—"my dear, don't speak so. He is a dear old gentleman. Highly recommended by President Smith, of the Galtersville college."

"Well, if he bored me with the Lost Tribes as he bores you, I'd get rid of him mighty sud—I mean as soon as possible. But to go on, where was I? Oh, yes, I crouched down behind the front pew and that man, Beldon, I think, you said, came down the aisle. Then you came in and I heard you all talking. I then felt sure from the sound of your voices that you were coming along to the chancel, so I simply crawled round the corner, up the side aisle, and while you were still talking with the officious man in the back room I was out of the door and off. Johnny opened the door for himself, so that I could get out without it being very apparent."

"I don't see why you hid," said I.

"Why, from Mr. Beldon. I told you I was averse to meeting him. I don't like his looks at all. I won't know him—simply won't! I never saw many old churches," continued Miss Dacres, musingly. "Out in India they are mostly temples, and such things, but——"

"So you have been in India," I said. "You have traveled a great deal for so young a——"

"Did I say India, really? How careless I am. I didn't mean to tell you now. Perhaps I will sometime, all about it. In our Wisconsin home we hadn't, of course, any old churches, and after mother died father took me abroad with him."

"When you came here you said that your mother was in town—in the city, I mean—and that your brother brought out your slippers."

"Yes, you dear old thing," said she, stroking my knees with her thin brown hand, "I know I did. I was so afraid that you would turn me adrift, and I had really nowhere to go. I said I was married, too, at least I spoke of my little chap at school! No such good luck for me. Can you forgive me?"

"Poor child!" As I spoke a tear dropped from my eye upon her yellow curls.

Lungs of the Tree.

The leaves of the trees; how very few of the deciduous fruit growers understand or appreciate the true value and vital functions of the foliage of their fruit trees, or if they do, how superbly indifferent they are to the ravages of the different fungous pests that destroy them. The quality of this year's crop of fruit and the quantity and quality of fruit and leaf buds for next year depend upon the ability of the leaves to elaborate the crude material sent up by the root system, and furthermore without leaf action there can be no root action; the leaves are to the tree what the lungs and the blood are to us, and if we desire the greatest and most complete development of root, branch and fruit we must religiously preserve the foliage.—Los Angeles Times.

Butterflies and Birds.

Of all the "children of the air" that gladden a June day, the monarch butterfly is one of the most noticeable. Its wings shimmer like gold alloyed with the copper as it pursues its lazy flight in the sunshine. The male monarch is a true dandy and carries on each hind wing a black sachet bag containing a strong perfume, most attractive to the other sex. The monarch is immune from bird enemies; the callow birdling that takes a bite from it wipes his beak in disgust and forever after connects the noisome taste with orange wings. A too hasty conclusion of which the Viceroy butterflies takes advantage, and, by donning the monarch's uniform, escapes scathless, although any bird might find it a beaksome morsel.—Country Life in America.

Litigous John Bull.

As a race the English people must be very litigious, for judicial figures given out in a recent parliamentary return show that on the average, in 1900, one person in every 25 in England and Wales went to law during the course of the year. These are, of course, average figures, based on the fact that there were 1,310,680 civil cases begun during that year. The London Express in explaining these figures declares that "the cantakerously litigious person and the tradesman who is unfortunate in the number of customers who will not pay their debts bring up the average."—Law Journal.

It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be continually changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kindey trouble but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 5—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—A searching question.—John xxi. 15-25.

There are a number of very interesting scenes in this twenty-first chapter of the gospel of John. The most important of these is the conversation of Christ with Simon Peter concerning His love for him, His evident forgiveness of his denial and His recommission of Peter as one of the apostles. The closing scene is very touching indeed. Christ prophesies the death of Peter as a martyr. The apostle then asks Him concerning John, to which Jesus replies: "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou Me." Christ did not mean to say that it was His will that John should live until His second coming; He simply meant in this way to emphasize to Simon Peter the important fact that the great concern to him should be his personal relation to the Master and not the future destiny of some one else. This is undoubtedly the great lesson of the searching question of the topic, which is, "What is that to thee?" Christ followed this question with the command, "Follow thou Me!" And this command is the matter of supreme importance to all His disciples.

Individual and personal responsibility to God and to Jesus Christ is constantly emphasized in the word of God. It is plainly set forth that God is not to deal with men in the mass, but as individuals. This makes our relation to God a very important question. When Daniel Webster was asked, "What is the most important question that ever occupied your mind?" he replied, "My individual responsibility to God." If Christ laid such emphasis on this subject, and if the greatest American orator considered it of the supremest importance, it is certainly worth while for us to consider our personal and individual responsibility to God in Christ absolutely regardless of the relation or responsibility of others to Him. Too many people make the mistake of losing sight of their own responsibility to God, unnecessarily considering the responsibility and relations of others to God. Libanius, the Greek philosopher, might have been converted to Christianity had it not been for the inconsistency of professing Christians. Yet it is easily recognized that he was in no way responsible for them, and the one question that he should have considered was his personal and individual relation to Christ. What was that to him? He should have followed Christ.

1. The salvation of the soul is a personal matter between Christ and the individual. It is absolutely impossible for one person to be saved through or by another person. The wise virgins could not give of their oil to the foolish ones who had neglected to obtain it. The responsibility was upon them, and no one else could make up for them what they had neglected. Each one must be saved or lost upon his own responsibility.

2. Christian work is an individual matter. Christ taught that there was "to every man his work." No one can do the work of another any more than he can fulfill the requirements of the plan of salvation for another. There is a work for each one of us to do, and we will be held personally responsible for the accomplishment of it or the failure to do it.

3. The judgment of the future is also an individual matter. It is divinely taught that each one must render an account of himself unto God. We will not be called upon to account for others, and no more will it be possible for us to carry the responsibility which rests upon ourselves.

These things being true, the full importance of Christ's question and His command in connection with it should impress itself upon our minds. Instead of being unduly interested in the relation of others to Christ and in their future destiny we should above all things else consider how to meet the requirements and obligations that devolve upon us personally, and this can be done only by personally accepting Christ and by faithfully following Him.

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. iv, 18-20; xxv, 14-30; Mark ii, 14; Acts xvi, 25-31; Rom. ii, 1-6; xiv, 12, 13; Gal. vi, 1-5; I Pet., 1-5; Rev. ii, 10; xxii, 12.

Expecting Disaster.

Many Christians are continually living in an atmosphere of dread. They expect disaster. Every occurrence of their lives is scanned with a fearful eye. Their thought seems to be: "I wonder what trouble is in store for me now?" Somehow they forget the promise, "All things work together for good." If they see in their sky a cloud the size of a man's hand, they never dream of looking for the silver lining, but straightway hide themselves. While they are hidden the silver lining appears, but they are not looking, and the heavens remain dark for them. Their opportunity is gone. They reap only sorrow, while their neighbors, more hopeful, are rejoicing in trust in God and experience of His love. It does not pay to expect disaster.—Episcopal Recorder.

Patience.

Patience is a virtue for which there is no substitute. There is often no other way out of a difficulty than the way of patience. But this really is a most gracious way when the sufferer finds it. Nor is it a way which any one need be ashamed to take, for our Lord recommends it—"In your patience ye shall win your souls." He knows that there is often nothing left to us but this one thing, patience. We must use it. We must win our souls, our very lives, by it.—Presbyterian Journal.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

John Enright, of the Safe Works team, who won the prize for base stealing in League games, was closely followed by Bert Moore, of the Y. M. C. A. By many it was thought all along that Moore would win out. The prize is a handsome suit case presented by Harry Dreier.

Negotiations are now pending between Manager Cose and Manager Johnson, of the Hope and Scotch Plains team, for a players' benefit game, a week from Saturday. The final terms will be agreed upon this week and the contest will take place on the Hope grounds.

Franklin, the right fielder of the Safe Works team, has secured the highest batting average of any of the shop players, received a handsome prize from H. D. Hibbard, one of the firm. It consisted of a valuable set of mechanical books, a gift which young men employed in machine shops know how to appreciate.

A glance at the batting averages of the League teams as printed in yesterday's Daily Press, helps explain why the Y. M. C. A. team stood at the top at the close of the season. In the list of twenty players securing the highest number of points, ten of them, or fifty per cent., were members of the Y. M. C. A. nine. As batting is the most important factor in winning games, it can be seen where the victors had the advantage.

Montross will again be in the box for the Consolidated team. He is just in the proper form and will finish out the series. Montross has an original curve that spreads consternation among the Westfielders. It appears to be heading straight for the batsman and, then as he jumps back, it swerves directly over the plate. He worked it twice in succession on one man, Saturday, and it was so perceptible to the grandstand, the batter came in for a great deal of good-natured chaffing.

TENNIS.

Judging the entries thus far received for the tennis on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts next Saturday, there will be a revival of interest in the popular game for that day. The tournaments are open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield and a great many players have decided to enter.

Saturday, in connection with the annual fall reception of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, a tennis tournament will be held, open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield. A cup will be offered for men's singles, without handicaps. All the tennis players of the city and the borough are invited to enter, and the club will be especially gratified to receive a large list of entries from unattached players and the members of other clubs. Play will commence at 9:30 o'clock in the mornig. It is expected that matches in the early rounds will be played in the morning where practicable, but matches will be held open until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon for such players as are unable to be present until that time. Entries should be made to T. M. Day, Jr., 425 Carlton avenue, prior to 6 o'clock Friday evening. No entrance fee is required.

GOLF.

The finals in the putting and approaching contest for the Schoonmaker cups and the Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes, will be played Saturday, October 11, on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course.

The first match play round in the woman's championship of the United States Golf Association, at the Brookline Country Club yesterday, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of this city, was again victorious, defeating Miss Ruth Milne, of Albany, by 4 up and 3 to play. She played a steady game throughout and finished in good style.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Provided the weather is favorable and the track in good condition, the matinee races will be held at the Plainfield Driving Club track Saturday. The entries have been published on two occasions.

Preparing for Fair.

A preparatory meeting of the committee to have charge of the proposed St. Mary's fair, was held in the church rectory, last evening. No further plans were consummated beyond those already announced. The fair will be held during the week beginning October 21 in Stafford Hall, formerly the Lyceum.

To Close Baby Camp.

The executive committee of the City Union, King's Daughters, met this morning at the Y. M. C. A. It was decided to close up the baby camp for the season, and a vote of thanks was given to the local papers for the assistance given during the past season, also for the assistance given by other friends.

Local Physicians Met.

The quarterly meeting of the Plainfield Medical Society was held last evening at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Dr. J. T. Fritts read an interesting paper on "Incidents Connected With Trolley Accidents."

Dinner Dance.

Society will no doubt be well represented at the dinner-dance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday night. Steward Lord, of the club should be informed by Friday noon by those desiring tables reserved.

New Fire Apparatus.

The new combination chemical and hose truck, purchased by the city for use in the West End house, has not yet arrived. It was shipped from Baltimore two days ago and is expected any moment.

Red Men's Anniversary.

The anniversary exercises of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, Improved Order Red Men, will be held this evening in the rooms on Park avenue.

Jewish New Year.

Today being the Jewish New Year all of the local stores kept by adherents of that faith are closed. They will reopen their stores tomorrow.

—There will be a business meeting of the W. C. T. U. this afternoon in the rooms on Madison avenue.

—Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet Friday evening. Two members will be initiated.

Mrs. E. S. Weaver, of South avenue, is slowly recovering from a severe cold.

WELL PLEASED.

Postal Inspectors Visited the Plainfield Postoffice This Morning and Found All Well.

The local postoffice received its regular visitation, this morning, from Inspector J. T. Cortelyou and W. J. Mehary, of the inspection department. After delving into the methods and system in vogue at the office, the officers had nothing but words of praise for Postmaster Bird and his assistants. For quickness of delivery and smoothness of running, both declared the office stood as high as any in the country.

In commending Postmaster Bird, Inspector Cortelyou, who is a brother of the secretary to President Roosevelt, stated that his department was surprised at the quickness with which the office was placed to rights after the Babcock fire. Inspectors who were detailed here immediately after the conflagration, reported the office would not be running shape for weeks but as Plainfielders know, they were wrong in their surmises. There was barely the slightest interruption in the service, despite two movings.

IN HONOR OF GUEST.

Dance at Park Avenue Hotel in Honor of Miss Woodward.

A delightful dance was given at the Park Avenue Hotel last evening by the management in honor of Miss Estelle Woodward, who with her parents, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Woodward, have come to Plainfield from New Orleans to spend the winter at the hotel. The affair was one of the most pleasant of the fall season. Miss Woodward is a charming young woman, who has already made a host of friends during her short stay in this city.

There were thirty couples present at the dance, music being furnished by Wchweinfest's orchestra, of Newark. A very attractive programme of dances was presented. At 10 o'clock the dining room doors were thrown open and the guests enjoyed refreshments served by the management. The dancing then continued until nearly midnight.

FILLING UP.

Many New Guests Gathering at the Park Avenue Hotel.

The Park Avenue Hotel bids fair to enjoy a season of great prosperity. Already that popular house is filled with guests for the winter. Among the recent arrivals for the coming months are Mrs. J. M. VanBuren, L. H. VanBuren and Ernest Walz, of this city; Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Tubbs, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Woodward and Miss Estelle Woodward, of California; Mr. and Mrs. Cammann, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cruikshank, Miss Helen Cruikshank, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Rappalye, Miss Rappalye, of Jersey City. Mr. Rappalye is connected with a newspaper in Jersey City.

To Wed Soon.

The marriage of Miss Rosalie Adams, of West Front street, and Samuel Beekman, also of this city, will be celebrated Wednesday, October 29.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

Duss, the Band Master, Has Completed a Remarkable Run.

Duss appeared at his farewell New York concert last week, having completed the longest run of any musical attraction in New York, at the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre, bidding dood-bye to his New York friends in a popular musical jubilee, and celebrating his one hundred and twenty-eighth consecutive concert. An attractive programme was given including the following soloists: Charlotte G. George, contralto; Percy Hemus, baritone; Earl J. Pfouts, violin; Bohumir Kryl, cornet. The regular numbers were: Tschaikowski's wonderful decsriptive Overture "1812," Rossini's ever popular "William Tell," Liszt's' "Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 2," Duss' "Battle of Manila in a Nutshell" and a special list of request pieces rendered as encores.

Duss and his seventy companion musicians will rest for three days and then tour the country for four weeks, visiting the principle cities of the United States and Canada. He appears at the Casino in this city, Thursday, October 23.

HAS NO FEAR.

Harry G. Runkle, President of Gas Company, Says That There Will be No Shortage in Gas Supply.

Harry G. Runkle, president of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, told a Press reporter this morning, that the people need have no apprehensions of a shortage in the gas supply. Coke was now being used with hard coal in the manufacture of gas and when the present supply was exhausted he had no fear but a new supply would be obtained.

He did not consider that there was the slightest danger of any shortage in that direction and that the people of Plainfield would certainly be kept supplied with gas under any circumstances.

DOUBLE EVENT.

Host and Hostess and Two of Guests Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank French, of Washington avenue, celebrated the seventeenth anniversary of their wedding last evening in a very pleasant manner. There were a few relatives and friends present to join in the festivities of the occasion, which included games, etc. During the evening refreshments were served. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Valentine, of Central avenue, and singular to relate it was their seventeenth wedding anniversary also. Both couples came in for a generous share of the congratulations.

NEW SIDEWALK.

Mr. Stillman is Going to Lay Much Needed Walk on Madison Ave.

William M. Stillman, owner of the vacant lot on the west side of Madison avenue, between West Front street and Green brook, intends laying a substantial stone sidewalk on the property at once. The traveling public will greatly appreciate this act of Mr. Stillman, as now that the sidewalk alongside of the Babcock building is closed during the rebuilding, pedestrians are compelled to walk in the street rather than walk on Mr. Stillman's dirt walk.

MADE A MISTAKE.

Somerville Citizen Started in to See the Town in Wrong Way.

Josiah Tunison, of Somerville, wandered into town, yesterday, to see the place but made a mistake in beginning with the saloons. Before he had gone half way around he didn't know whether he was in Plainfield or Kamschatka, so Patrolman Lunger took him in charge as he was rolling about West Front street. This morning he contributed $3 to the city treasury in preference to spending ten days at Elizabeth.

Nearly a Century Old.

Mrs. Sarah Cliffton, an aged member of the Society of Friends, left yesterday for her home in Gainsville, Ohio, after a year's visit with relatives here. She is the mother of Mrs. Charles Whitall, of East Fifth street, and Former Councilman C. B. Cliffton, of West Seventh street. Mrs. Cliffton is ninety-one years of age and is making the trip to Ohio unaccompanied. For a woman of her age she is remarkably well preserved, her mental faculties being extraordinary.

May Shut Down Trolley.

It is stated, on what seems to be good authority, that, after the first of next week, the trolley cars between Bound Brook and New Brunswick will cease to run for an indefinate period. The scarcity of coal is stated as being the cause of the shut-down. For some time this line has been running on half time, but one car an hour traveling over the road.

MR. MARTINE FOR SENATOR

Nominated at the Democratic County Convention at Elizabeth Yesterday.

MOFFETT FOR ASSEMBLY

Only Show of a Contest Was for the Shrievalty Nomination and Then Four Named Withdrew and Allowed C. H. Moore to be Nominated—All Rest Was Harmony.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Elizabeth, October 4—Amid the most enthusiastic cheering, the "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, of Plainfield, was unanimously nominated as candidate for State senator, yesterday afternoon, at the Union county Democratic convention held in the Lyceum Theatre, this city. This, too, despite the fact that Mr. Martine requested permission to withdraw his name entirely from before the convention.

The various nominees selected are as follows:

For senator, James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

For sheriff, Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth.

For surrogate, LeRoy A. Gibby, of Summit.

For assembly, Charles L. Moffett, of Plainfield; Carl Marz, of Elizabeth; George J. Reiss, of Roselle Park.

For coroner, Dr. George McCallion, of Elizabeth.

JAMES E. MARTINE.

While the convention was no "cut and dried" affair, the utmost unanimity prevailed and the entire proceedings passed off smoothly. The only complication was in the shrievalty contest when five nominations, all Elizabeth men, were made. Four of these backed out gracefully, however, before the ballot, leaving the field in Mr. Moore's hands.

The meeting was called to order in the Lyceum Theatre at 3 o'clock by James K. Crowell, of Rahway, who, in a short address, urged the delegates to make a good, clean slate. Peter Egenolf presented the name of Edward Nugent as temporary chairman and Mr. Nugent took the gavel amidst cheers. John Cosgrove was made temporary secretary. Mr. Nugent thanked the delegates for the honor conferred upon him and stated that he considered the party in prime condition to elect the whole county ticket and also to carry the Congressional aspirant, DeWitt C. Flanagan, to sure victory.

Mr. Cosgrove then read the call to convention after which the various committees were named. These consisted of: Permanent organization, Peter Egenolf, John Dunahue, Jno. F. Kenah and Wm. A. Gibby; resolutions, J. A. Kernan, S. J. Cox, Henry R. Cannon, Geo. Attlefinger and T. Foster Callahan; rules, Jno. T. Dunn, George A. Ford, David Egbert and Wm. A. Stanbery. The committee on credentials reported no contest and that on rules recommended the adoption of thsoe of the last Democratic convention.

A platform was then read. It was an able document, comparatively free from verbiage, and consisted of some severe arraignments against the Republican party. It was unanimously adopted and the convention then proceeded to the real business of the day.

FAREWELL DINNER.

Telegraph and Signal Men Gave a Dinner and Desk to C. P. Adams, Retiring Superintendent.

A farewell dinner was given at the Hotel Kensington last evening by the employes of the telegraph and signal department of the New Jersey Central to Superintendent of Telegraph C. P. Adams, of Fairview avenue. Mr. Adams has resigned his position to accept a similar one with the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

At the dinner last evening the employes presented Mr. Adams with a roll top desk and chair. The presentation was made by Fred W. Bender. C. H. Gaffeney was toastmaster and the committee in charge consisted of C. H. Gaffeney, Fred W. Bender, H. E. Berlin, W. H. Higgins, J. E. Robinson, J. H. Masker, H. A. Whitenight and I. C. Cubberly.

BRIGGS THE CHAMPION.

Won City High School Tennis Tournament in Singles Yesterday Defeating VanAuken.

Chester A. Briggs is tennis champion of the City High School in singles. Briggs won the right to this title by defeating Fred T. VanAuken in the finals yesterday afternoon after a hard fight on the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club. Briggs won 6-0, 8-6, 3-6, 8-6 and receives a silver cup. A prize will also be awarded to VanAuken.

This afternoon in the doubles C. C. Rocap and Chester A. Briggs will meet VanAuken and V. B. Miner and the winner of this match will play A. D. Beers and E. A. Brakeley in the finals.

HILLSIDE'S BIG DAY.

Annual Fall Reception of Hillside Club Will be Held Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will give its annual fall reception and the members of the Park Golf Club and Park Club have been invited to take part in the various outdoor events, as well as the dinner-dance in the evening. There will be golf and tennis events of interest and a large number of people are expceted to visit the club during the day. Stages will meet the trolley cars in the afternoon and evening.

Surprise for One of Them.

The Cork Social Club, a West End organization, tendered a surprise party to Joseph Clark, of Central avenue, Wednesday evening. There were vocal selections by James Muldowney, Joseph Clark, and Mrs. James Muldowney, of Wilmington, Del., a Punch and Judy show by Frank Clark and piano selections by Miss Mamie Clark.

An Able Leader.

Ettore Martini, leader of the Royal Marine Band, of Italy, is said to be a wonder at getting the best of music out of his men. He is a nervous man and leads, not only with his baton, but arouses enthusiasm among the musicians by even stamping upon the floor. He will have charge of the band at the Casino Tuesday.

No Races Saturday.

On account of the horse show at Fair Acres, Westfield, tomorrow, the matinee races scheduled by the Plainfield Driving Club have been postponed for one week. The club will attend the races at Westfield.

Burglar Scare.

The police were summoned by telephone to the home of Councilman James F. Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, late last evening, to investigate a burglar scare. They discovered nothing.

THIRD YEAR STARTED FOR WETUMPKAH TRIBE

Event Was Celebrated Last Night With An Informal Entertainment.

MANY FRIENDS PRESENT

SEVERAL GREAT CHIEFS WERE PRESENT AND SPOKE.

Red Men and Pale Faces Smoked Together, Enjoyed a Programme and Then Partook of An Abundance of Refreshments.

To properly celebrate the entrance upon its third year of existence as an organization, Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., played the part of host, last evening, to members and friends. Red men and pale faces smoked the pipe, or rather cigar of peace and enjoyed to the fullest extent a varied musical programme rendered. Afterward "corn" and "venison" was distributed in abundance and all partook heartily.

Dr. A. H. Dundon acted as master of ceremonies and the entertainment was rendered under his direction. It consisted of selections by the Imperial Quartette, composed of John Taylor, Willam Wilson, Oscar Green and Walter Brittin, piano selections by Marcus Hoyt, solos by George Hale, of Raritan, and popular baritone selections by the favorite John Moran. Two of Mr. Moran's songs, "Way Down Yonder In the Cornfield" and "A Little Boy in Blue" received tumultuous applause and he was recalled several times.

Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden, was present and gave an excellent address on Redmanship, referring to its strength, growth and purposes. Further remarks were made by Past Great Sachem William Newcorn, of Wetumpkah Tribe. In addition to the visiting braves from Miantonomo Tribe, of this city, there wree others from Raritan, Somerville and Bound Brook. The committee of arrangements which was in control consisted of John Clark, chairman, Robert Humphrey, William A. Westphal and Michael Armstrong.

Though organized but two years ago, Wetumpkah Tribe has grown from a charter membership of thirty-six to eighty. There is every prospect of its passing the hundred mark before many moons. So far it has had two representatives in the Great Council, William A. Westphal, who was chairman of the laws committee, and Deputy Great Sachem R. E. Humphrey. The tribe is one of the most influential in the State and is recognized everywhere as one composed of energetic members.

DIVORCE SUIT.

Mrs. A. W. Mack Will Immediately Start a Counter Suit.

Alexander W. Mack, of Somerville, through his counsel, James J. Bergen, has filed a petition in the Court of Chancery, asking for a divorce from his wife, Madeline C. Mack, daughter of A. A. Clark, of Somerville. Philip Kearny, of New York, and George B. Hoffman, of Bridgewater, are named as corespondents.

Mrs. Mack through her attorney, Richard V. Lindabury, will start a counter suit at once. She claims that she left her husband because of his infidelity and only refrained from instituting divorce proceedings on account of the children. She claims that he had urged her to return and pleaded for forgiveness but, on her refusal, started this suit.

Dr. Richards Released.

In accordance with the general rule governing such cases, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards has been released as pastor of the Crescent Avenue church. The committee, appointed to represent the church in the Presbytery, consists of John Leal, Charles Place and William H. Sampson. Dr. Richards enters upon his new duties as pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, within a short time.

Repairing Somerset Street.

Street Commissioner Gavett has been repairing Somerset street, between Front street and the bridge. Yesterday the steam roller was employed in rolling down the surface of crushed stone spread over the street.

To Make More Knights.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to be this evening, the first degree will be conferred upon three candidates. An extra good session of good and welfare will follow.

THE OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

ANNUAL MEETING OF PLAINFIELD RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

Was Held This Morning—The Treasurer's Report Showed a Balance of $76.49.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Relief Association was held this morning at 11 o'clock in the rooms of the Organized Association on West Front street. Officers for the coming year were chosen as follows: President, Mrs. J. K. Myers; vice president, Mrs. O. E. Ryder; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Lapsley; secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks.

The report of the treasurer and secretary were received and showed the association to be in good condition. Before the meeting adjourned the Board of Managers was elected for the coming year as follows:

Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. J. E. Tracey, Mrs. M. W. Tyler, Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. I. W. VanSickle, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, Mrs. H. M. Maxson, Mrs. E. T. Barrows, Mrs. Lawrence Meyers, Mrs. E. R. Ackerman, Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. J. M. Whiton, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. W. S. Hubbell and Mrs. G. P. Mellick.

The total receipts were shown to have been $2,381.65 and the disbursements $2,305.16, leaving a balance of $76.49.

ANOTHER TROLLEY PROJECT

LINE PLANNED NOW FROM RED BANK TO OCEANIC.

The Entire Right of Way Secured, Chiefly Through Private Property—May Continue It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Red Bank, Oct. 3—A new trolley road is to be built this fall or early in the winter between Red Bank and Oceanic. The entire right of way has been secured, and most of it is through private property. A strip of land fifty feet wide will be bought and converted into a public road. The trolley tracks are to be built in the middle of the highway, thus giving the property owners a frontage on the new street.

The new road will connect with the Monmouth County Electric Railroad at Red Bank at the corner of Broad and Wallace streets. It will run south of Red Bank after leaving Wallace street, and will run through Kemp, Covert, Owen, Heagland and Borden and Bliss lands at Fair Haven and Oceanic.

Captain Alfred Stoney, of Keyport, who has been associated with New York and Philadelphia capitalists, has been at the head of the enterprise, and he has had the aid of William Taber Parker, of Little Silver, in securing the right of way. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is also said to be interested in this new trolley scheme.

Next year it is intended to continue the road to Seabright. It will also be continued to Atlantic Highlands if the people of Middletown township show sufficient interest in the project.

The new trolley road is expected to result in a greatly increased business in Red Bank, and it will also afford a quick means of travel between Oceanic, Fair Haven and Red Bank.

Batting Trophy.

J. Hervey Doane has on exhibition the silver loving cup, offered by him and won by James Montross for the highest batting average in the City Baseball league. It is a three handle loving cup, silver, gold lined, suitably engraved. It stands six inches in height and four inches across the top.

Freshmen Organize.

At the close of school yesterday the freshmen class of the City High School was organized and the following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Harold E. Lavelle, president; Miss Carrie Mulford, vice president; Miss Antoinette Aalholm, secretary and treasurer.

Put Out Many Clocks.

The Plainfield Trust Company has up to the present time put out about 150 auxiliary clocks for saving funds. The success of this scheme is most gratifying.

Death of Child.

Elmer L., the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Winans, of South Plainfield, died yesterday. The funeral service will be private.

—There will be preparatory services at Warren chapel this evening and the observance of the Lord's Supper next Sunday morning.

SENATOR REED DID TENDER RESIGNATION

And It Was Laid on the Table Because They Didn't Want Change at Present.

AT COMMITTEE MEETING.

LEADERS DID NOT WANT A CHANGE JUST BEFORE THE CONVENTION.

Senator Reed Said in Offering It That He Had Been Misrepresented and Misquoted—Great Many Stories of It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 3—So many stories have been afloat as to what did really happen at the meeting of the Republican county committee in this place last week that a Daily Press representative has endeavored to get the true story of the matter. A prominent member of the committee gives this version of the affair, which, on investigation, seems to hold water.

Senator Charles A. Reed, chairman of the committee, and Newton B. Smalley, both of North Plainfield, offered their resignations. In doing so the Senator said he had been continually misrepresented and misquoted and he had taken the course he did in the annexation matter because he didn't see his way to take any other.

J. S. Frelinghuysen moved that the resignations be laid on the table until after the county convention. This motion was carried.

It seems that, although there were some who wished to see Senator Reed deposed, it was thought best not to acccept his resignation, which would cause so much confusion just before the convention. Hence the wiser and more staid counsels of the members prevailed and his resignation was tabled, thereby avoiding any friction on the eve of the convention. Had the resignation been accepted and an attempt made to elect a new chairman there would have doubtless been a big fight.

NORMAL CLASS.

First Baptist Sunday-School May Train Its Teachers in Special Class.

The regular meeting of the Sunday-school teachers of the First Baptist church was held last evening. The finance committee reported a good balance with all bills paid. The home department was reported to have a membership of 108. The advisability of establishing a normal class to prepare teachers was discussed and L. H. Biglow, Jr., G. A. Chapman and Miss Ida Yerkes were appointed a committee to take charge of the matter. L. H. Biglow, Jr., was appointed chairman of the Christmas committee.

Letter From Miss Mair's Co-worker.

At the monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon interesting reports were read and a letter of especial interest from Miss Arms, of Africa, a dear friend and co-worker of the late Miss Rachel Mair, was read. Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, was reappointed collector for the Union.

Class Officers Chosen.

At a meeting of the class of 1904, of the City High School yesterday the following officers were elected for the coming year: VanWyck Brooks, president; Francis K. Anderson, vice president; Miss Frances VanDeventer, secretary and treasurer.

Opened a Market.

Harry W. Leek, formerly manager for T. Callahan & Son, has opened the East End market at 226 Richmond street. He intends conducting it in the manner that has made him popular in other places.

Pensions Allowed.

During the past month pensions have been allowed to the following Plainfielders: Andrew Cox, original, $10; Peter V. Weaver, increase, reissue, $10; Christian P. Bechtel, original, $6.

First Democratic Meeting.

The first public meeting of Democrats will be held at the party's headquarters on East Second street, Monday evening, at which time the place will be formally opened for the campaign.

First Drill of Company K.

The first fall drill of Company K will be held Wednesday, October 8, at which time there will be an important business meeting relative to the selection of a new captain.

Preparatory Service.

This evening at 8 o'clock a preparatory service will be held in Trinity Reformed church and Sunday morning Communion will be observed.

RECEPTION TO PUPILS.

Given Last Evening by Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. H. M. Maxson at Their Home.

Superintendent of School and Mrs. H. M. Maxson tendered a reception to the students of the City High School, last night, at their home on West Seventh street. It was, in every respect, such a success that it will probably be followed by others during the winter.

The house was tastefully decorated throughout with cut flowers and palms. All about the wide veranda were hung Japanese lanterns making the scene a pretty one. More than two hundred and fifty pupils were in attendance with the entire staff of the High School teachers.

In the course of the evening vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by Miss Dorothy Waldo, Miss Mae Batchellor, William VanEps, and Charles L. Lewis. The teachers were mainly in charge of the affair and were assisted by a reception committee consisting of Miss Dorothy Waldo, Miss Florence Martin, Miss Edith Jarvis, Miss Jessie Maclay, Harry Thompson, George L. Babcock and Alden Moore. The refreshment committee consisted of George L. Babcock, Van Wyck Brooks, Chester Briggs, Jose Tweedy, Harold Fenno, Douglass Murphy and Albert Beers. Mrs. H. M. Maxson and Mrs. I. W. Travell also assisted with the refreshments.

Aside from the social side of the entertainment, Superintendent Maxon thinks that a gathering like last night will do much towards keeping teacher and pupil in close touch and in this way helping materially the efficiency of the school.

CAN'T FIND WORK.

Bill Before the Freeholders Which No Member Was Able to Explain.

A strange state of affairs was discovered at yesterday's meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders through a committee report on the bill of John Wilson, of Elizabeth, for $500 for alleged culvert repairs.

When payment was asked at a previous meeting, no member of the board could recall having ordered the work done and a committee, composed of Joseph McCandless, of Westfield; Peter Tillman, of Rahway; and William A. Westphal, of this city, was ordered to investigate.

Wilson claimed the late Freeholder Miller had ordered the work and all four culverts were located in Elizabeth. They were examined by the committee but it failed to find any signs of their having undergone any recent repairs. Residents in the vicinity were asked when they had seen workmen about them last and the invariable reply was two years or more.

The committee made known these facts at yesterday's session and declared no work was found as per bill rendered. No further action was taken in the matter but the investigation may go further.

WILL TAKE STEAMER.

Probable That the Borough Council Will Grant Permission to Warren Engine Company.

There was a meeting of Warren Engine Company, last night to discuss plans for attending the firemen's parade in New Brunswick Tuesday. The trip will be made in stages and the firemen will leave at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Without doubt the Borough Council will grant permission for the fire company to take their engine. There was a slight opposition in this at first, but now the members of the Council seem to favor the idea.

NEW YEAR BEGUN.

Today Ends the Celebration of the Jewish New Year.

At sundown tonight the celebration of the Jewish New Year ends, and orthodox members of that church may reopen their places of business. The celebration began Wednesday at sundown when the 5663rd year in the Hebrew calendar was ushered in.

Hebrew places of business in Plainfield were generally closed yesterday and today. The holiday has been spent in fasting and prayer, interspersed with social visits and the giving and receiving of presents. The day is one of the most important, from a religious viewpoint, of any of the Hebrew churches' many holidays, and it is a very religiously lax Hebrew indeed who does not make some effort to observe it.

Borough Primaries Tonight.

Both Democratic and Republican primaries are to be held in the borough tonight. The Democrats will hold their meeting in the basement of the High School and in Spencer's store, while the voters of the G. O. P. will cast their votes in Saenger Hall.

TOMORROW'S IS DECIDING GAME

Westfield and Plainfield Consolidated Meet in Final Contest at Westfield Tomorrow.

WILL PLAY GREAT BALL

Same Team Represents Plainfield, While Westfield Has Made Some Changes—Letter From Manager Denman Tells Real Facts Concerning Arrangement of Series.

Tomorrow afternoon will see the game that is to decide whether Plainfield or Westfield is possessed of the stronger team. Each nine has one game to its credit, both having been won by a score of 1 to 0, and the coming game will be the third or "rubber" in the series.

Both sides have been looking forward to the struggle and each as determined to bear off the honors. The result will be a contest that will be a fitting finish to the season of baseball just passed. It will take place on the Westfield grounds and as there will be ample accommodation for all comers, no local enthusiast should stay away unless it is a case of absolute necessity and then—go anyway.

Westfield can be reached from this city in three ways, railroad, trolley and by driving. As the trolley cars pass right by the grounds it is probable that the bulk of the Plainfield rooters will go that way. Special arrangements have been made with the trolley company and extra cars will be run for the accommodation of the crowd, beginning at 2 o'clock. As the game will not start until 3:30, there will be plenty of time to reach there. At the grounds, there is ample room for all who desire to witness the game from their own carriages. While the other two games have attracted large crowds, it is expected that tomorrow's game will break all records as far as attendance is concerned.

Everybody is interested to know how the teams will line up in tomorrow's match. The batting order for the Plainfield Consolidated team is announced as follows:

Moore, cf.
Lederer, lf.
Bolsterli, ss.
Martin, 2b.
Franklin, rf.
Montross and Dupee, p.
Allen, c.
Cooney, 3b.
Egan, 1b.

Manager Denman, of the Westfield team, has not announced his team as yet. It is known that there will be several changes and that "Matty" MacIntyre, recently of the Buffalo league team, who was brought out two years ago by Westfield, will be back in his old place in left field. The battery will probably be a new one.

The Daily Press' statement, that it took the initial steps in arranging this series and then turned it over to John G. McLaughlin, captain of the pennant winners, to complete the arrangements, has been questioned by a few but the following letter received this morning from Manager Denman, relative to tomorrow's game, incidentally gives the real facts in this connection:

Westfield, N. J.
October 2, 1902.

Charles B. Morse, City Editor,
The Daily Press,
Plainfield, N. J.

My dear sir: I know of no sport which receives more encouragement and help in the way of gratuitous advertising from the press than baseball. In the arrangement of the Westfield-Plainfield Consolidated series, which has afforded the real kind of sport, I am under personal obligations to The Daily Press for the part it has so earnestly taken. My challenges to the officials of our City League seem to indicate from the responses that either they were fearful of results or viewed the idea as a scheme by which Westfield was looking for revenue at their expense. Westfield plays the game for the sport there is in it and when you called upon me early in July, I believe you thoroughly recognized that fact. I was glad to give The Daily Press the open dates we then had upon the assurance that The Press would guarantee a representative team. At the close of your league season, John G. McLaughlin called upon me with a thorough repetition of your views as to the makeup of the team and the series was arranged.

In the plans and business arrangements the point in view has been that the financial benefits should be equalized. When we played at Plainfield, we received the same guarantee that we paid them last Saturday and the receipts of the final game will be divided in proportion to the expenses of the two teams, Plainfield receiving as a minimum amount the same guarantee as last Saturday.

The series thus far has demonstrated that as far as general play goes, Plainfield has nothing shy. Our team will be changed Saturday but not by reason of our believing that we are weak. McManus and Pursell are obliged to work, Walsh is not in condition and Robertson, by his offer to play if wanted with your team last Saturday, has thrown away his spirit of sport with us.

The opinion so forcibly expressed by you in arranging the series has shown its reasoning. No better contests could have been desired and the way has been opened for a friendly rivalry in seasons to come. And there would have been no series had it not been for the scoot on the part of you and The Daily Press.

Yours in sport,
Charles H. Denman.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, is showing an attractive line of silver and goldware, also watches, all suitable for gifts of any kind.

Did you ever see the seafood market connected with Fred Endress' market? It is complete in every detail. All fish is guaranteed to be strictly fresh.

John G. Bantle, the popular women's tailor of 428 Watchung avenue, still continues to suit all his customers, no matter how particular they are. Without doubt Mr. Bantle is an excellent tailor and deserves your patronage.

Those who are obliged to burn soft coal will find stoves suitable for this kind of coal at the Gayle Hardware Company store in a variety of styles. All kinds of the best hardware is also kept at this store at low prices.

Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, has one of the most complete lines of men's and boys' clothing in the State and they are of the fashionable kind. His prices are so low that everybody can wear good clothes.

Shoes, to give satisfaction, should always look well beside giving good wear. Thats the reason why the shoes of various makes that VanArsdale sells are popular with all classes. Now is the time to get the pick of his fall stock.

This weather is especially adapted to the work of painting and papering, and there is no firm which will give you better satisfaction than Chas. Conover & Company, of Elmwood place. Estimates on work will be cheerfully given.

The New York Bargain Store, at 324 West Front street, still enjoys unabated popularity among lovers of first class goods. Their stock is a fine one and well worth looking over. Visitors are always welcome and can count on courteous treatment.

I. H. Boehm's new annex on Park avenue is still attracting considerable attention. His stock of women's goods in this department is a fine one and in fact the stock in his entire store is particularly complete. People desiring to do their autumn shopping would do well to visit Mr. Boehm's.

P. B. Hodge, the druggist, whose place of business is in the Y. M. C. A. building, prides himself upon the fact that he has one of the best prescription departments in the State. He has personal supervision and has yet to hear from a dissatisfied patron. He keeps on hand always all the standard medical preparations.

THE

Will continue five days longer.

Owing to recent strikes we have had in New York in the cloak trade we could not get all the goods in time for our fall opening. Now that the strike is over, we commenced getting in goods that ought to have been delivered by the manufacturers two months ago, as well as goods contracted for present delivery, and therefore we find ourselves with a good deal larger stock than we anticipated having at this time of the year, and as the trade of Plainfield is limited we had to take heroic measures in order to dispose of it in time as mentioned above. Hence our loss is your gain. The following items will give you an idea of the bargains awaiting your call:

WOMEN'S TAILOR-MADE SUITS.

50 sample suits at less than half regular prices. We purchased from two prominent manufacturers about fifty new fall samples of finest Tailor-made Suits, the regular retail price of which should be from $18 to $25. BIG SPEAKERS ARE EXPECTED

PROMISE OF A LIVELY CAMPAIGN IN CONGRESSIONAL HONORS.

David B. Hill and Edward M. Shepard Will Speak in This District During the Campaign.

From all indications, the Democratic Congressional campaign in Union county, will be prosecuted along strenuous lines this fall. There will be "something doing" in the way of good, hard work all along the line, and if the G. O. P. wins out it will not be because the county Democrats did not give them a good run for their money.

It is considered significant that the fight will be carefully followed, and in some cases participated in, by National party leaders. Former Governor David B. Hill and Edward M. Shepard, of New York, are expected to visit the district and, by making several speeches, hope to do something towards relegating Congressman Fowler to a seat in the extreme rear.

Congressman Flanagan will, according to the present plans, stump the county for over a week, visiting and speaking in every town of any importance. He will be present at the convention to be held in the Elizabeth Lyceum, today, and will deliver an address to the delegates.

The Democrats are sanguine of success this year. They are counting on considerable "cutting" by the Republicans and they think that this, combined with hard work on their part, will carry them along to victory.

INVESTIGATING DEATH.

Report That Man Found Mangled on Trolley Tracks Had Been Placed There.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 3—County Physician Westcott is investigating the death of Edward Melville, who was found Tuesday morning lying mangled on the trolley tracks at Lorraine.

A report is current that the man was beaten and then placed on the tracks for the cars to run over him. Both his legs were crushed below the knees. The county physician, however, is inclined to think death was accidental, but will fully sift the rumors of foul play.

FOR THE HOSPITAL.

Donors and Donations for Muhlenberg Hospital Last Month.

The donations received at Muhlenberg Hospital during the month of September were as follows:

Miss Schipper, basket grapes; Mrs. Blair, basket tomatoes; Mrs. Ware, lemons; Mrs. G. W. Randolph, basket tomatoes, egg plant; Dr. Fritts, basket peaches; Miss Walduck, basket tomatoes, basket peaches; Mrs. Gensen, wraps, pears; Mrs. A. J. Edwards, one pair blankets, one pair slippers, pillow cases; Mrs. Julia VanBuren, basket peaches; Farefield Dairy Company, eight bottles kumyss; Miss Trembley, three egg plants, celery, basket peaches, basket tomatoes; Mrs. George P. Mellick, basket apples; Mrs. Frank McInerney, five jars Chili sauce; Mrs. John H. Probasco, twenty-four glasses jelly; Mrs. Guinaud, cabbages, apples.

WANTS COUNTY PHYSICIAN.

Said That Dr. J. C. Anderson Has Been Promised It.

At a meeting of the colored Republican voters of the county held at Cranford a few evenings ago, it was announced by one of the delegates that ex-Assemblyman Murray had explained satisfactorily to Dr. J. C. Anderson, of this city, why he did not get the nomination for coroner as promised. A prominent politician is authority for the statement that the physician was pacified by the assertion that he would get the appointment of county physician to succeed Dr. Westcott, of Fanwood.

Rushing Work on Trolleys.

The officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway are rushing work on all the closed cars in order to place them in service before the middle of the present month. Orders have been issued to rent out no more closed cars for special purposes as it takes them away from the regular service.

Settled Estate.

A settlement has been effected of the estate of Mrs. Scott Wallace. Her son, George Jones, receives $450 and his half brother, Lewis Harris, gets $50. Assemblyman Wm. Newcorn represented Jones, while Clarence Murphy represented Harris.

First on the programme were nominations for senator. The first ward of Elizabeth waived their nominations to the First ward of Plainfield, and W. T. Banks, in a stirring speech, nominated James E. Martine. Before Mr. Martin could interfere several Elizabeth delegations seconded the nomination. Then the Plainfielder got on his feet. "I am," he began, "in the house of my friends. (Cheers.) I love my party as I love my life, but I beg you will desist from placing this nomination upon my shoulders."

A continuation of the roll call showed that every delegation was for Martine. He was selected without a dissenting vote and round after round of cheers greeted the announcement of the result.

Four members for Assembly were nominated. One, Hon. Stephen J. Cox, in an appropriate speech declined to run and the remaining three were elected unanimously.

For sheriff, John J. Collins, Charles H. Moore, Robert L. Schwartz, Jacob W. Sheppard and Joseph McCandless were named. One by one, however, they withdrew in favor of Moore who was elected without a dissenting voice.

Evidently there was no favorite for surrogate. A roll call revealed no nomination until at last Mr. Martine put Gibby's name up. The nomination for coroner was also free from any contest. Elmore D. Moffett, of Plainfield, was one of those appointed to escort the nominees to the platform.

An address was made by DeWitt C. Flanagan and received with much applause. It was directed chiefly against the tariff.

Judge Livingston, of Georgia, then delivered a pertinent and witty address and kept the house for over an hour fluctuating between laughter and cheers. He defined reciprocity as "simply free trade in spots" and kept up a running fine of witticisms directed at the G. O. P.

Following Judge Livingston the various nominees spoke. The address of Mr. Martine particularly was forceful and effective. He promised to devote his entire energies to the coming campaign and do everything in his power to assist his party.

Preparing for Veterans.

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps will hold a meeting within a few days to make arrangements for entertaining the members of the Thirtieth New Jersey Volunteers, when they hold their reunion in this city October 15.

Fixed Date.

Wm. E. MacClymont has fixed Tuesday evening, October 28, as the date for the rendition of the oratorio of "Elijah," by the choir of Holy Cross church. The choir will be assisted by prominent soloists from New York.

Breach of Contract.

Robert M. Clark, as attorney for Katie G. Campbell, is about to bring suit in the Supreme Court against Elizabeth Tierney in $460 damages for breach of contract. The papers in the case have already been filed.

Rally Day.

Rally day exercises will be held next Sunday in the First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Monroe Avenue churches, and Hope chapel, under the auspices of the Sunday-schools in each place of worship.

Annual Endeavor Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, will hold its annual business meeting Monday evening, at which time officers will be elected.

County Sunday-School Association.

The Union County Sunday-school Association convention will be held October 9 in the Central Baptist church, Elizabeth.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHOICE.

It has been generally conceded that the Democrats of Unoin county will have a better chance of winning at the election next month than they have had in some time and that the Democrats might materially help their cause by nominating a particularly strong ticket. As far as Plainfield is concerned, the ticket which was nominated at the Democratic county convention at Elizabeth yesterday is likely to prove a popular one. If one may judge from what was said and done at the convention, it is likely to be well received throughout the county.

There is probably no other man in the Democratic party in Union county who has the personal popularity of James E. Martine, familiarly known as the "Farmer Orator" However he may have differed in his political opinions, Mr. Martine has been a good friend to many and is thoroughly respected and liked by Republicans and Democrats alike. The Democrats have often depended on Mr. Martine's popularity to lead a forlorn hope. Now, however, they have given him a nomination when the chances are bright with the hope that he will carry the ticket over the narrow margin which separates victory from defeat. Mr. Martine is likely to prove a formidable rival for Senator Cross.

Of the other candidates, Charles L. Moffett, a bright young lawyer of this city, is likely to make a strong run for the Assembly. Last year he made a good run and now, owing to the fact that there is strong opposition to Assemblyman Hall among the Plainfield Republicans, his chances appear better than ever. He is a young man of undoubted integrity and well liked and would undoubtedly labor earnestly and sincerely if elected.

Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth, the nominee for sheriff, is not well known here but he is a popular man in his own bailiwick. The fact that his opponent on the Republican ticket is a Plainfielder will naturally mean that he need not expect to run ahead of his ticket here. LeRoy A. Gibby, of Summit, is candidate for surrogate but he is facing a hard proposition in attempting to defeat a man like George Parrott who is known and liked from one end of the county to the other.

Carl Marz, of Elizabethport, and George J. Reiss, of Roselle, are strong in their respective communities and are said to be able and popular men. They will be Mr. Moffett's running mates for the Assembly but naturally Mr. Moffett will get the local support in preference to them as their names are practically unknown here outside of a few Democrats.

Altogether it is as strong a ticket as the Democrats have put in the field for some time and while there is little or no chance that the normal Republican majority will be overcome by the entire ticket, there is a chance, a fair one, that one or more of the Democratic candidates will have a lead when the votes are counted November 4.

THE TRUTH OF IT.

There have been various stories current concerning the happenings at the last meeting of the Somerset county Republican executive committee. In order to make sure of the correctness of its account, The Daily Press had its Somerville correspondent investigate the subject as thoroughly as possible.

Summed up briefly, it seems that Senator Reed said that he had been misrepresented and misquoted and so tendered his resignation as chairman of the committee. The committee refused to accept it at that time and laid it on the table. Whether it will be taken up after the convention, no one can say. Senator Reed has some enemies in his own party who undoubtedly would like to see him step out of the office of chairman. Their ability to force such an issue is to be questioned. They certainly were unable to do it before the convention as, according to our correspondent, the wiser ones of that faction refused to take action on it now.

President H. G. Runkle, of the local gas company, made the statement yesterday that the city of Plainfield would not be without gas and that the local patrons need have no fear of a scarcity in the gas supply. Those who know Mr. Runkle and his resources are pretty confident that he will fulfill his claims in that direction.

Bird S. Coler, former comptroller of New York and now candidate for governor of New York on the Democratic ticket, is a man not entirely unknown in Plainfield. He spent some time at the Hotel Netherwood and there met a number of Plainfield people.

There is prospect that tomorrow will offer more satisfactory weather to the local football enthusiasts than last Saturday did. It was then entirely too warm for such a game and the players felt it. Tomorrow promises to be more seasonable.

The Board of Trustees of Bellevue Hospital has decreed that hereafter no physician shall be allowed on an ambulance who has not been in service at least six months. The Order of United Undertakers is expected to file a protest.

A new safe which has recently been placed on the market is claimed by the makers to be absolutely impossible to blow open. Just like them; by and by it will be impossible for an honest burglar to make a living.

Poor Devery! After that glorious send-off which the people of the Ninth gave him, how discomforting it must have been to be turned down at the Democratic State convention at Saratoga.

A CONGRESS FOR MOTHERS

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF NEW JERSEY CONGRESS OF MOTHERS.

Will be Held at Camden, on October 22 and 23—The Programme.

The anpual meeting of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers will be held in Camden, October 22 and 23. Prof. Griggs will lecture on "The Influence of the Parent and the Teacher in Moral Education," during the first afternoon, and in the evening there will be a meeting in the interest of the Juvenile Court, at which several prominent judges will be present.

The programme for the 23d will include reports of clubs, election of officers and discussion of various lines of child study. Mrs E. C. Grice, president of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, will preside at the meetings, which promise to be of interest to the many who are studying social and economic conditions.

The organization was started two years ago in the interest of Mothers' Clubs, and the general advancement of practical knowledge in the training and education of children. Last year the annual meeting was held in Trenton, where the question of juvenile courts was discussed and examples given of good results derived from these courts in other States. The Mothers' Club of Jersey City Heights was represented at this meeting by its secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Kneale. The object of the congress is to benefit the young through the mothers, and to act as a central bureau of information and aid to all those associations in the State that are working in the interest of motherhood, childhood and the home. Much of the success of the New Jersey Congress is due to the efforts of Mrs. Grice, who has made a study of the problems involved in bettering the conditions of neglected children, and who is strongly interested in her work.

THEATRICAL.

For the benefit of local school children, Manager Schorb, of the Central Theatre, will give a special matinee tomorrow afternoon. All the acts seen at the evening performances will be given.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

For many years the influence of New Brunswick prevented the people of Perth Amboy from securing a county bridge over the Raritan River, and as a consequence the residents of the Amboy section of Middlesex county, as well as many others, were deprived of a means of direct communication, except by rail or boat, with any of the shore towns south of them. The injustice thus worked was at last made so evident to the county Board of Freeholders that the members of that body were forced to grant the relief asked.

The builders who have been awarded the contract have now been directed to proceed with the work of construction at once, and it will not be long before a new highway will be opened to the coast resorts from North Jersey by way of Perth Amboy. This will be appreciated by a large class of people, and is sure to result in the increase of riding and driving through that delightful portion of the State. The two Amboys will also feel the effect of being brought in closer touch with one another. The cost of the new structure has been fixed by the bidders at $146,950, which is a reasonable sum, considering the benefits that will accrue to the people of eastern Middlesex county. It is only to be regretted that the improvement was not made years ago.—Newark News.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Kelly, daughter of Bartley Kelly, of Madison avenue, with George Hague, of Plainfield, was solemnized in St. John's church, Wednesday afternoon. Miss Kate Kelly acted as bridemaid and Joseph Kelly as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Dunphy, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The young couple are now off on their honeymoon.

The trustees of the Presbyterian church proved good hosts last evening when they were in charge of a supper. A very large number took dinner at the chapel and none regretted it as the food was all that could be desired. The trustees were assisted in their undertaking by their wives and other women, who now have famous reputations through town for good cooking. During the evening Smith Watson gave selections on his phonograph.

Hudson Wilcox underwent a thorough examination yesterday by Drs. Brakeley and Hedges and chances now seem bright for his recovery.

Commencing on Sunday, services will be held in Presbyterian church at 10:30. Sunday-school will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Presbyterian church, was entertained by the Rahway society, last evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Presbyterian church, met with Mrs. Charles Starker, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Churchill entertained a number of out of town relatives yesterday.

A fair for the benefit of St. John's church has been planned for November 6, 7 and 8.

Mrs Robert L. Giddes has gone to Philadelphia were she expects to stay a month.

The Republican primary will be held in the borough hall Monday evening.

Miss Mildred Gaskill is attending the State fair at Trenton for a few days.

J. H. Fleming will speak in Apgar's Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Miss Jennie Vanderbilt, of Milford, is visiting Mrs. Charles Starker.

W. L. Larrabee spent yesterday in New York on business.

Harry Swackhamer has accepted a position in Newark.

Robert Carpenter is enjoying his vacation this week.

Maurice Rarick is enjoying a vacation at Freehold.

NEW MARKET.

A Republican primary will be held Monday evening in C. L. Day's office to elect one delegate to the county convention in New Brunswick on October 6.

Letters are advertised at the post-office this month for Miss Boyle, F. R. Raif, Charles Z. Smith, Shloos & Son, and Marian Marekle.

W. B. Smith has offered to give $200 for the redecoration of the interior of the First Baptist church, provided another sum is raised.

County Superintendent Wills paid an official visit to the school during the past week.

Friendship Dancing Circle will resume meetings for the season in Tuesday evening.

A. G. Nelson is having a new flag walk laid in front of his property on Main street.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston may have to substitute the Garwood team for the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. nine for tomorrow's game, the Elizabeth team asking for more guarantee than the management of the local wants to pay for a benefit game. The fans are assured of a game as either one or the other teams will be on hand.

Any one desiring extra copies of Thursday evening's Press, so as to be able to procure a group photograph of the ball team, may do so by placing their order with the regular carriers, Charles or Benj. Elliott.

Harry Hollingsworth and daughter, Miss Dora, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. Hollingsworth's brother, Loftus Hollingsworth, have returned to their home in Brooklyn.

"The Marriage Feast and the Ten Virgins," will be the topic of the Friday evening prayer meeting at the Baptist church tonight. Rev. Mr. Shott will lead.

John Meserole and family, who have been residents of the village since last spring, are preparing to remove back to Brooklyn, their former home.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., has changed the time of its meetings from Thursday evenings semi-monthly, to every Thursday evening again.

Mrs. Augusta Miller and daughter, Mrs. George L. Dunn, were the guests Thursday of Mrs. Wm. R. Buckley, of South avenue, Plainfield.

Joe Alberts has joined the Aeolian football eleven and as soon as the regularl baseball season closes will don the Aeolian colors.

Mrs. Sarah Allen and family, who have been residents of the village for a number of years, have removed to Plainfield.

The Adair cottage on Grand street has been rented by a party from Chatam who will take possession at once.

Wm. H. Lee is out with a new road horse.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

An interesting meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ida Harris. An important feature of the meeting was a letter from the home secretary, Mrs. N. M. Waterbury.

The Republican voters of the township have been requested to meet at the office of Charles S. Day, at New Market, next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of naming delegates to attend the county convention.

Camp No. 41, P. O. S. of A., held its regular meeting in Washington Hall last night. The meetings for the remainder of the autumn and the winter will open at 7:30 o'clock.

Charles H. Brantingham is putting new double sash in the windows of the Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree.

Joseph Carkoff sustained considerable loss in his potato crop by the rot, on account of the wet season.

Lloyd Harris was on the sick list yesterday, and was visited by Dr. Fritts.

ANNUAL ENDEAVOR MEETING

OFFICERS ELECTED AND PLANS FOR COMING SEASON MADE.

By the Endeavor Society at Park Avenue Baptist Church—Meeting Last Night.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last evening at the home of Miss Florence Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue. The president, Miss Cora Brokaw presided. There were written reports of the past year's work by the chairman of the various committees. Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry, superintendent of the Junior Society, and Miss Henrietta Cuming, treasurer.

Officers for the year were chosen as follows, after Mrs. Alice Runyon, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the report of the committee:

President, Miss Cora Brokaw; vice president, Joseph M. Hawkins; recording secretary, Miss Elmira Runyon; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Arthur Krom; treasurer, Herbert Brokaw. The following chairman of committees were also chosen: Lookout, Miss Florence Hawkins; prayer-meeting, Herbert Brokaw; missionary, Mrs. Alice Runyon; flower and decorating, Aaron D. Thompson, Jr.; social, Joseph M. Hawkins; music, Roland Treadwell, Jr.

The society is in excellent condition in all its departments and starts upon its new year's work with much enthusiasm. The sum of $25 was pledged towards the church expenses, and the members have been earning this money in various ways. Last evening they told, in verse composition of their own, how it was earned.

Beginning with next Sunday, the meetings of the society will be held in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, immediately following the Sunday-school session. The members talked last evening about the fair to be given by the Park Avenue Baptist church in November and decided to help all that is possible. Miss Mary Pierson was received as an active member.

The business meeting was followed by a social arranged by Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., and his committee. Hiram Jones, of Connecticut, was present and entertained the audience. The house was tastefully decorated with American flags and bunting. During the social hour refreshments were served.

—White and yellow peaches, fine quality and low in price, are still the features at Neuman Brothers. Don't delay buying.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WASHERIES MOBBED

Much Disorder In the Mining Town of Plymouth.

ELEVEN RIOTERS UNDER ARREST.

Strong Military Guard In Control. Coroner Decides Nonunion Man Found Dead on Car Tracks Was Murdered.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 3.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, accompanied by District Presidents Nicholls, Duffy and Fahy, left here last evening for Washington. Mr. Mitchell declined to express any opinion. All he would say was that he hoped for the best. The general feeling is, however, that President Roosevelt will succeed in bringing both parties together.

The mining town of Plymouth, which has been free from any disturbance since the strike began, was the scene of much disorder yesterday. Mobs surrounded the Sterling and North American washeries, and Sheriff Jacobs, being unable to disperse them, summoned the military. Colonel Loughlery sent three companies of the Ninth regiment to the scene, and they arrested eleven men, charged with rioting. They were brought before Magistrate Pollock of this city, who, after a hearing, held them in $1,000 bail each for trial at court.

A strong guard has been placed over the washeries to enable them to resume operations today.

The washery at the Hollenbeck mine has started up work. This was a surprise to the strikers. Despite the conference called to meet at Washington the operators in the Wyoming valley are very aggressive.

A dispatch from Scranton says:

"No disorder has been reported for the last twenty-four hours and no claims from either side as to gains or losses to the working forces at the collieries. All interest is centered in the Washington conference.

"It is now almost certain that John Mullen, the nonunion man who was run over by a trolley car at Smithville Wednesday night, was stunned or killed and then placed on the track. His own razor, with blood on the blade, was found near the spot, and no cuts that a razor could have made were to be found on the body. It is supposed he was attacked and drew the razor to defend himself. Coroner Berge says positively it was a case of murder."

Coal High In Mexico.

MONTEREY, Mexico, Oct. 3.—Mexican railroads are now suffering on account of the increased prices that are being charged for coal, and if the Pennsylvania strike continues it is inevitable that prices will be further increased. Railroad men believe that the great coal strike in the United States will do much to bring about the use of oil as fuel on the Mexican railroads.

Cheap Coal For Employees.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company has notified its employees in Harrisburg who are heads of families that they will be supplied with one ton of anthracite coal each at $4.25 per ton in less than ten days.

The New Comet.

GENEVA, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Dr. William R. Brooks, director of Smith observatory and professor of astronomy at Hobart college, has had the new comet discovered by Professor Perrine at the Lick observatory under frequent observations since its discovery. When last observed, it was in the lower part of Cassiopeia's Chair and is moving westerly toward the northern part of Cygnus. Dr. Brooks says the comet is increasing in brightness and is now about twenty times brighter than at discovery. On Oct. 6 it will be about twenty-seven times brighter than when first observed, when it will be a few degrees north of the upper star in the cross of Cygnus. The comet will not be a brilliant object, but may be seen with the naked eye when well located, and may be observed with a good field-glass or small telescope.

Across the Ocean?

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 3.—Wireless communication has perhaps been at last established between Europe and America. It is excitedly rumored here that a complete message has been received at Table Head, Cape Breton station, from the station at Cornwall, England. Mr. Vyvyan, engineer in charge of construction of the Table Head station, when asked, to deny or affirm the report, emphatically declined to say anything about it. He did say, though, that nothing would be given out from the Table Head station. The distance between the two stations is about 2,200 miles.

Chaffee and Wright Sail.

MANILA, Oct. 3.—General Chaffee and Vice Governor Wright have sailed for San Francisco on the United States transport Sumner. They were accorded a general farewell demonstration. The Philippine commissioners, Brigadier General Davis, commander of the department of the Philippines, officers of the division and the staff assembled at military headquarters and escorted General Chaffee and Mr. Wright to the landing place through continuous lines of troops and cheering crowds. The guns of Fort Santiago, where the travelers embarked, fired a salute in their honor.

The President Comfortable.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Roosevelt passed a comfortable night. The report from the temporary White House is that his condition is satisfactory. He spends most of the time in his wheel chair and is able to devote considerable attention to public business.

CUBAN FINANCES.

Report For September Makes a Favorable Showing.

HAVANA, Oct. 3.—Senor Montes, secretary of the treasury, reports that the customs receipts for the entire island of Cuba during the month of September amounted to $1,307,102, the receipts from the postoffice, money order department, internal revenue and sundries and reimbursements, etc., bringing the total receipts for the month up to $1,596,401. The cash on hand Aug. 31 was $1,039,247, which, added to the total of September's receipts, makes a grand total of $2,635,648. Payments made during September amounted to $1,228,912, and there was a balance in the treasury Sept. 30 of $1,406,736.

This report shows an increase in the customs receipts for September of this year of $264,490 over those of September, 1901.

The fact that the customs receipts of the island now are keeping up with those collected during the period of intervention has caused a good impression among the business element of the island and favorable comments from the press. These conditions, coupled with an increase in the price of sugar and the reports that the next sugar crop will be larger than that of last year, are bringing about a noticeable restoration of confidence.

The senate has asked President Palma if the withdrawal of American soldiers from Cuba is dependent upon an increase in the force of Cuban artillery. A proposition is now before the senate to increase this branch of the Cuban service by 1,000 men.

CAR STRIKE UNSETTLED.

All Efforts to Secure Peace In New Orleans Fail.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—After futile efforts of four days to settle the street car men's strike, begun Sunday by dissatisfied employees of the New Orleans Railway company, all negotiations looking toward peace have come to a positive end.

The car men's executive committee reached this decision at a meeting last night when it decided to make no reply to the last communication of the railway officials, which reiterated the statement and terms made by the company Wednesday. It is announced that the railway company is making preparations to run a number of cars. Nine cars with United States mail signs were run over the several routes yesterday for the accommodation of the letter carriers and were not molested.

A crowd of strikers moved all the switches on Canal street during the night. The big feed wires of the Carrollton line were also cut on Carrollton avenue.

Henry A. Reid, a striking motorman, has been arrested by Captain Cooper, charged with assaulting Policeman D'Ayala, who was dangerously injured.

Croker Out of Politics.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—"I do not suppose that I have said more than a hundred times that I am out of politics," replied Richard Croker at Wantage when asked for an opinion concerning the New York Democratic state convention at Saratoga, N. Y. "Maybe if I do not say anything now people will begin to believe it. Yes," continued Mr. Croker, "I have read all the reports of the convention. They are very interesting, but I am done. I have seen nobody and said nothing and do not intend to. They can get along without me."

Son to Duchess of Manchester.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The news of the birth of a son to the Duchess of Manchester at Tanderagee castle, County Armagh, has been received with the ringing of church bells and great rejoicings at Kimbolton castle, the Duke of Manchester's English seat. The child becomes Viscount Mandeville. The duchess was formerly Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Justice Leslie W. Russell resigned from the supreme court bench of New York state.

A reservoir at Pavonia, N. J., burst, flooding the entire town and doing much damage.

There have been more than 30,000 deaths in Egypt from cholera since the present outbreak.

The president appointed to be brigadier generals Colonels Amos I. Kimball, Chambers McKibben and Charles C. Hood.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, wife of the humorist and a prominent clubwoman, was reported dangerously ill at her home in Pasadena, Cal.

Charles Tyler Olmstead, formerly vicar of St. Agnes chapel, New York city, was consecrated bishop coadjutor of the diocese of central New York at Utica.

WHAT IS WORN.

Turkish and Bell Sleeves—The Triple Coat Cape.

The bolero made quite short and somewhat loose, but not quite of the sack order, is still worn, and the sleeves at present in vogue are extremely elegant. Some of these of Turkish shape are gathered into a shaped cuff. Others are closely fitted to the elbow and then spread out in bell shape and have a broad upturned cuff of velvet and long tight undersleeves of silk lace or velvet. A bell sleeve with three or four godet ruffles suggests a triple bell shape, and many bishop and Turkish sleeves are trimmed in simulated bell fashion, which permits a good deal of fancy trimming in the way of velvet, braid and stitching.

The triple cape is much used on coats, particularly those of the Monte

RAIN COAT BOLERO.

Carlo variety. These last will be worn all through the winter and will be made of cloth, heavy moire, bengaline silks and velvet.

The illustration shows a smart rain coat. It is made of rainproof covert. The sleeves have wide lower edges trimmed with strappings. The fullness is belted in at the back after the latest fashion.

With this is worn a hat of stitched cloth trimmed with a scarf of dotted panne. JUDIC CHOLLET.

GRAY IS FASHIONABLE.

Tints Ranging From Dark to Light Combined With Bright Colors.

There are two smart grays. One is that steely slate color which, relieved by bright red and ivory lace, makes an ideal hat. The other is a lighter shade and is worn with orange, heliotrope or orchid pink. It tones well with the ecru lace. Small medallions or panels of velvet are mixed with braided motifs and have an uncommon effect on self colored cloth.

The herringboning and stitching which have been so popular this summer are still in favor, but are now placed over narrow velvet or satin ribbon. This is very effective on a cloth gown, using silk thread of the same shade as the cloth, velvet of a contrasting tint and piece velvet of the same color for cuffs and flat collar.

Gray metallic velvet in all the shades from gun metal to pearl will be all the style this winter, and entire gray costumes, even to the furs and gloves, will be worn.

The traveling coat illustrated is from a leading French house. The material is gray cloth relieved with touches of deep crimson velvet. The garment is collarless, but has a stitched cape terminating in front with the two oddly shaped diamond revers illustrated. The full sleeves are gathered into a tightly fitted stitched cuff. The hat which goes with this is of gray velvet bound with deep red velvet and trimmed with a white bird of paradise tail. JUDIC CHOLLET.

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"Don't cry," she said. "Don't cry for me." She got up on her knees and stroked my cheeks. "It may be better some day." She winked very hard and bit her lip. "I really haven't any mother. That is just a good woman who took me in, but her married daughter came home with two children and I had to leave. I could send you to her any time. She would tell you the same. And that man—well, his name was Waldemar, but he wasn't my brother. I am going to confess all about it. He is that kind woman's daughter's husband. She sent him out here with my slippers. They are plain people, and queer sort of people, but I'd trust them as I would myself. I knew you would not like it, and, in fact, I didn't like it any too well myself. What do you think he did? He threw gravel against my windows. Now, did you ever hear of such a thing?—calling a respectable girl in that way? Did you hear anything?"

"I didn't hear the gravel," said I.

"Then I needn't have told you," she laughed. "I was so ashamed when you discovered it. I wrote to his mother that when she had anything more to send or any message, or anything, she must send her son out in the daytime; but he is employed in an automobile factory, as I told you—that is all true—and he can't very well get away in the day."

I started, for just here I thought I heard a faint rumbling sound beneath the place where we were sitting. "What is that noise?" I exclaimed.

"Noise? I don't hear any."

"Yes, underneath us, in the cellar. It sounds like a rumbling."

"Dear me! Dear me!" she jumped up from the floor and began to scream nervously. "Perhaps we're going to have an earthquake. We had one out in——" She ran to the cellar door, making a great deal of noise as she went, and flung it wide. "Is there anyone there?" she called. "Come and listen for yourself, Mrs. Brathwaite. Come and listen for yourself." The rumbling had ceased.

"I certainly heard a noise," said I.

"Well, you ought to know your own cellar. You will make me afraid to sleep if you say such things."

"Let us go down and see," I suggested.

She hesitated, and then said: "Well, if you wish, but it's very draughty. O-o-o-h! I'm shivering already."

Now, I had the beginning of a cold, caught suddenly, I feared, in the old church, and for that reason I hesitated also to go down into that gloomy vault. I did, however, push myself a little way down, and then, as if I had seen them for the first time, "Why! what is this?" said I, and I reached out my hand and took from the wall the suit of men's clothes.

At this my boarder seated herself upon the top step, put her hands over her face, and burst into tears.

"They're Jim's," she said. "They're Jim's."

"Don't, my dear, don't. Do not agitate yourself so terribly."

She shook all over her spare form. Her voice came muffled from between her fingers. There was no doubt about her grief being serious. "It seems as if I were suspected and hounded every step I take. I'm sure I have only good intentions. I have no wish to do anything wrong, but, dear Mrs. Brathwaite, just remember that I have had no mother. You know what that means to a girl—no mother! Poor Jim! It might not have happened if she had not died and left us. Jim's clothes are all that I have left of him, and I kept them. I could not bear to give them away. I have heard of women being blamed for not giving away their baby's clothes, after they died, to poor people. I feel as if Jim had been my baby, my dead baby. Jim! dear, dear Jim!" Her tears were very honest tears.

I came to the top step and gathered the girl in my arms. "There! don't cry," said I. "Don't cry."

"Stop, dear lady," said she, brushing away her tears hurriedly, "I must hang up poor Jim's clothes again. I didn't think you'd mind. I hung them there to keep them free from moths." I wanted to take her in my arms and say "Little Amaranthe, little Amaranthe." She looked so thin and helpless and woebegone. She hung the clothes upon their nail with many a sigh and heave of the breast. Her sorrow was so real that my heart ached for her. I went back into the room, and in a moment she joined me. "How good you are to me," she said. My own eyes were brimming as I put my hands on her shoulders and looked into hers, and I said it:

"Little Amaranthe! little Amaranthe!"

"What do you mean?" said she suddenly, the color flushing her cheeks. She stared at me like one seeing an apparition.

"Ah, little Amaranthe, you don't remember me. You don't remember Wibby, who used to teach you when you were a little tot."

She put her hand to her head. "Say that again," said she.

"Wibby, Wibby, who used to teach you."

"Let me think," said she. "Let me think. I seem to see—oh! was it a great white house? Was there a riotously lovely garden? Did we do lessons out under a tree? Was there a great dog, and a cow that I used to fondle? Were there two ladies there, and a little one, who always came with the books——"

"Yes, yes," whispered I, as my tears streamed fast. "It was like that. What you say is proof enough for me. I am Sophronia Willoughby who used to teach you, my dearest little girl."

"So you are Wibby?" said she. "Is it a wonder that I did not know you? How you have changed?"

"Yes," said I, with a sigh. "I have indeed changed. How could I help it in 16 years? Do you remember your aunts?"

"Yes," said she. "They were my aunts, were they not, those two ladies? Then there was mother and an uncle. Was his name——"

"David," said I. "Don't you remember your Uncle David, David Darlington?"

"Was it David?" she asked. "Was it my Uncle David? I knew that my name was Darlington. It was the name we had in Madras. After father died I had to do something. Father died very poor."

"But how was that?" I asked. "He was a rich man."

"I don't like to say things against dear daddy," she laughed—a sad little laugh—"but to tell you the truth, Mrs. Brathwaite dear, father was a confirmed gambler. He died when I was 15 years old, and I have been supporting myself ever since."

"With the great house standing up there on the hill," I cried, "and enough and to spare."

"Are those my Darlingtons?" she asked in an awe-struck voice. "Are those my people? I cannot believe it. Oh, to be at home at last! Not to have to work any more, to be taken care of!" and she burst into hysterical tears.

"And why did you never write?"

"I did write after father died, but I never received any answer. Then the consul wrote, but he was unsuccessful also. I thought that they must all have died. Father had told me that he had taken all that belonged to him, and I felt that I had no rights, that perhaps they did not want me, would not welcome me."

"Why did you change your name?" I cried—"oh, why?"

"Oh, to Dacres? If you had known my father."

"You forget, my dear, I did know your father."

"Very well, then, you know how he hated the idea of one of his family working for a living. He had very grand ideas, had daddy. He said often and often that no one of the Darlington family should disgrace his name or him by working for a living."

"Yes," said I, "those were exactly Eugene Darlington's ideas. I have heard him express himself in that way fifty times or more."

"But what was I to do? I had no friends—no one to take care of me. I went first to England with an English family as nursery governess. When I left them I went into an English hospital. I learned to be a trained nurse. I took the name of Dacres. It came into my head. I don't know how. Father had been persistent about the honor of his name, and here I am, as Josephine Dacres, at your service."

"Josephine Amaranthe Dacres," I corrected her.

"Yes, Josephine Amaranthe, but not Dacres—Darlington at last, thank God!"

As I lay thinking of it all, after I was in bed, I remembered that I had not asked her how she came to have a brother. I had never heard of any one having been born to Eugene Darlington. I must ask her about it in the morning.

And now it seemed to me that the time had come when I should take the ladies into my confidence. I began a series of visits to them.

CASTRO IN WAITING.

Venezuela's President Has a Strong Position.

FORCIBLE RECRUITING AT CARACAS.

The Rebel Generals Matos and Mendoza Reported to Have Joined Forces Fifty Miles From the Capital.

WILIEMSTAD, Curacao, Oct. 3.—News has reached here from Venezuela that the Venezuelan revolutionary forces under General Matos have effected a junction with the command of the revolutionary general Ruciano Mendoza near Camatagua, in the state of Miranda, fifty miles south of Caracas. The combined forces of Generals Matos and Mendoza now total 6,500 men.

Last Wednesday the revolutionists were at San Juan de los Moros, near Villa de Cura. At this point the government forces under President Castro, amounting to 4,000 men, retreated precipitately before the vanguard of the revolutionists. There have been many desertions from Castro's army.

President Castro is now at Los Teques, a very strong strategical position but a few hours ride from Caracas and which is considered nearly impregnable. He is awaiting attack by the revolutionists.

During the past three days the government has been forcibly recruiting for the army day and night on the streets of Caracas. When some of the men thus gathered in attempted to escape, being in favor of the Matos revolution, the recruiting parties fired on them.

Provisions in Caracas are scarce, and meat is worth 30 cents a pound.

The government intends to attack the revolutionists at Barcelona next Sunday with 1,500 men under General Velutini.

Another revolutionary army under General Rolando is now located at Cua, in the state of Miranda, twenty-five miles south of Caracas.

Cresceus and Dan Patch Race.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3.—Cresceus, George H. Ketcham's champion trotter, made an attempt to lower the world's record at the opening of the grand circuit meeting in this city, but failed on account of a bad track. He covered the mile in 2:08, which is the fastest ever hung out on the Oakley track, where the races were held. Before Cresceus was sent his exhibition mile he was brought on the track alongside of Dan Patch, the king of pacers, and the two went a half mile together amid wild cheering from the spectators. This is the first time that the champion pacer and champion trotter have ever appeared together on a race track in an exhibition, and the crowd appreciated the treat.

High License For Vermont.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 3.—In the general assembly a local option high license measure similar to the Massachusetts liquor law has been introduced by Senator Russell of Hinesburg. This bill provides submission of the law to the people on the first Tuesday of February next. If there be a majority vote in its favor, the act is to take effect on the first Tuesday of March. It is provided, however, that if there is a majority vote against the bill its provisions are to take effect on the first Monday in December, 1904, which will give the next legislature an opportunity to repeal the law. The matter was referred to the joint committee on temperance.

Russian Grand Duke In Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia has arrived here on board a Russian warship. He has visited the sultan, and the sultan has returned the courtesy by a call at the Russian embassy. The grand duke's mission is reported to be for the purpose of removing the unpleasant impression made upon the sultan by the manuevers Sept. 29 in Shipka pass in connection with the ceremonies commemorative of the battle fought there in 1877 between Russians and Turks and to assure the sultan of Russia's continuous friendship. The grand duke participated in the Shipka pass festivities.

Had Thousands of Love Letters.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Throwing 4,000 love letters under a sofa and hustling his sick wife and child into a closet, Isaac R. Warn, alleged proprietor of a matrimonial agency at 476 Park avenue, slid down a rope from his third story window just in time to escape the police who were raiding his place of business. Such was the discouraging experience of a man who promised a beautiful wife and $50,000 to every bachelor who sent him the small sum of $5. Other reputed matrimonial agencies were raided by the police without results.

Newfoundland Very Prosperous.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 3.—The revenue of the colony for the quarter ended Sept. 30 reaches a total of $550,000, which is $20,000 more than the revenue for the corresponding quarter of last year. The revenue for this quarter of 1901 was the highest ever collected during any three months in the colony's fiscal history. The prosperity of Newfoundland is now greater than ever, and all branches of business are booming.

Crop Prospects Good In India.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A report from Lord Curzon of Kedleston, viceroy of India, says that, although more rain is needed in the districts in which the nonirrigated crops have suffered, the general agricultural prospects for India have very greatly improved in the past month, and crop conditions are now promising.

CONFERENCE BEGINS

President In Council With Operators and Miners.

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKE HOPED FOR.

Attorney General Knox the Only Member of the Cabinet Present. Labor Commissioner Wright Also Participates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The conference between President Roosevelt, the coal operators and miners' representatives opened at the temporary White House shortly after 11 o'clock today.

The only member of the cabinet present was Attorney General Knox. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, who recently made an investigation of the strike situation, was also in attendance by invitation of the president.

Those present representing the operators at the conference were Presidents Fowler of the New York, Ontario and Western railroad, Truesdale of the Lackawanna, Olyphant of the Delaware and Hudson, Thomas, chairman of the board of directors of the Erie; the independent operator, John Markle, of the firm of G. B. Markle & Co. and President Baer of the Reading.

The strikers were represented by President Mitchell, head of the miners' union, and the three district presidents—Duffy, Fahy and Nicholls.

While nothing can yet be ascertained regarding the result of the meeting, there is a feeling of hope among those close to the president that it is going to result in a settlement of the strike. This hope is based on the acuteness of the situation and the necessity that exists for a settlement, along with the known determination of the president to bring about a settlement of the great labor controversy if such a thing be possible.

The special train with the presidents of the anthracite coal roads arrived in Washington shortly after 9 o'clock last night. They did not leave their cars until morning, and their train was switched to a siding in the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio road for the night.

National President John Mitchell, Thomas D. Nicholls, president of district No. 2; Thomas Duffy, president of district No. 7, and John Fahy, president of district No. 9 of the United Mine Workers of America, reached the city at 12:50 a. m. Mitchell and his colleagues declined to have anything to say regarding the coal strike conference. President Mitchell said he did not care to be questioned or referred to in any way in connection with the meeting.

Asphalt Company's Reorganization.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The plan for the reorganization of the National Asphalt company and the Asphalt Company of America, which are in the hands of receivers, has been declared operative. The two committees representing the majority interests in both corporations met at the office of the Commercial Trust company and scheduled the assents thus far received. The reports showed that holders of 88 per cent of the asphalt fives, of which $30,000,000 was issued by the Asphalt Company of America, 76 per cent of the bonds issued by the National Asphalt company, 88 per cent of the preferred stock of the National Asphalt company and 83 per cent of the common stock of the same corporation had agreed to the majority plan, and it was at once formally declared adopted.

Five Killed In Railway Collision.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 3.—Five persons have been killed and three injured in a head end collision between two freight trains in a tunnel near Cornwallis, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Fred Pearce, engineer of one train; William Miller, a brakeman, and a tramp were killed. It is thought several others are in the tunnel, and two bodies can be seen, but are beyond reach at the present time. One train carried several cars of cattle, all of which were killed or injured. Twenty cars were wrecked, and the tunnel is filled with debris.

A Hunting Fatality.

SUFFIELD, Conn., Oct. 3.—Clarence Lamberton, ten years old, is dead from the effects of a shot wound received while he was gunning in the woods with John Barrett, aged twenty-five. A charge of shot from Barrett's gun entered Lamberton's thigh. The medical examiner decided that the shooting was accidental.

Railroad Deal In Ohio.

MARIETTA, O., Oct. 3.—The Wabash system has closed negotiations for the Marietta, Columbus and Cleveland railroad. The line is forty-three miles long, running from Marietta to Palos, where it connects with the Toledo and Ohio Central. The Wabash will use the road in connection with its seaboard lines.

General Weyler to Resign.

MADRID, Oct. 3.—It is currently reported here that General Weyler, minister of war, will resign his portfolio on the reopening of the chamber of deputies in consequence of King Alfonso's refusal to sign certain military decrees which have been presented to his majesty by General Weyler.

Spanish Naval Plans.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Express says in a dispatch that he has learned that during the coming eight years Spain intends to build twelve large ironclads, eight fast cruisers, seventy-seven torpedo boats and ten submarine vessels.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The local employes of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway, who recently formed a baseball nine, will play a team from the Staten Island Rapid Transit road employes, Monday afternoon. The Staten Islanders will start out early Monday morning and, before the game, will be given a trolley ride over all the lines of the local company.

GOLF.

The play for the handicap cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds next Saturday, open to members of the Hillside and Park Clubs, will be continued all day.

Yesterday's second round play in the women's national golf championship at Brookline, witnessed the defeat of Mrs. N. P. Rogers, by Miss Bessie Anthony, of Glenview, western champion, 4 up and 3 to play. In the afternoon Miss Anthony was defeated by Miss Hecker 2 up.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The I. C. T. football team has a number of dates open and would like to hear from the elevens at Cranford and Roselle. Communications should be sent to G. L. Apgar, East Front street.

The Alis football team will line-up against the Westfield A. C., at 3:45 tomorrow afternoon, on the Plainfield avenue grounds.

The first football game to be played by the I. C. T. Club will be witnessed Saturday with the Orange Field Club on Orange Oval, Arlington avenue. Another football game scheduled for Saturday is one between Alis and the Westfield eleven on Hope Common.

The Somerset A. C. will open its football season tomorrow when it will play the St. Mary's team on the Mountain avenue grounds. Some hard practice has been done by the Somerset boys and Captain Hamilton of that team is looking forward to Saturday's game with a great deal of confidence.

TENNIS.

Considerable interest is being evidenced in the approaching tennis match between A. B. Beers and Kenneth Bulkley, which will be played next Saturday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts. Both are fine players. The winner of this match will have to play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the club championship cup.

JUSTICE THE VICTIM.

Judge Mattison Has a Jersey City Woman Arrested for Robbery.

Annie Cirstero, forty years old, claiming Jersey City as her home, was arrested this afternoon by Chief Marshal Campbell charged with robbing Justice Mattison of $23. She visited his office just before noon today claiming that she wanted to buy some property. When she departed, the money was missing. A warrant was issued for her arrest by Justice Smalley and a hearing was set down for tonight at 7 o'clock.

Twenty-Four More Votes.

Freeholder William A. Westphal escorted seventeen Plainfielders to Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and assisted them in getting their naturalization papers. Today he accompanied another batch of seven prospective citizens to the county seat and saw that they were made Americans. It required a special sitting of the court to have the last lot put through.

GRACE CHURCH HAS CALLED NEW RECTOR

Extended Call to Rev. Edw. V. Stevenson, Senior Assistant at St. Michael's.

ACCEPTANCE ASSURED.

HAS BEEN AT ST. MICHAEL'S PARISH, NEW YORK, TWO YEARS.

Is a Graduate of Trinity University, Toronto, Canada — Socially a Charming Man and An Ardent Lover of Outdoor Sports.

Within a short time it is expected that Grace Episcopal church will have a new rector in the person of Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, M. A., now senior assistant at St. Michael's parish, New York City. The vestry of Grace church has extended a call to Mr. Stevenson and it is practically a certainty that he will accept. He is about thirty-five years of age and very popular. Socially, he is a charming person to meet, while he has dignity that will win for him many friends. He is an ardent lover of pure sports and is an excellent golf and tennis player. In build he is an athlete.

The vestry is now awaiting a formal letter of acceptance from Mr. Stevenson which should be received within a few days. It will then be known just when he will be able to enter upon his new duties in Plainfield.

In 1890, Mr. Stevenson graduated from Trinity University, Toronto, Canada, and received his degree from some college in 1892. He was ordained deacon by the Right Reverend Arthur Sweatman, Bishop of Toronto, in July 1892. The same Bishop ordained him priest in advent 1893.

From 1892-1895 he was curate at St. Stephen's church, Toronto, and from 1895-1899 curate at St. John's cuhrch, Peterborough, Canada. In 1899, he came to St. Michael's parish, New York, and was appointed curate in 1900. For the last ten months the rector of St. Michael's, Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, has been abroad and Mr. Stevenson has had charge of the parish which is one of the largest in New York City.

NO LEAGUE YET.

Meeting of Basket Ball Teams Adjourned to Give Two Organizations a Chance to Act.

Last evening's meeting failed to see the basket ball league formally organized. The Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A. and Leal's School were ready to join and their representatives were present with power to act. Hope Y. M. A. will hold a meeting Tuseday night and Company K a meeting Wednesday night when it will be decided definitely whether those organizations are coming in the league.

It was to allow those two organizations to join the league if they desired that it was decided to make a final adjournment until next Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building. It is also possible that during the interium the Plainfield High School may decide to enter. Of those represented last evening, the general feeling seemed to be that there should be at least four teams in the league. There was much interest shown and it is believed that the next meeting will result in the formation of the much takled of league.

Change in Police.

The regular monthly shift of beats was made by Chief Kiely, in the local force, Thursday. Patrolmen Overbaugh and Vanderweg now look after the business section by day while Patrolmen Saffron and Quass do the same at night. Patrolman McCarthy is again doing plain clothes duty.

Wedding Next Week.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Frederick R. Phillips, of West Front street, to Miss Grace Douglass, of Brooklyn. The event will be celebrated at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. E. Marsland, in Brooklyn, Wednesday evening, October 8, at 8 o'clock.

Finger Crushed in Gear.

As the result of an accident which befell him at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday, Wm. Dilts, of West Fourth street, is detained from work. His hand became caught in a gear and one finger was badly crushed. It was dressed at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Rally Day Tomorrow.

The pupils of the Hope chapel Sunday-school will hold rally day exercises tomorrow. An appropriate programme of songs and recitations will be given in charge of the teachers.

"MACHINE" WAS NOT PRESENT AT PRIMARY

Only Part of the Republican Party in North Plainfield Turned Out Last Night.

WERE NO CONTESTS.

NO TROUBLE IN SELECTING THE DELEGATES TO COUNTY CONVENTION.

Mayor Smalley and His Friends Were Conspicuous by Their Absence at Republican Borough Primary Last Evening.

There was every indication that the Republican primary in North Plainfield last evening would be a decidedly warm affair, but when the members of the party—that is a portion of it—met in Saengerbund Hall at 8 o'clock, the temperature dropped to a normal degree and the business was transacted in the usual quiet manner.

There was one thing noticeable, however, that the assemblage bore a strange appearance for the reason that the "machine" was not there. Such personages as Mayor Smalley, Senator Reed and their many followers were missing. It was a strange situation, especially so because these people have always been in evidence. Many expressed various opinions regarding the absentees and said that it was too bad that the question of annexation should cause a split in the party ranks.

John G. MacLaughlin called the meeting to order and Dr. H. K. Carroll was made chairman. J. Herbert Case was chosen secretary. This business being concluded and the call read, the work of nominating four delegates from the borough and one from the township, was taken up. The following were nominated: John G. MacLaughlin, Charles S. Lee, Thomas S. Armstrong, Harry Coddington, Stephen Beeching and Dr. J. H. Cooley. Mr. Beeching is from the township. There being six nominees it was necessary to have a ballot. There were a number of prepared ballots bearing the names of Newton B. Smalley, Thomas Doud, Dr. Cooley, John G. MacLaughlin and Stephen J. Beeching, but the first two names were scratched off, and other names substituted. The reason for this was that the Mayor and Mr. Doud were not nominated at the primary.

There were ninety-four votes cast, divided as follows: John G. MacLaughlin, 71; Charles S. Lee, 76; Thomas S. Armstrong, 70; Harry Coddington, 56; Stephen Beeching, 88; Dr. J. H. Cooley, 92. The chairman announced the successful ticket which was with the name of Mr. Coddington omitted.

In addition to this vote, N. B. Smalley and Thomas Doud, as well as Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, each received one vote. The tellers selected to count the votes were H. H. Webb and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan. There was one rejected ballot. After A. V. D. Honeyman moved that the delegates be empowered to fill vacancies, the meeting adjourned.

NO LIGHTS.

Neither Wheelman Saw the Other and Trouble Followed.

From the fact that neither had a light on his wheel, Charles Sprague and George Gedner, of the West End, collided while going at full force in opposite directions on West Fourth street, last evening. Both riders were thrown headlong and although they escaped without broken limbs, each received severe abrasions. The bicycles were smashed almost beyond repair.

Seymour N. Marsh to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Kendall Smith have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Emma Proctor, to Seymour Nathanial Marsh, formerly of Putnam avenue, this city, on Saturday afternoon, October 18, at 5 o'clock, at Franklin, New York. The couple will be "at home" after November 15, at 31 South Portland avenue, Brooklyn.

No Services Tomorrow.

No services will be held in Grace M. E. church tomorrow owing to the fact that the new carpet has not been laid. Oct. 12 is the date now set for the re-opening. The new pipe organ has been shipped and will be set up in time for the special re-opening services. The interior decorating of the chruch is almost finished.

Tomorrow's Meeting.

Todd B. Hall, the Baltimore detective, will address the "big meeting" at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Thomas McDonald will sing. All men are invited.

TOO MUCH DRUNK.

John Dorgan Tried Stunts and Must Go to County Jail.

John Dorgan, of the West End, who has been apprehended by the police on numerous occasions, was arrested by Patrolman Vanderweg, yesterday afternoon, for disorderly conduct on Park avenue. Coming out of a saloon he attempted to cut a few shines with a rig standing near the curb but was too much under the influence of "red eye" to hold himself in the wagon. City Judge Runyon sentenced him to sixty days straight.

HARMONY CONFERENCE FAILED

WHY MAYOR SMALLEY AND HIS FRIENDS DIDN'T ATTEND PRIMARY.

Harmony Proposition Was Rejected by L. A. Tompson—After a Local Conferenee.

The true facts leading up to the rather peculiar results of last night's borough Republican primaries have just come out. It seems that early this week there was an informal conference "across the brook" between Mayor Smalley, John G. McLaughlin, Thos. Doud and Henry A. McGee. At the conference Mayor Smalley expressed a willingness to do everything in his power to patch up all factional differences and "dig right in for harmony."

Asked under what consideration he would be willing to do this, Mr. Smalley stated that he desired the chairmanship of the county committee and the nomination of surrogate with the understanding that his nominee would be supported. Geo. L. Brown, it was understood, would be his nominee.

At that time Mr. MacLaughlin stated that he considered Mr. Smalley's demands reasonable enough, and on the strength of the assertion, a primary ballot was prepared including the names of Smalley and Doud for delegates to the county convention.

Later Lewis A. Thompson, the Somerville leader, was communicated with by Mr. MacLaughlin. Thompson, it is stated, absolutely put his foot down on any such arrangement. In consequence neither Smalley or Doud were represented at last night's primary.

The feeling seems to be that Thompson is after the chairmanship himself, hoping through it, to again get all of his lost prestige. In the meantime the differences remain unpatched.

Fell From Apple Tree.

Hubert Phillips, a well-known Washington Valley farmer, suffered a broken collar bone a few days ago by falling from an apple tree. He was in the topmost branches when he lost his balance and fell headlong. He was brought to this city and Dr. Boone, who attended him, found that he had also suffered internal hurts in addition to the break.

A Little Surprise.

A surprise party was given to Miss Grace Stevenson, of the borough, yesterday afternoon by a number of her friends. They spent a pleasant afternoon in playing games and dancing. Among those present were Edith Kline, Ethel Barnes, Frances, Willie and Roy Moore, Raymond Kline, Mrs. Kilne, Mrs. Gibson, Grace Cowling and Mrs. Barnes.

Four Days Fair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church has planned to hold a fair for four days, commencing November 20. It is possible that the store on Park avenue formerly occpied by G. W. Rockfellow, the grocer, will be used.

—Manning F. Gane and family, of Annandale, have taken up their residence in Plainfield.

—Miss Tena Thompson has returned from Caldwell, N. J., to her home at 313 West Front street, where she will continue her china painting.

—Neuman Brothers invite all Plainfielders to see their display of fruit this afternoon and evening. It consists of peaches, grapes and many others.

—G F. Sherman, of the Philadlephia and Reading Railroad Company, will succeed C. P. Adams as superintendent of telegraph on the New Jersey Central.

—Repairs are being made to the surface drainage pipes along Washington avenue, leading from Front street to the brook. Heretofore, this drainage has given trouble in carrying off water.

John Crawford, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, together with his family, has been spending a few days in this city. Mr. Crawford is a member of the real estate firm of Buck & Crawford, 503 Fifth avenue, New York.

SOMERSET IS VIEWED FROM COUNTY SEAT

A Somerville Correspondent Sums Up the Situation in Both Parties Today.

MENTION MANY NAMES

REPUBLICAN CHOICE FOR SENATOR IS FRELINGHUYSEN, OF SOMERVILLE.

S. S. Childs or N. Y. Dungan Against Him—Lots of Political Gossip of Both Parties Heard at the County Seat.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 4—With both the Republican and Democratic county conventions near at hand candidates are looming up from all quarters for the various nominations. In fact, it looks as if some very stirring scenes will be enacted next Monday, when the Republicans will convene, and Wednesday, when the Democrats meet to place a ticket in the field. The Democratic candidates for the different offices, however, seem to be much more numerous than those of the other party. Many seem to think that this is indication of Democratic success at the polls in November. Certain it is that both parties are going to make the fight of their lives in Somerset this fall.

For Senator, in this section, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, seems to be the only candidate the Republicans have, and his friends expect to see him have a walk-over in the convention. On the Democratic side there seems to be only two possible candidates—Samuel S. Childs, of Bernardsville and Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville. The former has been making little or no effort, and, in fact, many of his friends do not know whether or not he wll accept the nomination should it be tendered him. The close run he made last fall for Assembly many believe entitles him to another chance for office. Maj. Dungan has many backers and is confident of success. He has made a thorough canvass, and has worked hard for success.

The Republicans have no men for Assembly in view. In truth, the nomination seems to go abegging. Not so the Democrats. There are Freeholders E. V. Cruser, of Montgomery township and T. E. Gibson, of Franklin, who have large followings. A. V. D. Polhemus, of Franklin Park, is also a possible candidate for the nomination, while William Prout, of Bernards, a young lawyer who also practices in Newark is setting his cap for the prize.

Both of the great parties have many candidates for the surrogate nomination. Deputy Sheriff John L. Anderson is out for the office on the Democrat side and he has a host of friends who will back him in the convention. William J. DeMoud, Michael Scully and G. A. Vosseller have some followers. Former Surrogate A. T. Huff is making a fight for the plum. The present Surrogate A. G. Spencer is also desirous of a renomination. The Republicans are also many for this office, but P. V. D. VanDoren, of Millstone, seems to have the nomination cinched, although Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, will doubtless give him a hot race. William Stryker and M. P. Lane, of Somerville, are other possibilities.

Surely there are enough candidates for the nominations and next week we will see what we will see.

IRON WORKERS STRUCK.

Returned to Work on the Babcock Building, But Didn't Settle It.

Ten expert iron workers from New York City, in the employ of Contractor Zabriskie, of Hackensack, who is doing the skeleton construction work on the Babcock building, went on strike, Wednesday. The men objected to working with non-union laborers hired in this city.

No settlement could be affected between employer and men until a delegate of the Iron Workers' Union came out from New York and induced them to return while the matter was being considered. They resumed their places, yesterday, while the grievance is being arbitrated.

At Kaltenborn Concert.

At the Kaltenborn summer night concert in the Circle Auditorium in New York last evening, Miss Florence Wohlfert, of Watchung, was the violin soloist. She is a pupil of Franz Kaltenborn, and she has been eminently successful as a violinist, being received with much praise by all who have heard her.

FREE FIREWOOD.

Mayor Drake is Going to Distribute it to People of Lincoln.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, October 4—A meeting of citizens has been called for this evening by Mayor S. D. Drake at which he will announce that free fire wood will be distributed to the residents of Lincoln until the coal strike is over. He has control of some five acres of valuable woodland. Those who do not care to cut the wood themselves can have it cut at a nominal charge. Otherwise it will be free.

A PERFECT LADY IN COURT

ACCUSED OF HELPING HERSELF TO JUSTICE MATTISON'S CASH.

Given a Hearing Before Justice Smalley and Held for the Grand Jury.

Mary Low, of New York, otherwise known as Annie Cirstero, of Jersey City, was given a hearing before Justice Smalley last night on a charge of illegally relieving Justice Mattison of the sum of $23 yesterday morning.

At the hearing Mrs. Low-Cirstero indignantly and volubly denied the charge, and, weeping bitterly, said that she was a perfect lady and was morally incapable of any manner of wrongdoing. She also denied that a bunch of peculiar looking keys found on her person were skeleton keys. They were, she explained between sobs, merely keys so constructed as to open any old door. The gentle female promised to "fix" Chief Marshal Campbell for arresting her. She stated that, in her opinion, the entire population of North Plainfield was endeavoring to send her to the electric chair. Judge Smalley held her without bail for the grand jury.

As told in yesterday's Daily Press Mrs. Cirstero-Low wandered into Justice Mattison's office at 10 o'clock and said she had $5,000 worth of real estate that she wished the Judge would endeavor to dispose of for her. The woman of various names and cities was well dressed and of about forty summers. While the Judge was listening to her real estate description, he claimed that her hand stole gently into his pocket. When it emerged he alleged that it contained a small roll of judicial cash.

He missed it later and notified Chief Marshal Campbell. That officer picked up the woman landowner on the corner of Pearl street and Watchung avenue and escorted her back to Mattison's office. When there, the Marshal declares she laid the borrowed cash down on a table. That was Mrs. Low-Cirstero's finish.

About fifty people attended the hearing. The accused did most of the talking. When she stopped to catch her breath Judge Smalley embraced the opportunity to her other witnesses. It can be safely said, however, that the stranger from Jersey City and New York conducted the trial. Judge Smalley says so himself.

Prior to Chief Campbell taking the woman to Somerville this morning it is stated that she confessed to having been mixed up in similar cases. According to the alleged confession she has served three years in Auburn, New York, for "borrowing" loose cash from unsuspecting and unprotected men.

BUSINESS AMD PLEASURE.

At Session os Epworth League of First M. E. Church.

With a large number of members in attendance, the first fall meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, was held last evening. Only routine matters were transacted and the session was a short one.

After the business matters had been completed the members were taken in charge by Harry Gee, chairman of the social committee, and sides were chosen for pillow-dex. Great enjoyment was derived from the games which occupied the remainder of the evening, with the exception of a short period at the close when refreshments were served.

Classis Meets at Harlingen.

The Classis of Philadelphia of the Reformed church will be held at Harlingen, Somerset county, Tuesday, October 14, commencing at 10:45 o'clock in the morning. Carriages will be at the Belle Meade Station at 9:40 o'clock to meet train from Philadelphia, and also at 11:06 to meet train from Bound Brook.

Going to Farmer's Congress.

W. H. Rogers, of Washington Valley, will leave tomorrow for Macon, Ga., to attend the National Farmers' Congress, which will be in session from October 7 to 10. He is one of the two delegates from New Jersey.

WOULD REVOLUTIONIZE ALL STEAM POWER

Remarkable Possibilities in Invention of James Wallace Tygard, of South Avenue.

IS A ROTARY ENGINE.

GREAT CLAIMS ARE MADE FOR IT BY THE INVENTOR.

It is a Positive Expansion, Reversible, Rotary Engine—Predicts Trains Running at 200 Miles an Hour.

After years of patient effort, James Wallace Tygard, of South avenue, has constructed an engine, which he, and other experts who have seen it, promise will work a revolution in the mechanical world. It is a positive expansion, reversible, rotary engine, having all the merits of the famous turbine engine and possessing in addition important features which the latter lacks.

The turbine contrivance has its limitation, but the new invention has no reciprocation and its power is claimed to be beyond description. Through its use, Mr. Tygard declares that a railroad train will move at a speed of 200 miles an hour without any difficulty and the same assertion applies to an ocean greyhound. In fact, he says that its only speed limit is that produced by centrifugal force. Complete patents have been granted him in this county and first patents have been given in France, Germany, Great Britain and other countries. He is now waiting for the final patents to be given him in the European countries, before the engine is placed on exhibition publicly. Until that time arrives he refuses to give the details of his invention, but to a Daily Press reporter yesterday for the first time to any newspaper he outlined his theory and gave a practical demonstration of its workings. The engine is closely guarded in his shop where he has worked incessantly.

The engine is rotary in the strictest sense, all parts revolving, and hence it is capable of any speed at which the turbine may be run. To the reporter Mr. Tygard said concerning the machine: "It differs from the turbine in having positive cut off and expansion similar to that used in ordinary reciprocal engines. The one you see consists of four moving parts and these all revolved so there is no reciprocation to any single part and consequently there is no vibration. It hangs suspended from a chain without any foundation and runs from 1 to 5,000 turns per minute. It is constantly reversible while going at any rate of speed without the slightest shock or jar." Mr. Tygard claims that through its use the consumption of coal is reduced one half and all skilled attendants are dispensed with, the only requirement being in filling the journal oil cups.

The model engine in his shop has developed eight brake horse power at fifty pounds boiler pressure and this power, he says, would be doubled at 100 pounds boiler pressure. It weights but 175 pounds. Demonstration engines are being built in Philadelphia under the direction of the inventor. This particular contrivance is adopted for the propulsion of steamships, locomotives, automobiles and for the generation of electricity as well as to all uses to which a steam motor can be put. The simple construction reduces the wear to a minimum.

The inventor declares that the trouble with turbine engines has been that they will not allow instant reversing and cites the difficulties encountered with the Vixen, Viper and Cobra, three vessels in the British Navy, as instances in point. When used on water craft the turbine, he says, can't be made to run slowly and can't be used in case of small power, and these difficulties he claims to have overcome.

Out of 5,000 previous attempts at such rotary engines, he states that only two have been successful. His design is entirely original in nature and consequently he has been granted a basic patent by the Government. The British admiralty paid millions for Parson's turbine, and Mr. Tygard confidently believes that there is a big fortune in his invention.

Former Plainfielder to Wed.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Miss Anna Fenner, formrely of this city, but now of Pluckemin, to Mr. Watt, of Brooklyn. The affair will be celebrated Thursday, October 16, at the home of the bride.

FIRE COMMITTEE GRANTED WARREN ENGINE COMPANY'S REQUEST.

To Hurry Up the New the Engine House—The Sewer Commission Made No Report—Other Routine Business at the Meeting.

Considerable routine business was transacted last night at the meeting of the Borough Council. All the councilmen were present and there was a number of spectators. Mayor Smalley presided.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30. A communication was read from Chief Stahl, of the fire department, requesting permission for Warren Engine Company to take its engine to New Brunswick Tuesday. This was turned over to the committee which later reported that there was no objection to the plan as long as the borough was left during the day with sufficient fire protection.

A petition, signed by six residents of Maple avenue requesting that electric lights be placed along that thoroughfare, north of Greenbrook road, was read. This will be done as soon as possilble. The report of the sewerage committee was not received, Mr. Hegeman having notified the Council that it was not yet ready.

According to the treasurer's report there is a cash balance of $1,984.69 on hand. A resolution was adopted authorizing the Council to augment this by a call loan of $1,000.

That the borough was peaceful last month was shown by the report of Chief Marshall Campbell. But six arrests were made and four of these were on charges of intoxication.

In the matter of the new fire house it was the sense of the meeting that no time should be lost in perfecting the purchase of the site. The lot has already been picked out and an option secured. The transfer will probably take place at an early date. A majority of the members seemed to think that the building should be started this fall. Plans have been accepted and Councilman Clark desired to be informed why the architect has not submitted specifications.

It was decided that the architect should immediately be notified and, so that no time should be lost, it was moved and carried that when the meeting adjourned it should adjourn subject to the call of the Mayor. A resolution by Councilman Nichols provided that $50, due Chas. F. Smith, the architect, for drawing up the plans for the fire house be paid. This was approved and the meeting then adjourned.

HARMONY REIGNED.

Borough Democrats Held Their Primaries Last Evening Without the Shadow of a Contest.

Everything was harmony itself at last evening's borough Democratic primaries. Fifty tried and true members of the party were in attendance at the First district and held in the basement of the High School and forty appeared at Saengerbund Hall, where the Second district held its caucus.

John H. VanWinkle, Jr., called the voters of the First district to order and was afterward made chairman. John Carney was elected secretary, and W. J. Conroy and W. T. Cade delegates to the county convention. When nominations for the county committee were called for, John H. VanWnikle, Jr., and David J. Carney were named, but the former promptly withdrew leaving the field clear to the other nominee.

Walter Linbarger called the Second district to order and Lewis Kline was placed in the chair. Linbarger acted as secretary and Frank Krewson and L. B. Bodine were named as delegates. Walter Linbarger was again elected a member of the county committee. As in the First district everything was harmonious.

The Formal Opening.

Bishop C. C. McCabe in speaking of Prof. Ford, says: "Every time I hear him he makes me feel a year younger. He makes me laugh and cry and that does me good. WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Arens, of Rahway road, is at Lake Mohonk for a time.

Miss Kate Connolly, of Plainfield, has been spending a few days at High Bridge.

Miss Almira Compton, of Pluckemin, has been visiting with Plainfield friends.

Miss Gertrude French, of Cambridge, Mass., is the guest of Plainfield friends.

James Bulmer, of this city, has been visiting friends in High Bridge for a week past.

Miss Kernochan, of Newburg, is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. W. Currie, of Central avenue.

Mrs. Charles E. Greer, of Grove street, has been visiting out-of-town friends for the week.

Mrs. McWilliam, of Somerville, has been visiting Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Currie, of Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holder, of West Fifth street, have been visiting at Landsdown, Hunterdon county.

The home of C. B. Rittenhouse on West Sixth street, is under quarantine, owing to a case of diphtheria in the family.

Miss Edith Annin, of Liberty Corner, is visiting Plainfield friends for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Truell, of Central avenue, will go to Washington Monday to attend the G. A. R. festivities.

Mrs. C. E. Horne, of Willow avenue, who has been traveling abroad for some months, will soon return to her home.

Mrs. Connor, of Pittsburg, has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, of West Seventh street, and Mrs. S. T. Wilson, of Sycamore avenue.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Reserved seats for the Y. M. C. A. Star Course are still on sale at Hodge's pharmacy.

—The work of rebuilding the Babcock building was commenced this week and is progressing slowly.

—Miss Alice Johnson, of Grove street, has accepted a position as stenographer with the Rogers Corporation.

—Work of excavating the cellar for the erection of a new building on the Sebring property on West Front street is well under way.

—There will be the celebration of the Lord's Supper at the German Lutheran church on Grove street, tomorrow morning.

—The Volunteer League and Missionary Bible Study Class of the Y. M. C. A. will meet Monday evening; missionary topic, "Japan;" Bible study topic, "Messengers to the World," John xxvii :18. All men are invited.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The source of supply of the household groceries is an important matter. So is the price. Settle both to your own satisfaction by trading with Callahan & Son.

If you have not seen the new shapes in men's and women's shoes at Willett & Son's shoe store on Park avenue, it will pay you to do so. These shoes are the proper thing for fall and winter wear.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has received a large assortment of atomizers for the throat and nose. They are made for the use of oil or water. The prices are within the reach of all.

Don't lose sleep or worry yourself sick over the scarcity of coal, while Gavett is selling the Backus heater, the stove question is a back number. Just drop in at the store and see a practical demonstration.

Putnam & DeGraw, the West Front street dry goods merchants, have received their fall and winter goods and they are showing a most attractive line at low prices. Dressmakers will find this an ideal place to secure trimmings, etc., needed in the making of a dress.

Smalley Bros., the North avenue butchers, report that they have an excellent supply of spring duck, roasting chicken and "broilers" on hand. Their supply of meats is also good. Anyone purchasing meats from Smalley Bros. can rest assured they are getting an excellent article.

Hawe's hats still continue to sell well at the store of J. R. Blair, 126 Park avenue. Mr. Blair handles a full line of men's furnishing goods. He prides himself on being able to "fit out" any dressy man and anyone seeing his stock is quickly convinced that in Blair's store can be found anything he wants.

W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, has made a deservedly high reputation in North Plainfield. His store on the corner of Duer street and Lincoln place, is a model of cleanliness and his goods, while reasonable, are eminently high class. At present he has a stock of canned goods that simply "can't be beat."

In the past few weeks, W. W. Warnock has handled the catering end of some of the largest weddings, receptions and dinners taking place this season. It has been done in the most successful manner thus showing that Warnock is capable of doing the same thing that people put themselves to trouble and expense to have Metropolitan people do. He assumes personal charge of contracts.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

SINGING OPERA.

Daughter of Resident of Washington Valley Takes a Leading Part.

Felix de Chevronette, a well-known resident of Washington Valley, has received word from his daughter, Ariadne, who has been studying voice culture in Paris for the past four years under the direction of the great master, La Donville, that she has been engaged for a leading part in "Trovatore" which is to be presented in November at the Royal Opera House in Dresden.

Miss de Chevronette has received most flattering press notices as a result of her few appearances heretofore and is described as being possessed of a wonderfully strong and sweet mezzo soprano voice, which in earlier days was the source of much pleasure to visitors at her father's home and which even then gave rare promise.

I. C. T.'s Always Active.

The I. C. T. Club, at its last meeting, decided to tender another reception and dance in the club rooms on the evening of October 23. It is also the purpose of the organization to conduct a masquerade Thanksgiving eve.

The Thrust of a Lance

is scarcely more agonizing than the recurrent pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distention of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

CLEARING FOR STATE RESORT

WORK STARTED FOR THE NEW JERSEY SANITARIUM FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

Proposed That It be Conducted on Cottage System—About the Location.

Work has been started on the clearing of the site for the New Jersey Sanitarium for tubercular diseases, to be built on the Joseph Fritts farm, near Glen Gardner, in Hunterdon county.

The Fritts tract contains 450 acres, 220 of which are woodland. The cleared land is situated south of the wooded tract, having a southern exposure, and a complete protection from north, northwest and northeast winds, which will enable the patients to move about during the severe winter months.

This block of land adjoins the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The entrance will be from the depot at Glen Gardner.

Besides this farm, options have been secured on a portion of other tracts, making a total of 650 acres.

It is predicted that the colony will be the largest at any State institution and it is the belief among several of those in charge that the buildings should be erected on the cottage plan, and by erecting several of these instead of one general hospital building it would be more beneficial to the patients.

One of the proposed attractions to be added to the institution is an observation tower on the top of the mountain above the hospital grounds.

From this point a view can be had from one side of the State to the other, New York bay and Staten Island being visible on the east and the Delaware Water Gap and the mountains of Pennsylvania on the west.

The spot is an ideal one for a health resort. It has an elevation of 954 feet above the sea and the air is always pure and fresh. It overlooks the broad and fertile valley between Glen Gardner and Flemington, for a distance of twenty miles. Many towns in upper Hunterdon county are plainly visible from the grounds.

A GREAT LEADER.

Appears With Royal Marine Band at Casino Concert.

Ettore Martini, the great leader, who has been specially engaged by Signor Ferrucio Giannini, the manager of the Royal Marine Band of Italy and Grand Opera Company, which is to be at the Casino next Tuesday, is a nervous excitable little chap who is a revelation to watch. He not only leads with his baton, but also with his head and stampingwith his feet draws forth from his men wonderful music.

Those who may have seats that would enable them to face this wonderful little leader will be surprised to see his lips move as if he was singing. One would naturally think that Signor Martini was speaking to his musicians; but in this they would be mistaken. He never interferes with the men duirng a performnace—as critical as he may be at rehearsal. He is singing! Having lead and staged most of the grand operas at home, he is absolutely familiar with every part which is sung. Consequently in leading a band concert in which each soloist duplicates the human voice, he sings the part of every character in the numerous operatic selections which he plays.

This in itself shows this leader's wonderful versatility; besides those who appreciate good music can realize how well in operatic selections this much heralded band can play the music from the great composers.

CADET DRILL.

Several Promotions Announced at High School Drill Yesterday.

The Plainfield High School battalion met for drill at the High School yesterday morning. The time was mostly spent in company drilling by the captains.

The following promotions were announced to take effect at once: Cadet Howard H. Craig to be sergeant, Cadet Samuel B. Bogart to be corporal, Cadet Phillip Leichtentritt to be corporal, Cadet Paul C. Meyers to be corporal, Cadet Augutus C. Nash to be coporal, Cadet Harry Rottberg to be lance-corporal.

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Notice of hearing objections to assessments for street improvements in the City of Plainfield.

Thomas Hughes, James Chamberlain and Andrew J. Gavett, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas by order entered on the twenty-fifth day of June, 1902, to estimate and asses benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinance of said City specified in said order, said improvements being the macadamizing of

First Place,

Second Place,

Third Place; each from the northerly curb line of East Ninth Street to the southerly curb line of Crescent Avenue.

West Sixth Street, from the southwesterly curb line of Park Avenue to the northeasterly curb line of Plainfield Avenue.

Orchard Place, from the southwesterly curb line of New Street to the northeasterly curb line of Liberty Street.

Carlton Avenue, from the northerly curb line of Watchung Avenue to the southerly curb line of Putnam Avenue, in said city, under and by virtue of the provisions of the Act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in Cities of this State and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same," approved June 13, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by surveys and map prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels and real estate peculiarly benefitted by such improvements, respectively, the cost of the whole work under said ordinance, the portions assessed upon the city at large, and the names, so far as ascertained of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax, and the other matters required by said Acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and map will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given that the said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the seventh day of October, 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said Court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties interested may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

Dated September 17, 1902.

WILLIAM HOWARD,
Clerk of the Union County Court of Common Pleas.

A NEW AGENT FOR CENTRAL

W. C. WALSH, JR., WILL BE DISTRICT PASSENGER AGENT.

Will be Located at Newark, and Will Look After Travel From That Point.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Oct. 4—Walter C. Walsh, Jr., who for six years has been excursion manager and local passenger agent of the Erie and Central Railroads at this city, severed his connection with the former company and has assumed the duties of district passenger agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, with offices in the station at 840 Broad street.

Mr. Walsh will have entire charge of all the passenger business in Essex county and between Newark and New York. During the season just closing more than forty excursions went out over the Central tracks to various points, and next year the new agent expects to appreciably increase this number. As soon as the work of track elevation is completed the Central intends to greatly improve its passenger service between this city and New York, putting on more and better trains, and in every way making an effort to increase its patronage. The development of this service will be the principal duty of the new incumbent, who says that when the contemplated changes are made, the Central will have the finest local service in Newark.

Mr. Walsh has a host of friends who have been kept busy during the last few days congratulating him on his improved prospects. He feels that the field now opened to him has a broad scope, and expects to make the most of it.

THEATRICAL.

"A Celebrated Case" will be given a careful revival by the stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York next week. Minnie Seligman and James Wilson will have the leading roles with such Broadway favorites as Florence Reed, Mrs. Ada Levick, Rose Stuart, Gus Weinberg and Paul Allister in the supporting company. The Twenty-third Street's bill of continuous vaudeville will introduce Clay Clement & Company for the first time in New York varieties. Press Eldridge will be the special feature in his funny black-face turn. R. L. Stockwell & Company will be seen in a dramatic sketch as the headliner. Ralph Cummings has come into immediate favor as the Fifty-eighth Street's leading man. In the scenic revival of "The Power of the Press," next week, he will have abundant opportunity to display his undoubted talent in heroic leads. Up in Harlem the permanent stock company will present "Camille" with popular Adelaide Keim in the name part. "Honey Boy," George Evans will be the topping feature of the vaudeville bill at Proctor's Newark, next week, presenting his new black-face monologue. The Troupe Dematresque will be extra features and Mr. and Mrs. Robyns, in "The Counsel for the Defense," will be special attractions.

Tuesday evening Frank McKee will produce at the Academy of Music, New York, for the first time on any stage, Ramsay Morris's new play, in four acts entitled, "The Ninety and Nine," a name similar to that borne by a hymn made famous by Ira D. Sankey, the celebrated evangelist.

The hymn deals with one "Who was out on the hills away," so does the play, but in this case the wanderer instead of being the conventional woman, who has sinned, is a young man driven to despair and the life of a drunkard, by having a murder fastened upon him through circumstantial evidence, and by losing the love of his promised wife.

The play while not to be classed as a religious drama has nevertheless a strong religious vein running through it, and this Mr. Morris is said to have treated in a manner wholly reverential, and at the same time strikingly dramatical. The production which Mr. McKee is giving the piece will be remarkably elaborate, one scene in particular will be the most stupendous ever seen on the Academy's stage.

In the cast will be Edwin Arden, George F. Nash, Theodore Hamilton, Thomas Ince, Katherine Gray, Mrs. E. A. Eberle, Emma Janvier, Jane Payton, and sixteen other players, in addition there will be a force of 150 supernumeraries.

REDUCED RATES TO CLEVELAND, OHIO.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Geceral Missionary Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

On account of the general missionary convention of the Methodist Episcopal church, at Cleveland, Ohio, October 21 and 24, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland, October 20 and 21, good to return, leaving Cleveland until October 27, inclusive, from all stations on its lines, at reduced rates.

Conference at White House Unavailing.

COAL STRIKE WILL GO ON

President Makes a Strong Plea For Peace.

THE OPERATORS ARE OBSTINATE.

President Mitchell Offers a Plan For Adjusting the Differences, but the Coal Road Presidents Will Not Recognize the Miners' Union or Its Leader.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The great coal conference between the president and representatives of the operators and the miners came to an end at the temporary White House, facing Lafayette square, at 4:55 o'clock in the afternoon, with a failure to reach an agreement. Apparently the rock upon which the conference split was recognition of the miners' union. The president had urged the contending parties to cease strife in the interests of the public welfare, the miners, through the president of their union had expressed a willingness to submit differences to arbitration of a tribunal to be named by the president and to enter into an agreement to abide by terms fixed by the arbitration for a period of from one to five years, and the employers, through the presidents of the railroad and coal companies and the leading independent mine operator, had squarely refused arbitration, had denounced the miners' labor organization as a lawless and anarchistic body, with which they could and would have no dealings, had demanded federal troops to insure complete protection to workers and their families in the mining region and court proceedings against the miners' union and had offered if the men returned to work to submit grievances at individual collieries to the decision of the judges of the court of common pleas for the district of Pennsylvania in which the colliery was located. There the matter closed.

The immediate parties to the strike say they will continue as heretofore. What course the administration will take next no one is prepared to say.

At the temporary White House the following official statement was given out concerning the coal conference:

The conference opened at 11 o'clock. The operators and representatives of the miners were presented to the president. Those in attendance were: George F. Baer, president of the Reading railway; W. H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western; E. B. Thomas, chairman of the board of the Erie Railroad company; Thomas P. Fowler, president of the New York, Ontario and Western railway; David Wilcox, vice president and general counsel of the Delaware and Hudson company; John Markle, representing the independent operators; John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America; Thomas D. Nicholls, Thomas Duffy and John Fahy, district presidents of the United Mine Workers of America; Attorney General Knox, Secretary Cortelyou and Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor.

The president at the outset expressed his hearty thanks for their attendance and stated that, owing to his peculiar relations to the situation, he felt that he should make to them a very careful statement of his position and of his intentions in asking them to meet.

APPEAL BY THE PRESIDENT.

The president, fully realizing the importance of the communication that he was to make, had prepared a carefully worded paper setting forth in detail his position on the pending controversy. The president said:

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that there are three parties affected by the situation in the anthracite trade—the operators, the miners and the general public. I speak for neither the operators nor the miners, but for the general public. The questions at issue which led to the situation affect immediately the parties concerned—the operators and the miners—but the situation itself vitally affects the public.

"As long as there seemed to be a reasonable hope that these matters could be adjusted between the parties it did not seem proper to me to intervene in any way. I disclaim any right or duty to intervene in this way upon legal grounds or upon any official relation that I bear to the situation, but the urgency and the terrible nature of the catastrophe impending over a large portion of our people impel me after much anxious thought to believe that my duty requires me to use whatever influence I personally can to bring to an end a situation which has become literally intolerable.

"I wish to emphasize the character of the situation and to say that its gravity is such that I am constrained urgently to insist that each one of you realize the heavy burden of responsibility upon him. We are upon the threshold of winter with an already existing coal famine the future terrors of which we can hardly yet appreciate. The evil possibilities are so farreaching, so appalling, that it seems to me that you are not only justified in sinking, but required to sink for the time being, any tenacity as to your respective claims in the matter at issue between you. In my judgment the situation imperatively requires that you meet upon the common plane of the necessities of the public. With all the earnestness there is in me I ask that there be an immediate resumption of operations in the coal mines in some such way as will without a day's unnecessary delay meet the crying needs of the people.

"I do not invite a discussion of your respective claims and positions. I appeal to your patriotism, to the spirit that sinks personal considerations and makes individual sacrifices for the general good."

Upon the completion of the president's remarks Mr. Mitchell made a statement as follows:

"Mr. President, I am much impressed with what you say. I am much impressed with the gravity of the situation. We feel that we are not responsible for this terrible state of affairs. We are willing to meet the gentlemen representing the coal operators to try to adjust our differences among ourselves. If we cannot adjust them that way, Mr. President, we are willing that you shall name a tribunal who shall determine the issues that have resulted in the strike, and if the gentlemen representing the operators will accept the award or decision of such a tribunal the miners will willingly accept it, even if it is against their claims."

The President—Before considering what ought to be done I think it only just to both of you—both sides—and desirable from my standpoint that you should have time to consider what I have stated as to the reasons for my getting you together, and I shall trespass so far upon your good nature as to ask that this interview cease now and that you come back at 3 o'clock. I should like you to think over what I have stated—not to decide now, but give it careful thought and return at 3 o'clock.

The conference then adjourned until 3 o'clock. Upon reassembling Mr. Baer spoke as follows:

"Mr. President, do we understand you correctly that we will be expected to answer the proposition submitted by Mr. Mitchell this morning?"

The President—It will be a pleasure to me to hear any answer that you are willing to make.

PRESIDENT BAER'S ANSWER.

The following is the text of the statement by Mr. George F. Baer, president of the Reading railroad:

"We understand your anxiety is forcibly expressed in the statement you read to us this morning to bring about 'an immediate resumption of operations in the coal mines in some such way as will, without a day's unnecessary delay, meet the crying needs of the people.' We infer that you desired us to consider the offer of Mr. Mitchell, verbally made this morning, expressing and speaking for the United Mine Workers, to go back to work if you would appoint a commission to determine the questions at issue.

"You distinctly say that you 'do not invite a discussion of your respective claims and positions.' But we assume that a statement of what is going on in the coal regions will not be irrelevant. We represent the owners of coal mines in Pennsylvania. There are from 15,000 to 20,000 men at work mining and preparing coal. They are abused, assaulted, injured and maltreated by the United Mine Workers. They can only work under the protection of armed guards. Thousands of other workmen are deterred from working by the intimidation, violence and crimes inaugurated by the United Mine Workers, over whom John Mitchell, whom you invited to meet you, is chief.

"The constitution of Pennsylvania guarantees protection to life and property. In express terms it declares the right of acquiring, possessing and defending property 'to be inalienable.' When a riot and anarchy too great to be appeased by the civil power occur, the governor of Pennsylvania is bound to call out the state troops to suppress it. He must fearlessly use the whole power of the state to protect life and property and to establish peace, not an armed truce, but the peace of the law which protects every man at work and going to and from work. He has sent troops to the coal regions. Gradually the power of the law is asserting itself. Unless encouraged by false hopes order will soon be restored, and then we can mine coal to meet the public wants. If the power of Pennsylvania is insufficient to re-establish the reign of law, the constitution of the United States requires the president when requested by the legislature and the governor 'to suppress violence.' You see, there is a lawful way to secure coal for the public.

"The duty of the hour is not to waste time negotiating with the fomenters of this anarchy and insolent defiance of law, but to do as was done in the war of the rebellion—restore the majesty of law, the only guardian of a free people, and to re-establish order and peace at any cost.

"The government is a contemptible failure if it can only protect the lives and property and secure the comfort of the people by compromising with the violators of law and the instigators of violence and crime.

"Just now it is more important to teach ignorant men dwelling among us, misled and used as tools by citizens of other states, that at whatever cost and inconvenience to the public Pennsylvania will use the whole power of government to protect not only the man who wants to work, but his wife and children while he is at work, and to punish every man who by instigation or by overt acts attempts to deprive any man of his liberty to work.

"Under these conditions we decline to accept Mr. Mitchell's considerate offer to let our men work on terms he names. He has no right to come from Illinois to dictate terms on the acceptance of which anarchy and crime shall cease in Pennsylvania. He must stop his people from killing, maiming and abusing Pennsylvania citizens and from destroying property. He must stop it because it is unlawful and not because of any bargain with us.

"We will add to our offer to continue the wages existing at the time of strike and to take up at each colliery and adjust any grievance this further condition: If the employers and employees at any particular colliery cannot reach a satisfactory adjustment of any alleged grievance, it shall be referred to the judges of the court of common pleas of the district in which the colliery is situated for final determination."

MITCHELL'S OFFER.

The following is the text of the statement made to the president in the afternoon by the official representatives of the miners' union:

"Mr. President, at the conference this morning we, the accredited representatives of the anthracite coal mine workers, were much impressed with the views you expressed and the dangers to the welfare of our country from a prolongation of the coal strike that you so clearly pointed out. Conscious of the responsibility resting upon us, conscious of our duty to society, conscious of our obligations to the 150,000 mine workers whom we have the honor to represent, we have given most careful consideration and with the hope of relieving the situation and averting the sufferings and hardships which would inevitably follow in the wake of a coal famine decided to propose a resumption of coal mining upon the lines hereinafter suggested.

"Before doing so, Mr. President, we desire to say that we are not prompted to suggest this course because of any doubts of the justice of our claims. In deference to your wishes we are prompted by no fear on our part of our ability to continue the contest to a successful issue. Thanks to the generous assistance rendered us by our fellow workers in this and other lands, thanks to a justice loving American public, whose sympathies are always on the side of right, we are able to continue the struggle indefinitely. But, confident of our ability to demonstrate to any impartial tribunal the equity of our demands for higher wages and improved environment, we propose that the issues culminating in this strike shall be referred to you and a tribunal of your own selection and agree to accept your award upon all or any of the questions involved. If you will accept this responsibility and the representatives of the coal operators will signify their willingness to have your decision incorporated in an agreement for not less than one year or more than five years, as may be mutually determined, between themselves and the anthracite mine workers and will pay the scale of wages which you and the tribunal appointed by you shall award, we will immediately call a convention and recommend a resumption of work upon the understanding that the wages which shall be paid are to go into effect from the day upon which work is resumed."

THOMAS' STATEMENT.

The statement of Mr. Thomas, president of the Erie railway, was as follows:

"No one can more fully realize the gravity of the situation or the grave responsibilities resting upon them than the men who for months have been seeking to protect the property under their charge as well as the lives of loyal employees from the attacks of misguided men incited by people foreign to the state and to the industry we are seeking to defend.

"We are doing all in our power and with increasing success to mine coal. Mr. Mitchell and his lieutenants are doing all in their power to prevent it. We ask that such efforts cease, or, failing, that the state of Pennsylvania and, if she is unable, the powers of the United States shall be exerted to afford full protection to employees not only while at work, but to and from their homes, as well as to their families, and that the reign of terror, riots, intimidation and murder which for months has prevailed in the anthracite region shall cease.

"A record of twenty killed, over forty injured and with constant and increasing destruction of dwellings, works, machinery and railroad by mob violence, with no proper enforcement of the law or order by the proper officials, is not the time to act on Mr. Mitchell's suggestion of this morning to arbitrate with men not in our employ. There are over 17,000 loyal employees at work in and around the anthracite mines, and since this conference has been called open threats are current in that region that such men will neither be permitted to work nor live in that country.

"We are contending for the right of the American citizens to work, without regard to creed, nationality or association. To seek to prevent this is a crime, and we cannot by implication sanction such a course. We ask the enforcement of law and order in the state, that we be permitted to deal with our employees free from foreign interference, convinced that under such conditions we can fully perform our full duty to the public, our owners and to our employees.

"I fully concur in the suggestion of Mr. Baer, which can be pursued in case of failure to agree with our employees, but in many years of such dealing it has never yet been requisite to call in assistance to fairly and satisfactorily deal with our own men."

TRUESDALE'S STATEMENT.

The statement of Mr. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, was along the lines of that of President Baer. In part he said:

"Mr. President, representing the interests of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, its board of managers and its stockholders, permit me to say that, realizing fully the gravity of the situation as stated by you and appreciating the burden of responsibility which this situation imposes upon us, we feel that our duty at this time, having in mind all existing conditions, is so plain and straightforward that we cannot possibly mistake it. As citizens of this country, as trustees of vast and important interests committed to our care by the thousands and tens of thousands of security holders whose savings or legacies are invested in these properties, as men who have committed to them the interests of thousands of as loyal, true, faithful citizens and employees as ever marched to victory in support of right and freedom under the flag of this or any other country, but who, with their families, are today outcasts, hunted, hounded and driven almost to despair and desperation simply because they seek to exercise their plain, simple duty of working at their chosen avocation or as in many cases of protecting and saving from destruction by fire, flood or dynamite the properties of other citizens, their employers, who are only endeavoring lawfully and peacefully to maintain possession of, protect and operate their properties—this duty is so unmistakably plain 'that he who runs may read.'

"It is first and foremost our duty, and we take this occasion to state it and press it upon your consideration and through you upon that of the authorities of the state of Pennsylvania, to insist upon it that the existing conditions of anarchy and lawlessness, of riot and rapine, a condition which has been raging with more or less violence throughout the anthracite regions during the past five months, be immediately and permanently suppressed; that to this end we ask that the entire authority and power of the state of Pennsylvania, civil and military, and if needs be that of the United States government as well be exercised forthwith.

"Second, we ask that the civil branch of the United States government, taking cognizance of and following the decisions of the courts rendered in litigation growing out of previous similar conditions, at once institute proceedings against the illegal organization known as the United Mine Workers' association, its well known officers, agents and members, to enjoin and restrain permanently it and them from continuing this organization and requiring them to desist immediately from conspiring, conniving, aiding or abetting the outlawry and intolerable conditions in the anthracite regions, for which they and they alone are responsible.

"Third, then, Mr. President, there is a great, a pressing, duty imposed upon us at this time to the thousands of true loyal citizens of Pennsylvania who have been lawfully pursuing their various avocations or professions under great difficulties and who, with great sacrifice, have been abused, villified, boycotted and in many cases almost ruined because they had the manhood to raise their voices against the illegal acts and violences of this illegal organization and its officers and agents. No step can be taken, Mr. President, which can possibly result in placing these good citizens of Pennsylvania at the further mercy of this illegal organization, its officers and members."

Statements were also made by the other coal mine representatives present. They were all on the same line of argument and showed bitter feeling against the miners' union. Each gentleman demanded protection.

The president asked Mr. Mitchell if he had anything further to say. Mr. Mitchell said:

"The charge made by the gentlemen that twenty murders have been committed in the anthracite coal regions during the present strike is untrue. If they will name the men and will show that they have committed the murders, I will resign my position. That is a fair proposition. Mr. President, that is a fair example of how our organization and our people are maligned. The truth of the matter is, as far as I know, there have been seven deaths unfortunately. No one regrets them more than I do. Three of them were committed by the coal and iron police, and no one else has been charged with them. God knows the miners do not escape being charged with everything done there.

"They speak about burnings. There was a reward offered for burnings. I can bring affidavits of a hundred people if necessary that the lightning caused one burning that they charged to the United Mine Workers.

"Mr. President, I have admitted on more than one occasion that there has been some lawlessness, but I will say that a large portion of such lawlessness has been provoked by criminals who have been brought into the anthracite regions to recruit the coal and iron police. I want to say, Mr. President, that I feel keenly the attacks made upon me and my people, but I came here with the intention of doing nothing and saying nothing that would affect reconciliation."

The president then asked the representatives of the anthracite companies whether they would accept Mr. Mitchell's proposition. They answered, "No." In response to a further question from the president they stated that they would have no dealings whatever with Mr. Mitchell looking toward a settlement of the questions at issue and that they had no other proposition to make save what was contained in the statement of Mr. Baer, which in effect was that if any man chose to resume work and had a difficulty with his employer both should leave the settlement of the question to the judge of the court of common pleas of the district in which the men were located.

At about 5 o'clock the conference was brought to a close without agreement.

PRIMARY METHODS.

Shortly after the Republican primaries at which delegates were elected to the Union county convention, The Daily Press had occasion to comment on the questionable methods pursued at three of the city primaries as well as in some other parts of the county. A letter from one of our readers suggests that as an independent journal, The Press is in a position to do effective work in the matter of purifying politics in this city, with the knowledge of such a state of affairs as shown in that editorial, but in order to do that it must be more specific in its charges of misconduct, it must let its readers know just what was going on that Monday night at the First, Third and Fourth ward primaries, which was so disreputable.

"I have assumed that the writer," the correspondent continues, "was personally cognizant, or thoroughly satisfied, of the truthfulness of his statements; if he was not, then I take grave exceptions to his general, but sweeping charges of the use of disreputable methods at said primaries. But if true, inasmuch as no definite allegations of the kind of improper methods used was made, the reader is left to grope around in the dark for the foundation of the same; and I therefore imagine that the writer had discovered or thought he had discovered, either that some zealous Republicans, perhaps officials, had caused or permitted ineligible persons to vote at said primaries, or had given money, or other valuable thing, to voters to influence their vote at said primaries. If either case be true, the writer may, probably does, know that such a Republican, on due proof thereof, may learn later on that he has been nominated and elected to contribute, for the use of the county, enough to maintain a striking miner for about twelve years, according to the statement of the amount doled out to them while on strike, with a possibility of taking or receiving an unsought vacation at the public expense of many moons' duration."

The conjecture of our friend as to the condition of things at the three primaries comes close to facts. It was a notorious fact that "dyed-in-the-wool" Democrats voted and that the total number of ballots cast at three of the primaries exceeded the Republican vote at the last election.

To be exact, at the election last November, there were 448 Republican tickets cast in the First ward and at the Republican primary on that night there were 590 ballots cast. The election day vote in the Second ward was 449, at the primary 283. In the Third ward at the election 447, at the primary 486. In the Fourth ward at the election 685, at the primary 886.

While we lack evidence that would hold good in a court of law, perhaps, we are convinced that cash and intoxicating liquors were used to influence certain voters at the primaries, and such is the opinion of hundreds who witnessed the primaries in question. Reliable persons, who are well acquainted with the city of Elizabeth, have told us that the same conditions existed there.

The final game in the series between Westfield and Plainfield Consolidated will be played this afternoon. It will be played at Westfield. Never since the days of the West Ends, of Somerville, has there been such interest taken in a series of games with a team from a neighboring town. It was Manager Charles H. Denman who issued the challenge which brought about this series of games and to him the Plainfield baseball enthusiasts are much indebted, while those of Westfield have an even larger debt to pay. It is not often that a man of the business ability of Mr. Denman can be persuaded to take charge of a team and Westfield is fortunate, indeed, in having such a man at the head of its baseball nine. Another season will undoubtedly see a continuation of these games which have been so auspiciously begun.

The past year seems to have seen an unusual number of changes in the National Guard of New Jersey. Several prominent officials have passed away and resignations have brought about still other changes. Plainfield's company is to lose its commanding officer. From present indications, this place will be filled by the election of the next ranking officer, First Lieutenant John M. Lewis.

Worth its weight in coal is a new version of the old phrase worth its weight in gold, and the poet has a new figure for his poesy when he describes the noise of rushing waters, pleasant as the sound of winter coal sliding into empty bins.

While there were several football games last Saturday, today promises two interesting contests on local gridirons while another of the local teams will try its skill elsewhere. Football promises to be quite popular in Plainfield this fall.

Democratic success in Union county this fall seems to depend on Republican co-operation.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A borough couple were celebrating the anniversary of their wedding. The wife knowing the fondness of her husband for biscuits, had placed a plate of them on the dinner table. The man of the household picked one up. Pausing a moment he said:

"What's the price of flour now dear?"

"Why do you ask," replied the wife thinking that probably he was planning to have biscuits every day.

"Well I was just thinking," said he, "that if it were cheaper than coal I'd know what to use for fuel this winter."

Expects to Secure Democratic Nomination for Surrogate in Somerset.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 4—Democratic primaries for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention, were held last night in Bound Brook, Raritan and this place. As a rule they went off smoothly and without contest. In some few districts, however, the contest was lively.

William J. DeMond, who is candidate for the nomination of surrogate, is making a hard fight and will probably win out. He already, it is claimed, has twenty out of a necessary thirty-two votes and is in line to secure the other twelve. He will probably get them without much trouble.

Change in Hour.

Commencing tomorrow the Sunday-school at Church of the Holy Cross will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, instead of the morning.

THE

Great Surprise Sale

Will continue five days longer.

Owing to recent strikes we have had in New York in the cloak trade we could not get all the goods in time for our fall opening. Now that the strike is over, we commenced getting in goods that ought to have been delivered by the manufacturers two months ago, as well as goods contracted for present delivery, and therefore we find ourselves with a good deal larger stock than we anticipated having at this time of the year, and as the trade of Plainfield is limited we had to take heroic measures in order to dispose of it in time as mentioned above. Hence our loss is your gain. The following items will give you an idea of the bargains awaiting your call:

WOMEN'S TAILOR-MADE SUITS.

50 sample suits at less than half regular prices. We purchased from two prominent manufacturers about fifty new fall samples of finest Tailor-made Suits, the regular retail price of which should be from $18 to $25. The coats or Etons are lined with very best taffeta silk, the skirts with best nearsilk. Remember $18 to $25 will be the price in about two weeks. As a great special for this sale we make the price - - $9.98

WOMEN'S JACKETS.

Jaunty fly front Jackets of broadcloth, lined throughout with fine grade of satin, regular price $7.98, for this sale - - - - $3.98

DRESS AND WALKING SKIRTS.

We have about 600 Skirts which must go regardless of cost. Call and see our 98c and $1.50 Walking Skirts.

DUNELLEN.

A large party, representing the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, paid a visit last evening to the Christian Endeavor Society of Rahway. The party, which numbered nearly thirty, left here about 7 o'clock. They enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant time at Rahway, where they were entertained in a most hospitable manner. They reached home late last night. The trolley ride was also much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. LeVan, of Pennsylvania, a young newly married couple, have taken up their residence in town in the house on Front street, lately occupied by G. T. Schenck.

Two pickup teams of football played an interesting game on the Lincoln avenue grounds this morning.

Adam Dealaman's house is receiving a coat of paint, which is greatly improving its appearance.

Ernest Peters will play football today with the Alis team of Plainfield, probably at half back.

A phonograph entertainment will be given this evening, at 8 o'clock in Apgar's Hall.

The Bound Brook trolley line is running cars on the half hour schedule again today.

The slate roof on the round house is being torn off, in preparation for some new slate.

The old factory of the Craig Manufacturing Company is being torn down.

Miss May Shotwell, of Greenbrook, left today for a visit with friends in Brooklyn

The Borough Council will hold a regular monthly meeting Monday evening.

John Peters, William Craig, and P. C. Staats spent Thursday at the State fair.

No baseball will be played in town today as football is the reigning sport.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vail are entertaining out of town friends today.

George W. Churchill is spending today in New York on business.

Geo. W. Churchill is entertaining his brother for a few days.

A regular meeting of the checker club was held last evening.

NEW MARKET.

The township voters are requested to meet in C. S. Day's office Monday evening to elect a delegate to the Republican county convention.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the First Baptist church, occupied the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of Plainfield, this morning.

Joseph Kelley has recovered the use of his hand which was injured at Levering & Garrigue's factory some time ago.

Regular services will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church today. Rev. L. E. Livermore will officiate.

"Bill" Roantree will be tried for his misdemeanors here at the next session of the Grand Jury.

The new houses, which W. B. Smith is putting up, are about ready for the carpenters.

The baseball team will not play today.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The season at Glenside Park is fast drawing to a close. A number of families have already left for their homes and it will only be a short time now when the last shall have returned and one of the most successful seasosn ever held at the Park will be brought to a close.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by pastor, subject, "The Voice of History," 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching, topic, "Utensils of the Altar and Lavar," 7:45.

The women of the Baptist church are busy making arrangements for the entertaining of the many guests of the church at the East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention which will be held at the church October 21.

The local ball team will cross bats this afternoon on the local diamond with the Aeolians, of Garwood. This will be the last home game of the season. Game will be called promptly at 3:30.

The women of the Methodist church will hold an entertainment of recitations, pantomime and tableaux in Excelsior Hall Friday evening of next week.

WANT FULLEST PUBLICITY

BOARD OF SCHOOL ESTIMATE DID NOT ACT ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Absence of One Member Delayed Action—Want the Question Fully Discussed.

There was to have been a meeting of the Board of School Estimate last evening to take up the proposition of a new High School for Plainfield, which was introduced at the special meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening. It was impossible to have a meeting, however, as Councilman van Herwerden, a member of the board, was unavoidably detained. A meeting will be held within the next ten days.

As expressed by one of the members it is the desire of the board to give this matter the greatest publicity and give the people of Plainfield full opportunity to express their opinions in this matter. The members of the board feel that a new High School is a necessity, owing to the rapidly increasing population of children, and it is unofficially stated that within another year the force at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works will be greatly increased, bringing many more families to this city. Other increases through the establishment of a new factory in the west end will necessitate more school facilities. However, the board would like a free expression of public sentiment in the matter.

BAY STATE POLITICS

Republicans Name a Complete Ticket.

FREE TRADE PLANK THROWN OUT.

Convention Greatly Excited Over Attempt to Introduce a Resolution For Reciprocity With Canada and Tariff Revision.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—An unexpected attempt to amend the platform presented at the Republican state convention caused a sudden but very brief storm. The proposition to amend was overwhelmingly voted down. The ticket nominated was as follows:

Governor, John L. Bates of Boston; lieutenant governor, General Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston; secretary of state, William M. Olin of Boston; treasurer and receiver general, Edward S. Bradford of Springfield; attorney general, Herbert Parker of Lancaster.

The effort to change the resolution came as a complete surprise after Chairman George Draper of the committee on resolutions had read the platform and moved its adoption.

Ex-Representative Frank M. Fitts of Somerville moved an amendment to the platform in the form of a plank for reciprocity with Canada and an immediate revision of the tariff, so as to include free coal, free iron, free steel and free hides.

Instantly a wave of excitement swept the floor of the convention. Isaac B. Allen wanted an amendment protesting against the alleged ill treatment of colored voters in the south, but this was lost sight of in the interest aroused by the proposition of Mr. Fitts. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, noting the tangle which impended, averted further trouble by making a vigorous speech in favor of the resolutions as reported by the committee. The amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

The platform presented by the committee was adopted with not half a dozen dissenting votes.

Dowager Empress Entertains.

PEKING, Oct. 4.—The dowager empress entertained the ladies of the legations at breakfast in the summer palace at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. A Chinese guard of honor was stationed two miles along the route to where the ladies embarked on imperial barges, in which they proceeded through the canal to the palace. The procession, which presented a gorgeous appearance, consisted of six barges towed by a steamer and five boats manned by oarsmen. The ladies returned to Peking in the evening.

Irish Prepare to Resist.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—The lord mayor of Dublin presided at an enthusiastic meeting of Nationalists at the Mansion House, when a special fund to enable the United Irish league to fight the Landlords' association was inaugurated. A number of bitter speeches denouncing the enforcement of the crimes act were made. John Dillon, William Field, John Gordon Swift McNeil and other members of the Irish party were present. Fifteen hundred dollars was subscribed to the fund.

Critical Situation In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—The street railway strike is yet in an unsettled condition. The retail merchants of the city have determined that unless the strike is called off by tomorrow night they will close their establishments indefinitely. This would throw 5,000 clerks out of employment. A conference of the retail merchants, railway officials and employees was held during the evening, but without reaching any agreement.

Train Wreck In Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 4.—A through California passenger train on the Southern Pacific was ditched by running into a washed out culvert between Waelder and Bardwell, east of this city. The engine, baggage and mail cars were thrown off the track. The train was running slowly on account of the heavy rains when the wreck occurred. The number of casualties if any is not yet known.

British Praise For Shaw.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Statist in its issue of today says that the feeling on the Stock Exchange, where the week began in gloom, "was very rapidly changed by the bold and statesmanlike action of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who has shown a readiness to assume responsibility and face a grave emergency which ought to earn him a high reputation among his countrymen."

Wheat Crop In France.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Official returns of the minister of agriculture, M. Mougeot, place the wheat crop of France for the year 1902 at 353,002,346 bushels.

Austrian Peasants Frozen to Death.

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—Several cases of peasants being frozen to death in the snow in the country districts of Austria-Hungary have been reported here.

Parliamentary Frontiers.

On either side of the commons chamber of our parliament house there is a distinct line along the floor, and any member who, when speaking, steps outside the line on his side is liable to be called to order. These lines are supposed to be scientific frontiers, and the neutral zone between is beyond the length of a sword thrust, and although members no longer wear swords, except those who are selected to move and second addresses to the throne on certain occasions, the old precaution still lingers on.—Westminster Gazette.

One Good Reason.

"I don't see," said the first intellectual gentleman, "why people turn their noses up at the thought of eating locusts, yet devour the soft crab with avidity."

"It is because," explained the second individual, who was a natural-born reasoner, "the locust may be had for nothing, but the crab comes at a dollar a dozen, and hard to get at that."—Baltimore American.

How He Celebrated.

As an instance of the overpowering strength of the human desire to make a noise somehow during times of rejoicing a story is told in London of a commonly sane and sober citizen, who, upon hearing of the recent declaration of peace in South Africa, went outside his house and violently rang his own door bell until he felt calmer.—Chicago Daily News.

Public Parks in America.

The United States probably has more wealth in public parks than any other country in the world. Last year, in cities of more than 50,000 population, there were 2,360 parks and squares, with a total area of 59,717 acres and valued at $531,571,947. Nearly $10,000,000 was spent upon these parks for improvements and maintenance.

Unanimous Sentiment.

Krankleigh—Naw! I don't like my new neighborhood at all. Every man on the stret's a cad.

Sharpe—You don't say?

"Yes, and there's one man in particular who isn't fit to live there at all."

"Strange; that's what all the other neighbors say."—Philadelphia Press.

RED AND BROWN POPULAR.

Not Every Woman, However, Can Wear the Latter Shade.

Reds and browns are very fashionable just now. Brown is a suitable autumn tint, but one which requires to be chosen with care. No woman should attempt to wear it unless she belongs to the chestnut type. She who possesses russet brown or chestnut locks or, better still, Titian hair looks charming when dressed in this tint. The dark brunette, too, with the brilliant coloring may wear brown, but blonds should beware of it, as it ruins the coloring of their hair and eyes.

HAT OF ROUGH FELT.

Brown cloth with self colored strappings makes a charming coat and skirt suit for general utility and can be combined with a brown silk waist trimmed with touches of brownish Persian panne.

Red of all shades is being much used in millinery. The red hats are worn with black and dark blue suits and are especially stunning in rough felt trimmed with bunches of red velvet flowers and black velvet ribbon.

Rough white felt hats are all the rage. They are trimmed with bright colors.

The smart little hat shown is of rough white felt trimmed with a bright green parrot and a band of deep green velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FALL FASHION NOTES.

Box Plaited Skirts—Capes on Coats and Gowns.

A great many skirts are now on trial, but only one or two will attain any popularity. The box plaited skirt can only be worn by the very few. It is quite unsuitable for heavy goods, and it is only effective as a short skirt.

The prettiest form of the box plaited skirt is that set into a yoke fitting the hips, and this is made in two fashions—the one having a perfectly plain gored front, with the yoke and box plaits running around the sides, and the other with a round yoke and plaits running into it, leaving just a plain narrow strip in front.

The cape ruffle has brought into favor capes and mantles and gowns. These cape collars are cut in godet fashion and are quite plain at the top, but frill a little at the edge. The spreading highwayman collar is less compact and is cut in semigodet style. It goes well with the sack coat which has no neckband.

The shooting ulster illustrated is of checked Scotch goods in red and deep blue. The high collar is of velvet. The triple capes and triple cuffs are smartly stitched. The buttons are of simple bone. The hat which goes with this is of white felt trimmed with blue ribbon and red and blue wings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Plausible.

"Are you blind, prisoner?" inquired the magistrate.

"Yes, your worship."

"You are charged with vagrancy. How did you lose your sight?"

"By a fit of appleplexy, sir."

"But there is a picture on your breast representing an explosion in a mine, through which, it is stated, you became blind. How is this?"

"Please, your worship, I couldn't afford to pay an artist as could paint appleplexy."—London Tit-Bits.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

Each time that I went to the hall I took with me a copy of a letter, the words traced in the hand of Miss Elizabeth, Miss Evelyn, or their dead brother David. How Miss Elizabeth wept over them, and how sweet Miss Evelyn sobbed over them, until the ink in which I had copied them was faded and blurred with their reminiscent tears.

And now the summer flowers were bursting into bloom. The country was, I thought, at its best. Everything gave promise of a delightful season. It was the latter part of June, about a week, perhaps, after my interview with Miss Dacres, that there came a sudden change from warm to hot weather. My room was not under the attic, which acted as an air chamber, and it became so heated that one would have thought it was midsummer.

On the hottest night of all, I lay on my bed fanning myself and trying to fall into a doze. It was useless, and remembering the cool horsehair of our old sofa in the parlor, I got up, opened my door very gently, so as not to disturb Aunt Jane Mary, and went down the stairs. The parlor door was open, and I slipped into the room. There was enough of glimmer from the moon to show me my way. I groped past the table to the sofa. Ah, how invitingly cool it was! I lay down under the window fanning myself for a half hour or so, and finally awoke to the fact that I was not growing cool but chilly. I was just about to get up and take a shawl from the hall hat-rack when I heard a step upon the piazza. Now, the window was open, and I felt sure that in another moment some midnight marauder would be crawling over me and into the room. I was terribly frightened. He might show a dark lantern at any instant. Then what would be my fate? I slid softly from the sofa and crept to the inner side of the room, to the recess behind the organ, which stood across the corner. Here I crouched and waited.

"Jo!" I heard, "Jo!" and then in a little louder tone, "Jo, are you here?" Then a light streamed into the room. There was a grunt of annoyance on account, I knew, of the discovered nature of the room, and the light was withdrawn. I heard the footsteps go along the piazza and past the hall door. I hardly knew what to do. I thought of running to Mr. Beldon's room and knocking on the door, and then I remembered suddenly that which I was always forgetting, that he spent his nights at the newspaper office. There was no one to protect us but an old and feeble man upstairs, locked in his room, difficult to awaken perhaps, or Baldy Towner, who was sound asleep over the stable. To reach him I must unlock the back door and cross the open yard. I might meet this midnight prowler anywhere outside of the house.

I LEANED OUT AS FAR AS I COULD AND WATCHED.

As I listened, I heard a tapping on the window farther along the piazza. He was not trying the front door, then? I crept out from my place of concealment, and, kneeling on the sofa, I leaned out of the window as far as I could and watched. Then I heard a second tapping, and after a few minutes the window was gently raised. There was a short conversation, and the figure disappeared within the opening. I leaned out as far as I could, wondering where Bill could be. He had always slept with one eye open just in front of the hall door, and no one could so much as lay a finger on the gate latch without his deep growl sounding in my ear. I strained my eyes; Bill certainly was not there.

Bill, dear old Bill! They knew your faithfulness, but they also knew your greediness, as the following morning showed me, when Baldy Towner, with real tears in his eyes, came and beckoned me to the back door. There lay my dear old dog, stiff and cold, a meat bone stained with green powder lying near, proof of his too trusting nature.

I crept out through the dark hall, and going close to Miss Dacres' door, put my ear to the keyhole and listened. I heard voices talking, though hardly above a whisper; there were more than two; it seemed to me that I heard three, but so nervous had I become that I could not place them or say if I had ever heard them before. Sometimes I thought that one of them sounded like Mr. Beldon's. I fancied that I heard Miss Dacres' soft tones, and my heart sank like lead! Perhaps, though, she was pleading for her life. Of course, I knew that Mr. Beldon could not be there, that he was away in the city, working over his articles for the next day's paper. Then I heard a movement within, and a door was unbolted and a light streamed from under the door of Mr. Beldon's room. So this was the way in which Miss Dacres disposed of her midnight visitors! Such was my sudden change of mind. She used Mr. Beldon's room while he was away!

I started up and went swiftly to the door of my lower-back. As I reached it, I saw that a figure was there before me. It came suddenly upon my sight. It stood on the farther side of the door and leaned down with its ear to the keyhole. As I came close, it raised its head, and at the same time clasped my wrist with a wiry grip of iron.

"Hush!" he whispered. "Don't move! Don't speak! Don't breathe!" It was Elder Wynne. I was struck with amaze. He drew me under the protecting enclosure of the back stairs and whispered:

"Go upstairs to your room; I can attend to this matter alone. Leave me to handle it." I saw now that the old man possessed more vigor than I had thought possible.

"But I am afraid," I whispered, "afraid to leave you. What do you think of it? Do you think she has got into the hands of some house breakers? Oh, if Mr. Beldon were only here! You are so old, so frail. Those men might murder you. Let me stay in the dining room, that I may be within call."

Elder Wynne laughed, a silent sort of laugh.

"We have no time now," he whispered, "to explain matters. Do as I tell you; go upstairs quickly. Leave this matter to me." At the same time he threw back the lapel of his cotton dressing gown, and flashed forth a little gleam of light from somewhere, which struck full upon the shining shield bearing the badge of the detective force. We heard a movement within the room, then a hand was laid upon the knob.

"Run," he whispered. "Run to your room," and then began to cough violently, following me and calling at the same time up the stairs: "Mrs. Brathwaite! Mrs. Brathwaite!" I was only on the third step, and saw that he had lighted a match and was groping his way towards the dining room door.

At this juncture Mr. Beldon's door was opened. "Who is that?" he called.

"It is only I, sir," said Elder Wynne. "I am searching for some sugar. My cough is troublesome. It is too bad to wake you all up."

At this I came running from the stairs. I was surprised to see Mr. Beldon. "You at home?" said I. "Oh, I wanted to call you some time ago, if I had only known it!"

"Wanted to call me?" He looked annoyed and surprised.

Elder Wynne gave me a quick, warning glance.

"Yes—yes—I wanted to—to—call you, Elder Wynne has coughed—coughed—so—so—coughed so——"

"I have not heard Elder Wynne cough," said he, turning swiftly on the old man,—"at least not until just now."

"So persistently," I continued, "that I was afraid—afraid—he——"

Elder Wynne was now so convulsed with his cough, that I turned to the sideboard and got out the sugar-bowl. I then went to the water-cooler and filled a glass half full of water, and dropped some lumps of sugar within it."

Mr. Beldon watched me narrowly. "Has anything alarmed you, Mrs. Brathwaite? You seemed so upset just now, so——"

"Oh, no," said I. "I never felt safer nor more courageous than I have for the last few moments."

"Finding you in the house, my dear sir," said Elder Wynne, between his attacks of coughing; "finding that a gentleman was here who would be certain to protect a lady, and go for help if it were needed, is what has made Mrs. Brathwaite feel so secure."

At this moment another door was opened and someone came into the hall. We all three stepped hurriedly out from the dining-room to find Miss Dacres standing there in a wrapper. She staggered and seemed dazed. She brought a peculiar chemical odor with her.

MONEY TO LOAN.

ATTENTION! READ: WE LOAN MONEY

On Household Furniture, Pianos, Horses, Wagons, etc.

THE PROCESS IS SIMPLE.

Make your applications for money, and have it in your hands the same day. Any amount from $25.00 upward, from one month to a year. Mortgaged property is left in your possession.

OUR TERMS ARE EASY.

You have many options in the payment of same. Pay on the instalment plan, weekly or monthly. Each payment takes up principal and interest. Each payment is for a like amount. This simplifies matters, so you know just where you stand in paying off your obligations, and when the time expires you are out of debt.

WHY IS IT

That we have built up such a large loan business? Because we know how to treat our customers, and they are sure to get fair and honest dealings with us. All transactions strictly confidential. Call or write and let us explain terms.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Distribution of merchandise shows no diminution and prospects are bright for continued activity. Dehlers in many lines are urgent for prompt shipments, calling upon jobbers and manufacturers for goods already overdue. This indication of reduced stocks is a good sign and tends to sustain quotations. Western reports are especially favorable, and the early marketing of cotton has brought distinct improvement at the south. Voluntary advances in wages have been announced in a number of instances, while the labor situation is more satisfactory, although not entirely free from controversy.

Pig iron furnaces are receiving larger consignments of coke and there is less interruption because of fuel scarcity. The situation is by no means satisfactory, however, and production of iron and steel would expand considerably if facilities were normal. Much of the relief has come from large imports, the extent of which is not generally appreciated. During August alone pig iron imports were 79,447 tons, and for eight months 257,210 tons, valued at $4,676,649, while receipts of steel billets were still more.

Limited supplies of wheat grading up to contract in the vicinity of Chicago made possible another sensational campaign against the short interest, culminating in sales of September options at 95 cents. On the whole, however, crop news has been of an encouraging nature. Winter wheat planting has progressed rapidly under most favorable circumstances.

Corn is coming into sight very slowly, western arrivals amounting to only 1,735,072 bushels against 3,543,665 a year ago, and while Atlantic coast shipments have risen to the highest point of the season at 249,836 bushels they make a feeble showing when compared with the 843,374 bushels shipped last year or the 2,144,610 exported two years ago.

Comptroller and Shaw Agree.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Comptroller of the Currency Ridgeley has given out the following statement: "The report that I have overruled or attempted to overrule or shall attempt to overrule the secretary of the treasury in the matter of reserve on government deposits secured by government bonds is wholly false and unfounded. Before the decision was reached and the announcement made by the secretary that no reserve need be maintained against government deposits secured by government bonds the secretary and I several times had discussed the matter, and we are in full accord as to the policy of his announcement and the way it shall be carried out."

Great Rush For America.

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—It is reported from Laybach, capital of the duchy of Carniola, that the emigration of Slavonians to the United States greatly exceeds the usual after harvest movement to America. An average of a hundred persons daily are passing through Laybach. Formerly the emigrants were almost exclusively agriculturists. This year they include many other classes.

Reid Hearings Closed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 4.—The hearings in the Reid arbitration case closed with addresses by counsel for both sides. The arbitrators began private sittings today preparatory to making their award. The announcement of the decision is not expected for a week or ten days.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Providing the rain holds off, the baseball game between the Consolidated and Westfield teams will take place as scheduled. The grounds are in excellent condition and the local team will leave this city at the appointed hour. The game, if played, will commence at 3:30.

PING-PONG.

At the ping-pong tournament held in the Y. M. C. A. last night, Whitford lost to Hand by a score of 1 to 6.

VAN AUKEN AND MINER WON

CAPTURED DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP FOR THE SECOND TIME.

Conclusion of City High School Tennis Tournament Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The City High School tennis tournament came to an end yesterday afternoon when the last matches in the doubles were played off. At the desire of one of the contesting teams, a change was made from the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club to those of the Bronx Tennis Club on Albert street, but it made no difference in the result.

It was generally conceded that the championship lay between two teams, Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner, last year's champions, and Chester A. Briggs and Clarence C. Rocap, runners up last year. These two teams met in the semi-finals and on that match the championship in doubles depended. The first set was hard fought, VanAuken and Miner finally winning out 7-5. Neither team was at its best but last year's champions steadied down as the set progressed and finally won out. The second set showed still greater improvement on their part and they won that 6-3. This victory put them in the finals.

From the very first there was no doubt about the result of the finals and the other team, A. D. Beers and G. A. Brakeley, played listlessly and without confidence. VanAuken and Miner had no trouble in taking three straight sets 6-1, 6 0, and 6-2. This gives the championship in doubles to VanAuken and Miner for the second year.

WESTFIELD WON DECIDING GAME

In a Heavy Downpour the Remodeled Westfields and Plainfield Consolidateds.

PLAYED FIVE INNINGS

Westfield Had Four New Players Including Another Pitcher—Westfield Scored in Three Innings on Hits and Errors—Moore Made Hit on First Ball Pitched—Scores.

More like a game of water polo than an exhibition of the national sport, the third in the series between Westfield and the Plainfield Consolidated team took place, Saturday afternoon. Slipping, sliding and by brushing the rain out of their eyes the players floated through five innings and then quit, the last ball being caught while there was a perfect downpour. Plainfield got the wrong end of the score of 5 to 0, but it was not due to bad playing. It was a case of who could best maintain his balance in the mud or keep the most sawdust on his hands to hold the sloppy ball that did the work.

The Westfield management had greatly altered its team so that it hardly resembled itself. Four new players occupied positions of importance, namely—Wallace in the pitcher's box, McCormack at short, McDonald at first and Finn in center field. The Plainfield team kept the same personnel that had played the previous games. Although it had rained off and on during the earlier part of the afternoon, the threatening clouds were not enough to keep a large crowd of enthusiasts away and the Consolidated team went to the bat while a little drizzle tried its best to terminate matters.

Moore was first at the bat and, for the tenth time this season, swotted the first ball that was pitched for a safe hit. Lederer followed with his little trick bunt that he alone knows how to work and although he was retired, Moore gained second by it. He went no further as Bolsterli fanned and Martin flied to first. That was the furtherest point a Consolidated player made during the rest of the game.

On account of the wet ball, Montross gave the first two Westfielders a free pass to the initial bag. The leader was caught stealing second and his follower was put out at third. Previous to the second out McCormick had reached first on Montross' error and through the player's slipping had reached second. He was enabled to cross the plate when a low drive by McDonald went through Bolsterli and out in center. McDonald was retired at third by his eagerness in trying to make three bases on the error.

In the second inning, Finn went the circuit on a free pass, a sacrifice and a two base hit and in the third the slipping around was not all confined to the Plainfield players in the mud as the Westfielders managed to tally three runs through as many hits. Nothing was made in the fourth and the fifth would have ended quickly but for Egan on first. In his eagerness to make a double play from a low grounder which he grabbed, he threw to second for a man without touching his own base. He failed to get either player.

The rain, which had by this time almost shut the players from the sight of the grandstand, necessitated calling the game and was done just as Lederer caught a high fly making the only out in the inning.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MILLER.

Services Held From the Home on Park Avenue Saturday Morning.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Caroline Augusta Miller, wife of Theodore J. Miller, were held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock from the home on Park avenue. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Bliss, formerly of this city, but now of New York. There was a large number of floral tributes from relatives and friends.

During the services there were appropriate selections rendered by a vocal quartette consisting of Miss Grace Carroll, Miss Etta Raybert, Dr. O. B. Whitford and A. L. Titsworth. The interment took place in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

LEAL'S BOYS BADLY BEATEN

BORDENTOWN MILITARY ACADEMY WON 42 TO 6.

Football Game Played at Bordentown on Saturday Afternoon —The Game in Detail.

Leal's School football team met a crushing defeat at the hands of the Bordentown Military Academy at Bordentown Saturday afternoon. The cadets, after the first half, had everything all their own way and at the ending of the game had scored 42 points to Leal's 6. Leal's had but ten men lined up the second half and were, besides, greatly outweighed. Bordentown bucked the local's line heavily, every time for good gains.

Max Perkins, J. Hulrey and Ray Biglow deserve special mention for quick, snappy playing. The entire team did good work the first half, and before time was called had Bordentown guessing. In the second half the cadets "roughed it," knocking out both Ralph and Wm. Schoonmaker, the latter receiving some nasty cuts. Buckle and Pinto, Leal's only available substitutes, were pressed into service in the second half.

The line-up for the Plainfielders was as follows:

F. Martin, centre; Brokaw, right guard; C. Perkins, right tackle; Max Perkins, Faber, Robert Abbott and J. Hulrey, ends; Wm. Schoonmaker, quarterback; Richard Lovell, left half back; Ray Biglow, fullback; Gordon Abbott, right halfback. Referee, Homans, of Bordentown; umpire, A. Willis West, Plainfield; timers, Prof. Fowler, Plainfield, and L. Leck, Bordentown.

HORSE SHOW.

Good Showing at Fair Acres Driving Club Event Saturday Despite the Rain.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 6—The second annual horse show of the Fair Acres Driving Club closed Saturday night. Although the weather was inauspicious there was a good attendance and the programme proved an interesting one.

Several Plainfield people won ribbons. Mrs. A. M. Blaisdale took a blue ribbon for her chestnut mare, "Red Princess." It was entered in the ladies' saddle class, ladies to ride, and Mrs. Blaisdale won much applause for the graceful way in which she handled her mount.

Miss Mabel Hooley also won a blue ribbon, in the pony class, with her brown gelding, "Don," while A. M. Blaisdale's gray mare, "Aurora" took a yellow ribbon.

The track was heavy and slippery, making a great handicap for exhibitors. Notwithstanding this the horses went through their paces well although it was, in many cases difficult for the judges to make accurate decisions as to style and all around action.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Given by Little Miss Madeline Blair to Her Friends Saturday.

A happy event of Saturday afternoon was the sixth birthday anniversary celebrated by little Miss Madeline Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, of 78 Duer street. The afternoon was passed in playing games and having a good time in general. A feature was a birthday cake upon which were placed her name and six candles to mark off the years. Refreshments were served during the celebration.

Those present were the Misses Helen Woodruff, Mabel and Lucy Douglass, Marguerite Barkalew, Blanche McVoy, Dorothy McVoy, Bessie Case, Ethel Webster, Madeline Blair, Jubilee Rowley, Marion Blair, Dorothy Martin and Alfred Townley, Rae Boice, Craig Blair, Colin Millard, Raymond Cutter, George Webster.

BISHOP OF KENTUCKY AT BOROUGH CHURCH

Rt. Rev. Dr. Thomas Underwood Dudley Officiates at Holy Cross Church.

PREACHES THE SERMON

CELEBRANT AT HOLY COMMUNION, ASSISTED BY RECTOR DOWNEY.

Explains Significience of the Lord's Supper—Says It Is Not a Theory Nor a Doctrine—He Was the Guest of His Son.

Rt. Rev. Thomas Underwood Dudley, D. D., LL. D., D. C. L., bishop of the Diocese of Kentucky, and one of the strongest prelates in the Episcopal church in the United States, officiated at the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday morning, being assisted in the service by the rector, Rev. William Montgomery Downey. Not only did the distinguished bishop preach the sermon but he celebrated the sacrament of Holy Eucharist, which was particularly impressive. The attendance at the regular morning service was somewhat affected by the weather.

Bishop Dudley spoke without notes and has a style of delivery which is peculiarly attractive. Choosing as his text: "For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till He come"—Corinthians xi, 26, he gave an able exposition of the teaching of the church regarding the significance of the communion office. The purpose of the celebration of the Lord's Supper, said he, is to bring to the Christian mind that Christ died for him. It is not a theory nor a doctrine. Christ's body was broken and His blood was shed, and they do this in remembrance of Him.

To one not a Christian, he said, it is seemingly an absurd custom, for he can not understand why this is a practice in the place where they worship. To the Christian it brings hope and comfort, he declared. Before closing the bishop touched upon the question of real presence, but did not appear to endorse that doctrine. He said communion is mystical and is intended to be so. As they take food to sustain physical life, so they need the Lord's Supper to sustain spiritual life, he declared. The celebration is handed down from one age to another and thus is kept in mind the fact that Christ did die. He also spoke of it as Christ's "propitiatory sacrifice for the sins of the whole world."

The bishop officiated at the even song service together with Rev. Mr. Downey. He is a guest of his son, Mr. Dudley, who resides in the borough.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL OFFICERS.

Elected at Congregational Church Sunday-School Yesterday.

The Sunday school of the Congregational church elected officers for the ensuing year, yesterday afternoon, as follows: Superintendent, A. C. LaBoyteaux; assistant superintendent, Alex Millar; secretary, Walter Raynolds; treasurer, G. H. Kenyon; librarian, Charles Steiner; musical director, Miss Alberta E. Waterbury. The yearly reports presented at the meeting showed the school to be in a good condition, financial and otherwise.

Dr. Richards' Farewell Sermon.

Rvv. Dr. W. R. Richasds, now pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, will preach his farewell sermon Sundey, October 19, and the following Sunday he will preach his first sermon as the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. A successor to Dr. Richards has not yet been secured, but the committee in charge will present a report in the near future.

Presbytery to Meet.

There will be a regular meeting of the Presbytery at Grandin, near Flemington, Wednesday. At that time Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards will be officially released from his present charge. The Presbytery will meet two days.

Scholarship for Plainfielder.

Among the fellowships and scholarships awarded in the School of Pedagogy, New York University, on competitive grounds, was one awarded to Miss Lulu E. Packer, of this city. She has been congratulated upon her success.

Board of Health Meeting.

There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Health tomorrow, when it is expected the sanitary code will be finally adopted.

SOME NAUGHTY ONES

Drunk and Disorderliness Were the Chief Offenses—William Ross Forgot He Was in the Fights and Received Heavy Sentence—Storekeeper Keeps Open Seven Days.

More unfortunates, than have appeared in the city court at one time in many weeks, were garnered in by the police yesterday and Saturday and came up for trial before City Judge Runyon, this morning. All were for minor offenses and sentence was imposed accordingly.

George Chambers, of Newark, a veteran of the Civil War, was picked up helplessly drunk on East Front street, Saturday afternoon, by Patrolman Higgins. Two drinks, he said, had been the cause of his downfall. Sentence was suspended as there had been no disorder.

John Perkins, colored, became intoxicated early Saturday afternoon and went around looking for scrap. He found it in the shape of Patrolman Vanderweg. The court made it $5, which he paid.

Too far gone to know where he was, James Brunn was picked up on East Front street, Saturday evening, by Patrolman McCarthy. When he was arraigned on a similar charge last February Brunn promised the court he would make an effort to do better but he admitted he hadn't tried very hard. He was given his preference of $3 or ten days and took the latter.

George Ulrick, of East Fifth street, preferred complaint against Mrs. Elizabeth McKee for forcing an entrance and causing a disturbance at his home, Saturday night. Mrs. McKee has been before the court on numerous occasions and has generally been let off but this time she was given thirty days straight.

Jens Carlson, of Richmond street, preferred complaint against B. S. Lundstram, who boards at his home, of being drunk and disorderly, Saturday evening. He pleaded not guilty but matters were against him and he paid $5 in preference to twenty days.

Besides getting a sentence of sixty days straight in the county jail, William Ross, of the West End, came in for a typical runyonixation. He pleaded ignorance of being in three fights, Saturday afternoon, before he was placed under arrest by Patrolman Saffron, and also said he didn't remember trying to "do up" the officer.

"Your're a perfect bum," was the way the court summed up, "you're no good to Plainfield and I'm going to get rid of you for sixty days."

"All right" was the only observation Ross made as he was led back to his cell.

Although in the country nine months and able to speak the language fluently Dominico Cheretto, of the West End, claimed when arraigned by Patrolman Higgins that he wasn't aware he couldn't keep his store open seven days a week. It was proved that he had been warned of the fact several times and he was fined $5.

Morris Culhane and Robert Skinner, of the West End, became involved in a dispute, Saturday, and started, it is said, to fight it out with fists but the latter, according to the police, resorted to his teeth and bit Culhane on the nose. Both pleaded not guilty to the charge and as the city was not ready to press the case the matter was laid over until Saturday morning.

William Todd, a young man, was brought up on a charge of hanging around the store of a former employer on Park avenue and making a general nuisance of himself. He promised to remain away from the place and sentence was suspended.

James Burke was arrested by Patrolman Overbaugh at the depot, yesterday, for drunkenness, but on account of the crowded condition of the jail, was released in his own recognizance to appear this morning. He failed to show up and his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, promised to produce him tomorrow morning

Chief Operator Resigned.

Miss Etta Yaeger who, for several years past has been an operator and chief operator at the office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, resigned her position on Saturday.

NOMINATED VAN DOREN AND FRELINGHUYSEN

County Convention Convened This Morning at the Court House in Somerville.

LITTLE FIGHT IN SIGHT

THE REPUBLICANS OF SOMERSET COUNTY HELD A CONVENTION.

Most of the Fight Was for Assemblyman, Three Candidates Being in the Field—Temporary Organization and Committees.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 6—At 11 o'clock this morning the seating of the delegates to the Republican county convention being held in this place, began, and at 11:20 the meeting was called to order by L. C. Mack, of Somerville. The fine weather seemed to put all the delegates in a wonderfully good humor, and the opening proceedings passed off smoothly

Speculations over the probable outcome of the convention were ripe. J. S. Frelinghuysen seemed to be the "favorite" for senator and T. V. D. VanDoren, for surrogate, while for the Assembly nominations it was a toss-up between Dr. Richard Muldenke, of Watchung, and Irving Hoagland, of Franklin township. Groups of politicians stood about an hour before the meeting was called to order and discussed the situation pro and con.

Following the roll call came the selection of temporary officers. The temporary chairmanship was given to Harry Herbert, of Bound Brook, while John C. Cooper, of Warren, was made temporary secretary. Then came some routine business followed by the appointment of committees. These were composed of the following well-known politicians.

Rules: John Schomp, Philip Brown, Stephen Beeching, Wm. M. Staats and George T. Wright.

Credentials: W. S. Littell, L. T. H. Shafer, J. A. Studdiford, Jacob W. Vreeland and Peter J. Staats.

Resolutions: L. C. Mack, J. H. Cooley, James Bowman, S. Anthony and Matthew Suydam.

Permanent organization: Fred Prout, John G. MacLaughlin, Geo. B. Randolph, John G. Stephen and L. V. Ludlow.

At this afternoon's session Joseph S. Frelinghuysen was nominated for State senator, P. V. D. VanDoren for surrogate and Irving Hoagland received the nomination for Assembly on the third ballot. There was no contest and North Plainfield had no candidates.

COULDN'T TALK.

Mysterious Character Drifted Into Town Saturday Night and Bothered the Police.

Until his identity was established this morning, complete mystery surrounded a strange man who Patrolman Quaas found wandering on West Front street, at 1 o'clock, yesterday morning. Clad in the thinnest of garments and with only a pair of slippers on his feet he was chattering with the cold and gave every appearance of being demented.

When questioned at police headquarters he refused to talk and neither would he eat. There was nothing on his clothing to indicate where he came from with the exception of a name of a Rahway dealer in his hat.

Chief Kiely telephoned to the Rahway police and they commenced a search. Through them it was learned the stranger was a simple fellow who had escaped, Saturday from a Rahway family with which he was staying. He will be sent back this afternoon.

Lively Runaway.

A team of horses, belonging to W. P. Smith, of Netherwood, attached to a carriage in which were the coachman and a maid, became frightened on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon, through a pole strap breaking and ran away. They dashed down the thoroughfare and turned into Seventh street, where they were caught. The maid escaped injury but both animals were considerably cut about the legs.

Rally Day Next Sunday.

The rally day exercises at the First Baptist church will be he held Sunday. Through a mistake it was announced that they would be held yesterday.

Sunday-School Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Union County Sunday-school Association will be held in Elizabeth, Thursday. A large delegation will go from this city.

CASINO'S ATTRACTION.

Excellent Programme Will be Given There Tommorrow Night.

Giannini's Royal Marine Band of Italy and Grand Opera Company at the Casino, tomorrow night, will be heard in a splendid programme of musical selections, which will undoubtedly afford much pleasure to all lovers of melody. The second part of the entertainment will be the rendering of an opera in costumes by principals, with orchestral accompaniments. From the several replies which have come to the management, the opera to be sung will be either "Il Trovatore" or "Cavalleria Rusticana." A positive announcement will be made tomorrow. Reserved seats are on sale at Armstrong's.

GOOD FOOTBALL IN RAIN

ORANGE FIELD CLUB DEFEATED THE I. C. T. CLUB 5 TO 0.

'Twas a Good Game, Despite the Rain—Lake Made the Touchdown for the Winners.

Half a hundred wet but enthusiastic rooters watched the Orange Field Club eleven down the I. C. T. football team, Saturday afternoon, to the tune of 5 to 0. The field was wet, the players were wet and the ball was wet, but despite this the game was a good one. There was plenty of good individual playing on both sides, and had not the ball been so slippery, the game would have been an unusually fine one.

Lake made the touchdown for Orange. He played rattling good football being second only to Heller, who, although the lightest man on the team, did much towards carrying it to victory. He weights but 115 pounds, Springer, Day and Hicks were the stars for I. C. T. The former did some fine tackling while the latter two proved strong at bucking the line.

The first half was fifteen minutes and the last twenty. Orange scored in the first. After the touchdown the ball was carried up and down the field, neither team getting any decided advantage.

The line-up:

Orange F. C.		I. C. T.
Lake	left end	Stacks
Emmons	right end	Harris
Morrow	left tackle	Robinson
Mundy	right tackle	Cook
Joseph	left guard	Heardle
Kenyon	right guard	Scott
Keller	centre	Burgess
Messersmith	quarterback	Utzinger
Peters	right halfback	Springer
Smith	fullback	Gaddis

Umpire, Mosher, referee, Mason; linemen, Ferguson and Bilyeu.

RALLY DAY EXERCISES.

Well Attended at Hope Chapel Sunday-School Yesterday Afternoon Despite the Rain.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, 333 pupils of the Hope chapel Sunday-school were in attendance at the rally day exercises, yesterday afternoon. It is one of the largest attendance recorded on a stormy day.

Under the direction of Superintendent Squires, a programme of songs, dialogues and recitations was given by the primary pupils. Remarks were made by Rev. L. R. Howard, Rev. Dr. Travell and Assistant Superintendent I. W. Travel.

During the session, the infant son of Rev. and Mrs. Howard was baptized by Dr. Richards. The name given was Richard Foster.

MEMBERS ENROLLED.

Holy Name Society Will Organize at Meeting Next Sunday.

A meeting was held Sunday night at St. Mary's for the purpose of enrolling members for the Holy Name Society which is about to be formed in that parish. Owing to the disagreeable weather there was a small attendance, but twenty names being enrolled.

Next Sunday night another meeting will be held, when it is expected that more than 200 will state their intention to become identified with the new society. At this meeting officers will be elected and by-laws adopted.

Shut Off Lights.

Account of the scarcity of coal at Clinton, Hunterdon county, the electric lights are shut off every night at 10 o'clock.

Meeting of Somerset's Teachers.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will hold a meeting in the public school at Watchung, Saturday, October 18.

RECEPTION BY HILLSIDE CLUB

Rain Failed to Spoil Annual Event at Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

EVENTS AS PLANNED

But Dampness Reduced List of Competitors in the Golf and Tennis Events—Social Programme Proved a Great Success—Many Enjoyed It.

While the weather was not all to be desired the annual fall reception given by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday to the Park Golf Club was a success. The rain had a tendency to dampen the enthusiasm of many members, there was a good attendance throughout the day on the course and all of the events scheduled were played with considerable interest.

A leading event of the day was the play for a handicap cup between the members of the Hillside and Park clubs. This attracted a large number of contestants, but a majority of the Park Golf Club members did not post their scores. George T. Rogers and Frank Rogers were the only contestants from across the brook to place their scores on the card. Arthur Murphy, of the Hillside Club, won the handicap cup, with a score of 75. He also won first honors for the Golf Committee cup, the same scores counting in this event for Hillside members. E. T. Barrows won second honors for the Golf Committee cup, and Walter Peterson, W. L. Glenney and Reeve Stockton divided the one remaining point. Both Mr. Barrows and Mr. Peterson played a strong game.

The scores for the Handicap and Golf Committee cups are as follows:

	G	H	N
Arthur Murphy	102	27	75
E. T. Barrows	94	18	76

ENDEAVOR WORK IN JERSEY

OUTLINED AT MEETING OF STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Meeting Held at Westfield—Heads of Departments and Committees Appointed.

Christian Endeavor work in New Jersey for the coming year was outlined at a meeting of the State executive committee Monday, September 29, in the First Presbyterian church, Westfield. The president, Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, presided, and there was an unusually large attendance of delegates from the twenty-one counties in the State.

President Lumbar announced the following heads of departments for the ensuing year: Missionary, R. A. Alberts, Jersey City; junior, Rev. George C. Horton, Camden; evangelistic, Rev. F. C. Klein, Newark; Bible study, Rev. Charles A. Cook, Bloomfield; press, A. B. Johnson, South Orange; correspondence, Miss Anna Wiggins, Jersey City; Christian citizenship, Rev. J. C. Austerbury, Westfield; fresh air, Arthur N. Pierson, Westfield; colored work, Mrs. Florence Randolph, Jersey City.

Each branch of State work was discussed, reports for the past year being presented and plans for the coming year being fully outlined.

The finance committee, John T. Sproull, of Arlington, chairman, reported that $1,000 is estimated for the expenses of the State work for the ensuing year, and suggested that each society be asked to contribute $2.

Mr. Lumbar announced that an advisory board, composed of Bishop Alexander Walters, Jersey City; Rev. J. T. Kerr, Elizabeth; Rev. D. Cornelius Brett, Jersey City; Rev. Dr. A. W. Spooner, Camden; Theodore Bellis, Flemington, and Rev. C. R. Kuebler, Hackensack, had been appointed to meet in the future with the officers, executive committee and district secretaries at the quarterly meetings.

Rev. W. D. Stulz, chairman of the committee having in charge the Rev. J. Judson Pierson Memorial Fund, reported that $2,314.73 had been paid to Mrs. Pierson, widow of the former State president, and read a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Pierson.

President Lumbar told of the outlook in the State, and said that never before were New Jersey Endeavorers so well prepared and equipped to accomplish good work as at the present time. Plans for the annual convention at Orange are already under way, and all indications point to a very active year in State work.

The delegates were entertained at supper by the society of the First Presbyterian church

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

She was a big, healthy looking Irish girl and she was wandering aimlessly up and down Park avenue. Under her arm was a large bundle and she carried in her hand a bulky grip covered with black oilcloth. If she had worn a placard with "Just Over" printed thereon the inference would not have been plainer.

After her passing to and fro had begun to be painfully monotonous to the onlookers, a Park avenue storekeeper stopped her and asked her if she was looking for anyone.

"Oi am," replied the woman, "Oi am lookin' fur me brother 'Mike.'" "What does Mike do?" inquired the storekeeper.

"Shure and he's a policeman. He's got a bate on Park avenue in Noo York and Oi want to see him. And Oi don't know if that's your business, at all."

The Plainfielder gently intimated that if the woman would go to New York she might find her brother, but he thought that Mike's beat scarcely extended as far as this city. He was even courteous enough to give a small boy a nickel to put the girl on an eastbound train As she was being helped on the train she remarked to the youngster in a dazed sort of a way: "Shure and Oi thought Oi was mistaken. Oi knew that Noo York wasn't so big as this."

It is rather safe to say that she is still looking for Mike. There are several of New York's "finest" who hear that name.

The postoffice department has just made public tables giving the gross receipts, expenses and net revenues of all the presidential postoffices in the country for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, arranged by states.

The New Jersey table shows that there were in that State 124 presidential offices, the salaries of their postmasters ranging all the way from $1,000 up to $4,000, the salary then received by the postmaster of Newark, whose salary has been $5,000 since July 1 last. Of the 124 presidential offices twelve are rated as first class, forty-five as second class and sixty-seven as third class. The twelve first class offices are Atlantic City, Camden, East Orange, Elizabeth, Hoboken, Jersey City, Montclair, Newark, New Brunswick, Orange, Paterson and Trenton.

The table further shows that the gross receipts of the 124 offices amounted to $2,802,521.26 during the year. The salaries paid to postmasters at the same offices amounted to $240,850; clerk hire to $378,871.22; rent, fuel and lights to $52,822.33; other incidental expenses to $37,824.85; expenses of the free delivery service to $791,473.14, making the total expenses of carrying on the 124 offices $1,401,828.54, thus leaving a grand total of $1,400,093.72 as the net revenue to Uncle Sam from New Jersey's 124 presidential postoffices.

The boy hero of the prairies, the best shot west of the Father of Waters and the most daring scout that ever crossed the Rockies had been trailing for several days the notorious outlaw, Harry Tracy. Without rest or sleep he had faithfully tracked his prey and now as the seventh day was drawing to a close, as the last rays of the setting sun cast their shadows through the crags and peaks of the Sierra Nevadas, his eagle eye discerned far up the mountainside the smoke of a camp-fire curling among the tree tops. With a warrior's instinct he completely circled the spot and closed in on his game from the rear. Crouching there on a ledge of rock, shielded from the murderer's view by tall sage bushes, he brought his trusty Winchester to his shoulder, his unerring aim would not fail him now, a moment more and Harry Tracy would be transported to the "Happy Hunting Grounds," when suddenly there arose upon the still mountain air, a blood-curdling yell, like the war cry of a Cherokee brave—but alas it was Manager Schermerhorn, of the local Western Union office, with a "rush" for Seventh street and messenger boy, Peter Sweeney, to wake up.

TO AVERT COAL FAMINE.

J. P. Morgan Will Ship Thousands of Tons From Wales to New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—An early supply of coal sufficient in amount to prevent an actual famine in this city is assured through action just taken by J. Pierpont Morgan and his associates. With a continuance of the restriction of production to the present scanty amount and with practically prohibitive prices ruling here, the fact is fully recognized that widespread suffering cannot but result when the weather turns cold. With a view to minimizing that suffering arrangements have been made by interests allied with the anthracite mining companies for bringing to this city a large amount of foreign coal. The following official statement has been issued at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.:

"The International Mercantile Marine company, of which J. P. Morgan is the head, has arranged to purchase in England 50,000 tons of the best domestic fuel coal for immediate transportation to this country. Shipments of the coal will begin at once and be hurried forward as rapidly as possible, even at the sacrifice of the company's ordinary business, if that should be found necessary. This coal, as well as more, if required, will be used to relieve any suffering or scarcity that may exist among the poor or in public institutions."

A leading coal interest, in speaking about the foregoing statement, said:

"This is only a beginning, as the statement itself indicates. The importation will tend to keep down the price of coal and relieve distress generally. If necessary for keeping prices down, the coal will, I understand, be sold on the docks. It will be landed where people can be supplied at once without an hour of unnecessary delay."

In addition to the promised supply from this source a dispatch from Washington announces the probable early importation of 100,000 tons of anthracite from Canada.

Poles and Hebrews Have a Pitched Battle In Haverhill, Mass.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 6.—A race riot which for fury among the combatants has not been equaled here for years gave the police force a vigorous half hour. During that time fully 500 men, women and children were involved in a fight on River street, sticks and other missiles being freely used, causing bruised heads and bloody faces in abundance. Seven arrests have been made, and a squad of police is engaged in scouring the district, as warrants for many more persons have been issued. River street is mainly settled by Italians, Syrians, Poles and Hebrews, and it was between the two last named races that the trouble occurred.

The best reason the police have received for the trouble was the objection of some Polish tenants to paying rent to a Hebrew collector. This individual was thrown into the street, and in the incipient melee then a Hebrew had his thumb bitten off. Little by little the neighborhood was drawn into the fight, and the police riot call was sounded. The officers did not use gentle means to break up the crowd, and it was a long time before quiet was restored.

A Northwestern Railway Deal.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 6.—A. Guthrie of St. Paul, a contractor of the Great Northern railway; John Henry and J. J. Jaffrey of Vancouver have bought the Victoria Terminal railway and its franchises, which, it is understood, will give the Great Northern railway an entrance to Victoria and Vancouver. The sale embraces a controlling interest in the Victoria Terminal and Sydney with the mainland and the delta extension, which runs seventeen miles from the mouth of the Fraser river to Cloverdale. The sale does not include the interest of the Sydney and Nanaimo Navigation company, operating the steamers Strathcona, Iroquois and Unican, which are owned by E. V. Bodwell. The new owners have not as yet formulated any plan of action.

Newspaper Man Dead.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 6.—John A. Place, a veteran newspaper man and Republican politician, is dead, aged eighty years. He was born at Foster, R. I., and began newspaper work at the age of sixteen. He was successively owner and editor of the Oswego Commercial Advertiser, the Fulton Patriot and the Oswego Times and also a director of the New York State Press association. He was a legislative correspondent at Albany and state canal auditor under Governor Cornell. He served as a state assemblyman and state committeeman and was once postmaster of Oswego.

Murdered by a Negro.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 6.—William D. Barringer, a cooper, has been murdered by Thomas A. Stewart, a negro barber, on South Market street. Barringer is alleged to have made an insulting remark to Stewart's wife, and her husband felled Barringer with a blow on the jaw, from which he died almost instantly.

Dr. Parker Again Ill.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Dr. Joseph Parker, pastor of the City temple, who was seriously ill last spring, but who was reported to have recovered, has experienced a sudden relapse and was unable to preach yesterday. Thousands of persons who had expected to hear him in the temple were disappointed.

Costly Blaze In Fargo.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 6.—The building and stock of the Weeum-Watt company, wholesale dealers in notions and stationery, have been destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at $150,000; insurance about $140,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

FORTY FORTS TAKEN

Maciu Moros Routed by Captain Pershing's Forces.

POSITION SUPPOSED IMPREGNABLE.

Chief Stronghold Abandoned After Fifteen Hours' Bombardment—But Two Americans Wounded—Now Awaiting Peace Overtures.

MANILA, Oct. 6.—Captain John J. Pershing's column has completely routed the Maciu Moros in the island of Mindanao, killing or wounding a hundred of them and capturing and destroying forty forts. Two Americans were wounded.

On Tuesday the Moros retired to their largest and strongest fort, on the lake shore, and Wednesday Captain Pershing attacked them with artillery, bombarding the enemy for three hours. At noon Lieutenant Loring, leading a squad of men, attempted to set fire to the fort. He crept under the walls and started a blaze, but the Moros discovered him and forced the Americans to retreat.

During the afternoon the sultan of Cabugatan led a sortie at the head of a band of fanatics armed with krisses. They crept through the grass and sprang up and attacked the Americans. The sultan was wounded six times and boloed an American before he died. His followers were killed.

In the darkness Wednesday night Captain Pershing took his batteries within a hundred yards of the fort, closed in his infantry lines and resumed the attack. The Moros broke through twice and attempted to escape by the beach, but were discovered, and many of them were killed.

The Moros abandoned the fort early on Thursday, after fifteen hours' bombardment, and Captain Pershing destroyed the rest of the forts and returned to Camp Vicars.

It is believed the moral effect of the defeat of the Moros will be great. General Davis has ordered that hostilities be stayed in order to permit the sultan of Bacolod and other hostile sultans to make peace.

The sultans of Maciu were confident of their ability to defeat the Americans and vowed before the fight to enter slavery voluntarily if they themselves were defeated.

General Davis has sent General Sumner, in command of the American forces in Mindanao, a congratulatory telegram on the success of Captain Pershing and the small American loss.

Fatal Oil Stove Accident.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Sherman Reed, seventy-three years old, and his wife, sixty-four years old, were the victims of a fatality at their home in the village of Oakfield. Mr. Reed is dead, and his wife is so badly burned that no hope is entertained of her recovery. An oil stove which had been recently placed in an upstairs room at the Reed home did not work properly when lighted, and it suddenly burst into flames. Mrs. Reed seized the stove and attempted to carry it from the house. She stumbled and rolled down the stairway. Her clothing was covered with blazing oil, and she was terribly injured. To reach his wife Mr. Reed had to walk through the flames. His clothing caught fire, and he was burned to death. Mr. Reed was one of the wealthiest citizens of the village.

Would Be Lynchers Thrice Foiled.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 6.—A special to the Observer from Lincolnton, N. C., says: "As the result of considerable talk of lynching here since the preliminary hearing of Calvin Elliott, colored, for an assault on Mrs. Caleb Brown a crowd broke into the jail about 2 o'clock in the morning and tried to batter down the doors, but failed and dispersed without getting the negro. Judge Hoke wired the governor to call a special term of court for the trial of the negro, and the latter replied that he would do so at once. Fears are held of an attempt at violence, and a telegram was sent to Charlotte for the military company to be dispatched to Lincolnton on a special train. It was the third attempt made to get the negro out of jail and hang him."

Coal Handling Plant Destroyed.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Damage estimated at $30,000 was wrought at East Rochester by fire, which completely destroyed the Rochester coal handling plant of the New York Central railroad. There was no insurance. Flames broke out of the upper part of the building and for over an hour formed a square block of fire straight up in the air. The big coal pocket is a mass of ruins, while the 400 tons of coal in its bunkers dropped into the pit below, the soft coal burning for several hours.

Another American Invasion.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Belfast correspondent of the Daily Mail says in a dispatch he has heard that an American syndicate, with a capital of $20,000,000, proposes to erect large mills on the waterside at Belfast, Londonderry, Dublin, Cork, Waterford and Galway with a view of importing corn and wheat in bulk, milling it and distributing it by means of coasting steamers owned by the syndicate.

Serious Strike Riots In Geneva.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 6.—A meeting of the striking employees of the street car lines led to serious rioting. Twenty-eight cars were wrecked, and the police had little by in restoring order. Many arrests were made.

Very Ancient Tombs Found.

ROME Oct. 6.—Two tombs of great antiquity have been discovered in the necropolis of the forum.

SECRET CONFERENCE

President and Cabinet Discuss Coal Strike Problem.

NEW PLAN OF ACTION INVOLVED.

While Absolute Secrecy Was Maintained, It Is Believed That Progress Was Made Toward a Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—In an earnest effort to expedite the adjustment of the coal strike problem another conference over the situation was held at the White House yesterday and adjourned after three hours of deliberation. No statement was given out as to the conclusions reached, and every participant absolutely refused to discuss what had taken place during the meeting. The conference was called, although it was Sunday, in view of the extraordinary importance to the American people of a solution of the question.

Besides the president there were present at the conference Secretary of War Root, Secretary of the Navy Moody, Attorney General Knox, Postmaster General Payne and Colonel Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor. The last named was summoned to attend the conference on account of his expert knowledge of the situation in the anthracite coalfields and because of his personal investigation of the conditions there which he made some months ago at the instance of the president.

The president in expressing his views at the outset of the conference talked earnestly and showed deep feeling. His voice at times could be heard downstairs. Several times during the conference Secretary Cortelyou was summoned into the room and directed to prepare certain matters for the consideration of the president and his advisers. This was taken to indicate that some action of one nature or another was about to be consummated.

When the conference adjourned a few minutes before 1 o'clock, all those who had joined in it declined to talk. Every member of the cabinet and Colonel Wright, the only outsider who was present, was pledged to the president to absolute secrecy as to what had occurred within the conference room. The utmost efforts were made to guard against publicity, just as the presidential summons which called the conference had been made in a very quiet and carefully guarded way. Not since the Spanish war has there been such reticence shown at a conference of such a character as was observed at this time.

In this state of absolute reticence of every one of the parties to the conference it is almost impossible to do more than draw the most general of conclusions as to the nature of the proceedings based upon what preceded the meeting. The known facts are that the president has reached the conclusion that he has nothing to expect save refusal from a further appeal to the coal operators and therefore has decided to look for relief from a situation which in his view is fast growing intolerable to the miners' side. He feels that he can hardly expect them to make the sacrifice of all of their contentions without holding out at least a promise of some return, and the question before him is as to his ability to do this. He can pledge himself to appeal to congress to examine into the justice of the miners' complaints and remedy them so far as lies in the power of the legislative branch, backed by the earnest good will of the executive; also he can suggest to Governor Stone of Pennsylvania that he cause the Pennsylvania legislature likewise to make an inquiry, perhaps hastening the usual methods by calling an extra session. But these pledges would be given only on condition that the men go at once into the mines to get out with all speed the coal for which the people are suffering.

To adopt this course means the continuance of that policy of exerting moral spasion to end the strike. It is certain that thus far the president has not found a single one of his constitutional advisers who could suggest any departure from this policy. No one could find a method sanctioned by law or constitution which promised relief and involved the use of duress against either the operators or the miners.

So it is believed that this conference was called by the president with the purpose of putting in exact shape the details of a plan conceived in its rough outlines even before the departure of President Mitchell last Friday afternoon from the mixed conference. The three hours spent in consultation were none too long to put into form the twin proposition, one to the miners' organization and the other to Governor Stone, and the fact that Secretary Cortelyou was called on to prepare one or more statements at the direction of the president is taken as an indication that messages were sent out at the end of the conference and that the reticence of all the parties is explainable perhaps by their desire to avoid the discourtesy of publishing the nature of these before they are received by the persons to whom they are addressed as well as by a wish to escape the complication of the negotiations by heated public discussion at this stage. That the parties to the conference feel that they have accomplished something was made evident by the expression of one of a belief that the miners soon will be again at work.

One object of the conference was to consider some of the propositions that have been sent to the president for settling the strike. These came from every section of the country and a large proportion from men of standing and reputation. At the same time it is said that the suggestions often are absurd and impracticable. Others offering a possible solution have already received attention.

Two constantly recurring propositions for federal interference, one that United States troops be sent into Pennsylvania for the protection of the men the operators employ and the other that the mines be seized by the general government, are rejected, no matter by whom urged. The first conference developed the fact that no federal interference by force was possible, and to that conclusion the president has firmly held. Some of the impracticable propositions made are offers to lease coal mines in other sections of the country to the government so that it may furnish coal to the people.

A Woodcutting Bee.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Oct. 6.—Mayor Drake of Lincoln, N. J., and also president of a real estate company, offered free of charge to the residents of Lincoln three of acres of standing hard wood timber owned by the company and located on the outskirts of the village. The only condition is that the timber must be cut down, cut into cord wood lengths and stacked. Then it will be distributed to the townspeople. The offer was at once accepted, almost every family providing at least one worker, and the cutting of the trees began at once. There are 300 inhabitants in the village, and it is figured that there is enough wood in the tract to do them for the winter, should it become necessary to keep up the consumption of it. The same company owns five acres of woodland in the Thirteenth ward of Trenton and another tract near Plainfield. Mr. Drake announced that the timber on these would be donated to the poor of the cities mentioned.

Much Ammunition Found.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 6.—Just before daybreak a squad of the Thirteenth regiment stationed near the Grassy Island colliery came across an Italian striker named Giuseppe Papriello prowling about the outpost with a shotgun. He fired in the direction from which the soldiers were approaching, afterward alleging he was shooting at a bird. Colonel Watres has received information that Papriello was receiving arms and ammunition, and a detachment of two companies was sent to his house. The soldiers found there 1,200 rounds of cartridges for shotguns. No arms, however, were found. Papriello was turned over to Sheriff Schadt.

Steel Mills Out of Coal.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Oct. 6.—The Shenango Valley Steel mill closed down on account of inability to secure coal for the boilers. The plant employs about a thousand men and is one of the main industries of the city. The order was unexpected. All the industrial plants in the Shenango valley are having trouble in securing coal.

New British Embassador Arrives.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Right Honorable Sir Michael Henry Herbert, the new British embassador to the United States, arrived here on the steamer Campania to assume the duties of his post. He was accompanied by Lady Herbert and their son Michael. They will spend a short time in this city with Lady Herbert's father, Mr. R. T. Wilson, before going to Washington.

Army Expenses Decreased.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—According to the annual report of the paymaster general, army expenditures decreased during the past fiscal year $918,919 as compared with the preceding year, partly owing to decrease in the pay of the army and in part owing to a reduction of claims for extra pay by volunteers. The total expenditures made by Paymaster General Bates were $52,523,479.

Erie Railway Bridge Falls.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 6.—The center span of Buchanan bridge, on the Erie railroad, three miles west of this city, gave way while a westbound freight train was on it. Two cars are at the bottom of French creek, and two others hang over the piers. Aside from damage to the bridge the road will suffer severely in delay to traffic.

Death Penalty Abolished.

MONTEREY, Mexico, Oct. 6.—Political crimes no longer carry the death penalty in the state of Nuevo Leon. The state congress has passed an amendment to the constitution specifically stating that crimes of such character shall not be punishable by death. No enforcement of the law just amended has been made for years.

A Harmless Duel.

MADRID, Oct. 6.—As an outcome of newspaper attacks General Barges, captain general of Catalonia, fought a duel with pistols with the director of the newspaper El Imparcial of Madrid. Neither of the combatants was injured.

Long Drought Broken.

CARRIZO, Tex., Oct. 6.—The thirty months' drought seems to be broken at last. Two good rains have fallen in the last week, although it comes too late to do corn much good. However, it is of the greatest benefit to stock interests.

La Soufriere Erupts.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Oct. 6.—After a week of tranquillity La Soufriere has again showed signs of disturbance. There was a slight eruption at 6 o'clock last night. Then the volcano resumed its quietude.

Heavy Failure In Russia.

ODESSA, Russia, Oct. 6.—The failure of the great metallurgical works at Kertch for $9,000,000 has caused a flutter on the Russian stock markets and has resulted in making idle 5,000 men.

Venetian Church Spire Crumbling.

VENICE, Oct. 6.—The steeple of the Church of Santo Stefano shows signs of falling.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

Strike out paragraph 2

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Notice of hearing objections to assessments for street improvements in the City of Plainfield.

Thomas Hughes, James Chamberlain and Andrew J. Gavett, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas by order entered on the twenty-fifth day of June, 1902, to estimate and asses benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinance of said City specified in said order, said improvements being the macadamizing of

First Place,
Second Place,
Third Place; each from the northerly curb line of East Ninth Street to the southerly curb line of Crescent Avenue.

West Sixth Street, from the southwesterly curb line of Park Avenue to the northeasterly curb line of Plainfield Avenue.

Orchard Place, from the southwesterly curb line of New Street to the northeasterly curb line of Liberty Street.

Carlton Avenue, from the northerly curb line of Watchung Avenue to the southerly curb line of Putnam Avenue, in said city, under and by virtue of the provisions of the Act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in Cities of this State and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same," approved June 13, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by surveys and map prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels and real estate peculiarly benefitted by such improvements, respectively, the cost of the whole work under said ordinance, the portions assessed upon the city at large, and the names, so far as ascertained of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax, and the other matters required by said Acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and map will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given that the said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the seventh day of October, 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said Court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties interested may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

Dated September 17, 1902.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Thirty-sixth Annual Meeting Begins In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The thirty-sixth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic began here today with the meeting of the various auxiliary organizations affiliated with the main body and will continue until next Saturday. Preparations for the gathering are complete, and Washington is ready to entertain the almost countless throngs which will make the city their headquarters during the week. The local committees have taken every precaution for the protection of life and limb and the housing of those who will be unable to find hotel accommodations. For indigent veterans large tents have been erected on the White lot, and several floors of the new government printing office have been utilized. Great crowds of visitors have been pouring into the city during the past twenty-four hours, and at the railroad stations it is said that the number of persons coming to the encampment is perhaps greater than ever before brought to the city on any occasion.

The business houses and private residences along Pennsylvania avenue and the other main thoroughfares of the city have been appropriately decorated for the encampment season. The display of flags and bunting is very generous.

This afternoon there will be an automobile parade, a regatta on the Potomac river, the dedication of Camp Roosevelt on the White lot, at which Secretary of State John Hay will make the chief address, and a grand campfire at Convention hall.

Tuesday the naval parade will take up the morning, while the afternoon and evening are to be devoted to receptions and reunions.

Wednesday will occur the big parade of the Grand Army of the Republic, while in the evening a number of receptions will be held.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will occur the meetings of the national encampment and auxiliary organizations.

Dreyfus at the Zola Funeral.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The remains of Emile Zola were laid at rest yesterday with simple but impressive ceremonies. It was such a funeral as Zola himself would have wished, without pomp, but with the serried ranks of thousands of workingmen, many accompanied by their wives, sorrowfully marching behind his coffin. Municipal guards, mounted and on foot, lined the route, but except for a company of infantry, which rendered military honors to the body as it was carried from the house to the hearse, they were there as guardians of order and not as participants in the ceremony. Former Captain Dreyfus marched in the funeral cortege, according to the authority of the prefect of police, but he passed completely unnoticed by the crowd. A little distance behind him came Mme. Dreyfus, accompanied by her father. Dreyfus sent a handsome wreath, which was placed beside the coffin.

Troops on Guard at Glens Falls.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Soldiers of the national guard are again guarding the peace of this town, and, though there has been no rioting for the past few hours, an uneasy feeling prevails in the minds of the citizens. The militia company of this place, which had been dismissed to its armory Thursday last, was called out again Sunday night and is now protecting the power house and other property of the Hudson Valley Electric railway in Glens Falls. A squad is also guarding a bridge at Sandy Hill, having been sent there following a report that one of the canal bridges there was to be blown up.

Missing Boys Found Dead.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 6.—The bodies of John H. Coffin, eleven years old, and Price Jennings, fourteen years old, have been found in the woods at White Horse pike, near here, and the police believe the children have met with foul play. They disappeared last Wednesday, and their parents, who live in Camden, have had the police of this and other cities searching for them. John Coffin was the son of William Coffin, division agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Price Jennings was the son of Joseph Jennings, leader of the Third Regiment band.

Russian Grand Duke Leaves Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6.—Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia had a long audience with the sultan last Friday and discussed the Macedonian situation. The grand duke assured the sultan of Russia's friendly desire to maintain order there. The sultan granted a second and farewell audience to his visitor, and the grand duke, who has been the recipient of many courtesies since his arrival here, has sailed for Livadia, on the Black sea.

Five Years For Snyder.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—Robert McClure Snyder, the "boodler," was convicted of bribery in the criminal court and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the state penitentiary after the jury had considered for fifty minutes its verdict on the case and after a trial which has occupied an entire week.

A World's Record Broken.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Ralph L. Rose of Healdsburg has broken the world's record for putting the shot, held by Dewitt of Princeton. At the semiannual field day of the Academic Athletic league Rose threw the shot 49 feet 6 inches. Dewitt's record was 48 feet 7 inches.

Auto Injures Grecian Crown Prince.

ATHENS, Oct. 6.—Crown Prince Constantin of Greece has been painfully but not dangerously injured by the overturning of a motor car in which he was riding near Villatator.

CASEY HAS CONTROL

No Transisthmian Transportation Without Permit.

ALL RAILROAD PASSES IGNORED.

Colombian Paper Currency Greatly Depreciated—Exchange Rate Eighty-five to One For American Money.

COLON, Colombia, Oct. 6.—Under recent orders issued by Rear Admiral Casey, U. S. N., who is at Panama on the battleship Wisconsin, no Colombian military officers or troops or arms and ammunition will be allowed to be transported across the isthmus by rail unless by special permission. This order ignores the passes issued by the railroad company.

Exchange at Barranquilla is rising by leaps and bounds. An American dollar is now worth $85 in Colombian paper currency.

A dispatch from Kingston, Jamaica, says that the British steamer Para, belonging to the royal mail service, has just arrived from Colon. She brings reports of a serious situation at Santa Marta, Colombia, whither the British cruiser Retribution has proceeded for the purpose of affording protection to the railroad there and other British interests.

According to the reports brought by the Para, fighting is still going on at Santa Marta between the Colombian revolutionists and the government forces. The Magdalen river is completely cut off from communication. The revolutionists hold Teneriffe, near Santa Marta, and have four quick firing guns at this point. Last week the force at Teneriffe captured Senor Laforest, Colombian minister of state, who was coming from Bogota.

The Para also reports that, owing to the rebel success in the vicinity of Santa Marta, the government has sent back from the isthmus to the vicinity of Santa Marta a large body of troops on board the government gunboat Cartagena. The fighting is proceeding in the vicinity of Santa Marta with considerable success by the government forces.

The gunboat Libertador, formerly the British steamer Ban Righ and lately known as the Bolivar, which arrived at Barranquilla recently in the service of the Colombian government, is in need of repairs. Her boilers are in bad condition, and she can only steam four knots.

Serious Complications Feared.

PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 6.—After the conference held last week between General Salazar, governor of Panama, and Commander McLean of the United States cruiser Cincinnati no further difficulties were feared, for it was believed that General Salazar was satisfied that the landing of American marines on the isthmus had for its only object the maintenance of free railroad transit between here and Colon. The arrival at Panama of Rear Admiral Casey on board the battleship Wisconsin, however, has quite changed the situation. It now appears that the instructions brought by Rear Admiral Casey may result in serious complications.

Casey's Action Regretted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The action of Admiral Casey in giving notice of his intention to decline to transport combatants, ammunition or arms across the isthmus of Panama is greatly regretted at the Colombian legation. One member of the legation staff expressed the opinion that it would produce a most unfavorable impression among the people of Colombia. Other diplomatic officials in discussing the matter said that Admiral Casey's action went further than that of Commander McLean of the Cincinnati, who permitted the transportation of troops across the railroad after they had been disarmed under an escort of marines.

President Will Not Review Parade.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Roosevelt will not review the parade of the G. A. R., at which it was expected he would occupy the reviewing stand in front of the White House. The official statement issued Saturday that he would have to exercise extreme care indicated that it would be impossible for him to review the veterans, and the direct statement that he will not do so is now made on an official authority. The president has not yet been able to rest his foot on the floor, and his physicians have forbidden him again to overtax his strength as he did during the past week.

Texas Firemen Strike.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 6.—All the firemen on the Texas, Mexican and Northern division of the National railroad extending from Laredo to Saltillo have struck, and not a wheel is turning on these roads. The firemen claim they receive only $7.88 Mexican money for twenty-eight hours' work, and as Mexican money has depreciated they claim they cannot make a living. They demand $14 Mexican for the same hours of labor.

Snowstorm In Colorado.

DENVER, Oct. 6.—A furious snowstorm, with a high wind, is raging in the mountains, being particularly severe in the vicinity of Como and the Alpine tunnel. It is feared that prospectors living in tents will suffer severely.

Heavy Snow In the Alps.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 6.—There have been heavy falls of snow in the eastern Alps. There is three feet of snow at Ariolo, at the south end of the St. Gothard tunnel, where the temperature is below zero.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; fresh southwest winds.

COMMENDABLE STAND.

Very commendable is the stand taken by several members of Board of School Estimate, before which the proposition to raise $125,000 for a new City High School has come. If the board is a unit in taking the stand which several members have publicly announced, there should not be the slightest trouble over this question.

No one who has made any pretence of keeping posted with the municipal situation doubts for a moment that there are inadequate quarters for the High School and that the present building is not adapted to the modern needs of such a school. Evidently something must be done. The members of School Board ought to know best what should be done. The only danger is that in their enthusiasm they may go to extremes. The Board of School Estimate was placed there as a check on just such a possibility.

When such a large sum as $125,000 of the public funds is to be spent, it is perfectly right that the voice of the people should be heard. There should be no attempt to "railroad" the matter through. One of the members of the board says that the fullest publicity will be courted by the Board of School Estimate although personally he believes that the new High School should be built without delay. His course is an eminently proper one. He has a perfect right to believe as he pleases but he should give the public a chance to express its belief as well.

If this policy is followed, there is not likely to be any objection to the final result. In a population of fifteen odd thousand people, it is not to be expected that such a proposition will meet with unanimous favor. There is likely to be some objection. How strong it will be can only be told by giving it an opportunity to make itself known. If it does amount to comparatively little, there will be no chance afterward to complain that full opportunity was not presented before hand to object to the proposition.

Another interesting event of the afternoon was the women's clock golf competition. Miss vanHerwerden and Miss Margaret Goddard made a tie score of 28, and in the play-off Miss vanHerwerden won with a score of 27, while Miss Goddard made a 29. The other scores were Miss Helen Lee, 30; Msis Marjorie Fleming, 31; Mrs. E. T. Barrows, 34. This competition was for a cup presented by Ernest R. Ackerman.

During the afternoon much interest was taken in the men's driving contest. Reeve Stockton won this event with a drive of 157 yards. The other scores were Dr. F. C. Ard, 153; H. F. Baker, 141; Dudley H. Barrows, 148. There were many more in the event, but in nearly every case the player drove out of bounds and this reduced their score.

There was also a men's clock golf contest. It was rather late when this event was started and W. L. Glenney, who finished second with a score of 27, ended in the dark. Evarts Tracy won the event with a score of 26.

The rain also had its influence on the tennis events and only a fair start was made in the open tournament and it was impossible to complete the championship play. In the latter event Duncan Bulkley defeated A. D. Beers, 6-3, 6-4. Next Saturday Bulkley will meet Arthur Lovell and the winner of that match will play T. M. Day, Jr., the present holder of the championship cup.

In the preliminary round of the open tennis tournament W. L. Glenney, Hillside, defeated T. M. Day, Jr., Hillside, 6-4, 6-3; A. D. Beers, Hillside, defeated F. L. Waldo, Hillside, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1; F. T. VanAuken, Cedar Brook Club, defeated R. deS. Newhall, Park Golf Club, 6-3, 6-3. There was only one match in the first round and in that Duncan Bulkley, Hillside, defeated W. L. Glenney, Hillside, 6-4, 6-3. This tournament will be continued next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In addition to the schedule of events on the golf course and tennis courts, there were the social features in the clubhouse which was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and flowers by the women of the house committee. There was a large number of people who enjoyed the reception in the afternoon and the delightful music furnished by the Neapolitan Troubadours. During the afternoon these musicians in costume rendered a pleasing programme of instrumental and vocal music and in the evening they played for the dinner-dance. There were nearly seventy people who remained in the evening for dinner and to enjoy the dance.

The women who composed the reception committee and looked after the social end of the affair in the clubhouse were Mrs. E. J. Patterson, Mrs. T. M. Day, Jr., Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Mrs. Frederick W. Yates.

Reception to Dr. Richards.

The congregation of Hope chapel and its friends will tender a formal farewell reception, this evening to Rev. Dr. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, who is soon to leave that pastorate. Each organization connected with the chapel will, in some way, contribute to the affair and a pleasant evening is in prospect.

Programme and Banquet.

The members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., are preparing to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the Council Thursday evening, October 16. There will be an attractive programme and a banquet.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The first meeting of the season of the Dunellen Literary Society was held Saturday evening at the home of Harry Boice, of Randolphville. Owing to the storm the number present was not large. The first paper of the evening was "Pre-Historic America." by Mrs. Edmund Teel. The paper took up carefully the early state of the continent and its gradual advance into civilization and was very interesting especially where the life of the pre-historic inhabitants was described. Miss Emma Marlow read a fine paper on Valasquaz, the famous Spanish painter. Then the members responded to roll call with vacation experiences. Miss Mary Doolittle gave an interesting description of Washington's old headquarters at Morristown.

A travelling phonograph entertainer drew quite a large crowd in Apgar's Hall, Saturday evening. The phonograph pieces were interesting but a large crowd of boys present made things considerably livelier by their antics.

Two young men from here played football Saturday on the Orange Field Club against the I. C. T. Club, Charles Lake, and Ernest Peters. The Orange Field Club won and Lake made the winning touchdown.

Some special work engaged the attention of the Willing Workers at their meeting in the guild room of the Episcopal church, Saturday afternoon.

The Republican primary for the election of a delegate to the county convention will be held this evening in the Borough Hall.

The old custom of having Sunday-school in the afternoon was resumed for the winter at the Presbyterian church yesterday.

The Middlesex Bowling Green Club played a match with the New Brunswick Golf Club, on Schepflin's green, on October 2.

Ruliff Fisher, Fred Giddes and Harry Apgar, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with their parents in town.

The trustees of the Methodist church have collected $1,200 in cash to pay off part of the mortgage.

Small congregations were the rule at the local churches yesterday because of the storm.

J. H. Fleming gave a gospel lecture in Apgar's Hall yesterday afternoon.

The monthly reports of the public schools were issued on Friday.

The banjo club will meet for practice this evening as usual.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley has recovered from a slight illness.

The Borough Council will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

NEW MARKET.

Friendship Dancing Class will resume the season's activity Tuesday evening. As usual the dances will be held in Friendship Hall.

The stormy weather yesterday and Saturday caused small congregations to be present in both the local churches.

Frank Nelson has received settlement from an insurance company for the loss of his barns by fire some time ago.

Miss Alice Spence, of New York City, spent last week with Miss Alice Pierce.

Report has it that the Nelson store has been rented for a butcher shop.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local baseball team was unable to play again Saturday on account of the rain. No more home games will be played this saeson unless the management should decide to play the benefit game to Mrs. Frentz October 18. This is unlikely, so the money from the sale of tickets will be given to Mrs. Frentz as soon as the returns are all in.

A number from town braved the threatening weather Saturday afternoon and went to Westfield to witness the five inning game between the All-Plainfield and Westfield teams.

The members of the Baptist Young People's Union held their regular weekly meeting in the church parlors last night. "A Searching Question" was the topic discussed.

John Patterson, a former old resident of the village but now of Morris Plains, is spending a few days with relatives and friends in town.

The regular monthly observance of the Lord's Supper was held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. M. Paff, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilson, of Newark, have been visiting at the home of friends in town.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

John E. Flannery, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston.

The storm of yesterday interferred materially with the attendance at all the church services.

Miss Susie L. Parse, who has been visiting friends in Brooklyn, returned home yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Misses Wykoff, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday with their cousin, Miss Nellie B. Manning.

Charles Manning has recovered from his recent illness and is visiting friends in Boonton.

The Christian Endeavor service last night was conducted by Harry J. Manning.

HUSTLING FOR NEW MEMBERS

SPECIAL APPLICATION NIGHTS FOR DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY.

Success of Plan in August Resulted in Its Being Repeated for October.

The plan arranged by the State councillor of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty, for an "application night" and an "initiation night" in August was productive of such good results that an official circular has been issued designating the last meeting in October as an "application night" and the first meeting in November as an "initiation night." Each council is urged to make these two nights record-breakers, and already many of the branches have begun to make preparations for the work. It is said that at least 10,000 special application forms will be distributed among the officers of the councils to be handed to members. Statistical circulars accompany the blanks for the purpose of enabling members to explain the workings of the order when soliciting an application.

In addition to the special appication blanks, there have been distributed 10,000 leaflets, giving the objects of the order; 5,000 slips calling attention to the fact that the national councillor, Herman W. Rellstab, of Trenton, desires this State to lead all the other States in the matter of net increase in membership during his year, and 10,000 slips reminding the councils and members that the State councillor has offered a silk altar flag to the council making the largest net gain in membership between April 17, 1902, and April 1, 1903. It is said that this large distribution of printed matter has been made by the State board of officers for the purpose of aiding members to present the order to their friends in the most favorable light. A supply of these slips has been sent to each of the 151 councils, and to every council officer.

John Wirth's specialties for this week will be fresh confectionery every day and delicious angel cake. If you have never tried the latter you have missed a treat. All orders are delivered free.

L. Moraller & Son, of 219 Park avenue, have what is probably the finest assortment of silverware and jewelry in the city. They are also expert repairers of jewlery, and anyone placing valuable articles in their hands for repair can count on getting the best of work done.

Particular people can always count on securing the best of groceries if they will take the trouble to visit the store of George Kirch, at 402 Liberty street. Mr. Kirch has made a reputation that is to be envied, and he is willing to do everything within reason to sustain it.

As an extra inducement to purchase with one of the largest grocery houses in the State, S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, are now giving trading stamps. If you want to know more about them, also about the goods carried by this firm read the advertisement in The Daily Press.

Whether it is a hot water bag, toilet articles, prescriptions compounded accurately or a pure soda water and confection, you will make no mistake in going to Dudley Miller's pharmacy in Park avenue, corner of Fourth street. His stock is complete and the prices will meet your approval.

When you want first class jewelry, silver or goldware, or a watch that is guaranteed to keep accurate time you are sure to hunt up a dealer who keeps these things and who will treat you right. Such a place is kept by Charles E. Vail, of Park avenue. An inspection of his stock will convince you as to quality, etc.

Shaw's hard water soap is only one of the high standard articles at this popular pharmacy. Shaw has been in business for many years and his reputation for honest dealing and fair methods is well known. He keeps nothing but standard medical preparations and has one of the best prescription departments in the State.

All over the world, the A. and P. Tea Company's goods are used. With hundreds of stores in the United States, it is enabled to import and manufacture in large quantities thus reducing the cost and also removing the middleman's profits. The customer therefore receives the benefit as you can see by trading at the local store at 137 West Front street. Handsome premiums given away.

Even if one is not a smoker, it is a liberal education to visit the cigar store of M. C. Dobbins, at 108 North avenue and take a look at his aviary. He has in cases all about the store what is probably the finest private collection of stuffed birds in the State. If one is a smoker there is nothing better then to purchase one of Mr. Dobbins' Pinar Del Rio cigars and smoking it, walk around the store and examine minutely the superb collection.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—This week will conclude the peach seaosn. Neuman Brothers are receiving their last lots which are good for table or canning.

—On Saturday last Frank Clark and Patrick Muldoon, of this city, captured thirteen extra large size carp in the New Market pond.

—Mrs. George Richardson, formerly of Dunellen, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Henry Vail, started today for Reading, Pa., where Mrs. Richardson will make her home with her husband, who has an excellent position as manager in an electrical works.

THEATRICAL.

Manager Schorb, of the Central Theatre, has decided to introduce an innovation in presenting bills at the playhouse. Hereafter two entire companies will be featured each week, while the programme will be changed nightly. New artists will be seen Monday and Thursday evenings. For tonight one of the best vaudeville programmes to be obtained will inaugurate the second week at the theatre.

City Primary Details.

There will be an important meeting of the Republican city executive committee tomorrow evening to arrange for the coming city primaries and convention.

DRUMMERS OF CIVIL WAR

WILL TAKE A PROMINENT PART AT WASHINGTON.

J. N. Bogart, of This City, is Very Prominent in This Unique Organization.

One of the most unique organizations is the National Association of Civil War Musicians composed of men who was service from 1861-1865. The drums used are those the boys carried and played during those trying times. Its members come from nearly every State in the Union, more especially the west. There are five from California and Mexico now on their way to Washington to attend the G. A. R. Encampment. There are three from Texas, four from Oregon and Idaho, ten from Colorado, Nevada and Oklahama, Iowa, Nebraska, South and North Dakota. Wisconsin furnishes twenty more members, while Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennesse and Kansas have forty-six members. New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and West Virginia have forty.

The organization has established headquarters on F street, Washington, for 100 men. They are called upon to open the G. A. R. Encampment this morning, when they will act as an escort to the National Commander and his staff to headquarters. In the afternoon they will open Roosevelt place. Tomorrow in the morning they lead the parade of the ex-prisoners of war and naval veterans and play the same day for the camp-fire. On Wednesday they will lead the grand column down Pennsylvania avenue. This honor is a peculiar one as the best band of music obtainable generally leads this march. The struggle for supremacy was a hard one and to Drum Major J. N. Bogart, of Post 73, of this city, who is national secretary of the musical organization, is due the credit for securing the right of line.

There will be several features in connection with the appearance of this organization. Two of the bass drums to be carried will have the army corps badges painted thereon, while two other drums which started in at Louisville and went all through the campaign with Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman to the sea, will be there and one drum captured from the Hessians at Trenton during the American Revolution, will be carried by J. N. Bogart.

The picture accompanying this article is that of John P. Lyon, who at the time it was taken was but 11 years old. He was born in Elizabeth and was the youngest enlisted drummer boy in the Cival War. Many of the older residents will remember him.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. Gulick, Manager, New Brunswick, N. J., Rural Free Delivery No. 2, or J. F. McIntyre, Tel. 621, Plainfield, N. J. 9 23 1m

NO WASTE ALLOWED.

Business Nowadays Is Conducted on Narrow Margins.

Therefore Stuff That Was Once Considered Worthless Is Worked Over Until It Becomes Valuable Merchandise.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

"IT IS not the money you make, but the money you save, that can make you rich."

This is the maxim that nearly every boy earning three dollars a week hears from his father. But the father—if he happens to be one of the kind that practice what they preach—has been applying this maxim in his business all his life.

"WE MUST BE CAREFUL."

Economy in manufacture, reduction of expenses in the handling of goods by the merchant—these are to-day the primary objects of every shrewd business man. In the largest cities where the greatest fortunes are made, the principle is carried farthest. Step into any big factory or into the office of a large mercantile house, and you will see this principle of economy carried out on the most gigantic scale, and at the same time in the most minute detail.

A committee soliciting contributions for a charity recently called at the office of a millionaire manufacturer in New York city. The visitors appeared just as the millionaire was severely scolding one of his bookkeepers for wasting a sheet of paper.

"Surely, we wont' get a cent here," whispered a lady of the committee. "Not from such a stingy old man."

Great was the ladies' surprise when the millionaire wrote out a check for $500 for the charity. The donor seemed to guess the woman's feelings, and remarked, coolly:

"You see, madam, we can afford these little charity outlays here, because we don't let our employes waste papers or pencils in the office. We're just as careful in the factory, and we have figured it out that we clear $500 a week that way."

Upon asking for the privilege of going through the factory, the members of the committee met a polite but positive refusal.

"It costs too much," the millionaire explained.

"We'll pay for a guide," a gentleman rejoined.

But the millionaire shook his head and figured it out. There were 2,000 employes in the factory, he said, getting an average of 20 cents an hour. If visitors appeared, every man would look up from his work, many dropping the task in hand—a mimimum average delay of three minutes. This would make $20 a visit, and with the rule against visitors once broken, the millionaire said, his factory would, or might soon, so raise the cost of production as to wipe out profits.

"Five hundred dollars for charity is nothing," he concluded. "But five cents wasted in violation of business principles is the first step toward bankruptcy."

Mr. A. D. Converse, head of the largest toy factory in the United States, in an interview recently, pointed to the enormous value of the waste products of manufacture. Fully ten per cent of the total manufactured product of the country, he said, was obtained by careful utilization of remnants. Without ingenuity and constant watchfulness the factories of the country would lose this margin, and thereby find more than their total profit wiped out. Mr. Converse was asked how American toy manufacturers managed to compete against the starvation wage products brought to this country from Europe. Employes in American factories get from three to four times the wages of the boys and girls making toys in Swiss and German towns, and yet in recent years American [illegible] have undersold the imported article.

"Of course, labor-saving machinery has much to do with it," said Mr. Converse. "But the European manufacturers are getting the same machines that we have here. We Americans, however, keep the trade, because we know how to save—that is, save in the right way. There is no trick in selling. It is only when we learn to make goods so that we can sell them at a profit, while the other fellow in order to compete must sell them at cost, that we clinch trade. And this margin of profit we secure by making the most out of all that might seem to be waste product. For instance, in that toy railroad train yonder, every chip of iron scrap is used in the manufacture of some smaller toy, and if we have a little iron left over on that, we keep it for a still smaller toy. The scraps of cloth, even the pieces of wood, are used up in the same way, and I tell you we spend many dollars of time cheerfully, to think out a plan for saving one drop of paint on every toy."

By throwing nothing away, by utilizing every particle of supposed waste so as to coin it into the largest possible number of dollars, the Union Stock Yards plants of Chicago have become the enormous institutions they are to-day. It has been aptly said that everything about the poor pig is utilized except its dying squeal. In fact, the value of the pork pales into insignificance compared with the by-products: Grease for the soapmaker, a hide for the tanner, hair for the brush manufacturer, blood and brains for the chemist, various remnants for the gluemaker, etc. On a large scale all this can be saved, and thus the farmer and country butcher, with lesser facilities, are knocked out of competition.

Now follow the course of the pork itself after it has left the hands of the packers. Perhaps the meat is sold first to some high-class hotel. There the chef cuts up the best portions for his guests; what is left is sold to some ordinarily good restaurant. In a big city this sort of a restaurant will waste none of the remainder. One part—that which never left the kitchen—is sold to the cheaper restaurants, and the rest, the scraps from the plates of the guests, is carefully gathered for the "hash houses" in the poorest districts of the city. So far has this system been carried in Chicago that the proprietor of a large restaurant told me that men in his business could no longer compete at a profit unless they made this profit by selling their waste product for a cent or so per pound.

HOW STALE BREAD IS USED.

Did you ever stop to consider that what is the waste or remnant of one factory is the raw material for some other kind of manufacture? To go back for illustration to the pig. One waste product of the stock yards is hog-grease. This is a raw material for the manufacturer of soap. From the grease the soapmaker gets another waste product—glycerine—which in former years was thrown away with the so-called spent lye. Recently, however, soapmakers have recognized the importance of extracting the glycerine from the waste and selling it. The big factories have done so and have thus been able to cut prices on the soap itself until the smaller competitor was placed in a sad plight. The big soapmakers sell the glycerine to the manufacturers of nitroglycerine. These men use what they need of the product, and their waste product in turn is sold to the makers of dyestuffs, where finally the last cent's worth of the original hog-grease is utilized.

Still more complicated is the manufacture of coal tar products. When gas is obtained from coal there are two waste products—the coke and coal tar. That apparently is all, and were it not that both of these can be sold at a good price the cost of gas would be three or four times as great as it is. But from the coal tar itself thousands of dollars' worth of waste product can be extracted by distillation, each in turn a waste product or remnant of the previously left-over product. Thus creosote to preserve lumber, oils, such as benzine and naphtha, aniline dyes, saccharine, much sweeter than sugar, antiphyrrine and other medicines, perfumes and chemicals, something over 50 different products sold to over 200 different industries, are obtained from smeary coal tar which until a few years ago was often thrown away as useless. So thoroughly have the manufacturers of artificial gas recognized the importance of utilizing these waste products—in other words the economy of manufacture—that some overenthusiastic individuals in Philadelphia even suggested a process of distilling the pitch already contained in the asphalt street pavements.

SKIRTS AND SLEEVES.

The Former Fit Closer Than Ever, the Latter Growing Larger.

Skirts, at least those on dressy gowns, are cut longer than ever, so that the sides lie on the ground for a couple of inches in some cases.

The trimming of most of the new skirts is quite elaborate. They are laid into box plaits shirred in horizontal lines and divided into panels secured to each other by fagoting. The Louis XV. effect is also popular, the silk overskirt opening over an underpetticoat of lace.

The hips are even more snugly fitted than formerly, and the habit back is seen on a great many models.

Sleeves are growing much larger. All the fashionable models have the large puffs at the wrist or directly below the elbow. The uppers continue close fitting, although fancy effects are being introduced.

CREPE DE CHINE COSTUME.

Few gowns will be seen this winter without the addition of lace. This comes in heavy varieties at a price which places it within the reach of all. Raised chiffon appliques representing grapes or flowers are also much used on the more elaborate costumes.

The simple dress of cafe au lait crepe de chine here illustrated is useful for dressy afternoon affairs. The shirred skirt is one of the latest developments in fall fashions.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR COLD DAYS.

Fur Coats—Mantles to Match the Dress—Sashes.

Furriers are mixing their wares in a most incongruous manner, but at the same time with excellent taste.

The three-quarter length still holds its own in fur wraps, and sleeves are very voluminous, generally turned back with a cuff of another fur, which also forms the collar and revers.

The latest thing is to have a short scarflike mantle of the same goods as the dress. This has long been the fad in Paris, where uniformity of color in a costume is the rule. These capes are trimmed with ruffles or bands of embroidery and finished with stole ends which reach in some cases to the bottom of the dress. A wrap of this sort need not be lined if it is made of silk or double goods.

Knotted velvet sashes are in as great favor as formerly. The newest is made of six strands of ribbon, three on each side knotted twice.

A particularly smart tailor made is here illustrated. It is of fine black broadcloth with a wide turnover collar of white silk strapped with heavy white embroidery bands, and the rolling fronts are treated in the same way. The suit itself is perfectly plain, with the exception of its black strappings, which are of the same cloth.

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"What on earth is all this noise?" she said. "Do you call this a quiet house? I have not been able to sleep a wink, at least since I was waked up about an hour ago by your gabbling. I shall leave to-morrow. Oh! Oh! I feel so dizzy." She clutched at the stair rail and dropped her candle on the matting.

"I think——" I began, I was about to add—"you will," when Elder Wynne stopped me with a glance. I saw now that I had better keep quiet and leave matters to him.

"Is it this gentleman who has the back room who is making all this disturbance?" she continued. "You told me, you remember, when I came here that he never was at home at night, that——"

Here Mr. Beldon stepped forward and bowed. "I am glad at last to meet this young lady face to face," said he. "Will you introduce me to her, Mrs. Brathwaite?"

"A strange place and time," I remarked.

"I do not wish to know you, sir," answered Miss Dacres, freezingly. "You have annoyed me ever since I have been here, and if there were not a very potent reason for my remaining, I should leave at daybreak."

Mr. Beldon turned away, apparently much mortified. "She's a regular tartar," he whispered in my ear. "What have I done to her?"

"It was only Dr. Wynne's cough," said I, "which got me up. He has his syrup now, and will go back to bed." I took the glass from the old man and turned to go up the stairs, whereupon Miss Dacres also turned and went into her room and locked the door. Mr. Beldon followed suit as to his own chamber, and Elder Wynne and I were left facing each other.

He began to cough and wheeze as he mounted the stair, following me. As I was on the fourth step, I heard a sound in the upper hall. I looked upward, and distinctly saw the whisking away of a red wrapper. Only Aunt Jane Mary wore a red wrapper. Could Glory have come into the house to sleep and have taken my aunt's robe? That was the only solution that I could come to. What an outrage! Could such a thing be possible?

I went on to my room, and to my surprise, when I turned to close my door, I saw that Elder Wynne was close behind me. He followed me into the chamber, and saved me the trouble of closing my door. Then he straightened himself, and in a twinkling threw off all his disguise, and stood before me, an erect, wiry, clean-shaven man of, I should think, about eight and thirty. I opened my mouth to exclaim, I suppose, perhaps to scream. He raised both hands in air.

"Don't say a word," he whispered. "You know that I am all right. I came with President Smith. You can trust me."

I was certainly very much frightened. Perhaps this man was playing upon me. Perhaps he was deceiving Marmaduke Smith as well as me.

"Now be quiet," said Elder Wynne—"perfectly quiet. I don't ask you to believe anything that I say. You can go in town and see Marmaduke Smith to-morrow morning and ask him. You will see that I speak the truth. I am a detective on the police force of the city, sent out to Galtersville in the interest of a better government. Now I will go back to my room. Go to sleep, Mrs. Brathwaite, and rest assured that I am exactly what I tell you I am. But let me give you a note of warning. Do not attempt to manage this case yourself. I will attend to it."

With these words he picked up his disguise and slipped across to his own room. I locked the door and lay down to quake until morning. I did not sleep a single wink, and at about six o'clock, pale and red-eyed, I descended the stairs. I felt wrecked in body and mind. As soon as it was time, I should send in to the village for President Smith and make myself sure of at least one person in my household; but I was saved that trouble, for about half after eight o'clock I saw the president himself coming out in his buggy. He drew up at my gate, hitched his horse, and came into the garden.

"Ah, how do you do, Mrs. Brathwaite? Can I see Elder Wynne?"

"Oh, I am so glad to see you!" I cried, running to meet him.

"Hush! Hush!" said Marmaduke soothingly. "Is Wynne any worse?" This he said in a louder tone. We went into the hall, and I saw that Miss Dacres' door was open as we passed. "Don't get excited."

President Smith nodded his head at me as much as to say, "Tell me that he is?"

"Yes," said I, "he had a return of his cough last night. He came down and felt about in the dark for some sugar and water. I heard him and came down. Will you go up?"

"If I may," he replied,—"if I may." He went upstairs and knocked on Elder Wynne's door.

"Come in," I heard the quavering old voice say, and President Smith disappeared within the doorway. After a while I heard a voice calling me. I went to the foot of the stairs, and saw President Smith leaning out of Elder Wynne's door. "Please come up, Mrs. Brathwaite," said he, "I want to give you a little advice about my old friend here."

I dragged myself up the stairs to the door of the room.

"Come in," said Elder Wynne in his weak voice.

I entered. Elder Wynne sat by the window looking at the far-away fields, green in the early sunshine. President Smith closed the door, and stood, his back against it.

"Sophronia," he said in a low tone, "my friend here seems to think that you doubt him somewhat."

"Did he send for you to tell you that?" I asked.

"Yes, he certainly did. I got his message just after eight o'clock, or as soon as the office was opened, and here I am. Stand up, Brother Wynne," said Marmaduke Smith.

Elder Wynne arose, and stood all doubled up.

"He is imposing on you," I cried. "Do you know what he is?"

"Hush, my dear lady, hush! Hush!" President Smith held up his hand, while Elder Wynne went towards the fireplace, turned back the carpet, inserted a plug whose end was covered with white plaster within a hole which his action had laid bare, and then replaced the carpet. "That's the woman of it," he said. "You must never surprise them. Now, go on, but please lower your voice a little."

"Marmaduke," said I, speaking very fast, "you think that this old man is your friend."

"I know he is," said President Smith.

"You think that he comes from a western university, that he is a minister of the gospel, that he is here about his book on the Lost Tribes, that he is going to Washington to obtain a pension, that he is a weak old man, who——"

"Who said that I believed all this?" asked President Smith, calmly.

"Well, everything shows that you do. Your coming out to see him so often, your walking with him in the garden, sitting with him in the grape arbor, talking about the Lost Tribes."

"Who said that we talked about the Lost Tribes in the arbor and the garden?"

THE SANITARY DISPOSITION OF KITCHEN AND TABLE REFUSE

By ED. R. PRITCHARD,
Secretary Chicago Board of Health.

IN THE present paper it is proposed to consider the sanitary and economic disposition of garbage proper, which includes all kitchen and table refuse of an animal or vegetable character.

This class of waste material contains, as shown by repeated tests, from 70 to 90 per cent. of moisture, and for this reason is exceedingly difficult and expensive to burn. This fact, it is believed, will be conceded by the most ardent advocates of disposal of garbage by incineration; while those who favor the reduction or utilization process argue that it is inexcusable extravagance to destroy material at an expense of from 40 to 80 cents a ton in addition to the cost of collecting when by proper treatment it can be made to yield a revenue sufficient to pay both the cost of collection and disposition.

The idea of turning the waste material of cities into wealth has occupied, in a measure, the attention of those interested for a decade. Many failures, with much loss of money, has been the result until recent years; when, with the introduction of new and improved methods of extracting the grease and with a constantly increased demand for the tankage, as a basis for the manufacture of commercial fertilizers, the reduction process has, at least, reached the point of economic success. Of its sanitary achievement, however, it must be admitted that there is still room for improvement; though, logically enough, the methods which have brought its commercial success have also been the means of improving greatly its sanitary aspects.

It is, however, a demonstrated fact that the up to date reduction plant, properly conducted, is no longer a "stink factory," emitting foul odors, which renders its presence a nuisance to any neighborhood in which it may be located. Modern mechanical science has solved the problem of grease extraction without making offensive odors; it has also provided for drying and otherwise treating the resulting tankage, with equal success.

The principal difficulty now lies in the manner in which the plant may be conducted.

If the garbage be delivered fresh, daily, and is not permitted to accumulate at the factory beyond each day's supply and with order, system and cleanliness rigidly enforced, the modern reduction plant need be no more of a nuisance to a community than would be a steam grist mill. This means that, in a district given over to manufacturing purposes, no good reason could be given why the reduction plant should not be admitted. I am aware, however, that there are reduction plants which emit unpleasant odors, but they are not up to date plants. They are wanting, either in construction or in the manner in which they are operated. And it is because of these shortcomings that this method of garbage disposition is regarded by many as either an unqualified failure or as being still in the experimental stage.

Right here I deem it proper to say, by way of explanation, that I am not advocating the reduction process of garbage disposition as against incineration, for the reason that I do not class garbage, which forms comparatively a small portion of the waste material of a city, as being combustible matter. My position is—and I am by no means seeking to carry water on both shoulders, as the old saying goes—that the economic incineration of city refuse must be, necessarily, confined to that portion of it which can be so treated. Garbage with 70 to 80 per cent. of water in its composition cannot be economically burned. But, as a much larger percentage of a city's refuse matter embraces what may be termed worthless combustible material, it still leaves an ample field for the incineration method and for its development along the lines of utilizing these otherwise worthless wastes in the production of both light and power for municipal purposes. I am simply applying the principle of utilization to both methods, but also keeping in mind that the matter of sanitary disposition demands at all times our first consideration.

In this connection, too, I desire to repeat here what I have before stated through other channels of publication, that in my opinion the ideal plant for the sanitary and economic disposition of city wastes is yet to be built; and that when it is built it will be a plant combining both the reduction and incineration processes. Such a plant should be so constructed as to be adapted for burning as fuel the combustible material. This would greatly reduce the expenses of operating the plant and add correspondingly to its earnings.

Ordinary city garbage, as shown by tests made in various cities throughout the country, when treated by the reduction process, will produce an average yield of three per cent. of grease in weight. This product is obtained by what is known as the tanking process, and commands a market price of from 2¾ to 3½ cents a pound. On this basis of a yield of three per cent. of grease at three cents a pound, the total yield from a ton of garbage would be worth $1.80. For the purposes of this article, these figures may be taken as a maximum, as both the yield of grease and the market price of the same are subject to changes.

The amount of fertilizer base which may be obtained from a ton of garbage, as determined by several different reduction processes, will show an average yield of 15 per cent. This product, known as tankage, and from which the grease has been expressed, is worth, in a general way, four dollars per ton, or 60 cents per ton of garbage. On the above estimates, which are certainly conservative, we have as sources of revenue from an average ton of garbage the following results

Fertilizing base	60
Total	$2.40

These figures, it may be stated, conclusively show that garbage, when disposed of by the reduction process, may be made to pay both the cost of collection and disposition and a profit besides. And, without even the last-mentioned item being considered at all, it would not seem to be wisdom or economy on the part of any city to adopt the process of incineration, which is one of all outlay with no returns, for this particular class of material.

LOADING A SCOW WITH REFUSE IN NEW YORK CITY.

Upon the proper separation of garbage depends the complete and working success of any modern method of garbage disposal and including, of course, the economic and sanitary disposition of all the material which comes under the heading of city wastes. These, exclusive of garbage, contain also many articles which have a money and therefore a market value. They are obtained by being picked from the general mass of rubbish and form an interesting list, which is here given: Old rubber, bottles, also subject to classification as to value; iron, zinc, copper, brass, old cans for the solder, rope, bones, twine and paper of all kinds.

In cities where no garbage boxes are permitted in the alleys, and where the garbage and general wastes are taken from the householders' receptacles direct to the collecting wagons, both the garbage and the general rubbish will be found to contain a larger percentage of matter from which revenue may be obtained than in cities where foot scavengers are permitted to pick over the boxes and extract from them whatever articles of value they may be able to find.

Licensed Cats in Berlin.

It has recently been discovered that there are about 30,000 cats in Berlin, and, full of their new knowledge, the German Society for the Protection of Animals has conceived a thoroughly Teutonic idea. According to its carefully-conceived plan, the town council of the city is to take the matter in hand, and to issue licenses for cats, just as they do for dogs. Cats are only to perambulate the city when wearing their authorized little badges, hanging locketlike, from their throats. There is nothing in principle to be said against the issue of the licenses, but what puzzles reasonable people is the list of penalties that these ingenious people have drawn up. The owner of a cat is to be fined if the latter "be found wandering in the public gardens of the city; or if the birth of a kitten, or litter of kittens, be not punctually reported to the authorities; or if a citizen's pet is discovered prowling about the streets without its distinctive official badge, etc." This word "etc." sticks in one's throat, after the enumeration of the previous offenses.

GOLF.

The final play for the Schoonmaker and Gilbert cups will be played Saturday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course.

The qualifying round at golf at Princeton University was concluded last week and F. O. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, made the lowest score, 85. In the first round play, Reinhart defeated J. Whitney Baker 1 up in 20 holes. Louis James, the National champion, failed to qualify.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Oct. 6—The only event on the Westfield Golf Club course, Saturday, was the team match between Westfiel and a team from the Madison Golf Club. The home team was victorious by a score of 21 to 5. The rain made the course a difficult one. The summary:

GATHERED IN WOOD.

Scoop on Locomotive Started Collecting on Its Own Account—Delayed Train.

The 2:17 o'clock eastbound train did not reach Plainfield yesterday morning until after 3 o'clock, and the train was then delayed until after 5 o'clock owing to a peculiar accident.

In some manner the scoop used on the engine for taking water dropped for its usual position and at various points along the road had picked up heavy timber. By the time the train reached this city a number of boards were tightly wedged beneath the tender of the engine. It required the help of several men with saws and crowbars to extricate the wood from beneath the engine. The eastbound passenger train due in this city at 3:37 in the morning was used to take the passengers from the other train into New York.

Democratic Meeting Changed.

The Democratic ratification meeting scheduled to take place this evening in the headquarters building on East Second street, has been postponed until Thursday evening. It was found impossible to get the county candidates in time to make addresses.

FREE WOOD FOR PLAINFIELD

S. D. DRAKE MAKES AN OFFER TO MAYOR JENKINS.

Will Give Wood on the Property He Controls to Deserving Plainfield People.

Silas D. Drake, of Lincoln, has sent the following letter to Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of Plainfield:

Mayor O. L. Jenkins,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:—I have control of certain property in Plainfield upon which there is considerable wood. This I will give free, through responsible parties you may name, to deserving people. In addition I would suggest to those interested in your city that the authorities can purchase a large tract of woodland on the mountains back of Plainfield and have it cut for the use of those unable to buy coal.

Yours truly,
S. D. Drake.

Mr. Drake sent a similar letter to Mayor Katzenbach, of Trenton, offering to give five acres of wood free that is growing on property he controls in Trenton.

A meeting was held in Mr. Drake's office at Lincoln on Saturday when the heads of twenty-two families of Lincoln were present to consider the wood question. A meeting was arranged for yesterday morning in a piece of woods near Lincoln. Despite the raging storm everyone appeared with an axe and enough trees were marked that will supply wood to all residents of Lincoln. Mayor Drake says he has plenty of wood and no home in Lincoln shall be without fire this winter. The residents of Lincoln cheered Mayor Drake to the echo.

Death of a Child.

Marcus C., the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. David Patterson, of 123 Johnson avenue, died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock after a short illness. The funeral services will be held from the residence of his parents at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Death of John Voorhees.

John Voorhees, who came to this city from Whitehouse, died at his home on Orchard place, Saturday evening, after a long illness. The funeral will be held from his late residence tomorrow afternoon.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

HAD HIGH OLD TIME.

Mining Man Started Watermelon Boom in Phenix.

Bought Up Entire Supply of the Arizona Metropolis and Then Bombarded All Who Came Along with Broken Pieces.

The Arizona Republican says that for an hour or so, not long ago, Phenix was not as dull a town as it has been for some weeks, or ever since the summer hegira to the coast set in. It had a small beginning and soon developed into a boom in the watermelon trade, which resulted in much profit to a youthful melon broker, whose offices are at No. 'steen West Adams street.

The watermelon corner was engineered by Mr. Sparks, a mining man from Alaska, who has been in Phoenix for the last two months. He had been drinking some kind of a fluid which not only exhilarated him, but also warmed the cockles of his heart and considerably decreased the size and value of the silver dollar. He bought a watermelon and accidentally let it fall on the sidewalk. It burst open and the beautiful red inside put it in his mind to paint the town red with watermelons. That was a kind of frescoing that had never been heard of before. He bought the load of melons and burst them all upon the sidewalk and soon surrounded himself with all the small boys in that part of the city. A snowball battle in August ensued; the broken pieces of melon were used in place of snowballs. The boys entered into the sport with a zest which pleased the mining man, who now and then showed his appreciation by showering pieces of silver among them. The play became more and more spirited until there were no more pieces of red watermelon hearts left big enough to throw, and the procession moved on to the post office fruit stand. To the consternation of the proprietor the mining man began taking possession of his stock of watermelons and cantaloupes and hurling them into the street for the delectation of his youthful followers. Some of them were thrown at passing vehicles and at persons who had not been regularly enrolled in the game and who imagined that something disorderly was going on.

The mining man threw cantaloupes into the air and offered $5 to the boy who would catch them. The scramble began to grow terrific, but at last all the watermelons and the other melons were exhausted, and then the mining man picked up crates of plums and other fruits and tossed them among the shrieking youth, who at the same time were pelting him with pieces of broken melon and any other debris that came handy.

After this extraordinary sport had been going on for three-quarters of an hour, John Casey came along and though he does not reside within the city limits he butted in in the interest of law and order, which did not seem to be receiving proper consideration from any other source. Mr. Casey told the mining man that this thing would have to stop. The mining man thought that he had another recruit and that there was going to be more fun than ever. He led with his right, which fell with the force of a pile driver on Mr. Casey's jaw, and that apostle of propriety was for a moment converted into a spinning top. He brought up finally against a door, and when the world quit going around and around he went away. If the city taxpayers were willing to let such things happen, he reasoned that it was none of his business.

The mining man paid for all the havoc he had wrought and at length allowed himself to be led away by a friend. The boy with the watermelon wagon said Mr. Sparks was a Godsend. If it hadn't been for him he would have gone home broke. Mr. Casey holds that he was not a Godsend. Whoever sent him, if it had not been for him he would not have gone home with his jaw broken.

Slavery as a Punishment.

Fisher Million, a negro who was indicted in 1901 for vagrancy and has been at large since then, was captured at Lawrenceburg and tried the other day before Judge Davis in the county court at Shelbyville, Ky. The judge returned a verdict of guilty and fixed punishment at being sold into servitude for 12 months, the highest penalty. The negro will be put on the block and sold into servitude by Sheriff Briggs if a purchaser can be found. The officials hardly know what to do in the event of no sale.

Sure of a Protecting Hand.

Before a wedding could proceed down in Kentucky the groom had to throw two brothers of the bride out of the church window. Here is one woman at least who may be sure of a protecting hand.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Volunteer League of the Y. M. C. A. meets this evening. All men are invited.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Two New Members.

At the communion service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning two persons united with the church, one by letter and one on confession of faith.

Civil Service Examination.

The civil service examination for the letter carriers and clerks will be held in this city Wednesday, October 15.

Corn in Tomato Cups.

Cut out the stem end of large, firm tomatoes, and remove the center pulp and seeds. Dust the inside with fine crumbs and seasoning, and fill with nicely seasoned stewed corn. Place a generous piece of butter on top, cover with bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. If cooked too quickly or too long the tomatoes will lose their shape. These are a delicious accompaniment to roast beef. —Ladies' World, New York.

Sunshine Toast.

Select good, ripe yellow tomatoes. Heat thoroughly and sift through a fine colander and remove the skins and seeds. To one pint of sifted tomato add one tablespoonful of white flour, a pinch of salt, and a little nut butter if desired. Cook a few minutes, and serve hot over zwieback which has been slightly moistened.—Good Health.

Talent Versus Genius.

"How long did it take you to write that book of yours?"

"About four weeks."

"How much did you get for it?"

"One thousand dollars."

"Huh! I made that in four seconds the other day. I thought up a good name for a new health food."—Chicago Tribune.

Craftiness of the Fox.

A fox is dainty as well as crafty, and prefers the tongues of lambs for food. He has been seen to chase sheep until they, on becoming tired, hang out their tongues, which he then tears off and eats.—Nature.

Substitute for Copper.

An aluminum alloy is now used as a substitute for copper in the manufacture of nails and tacks. The white metal is much cheaper and in every way as durable and desirable as copper.—Science and Industry.

SHADE TREES FOR FIRE WOOD

Common Council Officially Approves of the Mayor's Plan to Furnish Free Fuel.

A SUIT AGAINST CITY

Corporation Counsel Marsh Notified Council That American Sewage Disposal Company Had Started Suit in Supreme Court—Authorized to Secure Expert Testimony.

The question of providing some sort of fuel during the coming cold weather months was the principal business considered at the October meeting of the Common Council last evening. Mayor O. L. Jenkins, following out the plan suggested by himself recently, recommended to the Council that, in view of the very limited supply of coal in this city, provision be made to remove a number of shade trees. It has long been the opinion of His Honor that there are too many trees in Plainfield and he believes that by the removal of a number of them the sanitary effect would be beneficial. Accordingly a resolution prepared by the Mayor was submitted and adopted.

This resolution, which was offered by Mr. Daniel, provided that the light and trees committee confer with the property owners of the city for the purpose of selecting such trees as can be conveniently removed, and that the same be cut down and chopped up into fire wood to be disposed of for relief as may be necessary. It is proposed to sell the wood at a nominal price, but in case any one cannot afford to buy the wood it will be given away. This resolution appropriated the sum of $300 to the use of the committee to hire laborers. The money received from the sale of the wood will also be applied to expenses. The Mayor's idea in taking up the matter now is that by the time the wood is needed it will be well seasoned.

Another important matter presented to the Council was that in reference to the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city of Plainfield for alleged infringements of patents at the local sewage farm. Corporation Counsel Marsh reported on the matter, stating that the papers in the suit have been filed in the Supreme Court of this State. Mr. Marsh stated that the plaintiff would take testimony on November 29, and the city would have two months from that time to file answer. He also said that it would be made a test case, one very important to both the city and the contending company.

In connection with this report, Mr. Tolles offered a resolution to the effect that specialists and expert witnesses in sewage matter would be needed and that the city be authorized to employ such specialists and expert witnesses as are necessary. This resolution was adopted.

Mr. Marsh also reported that he had drafted and approved a new form for use in the enforcement of sales under the Martin Act and Mr. Tolles moved that the collector of taxes be instructed in the matter.

In accordance with a request from Charles L. Strong, former proprietor of the Hotel Plainfield, the liquor license was transferred to A. B. Rosell, the new proprietor. The request of O. F. Wood, of Halsey street, for the remittance of $3.15, taxes which he paid twice, was granted upon the motion of Mr. Mellick, upon the proper proof being submitted to the collector. A petition received from L. L. Manning and other asking for an electric light on West Front street, between New street and Central avenue, was granted on the motion of Mr. Daniel.

A petition was received from E. S. Alpaugh, of Sycamore street, in which he offered to donate the necessary amount of land to properly widen the street in the vicinity of his property and make the sidewalk the regulation width. The matter was referred.

H. E. Gayle asked the Council to adjust taxes on his property, 1333 and 1335 Astor place. He was previously assessed for the property at 1329 Astor place, but upon investigation he discovered that the latter number was a vacant lot, while his own property had in the meantime been sold under the Martin Act. In connection with this a communication was received from Edward L. Mack, the purchaser

FIREMEN AT NEW BRUNSWICK

BIG PARADE OF VOLUNTEER DEPARTMENT AT THAT CITY TODAY.

Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, Was There and Made a Hit.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, October 7—The biennial parade of the volunteer fire department of this city today, attracted a large number of visiting fire companies from this section of New Jersey, and the affair is a great success. Newark sent Captains William Robotham, William Exall, Hamburg, Price and Henry, while Jersey City has also sent a delegation and a number of Elizabeth's former volunteer firemen are present.

A fine showing was made by Warren Engine Company, of North Plainfield, and along the line of march this company received an ovation. Other companies present include West End Hose Company and Independent Hook and Ladder Company, of Asbury Park; McClelland Hose Company and Protection Hook and Ladder Company, of Perth Amboy. Each company is accompanied by a band of music or a drum corps.

Firemen's parade day is a gala event for this town. The street decorations are elaborate and nearly everyone suspended business during the parade. The music for the parade was furnished by fourteen bands and drum corps. Following the parade each company had a banquet. The parade commenced at 10 o'clock this morning and was concluded this afternoon at 1 o'clock. It is the general opinion of all that the event is the largest and best ever held in this place.

ON INDIAN HISTORY.

Lecture Before Monday Afternoon Club at Casino by Prof. A. V. W. Jackson, of Columbia.

More than two hundred members and friends of the Monday Afternoon Club were present in the Casino yesterday and heard an able lecture by Prof. A. V. Williams Jackson, of Columbia University, on the "Early History of India."

Prof. Jackson's researches into the history of India have been exhaustive, and his lecture was an entertaining one. He went quite deeply into the educational and religious history of the country and spoke understandingly of the early literature of the natives. From time to time he read extracts from native works, translating as he read, and in this way giving his hearers a thorough idea of the style and the peculiar trend of thought as evinced in the old manuscripts of the country. He described at length Budhism and the Vedic, Epic and Puranic age of older India.

Yesterday was the first club meeting of the year. Hereafter they will be held weekly. The officers of the club for the current year are, Mrs. Edward Conkling, president; Mrs. Edward C Perkins, Mrs. Josie Browne and Mrs. Robert Lowry, vice presidents, and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed, recording secretary.

DEATH OF MRS. LATOURETTE.

Passed Away at Her Home on Somerset Street This Morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Latourette, wife of George Latourette, died at 8:20 this morning after a lingering illness. She was 45 years of age and four children survive her. The funeral services will be held from her late residence, 27 Somerset street, Thursday morning.

Portrays Life of Miners.

There will be a special service at the Congregational church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock when there will be readings from the new book which portrays the life of the Pennsylvania miners, entitled "Those Black Diamond Men." The programme will include: "The Coalton Barracks," "The Cost of Mining," "The Probation of Hudderfield," "The Sulphuring of Sunderland Red."

Hope Y. M. A. Meeting.

The first regular fall meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. is to be held this evening. As many matters of importance are to be brought forward it is requested that all members be present. It is purposed to lay out some definite plan for action during the winter with which to keep all young men of the chapel interested.

G. A. R. Men to National Capitol.

Thirty members of the G. A. R., from Plainfield, went to Washington, D. C., Sunday and yesterday to participate in the annual encampment in that city.

For Church Debt.

The offering Sunday at the Crescent Avenue church will be for the church.

REVIEWED OLD DAYS AMONG THE VOLUNTEERS

Annual Reception of Exempt Firemen's Association Held Last Evening.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

THE PRESENT FIRE PROTECTION WAS DISCUSSED WITH COUNCILMEN.

After Speeches by the Exempts and Prominent Guests, Refreshments Were Served—Music and Entertainment As Well.

More successful to a degree than has hardly been attained by any of its previous efforts, the annual reception of the Exempt Firemen's Association passed over pleasantly in its rooms, last evening. The old fire fighters, who guarded Plainfield property a half century ago, proved themselves modern entertainers if modern apparatus had relegated them from the active ranks. As their guests they had many prominent city officials, active and retired chiefs from other towns, and others to a number that filled the old hall to its capacity. Music, speeches, the exhibition of relics, reminiscences of old volunteer days in the city and last but not least, elaborate refreshments, were some of the means by which the assemblage was entertained.

The announced hour for commencement was 8 o'clock and at that time order was called for by L. E. Barkalew. After a few opening remarks he called on various prominent guests for speeches, all of whom responded readily. Excellent addresses dealing with volunteer days and the time when crude machines and inadequate methods made the life of a fireman a more dangerous one than it is at present, were made by Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, James E. Martine, Assemblyman William Newcorn, Freeholder William A. Westphal, Dr. [illegible], Councilmen B. Frank [illegible] and Robert L. Lee, Justice V. W. Nash, Exempt Alex. Titsworth, Exempt B. A. Mumford and others.

Interspersing these remarks which touched many a tender chord in all the old firemen of other days, an orchestra of skilled musicians concealed behind a bank of palms, rendered enlivening airs and William Waters, of Elizabeth, evoked roars of laughter by his comicalities, consisting of songs, jokes and impersonations. He was recalled many times.

Shortly before midnight, the refreshment committee made its appearance and served coffee, lemonade, sandwiches, cake and other eatables, while a long table placed in the center of the room and heaped high with splendid fruits, was dismantled and its load was used in completing the repast.

This table formed but one of the many pretty and artistic decorations that completely transformed the hall. In addition to the cleverly arranged heaps of bananas, oranges, apples and grapes, forming high pyramids, it was adorned with large bunches of cut flowers and set off by candelabra. In the center and at the corners were pretty silver trumpets, trophies of contests in which the exempts took part and other relics of bygone days that were alike interesting and memory recalling.

The platform was almost hidden from sight by banks of palms and plants while others were set about the room, all having been arranged by Florist Charles L. Stanley. Above all and resembling somewhat the lurid flames that often scorched the men who risked their lives to save others, were broad red streamers festooned with flowers and hung with trumpets and lanterns. In all it was one of the prettiest decorated rooms ever seen at a local public reception.

Among the interesting addresses made of the many that were worthy of note, was one by Benjamin A. Mumford, vice president of the Exempt Firemen's Association. He asked his listeners to go back with him forty years and took them through the old Gazelle engine house then situated on Park avenue, showed them the apparatus, hurried with them to a fire in the old North Avenue depot and then by quick transition, escorted them up to the present time to fire headquarters on East Second street.

He closed his address with an appeal to the city councilmen present for better fire protection in the East End and asked the support of Assem-

HEARD OF PROGRESS ON SOCIETY'S BIRTHDAY

Annual Business Meeting of Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed Church Last Night.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

IT WAS ALSO SEVENTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIETY.

Interesting Reports of Secretary and Treasurer—Showed What Has Been Done During Last Year—The Officers Elected.

The annual business session, also the seventeenth anniversary meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was held last evening, when this event was marked by the reading of reports of much interest to every member. During its history, and more particularly the last year, there has been a deep interest in the work of this society and much good has been accomplished. President H. F. Crawford presided.

The report of the secretary, Miss Mary L. Pugh, was perhaps of greatest interest. This showed that at the beginning of the past year there were 123 active members and nine associate. Since then eight active members have been received, while eighteen active members have been transferred to the absent list and three to the honorary list. There were dropped nine active and two associate members and three associate were transferred to the active list, making the present membership 103 active and four associate.

There were fifty-one meetings held during the year with a total attendance of 2,972 and an average attendance of fifty-eight. The largest number present at any one meeting was 147 and the largest number at a consecration service sixty-one. Four members have been present at every consecration service. During the year four socials were held and greatly enjoyed. During the year contributions were made to the Italian Mission in New York, Miss Curry's Day Nursery and Netherwood Fresh Air Home, the Westfield Fresh Air Camp and the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, while a poor family at South Plainfield was visited and helped.

Another report of much interest was that of the treasurer, Charles Zimmer. The receipts for the general fund amounted in all to $145.99, which included $19.59 received from former treasurer, collections during the year, donation of an honorary member and proceeds from an entertainment. The disbursements amounted to $102.85, leaving a cash balance of $43.14. The missionary fund showed the receipts to be $92.22, while the disbursements were $65.11, leaving a balance of $27.11. This included contributions to the Board of Domestic Missions for Chrisitian Endeavor church fund, home and foreign missions. The total amounts raised druing the year were general fund, $126.40, missionary fund, $69.06, making a total of $195.46.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Miss Mabel Wilson; first vice president, Charles M. Dolliver; second vice president, Frank Bach; recording secretary, Miss Harriett Randall; treasurer, Miss Abbie VanCleef; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel A. Woodruff.

The society extended a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president, H. F. Crawford, and his committees for faithful, efficient work during their term of office. Rev. Dr. Schenck, the pastor, made a brief address full of praise for the faithfulness of the young people during the past year, also words of encouragement for the newly-elected officers.

Going to Parade.

Chief Doane, Drivers Townley, Ross and Freeman, of the local fire department, together with many other Plainfielders, left for New Brunswick, this morning, to view the firemen's parade. The procession commenced at noon and will last for several hours.

Grand Jurors.

The Grand Jurors from this city for the present term of court are Gen. William H. Stirling, Henry Leifke, San vanHerwerden and J. J. Kenney. They went to Elizabeth this morning for the first.

HOPE'S FAREWELL TO REV. DR. RICHARDS

Reception Given to Retiring Pastor of Crescent Avenue Church by Hope Chapel.

PRESENTED MEMORIAL

AFFAIR ARRANGED BY ORGANIZATIONS OF THE CHAPEL.

After a Programme of Music, the Presentation of Memorial Book Took Place and Dr. Richards Responded Very Touchingly.

Hope chapel was filled to its capacity, last evening, when the congregation and its friends, gathered as one to bid a formal farewell to Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, who is soon to assume the head of the Brick Presbyterian church in New York City. It was in grateful acknowledgement of all that he has done for Hope from the day that he gave it a name until the present time.

The front part of the chapel was occupied by the younger people of the Sunday-school, the Christian Endeavor Society, the Young Men's Association and others who lead the congregational singing. A song service opened the programme and the hymns which Dr. Richards loves to hear at Hope were sung with a vim.

They were followed by vocal selections contributed by Robert Draysdale, Thomas Muir and Mrs. L. R. Howard, a piano duet by the Misses Jessie Chamberlain and Lillie Duckworth, a piano solo by Miss Mary Radford and a highly enjoyable vocal solo given by little Miss Anna Warnock with her piano accompaniment. The primary pupils, who were grouped to the left of the platform, sang several of their favorite songs.

At the close of these numbers, Superintendent H. C. Squires, on behalf of the chapel addressed Dr. Richards and presented him with a memorial, in the shape of a neatly designed book, bearing a history of Hope chapel with portraits of its officers, the organizations and the building itself. Dr. Richards responded thanking the doners heartily. He referred to the growth of the chapel from the time it was founded by his church in 1888 and declared it was not without a pang that he was forced to sever connection with it in an official way, but he gave fair warning that New York was not so far away that the members might look for him to be with them at most any time.

At the close of his remarks, the congregation united in singing "God be With You Till we Meet Again." The affair closed with the serving of refreshments by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Rev. L. R. Howard, representing the church; H. C. Squires, for the Sunday-school; William N. Runyon, for the Y. M. A.; Mrs. Duncan Taylor, for the Ladies' Aid Society; I. W. Travell and Mrs. G. Stuart Symons.

BALL BY WOMEN.

Successful Effort of Ladies' Society of Gesang and Turn Verein Took Place Last Night.

The Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein, held a grand ball last night in Saengerbund Hall. There was a large attendance, more than two hundred being present. Prof. O'Reilly's orchestra furnished the music for dancing, and an elaborate supper was served in the basement.

A feature of the programme was the prize bowling for men and women on the new alleys of the society. Some handsome prizes were distributed. Those for the women were an elaborate card basket, a costly Japanese jar and a basket filled with choice fruit. For the men there was a handsome table, boxes of cigars and several cases of wines.

In every way the ball was a success and much credit is due to the women of the committee who had it in charge. These were: Mrs. S. Rummel, chairman; Mrs. A. Heardle, Mrs. Rudolph Spiegel, Mrs. John Retzer and Mrs. Adolph Berry.

Decided to Remain.

A letter received today from Andrew Vanderbeek, who was yesterday reported as being ill and on his way home from Virginia, says he is feeling better and has decided to remain where he is until cold weather sets in.

Miss Edith C. Edwards, of Gramercy Park, New York, is visiting her father, Manager Maze Edwards, of the Casino.

HORSE THIEVES ALL CAUGHT

AUTHORITIES OF HUNTERDON COUNTY HAVE RUN DOWN LAST OF THEM.

Two Have Confessed the Stealing of Ten Horses—The Farmers Feel Relieved.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, Oct. 7—Now that the authorities of Hunterdon county have run down the last two members of the notorious gang of horse thieves, the farmers of New Jersey breathe a sigh of relief. With the ringleaders serving a sentence of eighteen years in State prison, and the last member of the gang imprisoned in the Hunterdon county jail here, the owners of valuable steeds feel assured that no more depredations will be committed, at least for a time.

Benjamin Jefferson, indicted at the recent sitting of the Hunterdon county grand jury for stealing valuable horses belonging to N. S. Tiger and William H. Hoffman, of Lebanon, was captured in Passaic and brought here by Sheriff Frech. Thomas Vanzile, of Newark, who was charged with being implicated in the theft, was sentenced to the New Jersey reformatory last week for an indefinite period.

Vanzile and Jefferson, in their confessions, admit the theft of ten horses. Each claims that his down fall is due to the other's influence. Among the animals stolen was one belonging to Rev. H. D. Opdycke, pastor of the East Millstone church.

Vanzile and Jefferson drove many of the stolen turnouts to Newark, where they disposed of them upon the streets while sales were being conducted at exchange stables near by. It is the belief of Sheriff Frech that Vanzile has three or four horses boarding out in upper Hunterdon county, and is hopeful of locating them through Jefferson.

LOTS OF BUSINESS.

Seven Unfortunates Were Haled Before City Judge Runyon This Morning.

Business in police circles continued to be brisk, yesterday, and seven unfortunates were arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning.

Charles Williams and John Weber, the latter of Lincoln, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Vanderweg, William Shortall, arrested by Patrolman Higgins, Lawrence Wallace, apprehended by Patrolman Saffron, and James Burke, who failed to put in an appearance at court, yesterday, all "D. and D's." were found guilty as charged but had sentence suspended.

Robert Morley arrested on complaint of his wife for non-support, was given forty days straight and Peter Seader, found guilty of violating the hack ordinance, paid $2.

TO ENTERTAIN VETERANS.

Committee Wants Assistance of the Citizens in the Undertaking.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 6, 1902.

To the public:

The Thirtietn Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers will hold their reunion at Reform Hall, Oct. 15, 1902.

As company H, of the Thirtieth Regiment was largely represented during the War of the Rebellion by Plainfield men, and only a few remain to extend a welcome to the four hundred surviving veterans, and to entertain them as befits the occasion; we, the committee in charge trust to the patriotic spirit which then, as now, and always, finds a responsive element in the hearts of our people; we ask your kindly contributions toward making the entertainment a success, and feel assured it will not be disregarded.

Respectfully yours,
Capt. J. F. Hubbard,
David R. Weaver,
Peter V. Weaver,
Charles H. Randolph,
Committee.

Stenography Class Open.

The first session of the class in stenography will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building Friday evening of this week. James D. Macnab, who is at the head of the department of English and commerce at the High School, will be the teacher. The annual prospectus and other information about the Y. M. C. A. classes may be obtained at the Association building.

Timber Fell on Him.

Frank Slattery, of Dunellen, an employe of the New Jersey Central, was injured about the legs on the Passaic drawbridge, Sunday, by a huge timber rolling upon him. He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital, Newark, where his hurts were attended and he was then brought to his home.

HOW SOMERSET NAMED TICKET

Was No Fight at Republican Convention at Somerville After All.

AT AFTERNOON SESSION

How the Nominations Were Made—Only Fight Was on the Assembly Place—The Results of the Ballots—Ticket Said to be a Compromise Between Factions.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 7—The Somerset county Republican convention for the year 1902 is a thing of the past and it was a very tame affair in many respects. Not much enthusiasm was manifested even when the nominations were made.

A detailed account of the morning session was printed in The Daily Press of yesterday. At the afternoon convening Harry Herbert, of Bound Brook, the temporary chairman, and John C. Cooper, of Warrenville, the temporary secretary, were made permanent. In his speech of acceptance Mr. Herbert said "unity should be the watchward today" and he believed it would be a good plan to unite on the candidates.

The factions were not in evidence. State Senator Charles A. Reed, whose resignation as chairman of the county executive committee was recently tabled, was not in evidence at the convention, where former Senator Lewis A. Thompson seemed to be the recognized leader. The ticket which he urged, however, Frelinghuysen and VanDoren, was said to be a unity compromise between his own and the Reed factions.

There were no contests and the usual rules prevailed.

The committee on resolutions endorsed the nomination of Lanning for Congress; pledged him united support; said it was thoroughly in accord with the policy of President Roosevelt; regarded with favor the placing of grasping corporations under federal control; believed people were better governed under Republican, than Democratic rule; pledged the candidates to use every effort to repeat the legislation of last winter, which proved for the severing of North Plainfield from the county; also pledged the candidates to resist any attempt to cut off any part of the county in the future. The platform was adopted amid loud cheers.

Nominations were then in order for State senator. Bedminster yielded to Bridgewater township and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, was named by Louis C. Mack in a ringing speech. Mr. Frelinghuysen was nominated by acclamation.

The surrogate nomination was next called for. None of the townships had any favorite until Hillsborough was called. Then James Bowman stepped forward and put the name of P. V. D. VanDoren before the convention. There being no other candidates he was nominated by acclamation.

For member of Assembly there were three nominees. L. H. T. Shafer, of Bernards, named Frederick Prout, Matthew Suydam, of Franklin, presented the name of Irving Hoagland and Stephen J. Beeching, of North Plainfield, named Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung.

The result of the first ballot was as follows:

	Moldenke.	Hgld.	Prout.
Bedminster	5
Bernards			5

The October-December number of the Forum which, it will be remembered, is now published quarterly, contains articles by specialists, reviewing the progress of the last three months in various departments of thought and activity. Henry Litchfield West deals with "American Politics," devoting special attention to the President's speeches and the Congressional campaign, while A. Maurice Low treats of "Foreign Affairs," including the changes in the British administration, the renewal of the Triple Alliance, and the continued unsettlement in China. A. D. Noyes writes on "Finance," Henry Harrison Suplee on "Applied Science," Frank Jewett Mather, Jr., on "Literature," and Henry T. Finck on "Music." Russell Sturgis' paper on "Sculpture" is an exhaustive analysis of recent tendencies in this form of art as practised in American. The subject of "Education" is divided between Ossian H. Lang and Dr. J. M. Rice, the former discussing the general outlook, and the latter giving an account of some special investigations into the teaching of arithmetic. The concluding articles in this number are a paper on "The Political Situation in Russia," by Isaac A. Hourwich, and a criticism of Herbert Paul's book on Matthew Arnold, by Prof. W. P. Trent.

Infinite variety characterizes the contents of the October Everybody's. The number is full of spirited tales and entertaining articles. Rudyard Kipling's last story, "The Comprehension of Private Copper," follows a picturesque acount of "Old Steamboat Days on the Mississippi," by G. W. Ogden. In "Monstery, Soldier of Fortune," H. S. Canfield tells of a Chicago fencing master whose career was as adventurous as D'Artagnan's. "What is Luck?" by Paul Latzke, attributes fortune's favors to character rather than chance. "A Croesus of South Africa," by Chalmers Roberts, records the personality of the immensely wealthy Alfred Beit, who was Cecil Rhodes' partner. E. A. Hamilton sums up the careers of "The Big Bonanza Four," who made so many millions out of the Comstock. Miss Marie VanVorst in "The Woman That Toils," describes her experiences as a working girl in a shoe factory at Lynn. C. Bryson Taylor writes of "Vassili Verestchagin." "A Woman's Victory for Schools," tells of Miss Margaret Haley's successful fight to make the corporations of Chicago pay their taxes in order to furnish money for school teachers' salaries.

Of the eight unusual stories in the October number of Leslie's Monthly, five are fiction, and three sketches of real events in the careers, of men whose lives are far more remarkable than of any fictitious people. The story of Harry Tracy, the latest of the western bad men, is vividly told and makes a tale almost unbelievable if it were not undoubtedly true. The career of W. S. Devery, one of the most extraordinary political figures of the time among the lower order of politicians and one whose recent campaign for the leadership of a notorious district of New York has brought him prominently before the public, and the record of the hero of "The Autobiography of a Thief." These three human stories are some of the most striking tales that have been acted in the world or told for many a day. The fiction of the number includes a tale of a circus man, two society stories and the very amusing confession of a book agent, in which there is more truth than fiction.

An article on the great beef industry, now so prominently before the public, owing to the close syndicate which controls it, and an able argument from Senator Money against suffrage restriction in the south, gives a more serious tone to the number. A short sketch of a new theatrical star, and some short verses and stories fill out the magazine.

Four Received by Letter.

At the communion service held at the First Baptist church Sunday morning four persons were received by letter. They were Mr. and Mrs. John Mackey and the Misses Mackey, who recently returned to Plainfield from Brooklyn.

THEATRICAL.

It is an exceptionally fine programme which will tempt the patrons of Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, during the coming week. At the head is The Fadettes Woman's Orchestra, an organization of twenty feminine musicians which stands head and shoulders above any similar organization in the world. Chas. J. Ross and Mabel Fenton, so long members of Weber & Fields All Star Stock Company, have gone into vaudeville and present at this theatre a travesty on Sardou's "Cleopatra," which is said to be without an equal as a laugh provoker. Eva Williams and Jac Tucker hold over from last week, and offer their petite slang classic "Skinny's Finish," the sketch which made these two people famous.

The remainder of the bill is a long list of straight vaudeville acts, embracing a number of the most famous performers, among which may be mentioned such celebrities as Sam Elton, the European comedy acrobat; Johnson and Dean, colored entertainers; the Misses Delmore, presenting a farcial skit called "The Bridegroom's Reverie;" Yamamoto Brothers, the Japanese acrobats; Zimmer, the juggler; Hollis and Howard, in illustrated songs, and Dave Nowlin, the mimic. There are, besides these, twenty other features upon the programme at Union Square, including new pictures for both biograph and stereopticon. Noon to 11 p. m., 50 cents.

TRAVEL WELL.

That's the Way They Travel on the New Jersey Central.

It's an art to travel, did you ever think of it in that light, and there is as much difference in roads as there is difference in houses. A well kept station, polite and obliging employes, a train which shines inside and out, aisles carpeted, a profusion of light, an agreeable order of architecture in the design of the car, a powerful locomotive able to make and keep on time, a road-bed of heavy iron and rock ballasted too and a running schedule fast enough to suit you, all this in addition to a picturesque country to travel through, and you have pretty near a model road. Such are the conditions of the New Jersey Central, which road operates the famous hourly service between New York and Philadelphia with a train every hour and on the hour in both directions.

To Baltimore, Washington and the west, the New Jersey Central operates the Royal Blue Line which has the finest day trains in the world. An attractive pamphlet is issued by the general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, New York City Dept. R. B., which sets forth the advantages interestingly, and if you want it drop a card to the above address. It's free for the asking. c

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

The State's Most Complete Garment Stocks

Largest Assortments of the Handsomest and Best Productions of All Leading Makers.

AN EXPOSITION of unrivalled splendor—great and incomparable lines that include scores of elegant and exclusive creations of famous modistes who are supreme in the fashion capitals of two continents. Our pre-eminence has never been so absolutely established, and the reputation of a department, reared on a foundation of invariable better value giving, is splendidly maintained in one of the most remarkable showings of Fall and Winter garments ever made in this country. Magnificent and elaborately designed costumes, evening or carriage wraps, opera coats, dinner gowns or skirts, and tailor-made suits, at from $50 to $175 each. Also less expensive garments of every description, distinguished by that same excellence in style, make, fit and finish, which has made our third floor department the rendezvous of Newark's best dressed women.

How to properly care for an enormously increasing business, has been a problem only partially solved by a re-arrangement of lines, removal of our workrooms to the sixth floor, and the increasing of an already large force of salespeople, fitters and tailors.

The bargain getting opportunities afforded through our intimate knowledge of the markets, and ability to handle quantities that few stores dare consider, permit us to name prices lower, almost without exception, than those on same makes and grades wherever else they may be found.

Finest Fur Showing—That we have sold and are selling more furs than the combined stores of Newark is largely due to the fact that "Satisfaction or Your Money Back" is used as an argument. There is nothing that the public know less about than furs, and reliance, as a matter of course, must be placed in the word of dealers from whom they are purchased. Our buyer is an expert and upon his judgment of quality we base our guarantee. Persian or Baby Lamb, genuine Alaska Seal, Electric or Near Seal Jackets and a more extensive line of neck pieces, muffs and children's sets are carried in stock by no retail house in the country. These small furs are made of Russian or Hudson Bay Sable, Ermine, blended or natural Stone and Baum Marten, Squirrel, black blue and natural Lynx, Chinchilla, Mink, Otter, Beaver, Krimmer, Persia, Alaska, German and American Fox, Thibet and Angora. Over 200 Persian Lamb Jackets in stock upon which we are naming extremely low and unmatched prices.

A MYSTERIOUS VISIT

Mitchell Secretly Meets Labor Commissioner Wright.

OBJECT OF THE MEETING UNKNOWN.

Commissioner Sargent Has a Long Interview With the President. Rumors of an Appeal to the Mine Workers' Leader.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America paid a mysterious visit to this city yesterday and after remaining here about six hours returned to Wilkesbarre. Mr. Mitchell arrived here on the Buffalo express at 7:28. He was unattended, and no person met him at the station. Mr. Mitchell passed out of the railroad station to the street, and from that time until he reappeared at the station shortly after noon his movements are unknown. He boarded a train at 2:02 o'clock for Wilkesbarre.

It was later learned that President Mitchell had met Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, but all efforts to locate Mr. Wright proved futile. As Mr. Mitchell was about to board the train for Wilkesbarre he was asked if he had met an emissary from the president or if he had received any communication from Mr. Roosevelt. He declined to answer all questions excepting those referring to the situation in the coal regions, which, he said, was unchanged.

A THIRD CONFERENCE.

President Has an Interview With Commissioner Sargent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—There is only one development of importance here in the coal strike question. Frank P. Sargent, commissioner of immigration and for many years chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, has had a long interview with President Roosevelt and left Washington very soon afterward. Mr. Sargent indicated that the interview concerned the coal strike, but he would not discuss the matter. From the fact that he always has been influential with labor organizations it is generally believed that he is intrusted with a message to President Mitchell of the miners' union. It is also said that Mr. Sargent is to meet Mr. Mitchell and deliver the message of the president, urging that the miners end the strike in the interests of the public.

While many propositions have been under discussion, it is almost certain that the administration is taking up only one plan at a time. The present plan is that outlined in the dispatches Saturday and Sunday and contemplates an end of the strike by the action of President Mitchell and his associates and a full investigation of the mining conditions later.

MITCHELL IS MUM.

Admits Meeting Wright, but Will Divulge Nothing.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 7.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America slipped out of town before dawn for Philadelphia, where he met Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor, who is President Roosevelt's personal representative on matters pertaining to the anthracite coal strike. Mr. Mitchell returned here at night unaccompanied and unannounced and made the simple statement that he had met the labor commissioner. He refused absolutely to discuss his visit to Philadelphia, declined to say where in Philadelphia he met Mr. Wright or what passed between them.

Interest in Mr. Mitchell's mysterious trip was intense all day and evening about headquarters. All the local district leaders called, and scores of mine workers were in evidence. No one seemed to know anything, and all were of the belief that some sort of a move is contemplated. Immediately on the return of the strike leader he was besieged, but he refused to see any one until after he had his supper. He granted the newspaper correspondents a brief interview, simply telling them he met Mr. Wright, and then he and the district presidents went into conference.

Fuel For the Poor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A large portion of the shore of Staten Island in the vicinity of quarantine has long been known as "Dead Man's cove" because of the great number of bodies which have drifted ashore there. The passing tide not only deposits bodies on the shores, but large quantities of driftwood, logs and timber. This material is assiduously gathered by the people of the neighborhood and enters largely in the fuel supply of many. Dr. Doty in his work at quarantine has noticed the enormous quantity of this material which has accumulated in times past. Becoming impressed with the importance and value of this deposit in view of the coal famine, he has decided to collect all of the wood possible and supply it to the poor. Funds have been supplied for the work.

Coal Importations to Be Favored.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The treasury department has sent the following letter to the collectors of the principal ports of entry in the United States: "Reports indicate that quite a large quantity of coal is being imported. If any portion of this should arrive at your port, the department desires every facility afforded for its prompt delivery. So far as may be give consignments of coal the preference over everything else and for the present solve all reasonable doubts in favor of the coal importer."

Manufacturers Meet Mitchell.

BUFFALO, Oct. 7.—The members of the committee appointed by President Perry of the National Association of Manufacturers to confer with President Mitchell and the three district presidents of the United Mine Workers have arrived in the city. The object of the conference today is to devise some means whereby the manufacturers of the country may obtain enough coal to keep their plants in operation during the continuance of the miners' strike.

Buying Coal Abroad.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—One hundred thousand tons of coal were sold on the Newcastle Exchange yesterday for shipment to the United States. Some of the steamers owned by big concerns, such as Elder, Dempster & Co., the Leyland line and Johnston line, are now loading coal at Cardiff and Liverpool. It is not expected that sufficient anthracite coal will be obtained to supply the American demand.

Some Coal Sent to Market.

READING, Pa., Oct. 7.—For the week ending at midnight officials of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company state that the company sent to market 16,000 tons of washery and mined coal. The company's officials here claim that they have men at work taking out coal at Brookside, Good Spring, Silver Brook and other collieries in western Schuylkill county.

Coal For the Needy.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 7.—Following a mass meeting of citizens called to consider ways and means of providing coal for the needy in this city, Mayor Ryan received a check from United States Senator John Kean for $1,000 as a starter for the fund. A committee of twelve citizens has been appointed to solicit subscriptions.

Coal In Sealed Cars.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The railroads terminating in Jersey City are sending in the coal for their engines in sealed cars. The reason given is that at the present prices and the scarcity along the various lines there would be too much temptation for it to be stolen, and the coal which now reaches the terminals comes in box cars.

MORMONS IN CONFERENCE.

Latter Day Saints Report Remarkable Growth.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 7.—The annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, with one exception the largest ever held, has just closed.

The Mormon church has missions in every civilized country in the world, and nearly all of them were represented at the conference just closed. Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Canada and Mexico, where the church flourishes, were represented by thousands. It is estimated that 40,000 people have attended the conference meetings.

The growth of the church, as shown by missionaries and the church reports, has been remarkable in the past year. It is no longer the policy of the Mormon church to encourage emigration to the home of the church in Utah, but rather to establish communities in the states where converts are made. This same policy is being carried out by foreign missionaries.

To Take Philippine Census.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary Root has designated Brigadier General Sanger to conduct the census in the Philippines. He also has detailed to assist General Sanger in this work two experts in the persons of H. W. Gannett of the geological survey and Victor H. Olmstead of the department of labor. In addition to this Colonel Edwards, the chief of the bureau of insular affairs, has arranged with Director Merriam of the national census to have twenty of the most expert census workers detached from his bureau here and sent to the Philippines to engage in the work.

Hawaiian Treasurer a Defaulter.

HONOLULU, via San Francisco, Oct. 7.—William H. Wright, treasurer of the territory of Hawaii, is alleged to be an absconder and a defaulter to the extent of $17,949. It is believed he stowed away on the steamship Alameda. Secretary of the Territory Henry E. Cooper has been appointed treasurer temporarily by Governor Dole. Under the territorial act the treasurer is now required to give bonds, and the legislature at its last session failed to make any provision for bonds.

A Case of Reanimation.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—In a dispatch from Moscow the correspondent of the Daily Mail says a Dr. Koulatke has succeeded in his experiments in reanimating the heart of an infant which he extracted from a child that had died twenty-four hours previously. The heart beat with normal regularity for one hour. Dr. Koulatke hopes that his discovery will assist in reanimation in cases of death by drowning.

National Holiday Proclaimed.

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—The house of representatives has voted to proclaim Oct. 10, the anniversary of the beginning of the war of 1868, a national holiday and to erect statues to Cespedes, Agramonte, Maceo and Garcia. The conference committee has approved the bill providing for the reorganization of the rural guard and its increase by 1,000 men.

Killed His Wife, Then Himself.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 7.—Eli Baskett, at his home in Atlee, Hanover county, shot and killed his wife and then ended his own life. The double crime was due to temporary insanity, it is believed, but what caused the sudden unhinging of the man's mind no one knows.

Strong and Yohe Not Married.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 7.—Putnam Bradlee Strong and May Yohe have not been married here, as reported. Their marriage would be in contravention of the laws of Argentina.

STONE CALLS TROOPS

Entire Guard of Pennsylvania Ordered Out.

THE GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

Commanding General Instructed to See That All Men Who Desire to Work in the Coal Mines Are Protected.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—Governor Stone has ordered out the entire division of the national guard of Pennsylvania to duty in the anthracite coal regions. The order calling out the guard is as follows:

"In certain portions of the counties of Luzerne, Schuylkill, Carbon, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Northumberland and Columbia tumults and riots frequently occur and mob law reigns. Men who desire to work have been beaten and driven away and their families threatened. Railroad trains have been delayed, stoned and the tracks torn up. The civil authorities are unable to maintain order and have called upon the governor and commander in chief of the national guard for troops. The situation grows more serious each day. The territory involved is so extensive that the troops now on duty are insufficient to prevent all disorder. The presence of the entire division of the national guard of Pennsylvania is necessary in these counties to maintain the public peace.

"The major general commanding will place the entire division on duty, distributing it in such localities as will render it most effective for preserving the public peace.

"As tumults, riots, mobs and disorder usually occur when men attempt to work in and about coal mines, he will see that all men who desire to work and their families have ample military protection. He will protect all trains and other property from unlawful interference and will arrest all persons engaged in acts of violence and intimidation and hold them under guard until their release will not endanger the public peace; will see that threats, intimidations and all acts of violence cease at once. The public peace and good order will be preserved upon all occasions and throughout the several counties, and no interference whatever will be permitted with officers and men in the discharge of their duties under this order. The dignity and authority of the state must be maintained and her power to suppress all lawlessness within her borders be asserted."

The formal order was given out at the executive mansion shortly before 11 o'clock last night by Private Secretary Gerwig. Governor Stone called a conference of the general officers of the guard, at which it was decided to place more troops in the field. Those present at the conference were Major General Miller, General Gobin of the Third brigade, General Schall of the First brigade, Colonel Hulings of the Sixteenth regiment, who represented General Wiley of the Second brigade, who is in Kansas; Assistant Adjutant General Elliott and Assistant Quartermaster General Richardson. The canvas and other camp equipage will be shipped from the state arsenal, and it is expected that all the troops will be in the field within twenty-four hours.

The troops now in the field are the Fourth, Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth and Thirteenth regiments of the Third brigade and the Governor's troop, Sheridan troop and Second Philadelphia City troop. The troops which will be sent to re-enforce those now on duty are the First regiment, Second regiment, Third regiment, Sixth regiment, Battery A, First troop, Philadelphia City cavalry, who compose the First brigade; Fifth regiment, Tenth regiment, Fourteenth regiment, Sixteenth regiment, Eighteenth regiment and Battery B, which constitute the Second brigade.

Odell Orders Out Troops.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Governor Odell has issued an order directing the entire Second regiment, composed of separate companies between Troy and Plattsburg, on duty to protect the property of the Hudson Valley Railway company, upon whose lines a strike has been in progress for some weeks. Adjutant General Henry is on duty at national guard headquarters and has prepared a list of additional available troops should their services be deemed necessary by Colonel Lloyd.

Boer Generals In Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 7.—The Boer generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey have arrived here and were greeted by an immense crowd. In a speech from a balcony of his hotel General De Wet reiterated that they had not come to Europe to seek vain support or to make efforts to regain their independence, but to obtain help in repairing the ravages of the war.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The report on the finances of Denmark shows a balance in the treasury on March 31 of $10,800,000.

The trial of Roland B. Molineux in New York city was postponed to next Monday on account of Justice Barrett's illness.

Generals Corbin and Young and John W. Gates were summoned by the London police for exceeding the legal rate of speed for automobiles.

Lady Henry Somerset, probably the best known temperance advocate in England and almost equally well known in this country, has arrived in New York.

The Boxer revolt in the provinces of Szechuen and Chili, China, is reported increasing. It is said that 1,500 native Christians have been murdered in the former, where the rebels are led by a woman.

THE LAST GAME.

It was unfortunate that the Westfield baseball team did not use the same players in its series with the Plainfield Consolidated nine. It was particularly unfortunate that, in the last and deciding game, four of the most important positions in the nine should be filled by new and expert players. Manager Charles H. Denman is a believer in good, honest sport and, when he said that the changes were made necessary by the fact that several of the players could not play Saturday, we do not doubt his word for a moment. The change, however, takes off the edge of the victory and still leaves unsettled the question of supremacy between Plainfield's best and the nine which has represented Westfield on the diamond all this summer.

Last Saturday's game was won fairly and squarely by the Westfield team. What hard luck there was resulting from the bad weather went largely against Plainfield. While that might have reduced the size of Westfield's score, it is hardly likely to have changed the general result. It was a powerful team which Westfield had on the diamond and one which Plainfield could hardly expect to cope with. Nevertheless had the day been a pleasant one, we are confident Plainfield would have made a hard fight for it and that the game would not have been decided until the last man was out.

In this series, Plainfield has been represented by just nine men. The same pitcher has faced the Westfield batters on every occasion. There was another pitcher in reserve but he was not needed. A different pitcher has been in the box for Westfield in every game. In the last game, a new pitcher, two new men in the infield and one in the outfield made almost a new team. And a glance at the summary of the game as published in yesterday's Daily Press shows that these same men were responsible for most of the runs made by Westfield.

These facts are pointed out, not with the idea that Saturday's defeat was not a perfectly fair one, but simply to show that Saturday's game while fairly won, did not decide between the merits of the team which has represented Westfield this season and Plainfield's best. We believe that Manager Denman did the best he could. We do not believe that he deliberately changed his team at the last moment in order to win at any cost.

Of course, it was to be expected that some of the local rooters should feel rather badly that their favorites should be defeated by strangers who were brought in at the last moment. Remarks similar to "Where is Westfield playing today?" and "Why didn't you get a whole new team?" were to be expected. As we have already remarked, it was greatly to be regretted that Westfield did have to make the changes at the last moment. It would have been so much more satisfactory to all concerned to have the question of supremacy settled without the possibility of a question.

Plainfield was quite honored when such a distinguished personage as Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, visited one of the local Episcopal churches and conducted service there. During the last few years, this city has welcomed a remarable number of men, prominent in the world's affairs. There are few cities of its size which can boast of more distinguished guests than can Plainfield.

The harmony which reigned at the Republican county convention over in Somerset yesterday was significant. While there was little or no contest, it did not mean that the Republicans were united. There are rocks ahead in the path of the G. O. P.

Not only the young men but the younger boys are playing good football this season. Plainfield promises to have a list of unusually strong elevens on the gridiron this fall.

CHANGE IN SCHOOL BOARD

REV. DR. W. R. RICHARDS RESIGNED FROM CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Routine Business Transacted at Board Meeting Last Evening—Just Referred to High School.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Board of Education was held last night in the High School. Nothing but routine business was transacted. The matter of the new High School building was not brought up officially, although touched upon by Mr. Lovell.

According to the medical inspectors there were two cases of diphtheria among pupils during September. In both cases the utmost care was successfully taken to avoid contagion.

Superintendent Maxson's report showed that there are now forty-five pupils in the stenographic class. Three more typewriters were needed, he reported. It was decided to hire these immediately.

The resignation of Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Richards was read and accepted with regret.

Mr. Maxson moved that the school janitors be appointed truant officers with full power to enforce the compulsory school attendance law. This motion was unanimously carried. The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the president. The members present were: Dr. J. B. Probasco and Messrs. Lovell, Maxson, Abbott and Woodhull.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—There will be a regular meeting of the vestry of Holy Cross church this evening.

—Harry Kingslow, of West Third street, has resigned his position with J. P. Powers, of Somerset street.

—Miss Nettie Weiss, of Regent street, has entered the employ of J. H. Boehm in the millinery department.

—F. G. Sherman, the new superintendent of telegraph on the New Jersey Central, has taken up his residence in Elizabeth.

—The topic of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Crescent Avenue church Friday evening will be "A Searching Question."

—Neuman Brothers have just received a supply of nice fall apples, among them being some fine Fall Pippins and Kings. Special price per basket.

—Thomas McGann, who has the contract for digging the cellar for Woodhull & Martin's new building on East Front street, is progressing rapidly with the work. He has a large gang of Italians on the job.

—The regular meeting of the Sunshine Mission Band, of the Crescent Avenue church, will be held in the parlors of the church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. As important business is to come before the meeting a full attendance is desired.

Miss Leila Howard, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with friends in town.

DUNELLEN.

The Republican primary was held last evening in the borough hall to elect a delegate to the county convention at New Brunswick on October 6. Henry Garretson was elected chairman of the meeting and Wilson Fredricks secretary. Dr. P. W. Brakeley was elected to attend the convention.

An ignorant Polish girl, who had evidently been on this side only a short time and was unable to speak a word of English, landed at the post-office looking for a house at the corner of Grove street and Greenbrook road. There was no name given so she was sent to Taylor's Hotel.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held in the hall last evening. Only important business came up.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Board of Education will be held this evening in Whittier school.

It is expected that the Dunellen Dancing Club will shortly commence on this season's series of dances.

The office of the Watchung Water Company on Washington avenue is receiving a coat of paint.

Chestnutting is excellent in the woods around here and parties go every day.

The Juniors will hold a regular meeting this evening in Apgar Hall.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., held a regular meeting last evening.

Miss Mary Teel is spending a few days with Easton relatives.

Next Sunday will be rally day in the Presbyterian church.

The band will hold regular practice this evening.

L. E. Cross spent yesterday in New York on business.

A new slate roof is being put on the roundhouse.

NEW MARKET.

At the Republican primary held yesterday afternoon in Charles Day's office to elect delegates to the county convention at New Brunswick, J. B. Cleaver and George Bunting were re-elected to represent this district.

The regular monthly meeting of the Township Committee was held yesterday afternoon in Hotel Nelson. Routine business was transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliot are the proud parents of a young daughter which arrived yesterday.

W. B. Smith has put one of his horses under the care of Peter Osborn.

Miss Irene Day visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

If the elements will permit Manager Johnston's colts will journey to Plainfield Saturday afternoon to cross bats with the Hope chapel team, of the City League. This will end the local ball season. The season at home practically came to an end on Labor Day, no games having been played at home since the Y. M. C. A. game.

The members of the Baptist church at a short business meeting at the close of the morning service on Sunday decided to use the individual communion cup in the future. The matter has been agitated in the church several times during the past two years but nothing definite was done until Sunday.

John Miller, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks suffering from typhoid fever, continues to improve but it will be several weeks yet before he is able to be brought home.

The weekly teachers' meeting of the teacher of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Vincent, of Fanwood.

The women of the Methodist church are anticipating a large attendance at their entertainment and cake sale to be held in Excelsior Hall Friday evening of this week.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Baptist church was held in the church parlors last night. Routine business was transacted.

Rev. G. M. Shott attended the weekly Ministers' Conference meeting held Monday in the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A. building, New York.

Charles Housell, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ryno, has returned to his home in Bound Brook.

The Misses Cooks, of Park avenue, have been entertaining out of town friends for a few days.

Harper, Hollingsworth and Darby have installed a new water wheel at their factory.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A heavily loaded coal train passed over the Lehigh Valley Railroad Sunday en route to Perth Amboy. A large number of empty coal cars have passed up the road lately.

A number of voters went to New Market yesterday afternoon to attend the Republican primary meeting for the appointment of delegates to the county convention.

An important business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held after the prayer meeting this evening. A full attendance of members is requested.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorn entertained over Sunday Willis Conover Thorn and family, of Mamaronek, New York.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

If you wear Peck's goods you can always feel satisfied that you are correctly dressed. His goods are the pick of the market and always in accordance with the decree of fashion.

"Fish for breakfast" is a pleasant salute, but the only way to make it pleasanter is the further announcement that it comes from Rogers' market. All fish bought there as well as all seafood is strictly fresh.

There is to be found durability, sweetness of tone and reliability in every piano handled by G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street. He carries only the best makes and every one is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction.

The Belleview Avenue Nursery is prepared to furnish all manner of shrubbery in large lots and at prices that cannot be equalled for lowness. All orders will be promptly filled and delivered without cost to the purchaser.

The reputation attained by Meissner's Hand Laundry, 432 Watchung avenue, for doing up lace curtains and fine laces, is daily growing. It is difficult for anyone to clean fine lace properly, but this establishment has evidently solved the problem.

Although the fresh vegetable season is about over, T. L. Walsh, of North avenue, is receiving some very nice lots fresh every day. He still has a few peaches that are coming in and they can be purchased very reasonably. Walsh's line of fruit is one of the best to be seen in the city.

Fred H. Firstbrook, the popular grocer of 316 Liberty street, has just received a new consignment of unusually good fruits. While they are a feature of his today's offerings they are not put on sale to the exclusion of other things. His stock of fancy and family groceries are just as good, if not better, than ever.

The Watchung Pharmacy, corner of North and Watchung avenues, has, under the management of E. S. F. Randolph, attained a well deserved popularity. Mr. Randolph's "fall specials" are well worth purchasing. Among these are the Watchung Extract of Malt, pure Egg Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and honey, horehound and white pine cough syrups. They are just the things to use this season of the year.

Woodhull & Martin's big store looks especially attractive these days, filled with new goods for fall and winter. A more complete stock it would be difficult to find anywhere. All goods look fresh and bright and it will be to your advantage to make your selections early. The housefurnishing goods department, as well as the carpet department, are well worth visiting. An up-to-date men's furnishing department is also attractive.

Gone to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Smith and their three daughters, Miss May, Miss Clara Barton and Mrs. E. W. Bergman, of Grandview avenue, left yesterday for Washington, D. C. Mr. Smith, while there, will attend the G. A. R. encampment and Mrs. Smith will attend the W. C. T. U. convention.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

HEADACHE

is the general term used to describe pain in the head. It may be either symptomatic or idiopathic, the latter being generally chronic and due to specific bony lesion, usually in the cervical vertebrae.

A large class of the latter come under Osteopathic treatment, generally in a very bad condition after having suffered far beyond the power of drugs to cure. The form embraces many of the kinds generally described under one or other of the usual classifications.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—

The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. Gulick, Manager, New Brunswick, N. J., Rural Free Delivery No. 2, or J. F. McIntyre, Tel. 621, Plainfield, N. J. 9 23 1m

COAL FAMINE IN NEW YORK.

Dealers Unable to Supply Even Soft Coal Now.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The coal famine in this city has reached a stage where dealers are unable to supply anthracite at any price and have great difficulty in filling orders for bituminous coal. Those dealers who can deliver soft coal are selling it at $10 and $12 a ton.

In many parts of the city the effect of the scarcity of fuel is shown in the shutting off of steam in factories and in stopping or diminishing the hot water supplies in flats and apartment houses. In some of the houses the tenants are warned that hot water will be supplied from the basements only on two days of the week. In some other houses notice has been given that the hot water will be supplied only part of each day.

Many people who were unwilling to use soft coal in their furnaces have been driven to its use, and many who would have been glad to use soft coal find they cannot get any. There is a general surprise and indignation in the city on account of the sudden scarcity of soft coal and the tremendous increase in the price of it.

Fast Cable Laying.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 7.—Word has just been received here that the cable ship Colonia buoyed the Pacific cable one mile off Fanning island cable station at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, having laid 3,455 nautical miles of cable between the station on Vancouver island and that point since 2:30 p. m. on Sept. 18. Everything went splendidly throughout the voyage, and there was not a hitch of any kind. This now leaves the section of 2,100 nautical miles between Fanning island and Suva, in the Fiji islands, to complete the Canadian-Australian cable. The cable ship Anglia, now at Honolulu, will lay that section, which will probably be completed before the end of the present month.

Labor Federationists Meet.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has begun a week's session here. The report of the secretary and treasury showed the American Federation of Labor to be in excellent condition; that an increase of more than 200,000 members has been gained in the last four months; that the official magazine, the American Federationist, is on a sound basis financially and otherwise; that there are now more than 900 volunteer organizers throughout the country and thirty salaried organizers directly employed by the federation and 240 organizers employed by affiliated national unions.

Will of Luther Marsh.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The will of Luther R. Marsh has been filed for probate. It makes John J. Huyler the sole legatee and executor. Mr. Huyler is the husband of the late Clarissa J. Huyler, who was Mr. Marsh's spirit medium for many years. The estate is estimated to be between $25,000 and $30,000, including a large library and Mr. Marsh's "spirit pictures."

Postoffice Robbed.

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 7.—Burglars broke into the postoffice at Tazewell Courthouse at about midnight and blew open the safe with dynamite. They secured $800 in stamps and $200 in cash. Besides these losses the office books of the postmaster were blown over the office and almost destroyed. Bloodhounds have been sent to the scene. So far there is no clew to the robbers.

More Troops Wanted at Glens Falls.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Sheriff Gill has called on Governor Odell for another company of national guards. The village trustees have posted a proclamation forbidding all parades, mass meetings or congregating on the streets until the trouble is settled between the trolley company and the strikers.

Physician Killed In a Runaway.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Oct. 7.—One of the most prominent physicians and cattlemen of southwestern Oklahoma, Dr. W. H. H. Dunn of Mangum, was dragged to death by being thrown from his carriage, the lines catching around his feet. He was a native of Ohio.

Italy Short In Wheat.

ROME, Oct. 7.—Official statistics place this year's Italian wheat crop at 131,208,000 bushels, a falling off from the average crop of upward of 19,880,000 bushels. This decrease is attributed to drought, cyclones and the smaller area under cultivation.

Storm Sweeps Labrador.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 7.—A severe storm swept over Labrador last week. Six more vessels are ashore, and their cargoes of fish have been lost. The mailboat from Labrador is delayed. It is feared that she will bring reports of heavy losses in northern Labrador.

Novelist Churchill In Politics.

CORNISH, N. H., Oct. 7.—Winston Churchill, novelist, has entered politics, making his debut through the medium of the Republican representative caucus which gave him a nomination. This act is considered equivalent to an election.

Record Price For Mackerel.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 7.—The record price for salt tinker mackerel was reached here when four consignments were sold at $20 and $20.25 a barrel.

Canon Rawlinson Dead.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Rev. George Rawlinson, canon of Canterbury since 1872, is dead at Canterbury. He was born in 1812.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; slight winds, mostly west.

DOUBTFUL RUMORS.

And Still Scores of Plainfield People Accept Them As Facts.

The published statement of some stranger residing in a far-away place may be true enough, but it is generally accepted as a doubtful rumor. How can it be verified. The testimony which follows is convincing proof because it comes from a resident of Plainfield.

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment, derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured."

COSTLY FURS.

Moleskin Coats Are the Latest Extravagance.

Furs will be more costly than ever during the coming season, for the coarse furs which have been so much worn during the last few years will be reserved for what may be termed rough wear, as motor coats and gowns, and the finest pelts only—real mink, chinchilla, golden beaver and moleskin—are being used for the coats already to be seen at the furriers.

Sack coats of Alaska seal have huge cape collars of Russian sable fashioned in graceful curves, and they are lined with rich brocades. Other smart coats of seal are in the Russian blouse shape, with perfectly cut basques, long or short, and big collars of sable, mink or chinchilla.

In some cases the coats are further ornamented with belts of suede or kid daintily embroidered, some with turquoises and silver and others with oriental silk and gold thread embroidery.

Perhaps the most costly garments are those of moleskin, for several hundreds of these tiny skins go to the making of one Russian blouse, and the woman who owns a coat of this has the satisfaction of knowing she does not possess a commonplace garment.

The dress illustrated is of pale green crepe de chine trimmed with white chiffon and pale yellow lace.

THE NEW COATS.

Some Are Made Without Collars—Velvet Trimmings.

One of the most sensible innovations in women's attire will be the making of coats this autumn without a collar band, and in fact high collars will be dispensed with. This allows dainty jabots and ties to be worn, and the fur or feather tie sits comfortably over the collarless coat.

The new coat sleeves are very desirable, as they are large and voluminous and caught in at the wrists, leaving wide frills to fall over the hands. These are wearable over the most elaborate dress sleeves.

Velvet will again be fashionable for trimmings during the autumn, and very elegant effects are obtained by using beaver and mordore velvet on mastic pale fawn and antelope tints, a touch of brighter color appearing in the front. Handsome checked and plaid velvets are also used in Paris for boleros and vests. On a plain cloth gown a vest and undersleeves of lace plaid give quite a distinguished air.

A smart tailor made coat suitable for a young girl is here shown. The material is rough wool marked with a hair stripe and deep blue in tone. The collar is faced with deep blue velvet, and for trimming there is the gored ruffle set on cape fashion from under a strapping.

How to Make Cocoanut Macaroons.

Grate a cocoanut fine and moisten it with milk. Add the beaten white of an egg and a cupful of powdered sugar. Whip light and drop on buttered paper in a baking pen. Bake immediately in a quick oven. Let the macaroons get cold before slipping a knife under each and removing from the paper.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"Well, you talk of them on the piazza till they have driven me wild. Whatever it is that you talk about, this man is deceiving you. I was reassured last evening when I saw the insignia of his office, but he may have stolen that badge, and I have come to the conclusion that he is playing a double part."

"I am conspiring to save you, Sophronia, to save you from yourself and your trusting nature. Poor Sophronia, you do indeed need a man to take care of you. Until you find one, I confide you to the care of my good friend, Bob Jennings, the crack sleuth-hound of the detective force."

I turned pale. I could not see myself, but I felt a pallor creeping over my features. I sat down trembling.

"Don't cry, Sophronia! Don't faint! It's all right. There is a conspiracy, right here in your own house, and we are trying to save you from it, Jennings and I. We don't know just what it means, as yet, but——"

"But your untruths, Marmaduke Smith. How do you excuse those?"

"The end justifies the means," said he. "The end certainly justifies the means."

"How could you know what was happening out here? You never come near me——"

"I should like to come, Sophronia, I should like to come. I thought of you at once when Jennings said that he wanted a boarding place near the village, and then, strange to say, I discovered that this was the very house where he wished to take up his abode. He told me the story, as far as he knows it, and I volunteered to help him. Now, let me give you one word of caution. You have stumbled upon this matter long before we intended that you should know anything about it. Now, the only thing for you to do is to act as if you knew nothing about it. Treat these people exactly as you have all along, and——"

"Oh, how can I listen to the Lost Tribes any longer?" said I, almost crying. Truth to tell, my nerves were shaken by all that had come and gone.

"I will promise, dear Mrs. Brathwaite, to change the subject now," he said, and I went to my room and locked my door, sitting listless, far into the morning.

CHAPTER VI.

No one can imagine how dreadfully I felt at the turn that matters had taken. If this girl was really the little Amaranthe of my young ladyhood, and I could not doubt that she was, it seemed a terrible thing to have found her associated with strange men who could come into her windows at night. But, after all, was I certain that any strange man had come into the window at night? I thought of asking Mr. Beldon to help me, and set him as a watch upon her. The fact of the existence of that plug which Elder Wynne had cut in some way out of the floor of my upper back did not escape my mind. That, of course, was to keep a watch upon Mr. Beldon, but I thought that Elder Wynne, or Bob Jennings, rather, had overreached himself.

I made up my mind that when I went downstairs in the morning I would speak very plainly to my boarder. I waited until nine o'clock, and then I went across the hall and stood at the door of the lower-front chamber. I waited a moment, hesitated, bent my head and listened. I thought I heard some movement within, and gave a gentle tap at the panel. There was no answer. I tapped again. Still silence!

I turned the knob gently, and thought, as I did so, "What if she has gone away as she threatened?" My heart gave a great throb at this, for I could not bear the idea of having her leave me. There was something about her which drew me towards her, and was she not, after all, little Amaranthe? No matter what she had done, or seemed to have done, she was still little Amaranthe, the daughter of Eugene Darlington, my old friend, and the niece of the dear ladies at the Hall.

I pushed open the door. The room was dark, the blinds closed, the green shades drawn closely. There was a sickening odor in the room, at which my heart sank way, way down. What if she were dead? What if my attitude towards her had been too severe? What if she, poor, lonely, unprotected creature, had taken her life, here, under my roof, where, instead of suspicion and injustice, she should of all places have found seclusion, confidence and the kindest of care? We send missionaries to the heathen; shall we not minister to our own?

I groped my way cautiously in, and now, with the streak of light from the open door, began to see more clearly. I looked, fearful of looking, towards the bed. No, she had not left me. Her slight body was there. Was her spirit there also? She was pale and still; a white cloth lay across her eyes and brow. My dress made a slight rustling sound. How glad I was to hear her voice say, weak though it was:—

"What is it?"

The odors in the room were nauseating. I ran to the window and raised the sash, and let some of God's mild summer breeze and shining sun into the room. She cried out at this and clasped her hands over her eyes.

"Oh! Oh!" she said. "I cannot bear it!" I wondered what it was she could not bear, whether the sunshine or her thoughts.

"What is it?" I cried. "What have you taken? What is this dreadful odor? Are you ill? Amaranthe! little Amaranthe! are you ill?" She wearily dragged the cloth from her forehead, and opened her eyes stupidly.

"What was it," she muttered, "that they gave me—those—those—men? It made me stupid, sleepy. The room is full of it. Ah!"—she snuffed at the fresh, sweet air—"how good!"

I stooped and picked up a handkerchief that had fallen by the bedside. It was a man's handkerchief of goodly size. It still held the nauseating fumes, though lifeless, of that deadly, stupefying medium, ether. I could not mistake it. I had been obliged by the doctors to use it too often in the judge's last illness.

"You poor child!" I said, bending over her, my tears raining down fast upon the counterpane. "How could I have distrusted you? So you were the victim—sinned against, not sinning. My poor little Amaranthe!"

She smiled stupidly and nestled down on the pillow, my hand underneath her cheek.

"How was it that I heard voices in your room last night?" I asked. "How was it?"

"I cannot tell you." She smiled again, and opened her blue eyes a little way, looking into mine, but closing them almost at once, as if the light hurt them.

"But you must know, dear child. It was before you came out into the hall."

"Not in my room," she said, "perhaps in—in—there," she weakly motioned towards Mr. Beldon's chamber.

"But I heard them. I was at your door. I heard them myself."

"You were listening at my door?" This she said with much of her ordinary spirit. "You were——" and then, seeing, perhaps, a look of surprise in my face, she broke down, crying: "Oh, dear Wibby! Dear, dear Wibby! I will tell you all, all the hateful truth. I had hoped for dear daddy's sake that I might be spared it, but I will—I will." Here she drew herself upward in the bed, caught my hand, and held it close over her eyes with both of hers. "Don't make me say more than I must, dear Wibby, don't! I loved dear daddy, I loved him so!" Here she fell to sobbing again, and I cried with her, not knowing why. After a while she lay quiet, but still sobbing slowly and wearily. "Now listen," she said—"listen! I was talking. There was a man in my room last night. Yes, Wibby, a man, here in my room."

"I knew it," said I. "I heard him talking. I saw him go in."

"You saw him come in?"

"Yes, through the window."

"And where were you, may I ask?"

She eyed me with a cold scrutiny that had little in it of the child Amaranthe.

I then gave her the history of my wretched night, and of my leaning out of the parlor window, and of what I saw, of what I had heard.

"It is all true," said she, and sighed. "Oh dear, dear me! Poor me! I thought that I had found a place at last where they would not pursue me, but no place is secret enough. Now, dear Wibby, I am going to make a clean breast of it, as daddy used to say." I drew a chair to the side of the bed, and sat there looking into her wan face.

"Don't look at me, Wibby dear, don't! I can't bear it! Turn your eyes away. There! that is better! Now listen! I shall make it as short as possible, for it is a hateful story."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

The Annual Reunion Brings Crowds to Washington.

DEDICATION OF CAMP ROOSEVELT.

Speeches by Secretary Hay, Commander In Chief Torrance and Others—Old Times Revived at the Campfires.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The ceremonies incident to the beginning of the thirty-sixth encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which commenced here yesterday, were varied in character and mostly only semiofficial.

The events of the day outside the dedication ceremonies at Camp Roosevelt included a fine regatta on the Potomac, an attractive automobile parade, an interesting procession by the Red Men of this city and neighboring cities and campfires in the evening. Commander In Chief Torrance and his staff kept open house all day at the Ebbitt House and received many hundreds of callers.

Many trainloads of people have arrived, and it is now quite certain that the anticipations of an exceptionally large attendance will be realized.

Camp Roosevelt, which is to be the headquarters of the various army corps represented here during the week of the Grand Army encampment, was formally dedicated at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The camp is on the White lot, just west of the White House and between that building and the Washington monument. It is a beautiful green sward, located near the heart of the city, and also is otherwise well adapted to the purpose to which it is to be put.

The proceedings were begun promptly at the time specified. Colonel John McElroy, chairman of the reunion committee, called the meeting to order and summoned Mr. Warner to the stand. After a brief invocation by the Rev. W. G. Davenport Mr. Warner introduced the Hon. Henry B. F. Macfarland, one of the District commissioners. Before doing so, however, Mr. Warner spoke a few words of welcome of his own. Referring to the beautiful weather, he said that the genial sunshine was typical of the hospitality extended to the old soldiers by the people of the national capital.

Mr. Macfarland took his seat in the midst of a generous round of applause, which was renewed and redoubled when the Hon. John Hay, secretary of state, rose to speak for the president. Mr. Hay read his speech from manuscript, but he spoke so distinctly that his words were plainly audible to all the vast number present. He was applauded at frequent intervals as he proceeded.

When the cheers which succeeded Mr. Hay's speech had subsided, General Ell Torrance, commander in chief of the Grand Army, was introduced to respond to the words of welcome. He spoke warmly in appreciatfon of the reception given himself and his comrades, which had been, he said, all that they could expect.

Secretary Moody was next introduced. He spoke for Secretary Root, who was detained by official business. Mr. Moody expressed regret that the shallowness of the Potomac had prevented the bringing of some of the specimens of the new navy to Washington for the inspection of the old soldiers.

Governor Bliss of Michigan spoke very briefly. Mr. B. F. Bingham, commander of the department of the Potomac, delivered the welcoming address on behalf of the local Grand Army and was followed by a few words of thanks to all by Colonel McElroy for their assistance in rendering the occasion so marked a success.

A fine specimen of the national colors then was unfurled from a tall pole surmounting the platform, and with the firing of a national salute of twenty-one guns the exercises closed.

Five thousand veterans and their friends last night gathered in Convention hall and participated in the campfire of the thirty-sixth encampment of the G. A. R. The hall was decorated entirely with American flags.

The principal address of the evening was by General Ell Torrance, commander in chief of the G. A. R., who congratulated those present on the happiness of the hour and the unity of hearts.

Carriages Instead of Bayonets.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7.—The Grand Army club of Massachusetts, many members of which took part in the historical march through Baltimore in April, 1861, were met at the railroad station by the Maryland Grand Army with carriages instead of bayonets. The Marylanders are entertaining the New Englanders with trolley rides and banquets instead of brickbats during their stay in the Monumental City.

President Invited to Hunt Moose.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 7.—Frank H. Kratka, mayor of Thief River Falls, Minn., has sent President Roosevelt an invitation to hunt moose in northern Minnesota for ten days, beginning Nov. 12. The invitation was burnt on birch bark and was accompanied by a special hunter's license, also on bark, for which the president, if he accepts, must pay $25, like any other nonresident hunter. The party is to include Senators Clapp and Nelson, Governor Van Sant and Congressmen Fletcher and Morris.

President Doing Well.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The president is reported to be doing very well. It is confidently expected that he will be able to carry out his hope of riding along a portion of the parade route tomorrow to review a part at least of the Grand Army.

blyman Newcorn in persuading the Legislature to provide a bill giving first class cities the privilege of pensioning its disabled firemen. He also referred in a congratulatory way to Chief Doane's work on the Babcock building when it threatened the heart of the city.

Mr. Mumford was answered by Councilmen Lee and Coriell who defined the standing of the council in regard to an East End fire house and the matter of providing for disabled members of the department and by Assemblyman Newcorn who favored the bill.

Among the old exempts at the gathering were J. M. C. Smith, of Dunellen, who is eighty-six years old and the oldest Plainfield exempt, Richard Barkalew, of Newark, who wore one of the original Gazelle badges, of which only a few are known to be preserved, Former Postmaster Wallace Vail and I. D. Ten-Eyck.

The committee having in charge the entire affair and to whom credit is due for its unqualified success consisted of B. A. Mumford, chairman, D. W. Littell, E. A. Laine, L. E. Barkalew, J. E. Flannery, Alex Titsworth and W. A. Woodruff.

Mrs. H. C. McVoy and daughter Blanche, of Westervelt avenue, left today for Troy, N. Y., to remain an indefinite period.

of Mr. Gayle's property, in which he offered to relinquish his claim, provided the city would pay him back the amount of expense he was under in securing the property. This amounted to $31.27. The petitions were referred to the proper committee for adjustment.

City Judge Wm. N. Runyon's third quarterly report showed that he had disposed of 174 cases, of which number thirty-four were fined, 118 sentence suspended, twenty were committed, one was dismissed and one was put under bonds. The sum of $157 was received from fines, while the expenses to this department amounted to $23.95. The balance, $136.05, was turned over to the city treasurer.

Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of eighteen permits during August and twenty during September.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution apportioning to the several funds the excess amount from the proceeds of the Martin Act sales of property. He also offered another resolution which provided for the borrowing of $7,000 on account of the fire fund.

Mr. Tolles stated in reply to the petition for flagging on Dunellen avenue that the stone had been ordered and would soon be laid. He also reported that the public drinking fountain had been removed to West Eighth street and is now in operation. A resolution by Mr. Tolles provided for the laying of sidewalks in certain streets in the West End, where the property owners have failed to comply with the city ordinance. The city will now lay the walks and effect a lien on the property for the payment of the work.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution which provided for the appropriation of $150 for the purchase of winter clothing and helmets for the police, and Mr. Daniel moved that the petition of H. Osmun for an electic light on Evona avenue, near Hunter avenue, be granted. The light will be placed in position soon.

This finished the business of the evening and the Council adjourned.

THEATRICAL.

An audience, which crowded the Central Theatre to the doors, last evening, witnessed one of the best vaudeville bills seen in the city for a long time. There were six big acts and these will all be changed entirely by new performers Thursday evening.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Joseph Loughead, a former resident of this city, but now of Philadelphia, is spending a few days in town with friends.

Mrs. T. C. Smith and daughter, Miss Ernestine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, are spending a few days in Washington.

The home of Otto Moore, of West Third street, has been quarantined owing to the outbreak of diphtheria in his family.

J. Whitney Baker, of Princeton University, spent Sunday at his home in Stelle avenue. This was his first visit home since last spring.

Mrs. Perkins, nee Miss Bessie Ginna, of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ginna, of Watchung avenue.

J. B. Mills, of this city, left today for Washington, where he will remain until Friday. He desires The Press to state that he went alone.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers, of Central avenue, and F. J. Hubbard, of West Fifth street, are at Shiloh, N. J., attending the funeral of Mrs. Gardner, wife of President Gardner, of Salem College.

Charles B. Brown, one of the assistant State secretaries of the Y. M. C. A., is visiting in Plainfield for a short time. He will probably arrange to give an interesting talk on Cuba, telling of his recent visit to the island.

TONIGHT'S CONCERT.

"Il Trovatore" Will be the Operatic Selection Sung.

"Ll Travatore" will be the operatic selection sung by Giannini's Royal Marine Band of Italy and Opera Company at the Casino tonight, in addition to a prorgamme of instrumental music which cannot fail to please. The organization is composed of over fifty members, including the band and opera company, headed by Sig. Giannini who is a vocalist of high repute. The opera will be given with strict attention to costume details and full orchestral accompaniment. Reserved seats can be secured at Armstrong's pharmacy up to 6 o'clock this evening and afterwards at Casino box office.

P. Miller and Plantatation Darkies.

Polk Miller is announced as a coming attraction at Y. M. C. A. Hall, October 14. Mr. Miller is well known all over this country as a clever impersonater of the negro, and on this tour he brings with him the living subjects of his humor, having surrounded himself with a number of the old time "cullud folks" from the plantation and tobacco factories. They have all been selected with an eye to their ability to sing and dance and it is said by those who have witnessed them that they are truly wonderful in this line. Mr. Miller's offering is unique in its way and never fails to bring peals of laughter from the audience. It is claimed that his imitations are better than the real beings. The whole entertainment is one of mirth and melody and radically different from the usual offerings to amunsement goers.

Dentist Moves Here.

Dr. David J. Atwood, the dentist, formerly of this city, but late of San Francisco, accompanied by his mother, has returned to Plainfield and taken up his residence at the corner of Central avenue and West Sixth street. He and his mother have been stopping for a time with his brother-in-law, William M. Stillman, of West Seventh street. Dr. Atwood intends engaging in his profession in this city.

Repairing East Front Street.

The work of spreading crushed stone on East Front street, west of Leland avenue, has been started and the road will be repaired. Notice has been given the property owners on the street to enlarge the culverts under their driveways.

Doing Good Work.

The public drinking fountain is now located on West Eighth street, near the city park, where it is doing good work for animals as well as thirsty humanity.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

OCTOBER TERM OF COURT COMMENCED YESTERDAY

Judge VanSyckel Asked the Jurors to Investigate Recent Elizabeth River Wreck.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS

DECLARED THOSE RESPONSIBLE OUGHT TO BE HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Many Prominent Visitors Present—The Jail List Numbers Twenty-Two—Names of the Petit and Grand Jurors From Plainfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 8—At the opening of the October term of court at Elizabeth, yesterday, Justice VanSyckel, called the attention of the grand jurors to one particular case, that in reference to the accident on the Perth Amboy and Long Branch Railroad, known as the Elizabeth river accident, which resulted in two lives being lost. He said that it was due to carelessness and inexcusable negligence of the train crew, and if this was shown to their satisfaction it would be their duty to return a verdict of manslaughter against those shown to be responsible. Patrick Mansfield, of Plainfield, was one of the victims.

Justice VanSyckel called and set down for trial the cases appearing in the supreme and circuit court lists. A number of cases were reported settled or off for the term. The Justice announced that owing to official business at Trenton this week, he would not be in Elizabeth again until next Monday, on which day the trial of William Kessler, for the murder of Frederick Linder, of Bayonne, will take place.

The attendance at court yesterday was large, all sections of the county being well represented. Prominent among the visitors were Senator Chas. A. Reed, Senator Cross and Howard McSherry, the latter from New Brunswick. The present jail list numbers 22, as follows: Murder, 1; attempt to kill, 1; threaten to kill, 1; breaking and entering, 4; larceny and receiving, 2; assault and rape, 1; larceny, 4; assault and battery, 4; arson, 1; forgery, 1; embezzlement, 2.

The petit jurors from Plainfield include John Neagle, U. B. Crane, Alex. D. Ayers, Hezekiah Hand and Nathan R. Titsworth. The grand jurors are Gen. Wm. H. Stirling, Henry Leifke, Jan. vanHerwerden and J. J. Kenney.

FOWLER IN MORRIS.

Congressman is Conducting His Campaign There Now.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, Oct. 8—Morris county will be the scene of Congressman Fowler's political activity this and next week. This week's initiatory provides for no public speaking. It will be devoted almost exclusively to visits among political friends. Next week, however, there will be plenty of spellbinding and Mr. Fowler will speak as follows: Boonton, Monday; Butler, Tuesday; Madison, Wednesday; Windham, Friday; and at Dover and Port Oram on Saturday.

SUPERINTENDENTS RENAMED.

At Meeting of State Board of Education Held Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, October 8—At the session of the State Board of Education held yesterday afternoon, Brewster Willis, of Middlesex, and Aaron W. Hand, of Somerset county, were renamed as county superintendents. Bids for the projected colored industrial school at Bordentown were opened and referred to a committee. All were above the stipulated appropriation.

Its First Concert.

The male quartette of the First Presbyterian church will give its first private concert Tuesday evening, October 21, at 8:15 o'clock in the church The quartette will be assisted by Miss Mary A. Luckey, reader; Miss Etta M. Raybert, soprano, and Howard T. Lewis, bass. A silver offering will be received. Admission will be by ticket.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Eleanor Taylor, of this city, to Charles Redd, of Bayonne. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the groom's parents at Bayonne on the evening of October 19.

—Lovers of grapes will find a large variety at Neuman Brothers. They have Tokas and Muscats, Magaras, Concords and Delawares.

ANOTHER ORDER.

Plans to Organize Local Council of Order of Americus.

James B. Braithwaite, of Newark, is in the city for the purpose of organizing here a local Council of the Order of Americus. It is said that this order is one of the leading fraternal societies of Pennsylvania. It has councils all through the northwest and on the Pacific coast. There are two lodges of the order in New Jersey, one in Newark and one in East Orange. Both have a large membership and are in a flourishing condition.

A FATAL TRAIN WRECK

OCCURRED ON PENNSY ROAD NEAR MENLO PARK THIS MORNING.

One Man Killed and Many Injured—A Rear End Collision—The Road Blocked.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Metuchen, October 8—One man, as yet unidentified, was killed and twelve others received severe injuries in a rear end collision which occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad near Menlo Park at 9:30 this morning. A special hospital train was hurried from Jersey City and the wounded, who were first attended by Metuchen physicians, were taken to the former place. Three tracks of the road are still blocked.

The trains involved in the wreck were the famous Southern express, which was three hours late, and the Philadelphia express. The former stopped on a steep grade to cool a hot box and the other, which was but a short distance behind, was unable to stop its speed owing to the hill and crashed into it at almost full force.

An ordinary day coach, between two Pullman cars, on the Southern train, was crushed like an eggshell and the occupants were thrown in all directions. A mail car in the rear was telescoped and afterward reduced to kindling wood. Another car was forced on top of the Philadelphia engine where it still remains. Several wrecking crews are engaged in clearing the tracks but they will not be open until late this afternoon.

The body of the killed man was identified this afternoon. He was Cortley Schulthes, aged 20 years, who is the son of the baggagemaster on the train in which he was a passenger. He was in the last car and was crushed to death.

FREE WOOD.

S. D. Drake Hears From His Offers to Supply Several Cities With Free Fuel.

A very kind letter was received yesterday by Mayor S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, from Mayor Katzenbach, of Trenton, in which the latter on behalf of the people of Trenton thanked Mr. Drake for his very generous offer of five acres of woodland to be used as fuel. A committee will be appointed at once by the Common Council of Trenton and provision made for cutting the wood.

The people of Lincoln are well provided with wood for the winter, and at last evening's session of the Bound Brook Council, Mr. Drake's offer to furnish the people of that place with plenty of first-class hard wood, was accepted. Soon after Mr. Drake made these several offers he was approached by coal and wood dealers who offered to buy the wood. Dealers in Plainfiled also offered to buy the wood he has offered this city, but Mr. Drake told every dealer that they did not have enough money to buy the wood.

He proposes to give the people the benefit of this wood and is determined that there shall be no monopoly of it.

HONOR LIST.

Announced at Concert at St. Mary's School Friday Afternoon.

The concert given in St. Mary's School, Friday afternoon, seems to have proved quite an incentive for punctuality on the part of pupils. They are to be given every month and at each one, as at Friday's, medals will be given for regular attendance, sewing, deportment and industry.

Father Egan presided at Friday's entertainment and there was singing and recitations. These were placed on the honor list: Mary Kiely, John Kyle, Margaret Lutz, Catherine Barry, Leo Hillman, Christine McEachen, Mary McCarthy, Catherine Galbraith and Catherine Harding.

Disposal Beds Pleased Him.

Street Commissioner Gavett had as a visitor, yesterday, the secretary of the Passaic Valley Drainage Commission, who made a tour of the city disposal beds. This morning the official telephoned Mr. Gavett they were the best he had ever seen.

AFTER MORE CHANGE FOR FIRST OFFENDERS

Committee on Juvenile Delinquency Met and Organized at Elizabeth Last Week.

SUBJECTS OF DISCUSSION

WANT TO SEPARATE ACCUSED CHILDREN FROM HARDENED CRIMINALS.

Committee Appointed by New Jersey Conference of Charities and Corrections—Suggestions as to Present School Laws.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, October 8—A committee on juvenile delinquency, appointed last winter by the New Jersey conference of Charities and Corrections, met and organized Friday afternoon in Elizabeth at the home of Mrs. E. E. Williamson, president of the conference. Eighteen committee members and officers of the conference were present.

Committees for the ensuing year were appointed and the work in general talked over. Howell S. Stull, of Trenton, trustee of the State Home for Girls, was elected permanent chairman, and Dr. William H. Allen, of Orange, was named as secretary.

Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, made an address on the necessity of a separate court, or a separate session of the regular court, for juvenile prisoners. He also said that there should be a separate place for the detention of minor prisoners, and for first offenders. Mr. Stull drew attention to the same needs in the police courts as they are conducted at present. He spoke of the Rhode Island system, where separate sessions of courts are held for young criminals. A State home is also provided for their detention, he said.

Mrs. Williamson, who is a probation officer of Union county, told of her experiences in looking after boy offenders, and she said in her opinion those who had been arrested for the first time should not be placed in the same place of detention as the older and hardened criminals.

Rev. Father Thomas J. Moran, of the Arlington Protectory for Boys, who has had considerable experience with wayward juveniles, said that he had found two causes to blame for their errors, the first usually the parent, and the second the law.

Irresponsible parents were inclined to shirk the responsibility when they found their children getting beyond their control, Father Moran added, and there seemed to be no law by which a parent desiring to shift the responsibility on city or State institutions could be compelled to contribute to the support of their children. Such a law, in the opinion of Father Moran, would tend to discourage the wholesale shirking of responsibility on the part of some parents, who were willing that their offspring should be sent to the same house of correction, if thereby the parent had no further trouble.

A. W. Abbott, agent of the Children's Aid and Protective Society of Orange, told of the methods employed in the court of Police Judge Bray, of that city. Two hours every Saturday morning were set aside there, Mr. Abbott said, for the trial of juveniles. Previous to the trials the probation officer made his report of the case as he had investigated, and the parents of the prisoners were also summoned to court.

A resolution was adopted requesting the committee on programme of the next New Jersey conference to have a paper read by some authority on "Children's Playgrounds."

It was decided to have the chairman appoint soon a committee to recommend a plan for the separation in places of detention of children accused of crimes and those held as witnesses, and also a committee to agitate for legislation to obtain separate trials for juvenile offenders.

Dr. William H. Allen was appointed a committee of one to prepare a directory of the children's care agencies of the State, and H. M. Maxson, of Plainfield, was named as a committee of one to suggest if he thought any amendments to the present truancy and compulsory education laws were necessary.

A committee to arrange for the publication of the criminal laws relating to children was appointed, as follows: Howell S. Stull, A. W. McDougall, Miss Mary Philbrook, Seymour H. Stone, A. W. Abbott, Rev. Father Foy and Dr. William H. Allen.

DRAKE FOUND NOT GUILTY

Alleged Assailant of Edward Korman Was Discharged After All Day Trial.

JURY OUT 5 MINUTES

Indictment Was for Atrocious Assault and Battery—Verdict Was a Great Surprise—Case for the Defense Was Handled by William G. DeMeza.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 8—The indictment against Charles Drake, of North Plainfield, for atrocious assault and battery on Edward Korman was tried before Judge Schenck in the Grand Jury room yesterday. The case took all day and the jury was out only five minutes, when it returned with a verdict of not guilty. This was a big surprise even to the counsel for the defense, William G. DeMeza, of Plainfield. The defense was self defense. Prosecutor Griggs was assisted by Samuel S. Swackhamer, of Plainfield, in handling the case for the State.

Korman is a hack driver in North Plainfield. There was a dispute between Korman and Drake. The former, it seems, had been talking about the latter's family. On the night of July 11 Korman went to his stable, put up his horse and started for home. He went on a path across two lots. He alleged that while on his way he heard someone behind him, glanced around and was struck and became unconscious. Some one found him and he was taken home. The next day he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital and there he was obliged to remain until the 18th.

There was a club found near by where Korman lay and he was found face downwards with a wound in the back of his head. From the effects of this the physicians said he got concussion of the brain.

Drake testified that he met Korman at the place where he was found and asked him what he was talking about his family for. Korman, he alleged, called him a vile name and struck him in the breast. At this Drake struck Korman, he said, in the mouth, knocking him down and causing him to strike the ground so heavily that, if concussion of the brain did ensue, it resulted from the wound Korman received as he fell to the ground.

As Korman's reputation was assailed in the testimony and Drake was given quite a good history, one of the jurors said this was taken into consideration by that body.

The verdict was a suprise to everybody, as it was expected that Drake would be convicted.

The defendant's side of the case was handled alone by William G. DeMeza, of Plainfield, and he was congratulated on the issue after the trial. Nothing was offered to rebut the testimony of any of his witnesses and he was sustanied in nearly all of his objections. The witnesses sworn were Dr. A. Pittis, Edward Korman, Herman Klinsman and Miss Feiring, for the State, and Owen Gavin, Jacob Kliner and Charles Drake for the defense. All of the parties reside in North Plainfield.

DEALERS ORGANIZE.

A New Ice Company Formed by Local Ice Dealers.

The Natural Ice Company, of Plainfield, has filed a certificate of incorporation in the office of the county clerk. The incorporators are Peter J. McDonough, Cormick McDonough, Andrew H. Wilson, Harry H. Coddington, Patrick McDonough, John P. McDonough and William H. Titus. The office of the company is at 222 Madison avenue.

The company is organized to harvest, buy, manufacture, sell and do a general ice business, wholesale and retail. The capital stock is $50,000, divided into 500 shares at $100 each.

New Night Man.

Joseph F. Berg, Jr., has secured the position of night ticket agent at the new railroad station, taking the place of Edward Tomlinson, who has secured the day job at the North Avenue station. The new change goes into effect this week.

Robert Jeffery, of Grandview avenue, has returned to New York University after spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Jeffery.

HOPE Y. M. A. TO CONTINUE ATHLETICS

Plans for Association Football and Basket Ball Teams Made at Meeting Last Evening.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

PREPARATIONS MADE TO BANQUET BASEBALL TEAM.

Much Business Transacted by the Hustling West End Organization—Fourteen Applications Were Received for Membership.

Plans for a continuance of athletic sports both indoors and out, were made at last evening's regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., which supported one of the strongest baseball teams in the recent City League. From the members of the organization, an association football team and a basket ball team are to be formed and commence active work as soon as possible.

When the subject of placing a basket ball team in the contemplated local league, was broached, the association received it enthusiastically and at once made preparations to be represented. John H. Cose was selected to be captain and J. Fred Wharton was made manager. The latter will attend the meeting of those interested in the proposed league, to be held Friday evening, and will enter the team. Most of the members who played the game last winter will be among those who will try for places.

Last season the Y. M. A. had an Association football team in the field and as there is excellent material to be selected from the members it was decided to again form an eleven. John Drysdale, who was coach for several of the leading teams on the other side of the Atlantic, was elected captain and George McComb, who has played the game for five years, was made secretary. They were empowered to form the personnel and secure all paraphernalia in order that games might commence before the close of the month. With a little practice it is not at all improbable that an eleven can be placed in the field that will meet all comers.

In connection with the question of athletics it was decided to equip the gymnasium with several new and modern pieces of apparatus in order to meet the demands of the classes that will shortly be resumed. A committee was appointed to secure a German horse, parallel bars and an improved spring board for vaulting purposes.

By a unanimous vote, it was decided to give the members of the Hope baseball team a banquet in recognition of their work on the diamond during the past season. A committee, composed by John H. Cose, J. Fred Wharton and Benjamin Evans, was appointed to arrange all matters. In addition to the team, officials of the nine and several prominent citizens will be invited.

Other business of a routine nature transacted was the receiving of fourteen applications for membership and the reading of the treasurer's report which showed the organization to be in an excellent financial condition. In order to advance the two contemplated teams adjournment was taken for one week.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Large Enough Supply at the City Schools to Last All Winter.

As far as the Plainfield Board of Education is officially concerned the coal strike can continue another six months if it wants to. The public schools of the city will not close on account of any difference between miners and operators, for there is sufficient anthracite on hand to last all winter.

Last June an immense stock of the rare article was laid in at what was then the current price, $5 per ton. Now the bins are all full and, instead of worrying over the situation, the board is spending its time sympathying with educational institutions that are making plans for closing down for an indefinite period.

Missionary Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey will be held Friday afternoon and evening in the North Baptist church, Newark.

Next Sunday's Preacher.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of South Plainfield, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

NO PLACE TO PLAY.

Girls' Athletic Association of High School Would Play Basket Ball.

The basket ball squad of the Girls Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School has been holding regular practises for the past three weeks. The young women have been playing on their grounds back of the Casino, but the approach of cold weather has made it necessary for them to seek some place indoors which they can fit up for basket ball. Although every effort is being made to procure such a place, nothing definite has been accomplished as yet.

THE DEMOCRATS IN SESSION

SOMERSET COUNTY CONVENTION BEGAN AT SOMERVILLE THIS MORNING.

Names Presented for Nomination—To be Balloted on at the Afternoon Session.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 8—The Somerset county Democratic convention began here, this morning, with a full representation from all townships.

The delegates were called to order at 11 o'clock by Chairman Jacob Shurts, of the Democratic County Executive committee. James J. Bergen was elected temporary chairman, and W. H. Howell temporary secretary.

In the committee appointments, W. R. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, was placed on rules, W. J. Conroy, on resolutions, William Demler, on permanent organization and John T. Chase on credentials.

The following names were presented for nominations: For State Senator, S. S. Childs, of Bernards and N. Y. Dungan, of Somerset; for surrogate, William J. Demond, of Bridgewater, A. G. Spencer, of North Plainfield; for Assembly, S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield; Rev. H. D. Opdyke, of Bridgewater.

Adjournment was taken after the presentation of names and they will be balloted on this afternoon.

AFTER OIL STOVES.

Price Has Gone Soaring, But Woodhull & Martin Have Already Laid in Big Stock.

Owing to the lack of coal in Plainfield there has been an unprecedented demand for oil and gas heaters and in same cases the dealers are unable to supply this demand. One large factory at Waterbury from which Woodhull & Martin, of this city, have been getting their supply of oil stoves, it is said, will be closed down soon because there is no coal to operate it. The increase in the price of oil stoves amounts to 90 cents. The first increase was 40 cents and the second 50 cents, and now it is almost impossible to get them at all.

Woodhull & Martin, through their manager, J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of the housefurnishing goods department, placed an order last June for 750 oil stoves of the standard make, and the firm is well provided with stoves There are not many dealers in Plainfield so fixed. Every day there is a demand for the oil stoves, showing that a majority of the people in this city are not provided with a sufficient amount of coal.

RED MEN'S FAIR.

Plans Being Made to Hold Big Affair Early in January.

The Red Men of the city are planning to hold a fair early in January. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Robert E. Humphrey, chairman; Charles Holstein, secretary; Mrs. I. H. Boehm, treasurer. Mrs. Weigman and Mrs. Boehm have been appointed a committee to secure a hall. R. E. Humphrey, W. A. Westphal and Harry Coddington will represent Wetumpkah Tribe; William Newcorn, L. Singer and Charles Holstein will repreent Miantonomo Tribe, while Mrs. I. H. Boehm, Miss Daisy Snyder and Mrs. Weigman will resprent Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas.

Captain Browning Reinstated.

Dr. W. K. Browning, who was recently relieved from the captaincy of Company K pending charges, has been officially reinstated. His bill for transportation, which led to the trouble in the first instance, was found to be correct and he was placed fully in command of the organization Friday.

Store Closed Next Saturday.

S. Scheuer & Company will close their store all day next Saturday, October 11. Open at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. 10 7 4

Mrs. Howard E. Bennett, of East Third street, has returned from Trenton, where she attended the State Council session of the Daughters of America.

PRESS MEDAL OFFERED FOR SCHOLASTIC MEET

City High School Will Hold Closed Meet to Decide All-Round Championship.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

ALL DETAILS OF THE MEET LEFT FOR COMMITTEE TO DECIDE.

It Will be Held in the Course of Two or Three Weeks, Probably at the Plainfield Driving Club's Track—Press' Offer of Medal Accepted.

With no football eleven to interfere, the boys of the City High School will soon hold a closed field meet, after the custom of a few years ago, and decide the all-round championship for The Daily Press medal. Plans for the meet were made at a meeting of the board of directors held at the close of school yesterday.

A committee, composed of Herbert Monroe, Robert W. Meeker and Carl Ulrich, was appointed to make all the arrangements for the meet and hold it at as early a date as possible. In informally discussing the project at the meeting, it was thought that the meet could be arranged for some afternoon in the course of two or three weeks. It will be open only to the High School boys. The events, which will be arranged by the committee, will be the usual scholastic events.

The Daily Press medal was first offered in the fall of 1894, when it was won by Edgar I. Serrell. It was given for the all-round championship of the High School at a closed meet. It was last offered in 1900 and won by Peter Ughetta, of Roselle. There was no High School meet last year. The offer of The Daily Press to put up the medal again this year was accepted with thanks.

A meeting of the committee will be held at once when plans will be made for the meet and a date set. It is expected that it will be held at the track of the Plainfield Driving Park if it can be secured.

W. C. T. U.'S MEETING.

Annual Convention of the State Organization Now Being Hled at Cape May—Ends Friday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cape May, October 8—The twenty-ninth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey, began here, yesterday, in the First Presbyterian church, of this city. It will continue until Friday inclusive. Addresses and reports occupied the greater part of the opening session.

The State Union will act upon a resolution dealing with the coal strike which was adopted by the Essex county W. C. T. U., last week. The resolution urges the State body to frame a petition to be sent to President Baer, who is acting for the coal operators, asking him to use his efforts in terminating the strike.

SPEAKERS NAMED.

PAY FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

E. M. R. WRITES ON THE NEED OF INCREASING THEM.

Says Salaries Paid in Plainfield Are Inadequate—The Reasons Why.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Two very important subjects have been presented to the consideration of the inhabitants of Plainfield—one suggested by his Honor, Mayor Jenkins, who advised the cutting down and chopping up of many of the trees, for the benefit of the health of the city, and for the benefit of the lawns—the other in Mr. Love's plea for the teachers of the public school. The scarcity of fuel, it may be thought, will help on the Mayor's suggestion, for it can hardly be supposed that the owners of trees, that are positively injurious to the houses, which they keep in perpetual shade and to the lawn, under which their roots run, exhausting the soil, and kiling the grass, would allow them to stand and continue their destructive work, while they and their children were shivering with cold and there was no fire in the stove to cook the dinner. Dr. Stillman, twenty or more years ago, while Mayor of the city, saw then the great danger of the increasing denseness of the shade in some of the streets and set to work thinning out the trees. It was not long before he encountered an obstacle, in the shape of an injunction, which was obtained by a man, who valued his shade trees more than his health. And so the good and wise doctor was stopped in his benevolent work and the trees went on growing and spreading for twenty years longer, and now Dr. Jenkins utters the same warning, and hopes that the high price of wood and the entire lack of coal will add emphasis to the warning. But the sound of the woodman's axe has not been heard as yet.

And how stands the case of the other suggested subject—the miserably inadequate salaries of the teachers. There seems to be no question as to the smallness of the compensation that is given them, when compared with the work they do, or as to the mistaken policy in making such a wretched return for the valuable work that is done.

In his last report Superintendent Maxson says "We have been fortunate in being able to secure and retain so many good teachers at the salaries we pay. This year we have had an unusual number of changes, nearly one-fifth of our teachers having resigned, many of them to accept better salaries elsewhere." It cannot be wondered at that they do resign, when the average salary in 1900 was $571, and the highest—that of a woman teacher in the High School—is $850 for such work as in Bloomfield and Montclair is paid is $1,000 and $1,100. Why this difference? Are little Montclair and Bloomfield so much better able to pay decent salaries to their teachers than Plainfield?

There can be no doubt that Mr. Maxson sees and feels the injustice of the present rate of Plainfield salaries and would be glad to see it raised. Talking, some years ago, with a clerical member of the Board of Education, he told me the Board would be most happy to increase the salaries, if they had the money. Where then is the remedy for this generally admitted wrong?

It seems to a non-business man that it would not be impossible, while arranging for the erection of a new schoolhouse, which is greatly needed to accommodate the increasing number of pupils, to add to the appropriation a comparatively small sum out of which an addition could be made to the salary of each teacher. There are seventy-two teachers, and $3,100 would add $50 to each salary, or as it would be better, $7,200 would add $100 to each of them and be nearer to what is just. E. W. R.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

HARD TIMES IN HAWAII.

Senate Committee Found Great Depression in the Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—United States Senators Burton, Foster and Mitchell have returned from the Hawaiian Islands, where they have been on a tour of investigation as a subcommittee of the senate committee on Pacific islands and Porto Rico. Speaking of the work of the subcommittee, Senator Mitchell said:

"We spent twenty-two working days in the Hawaiian Islands, twenty of which, including also many night sittings, were occupied in taking testimony bearing upon the several subjects committed to us for investigation.

"We visited four of the principal islands of the territory—Oahu, Hawaii, Maui and Molokai; also the cities of Honolulu, Hilo, Lahaina, Mountain View and several smaller towns and took the testimony of several hundred individual witnesses of all classes, some at all of these different places.

"Contrary to the conditions of great commercial and business prosperity now prevailing on the mainland, throughout the United States, we regret to be compelled to say that we found the islands in a state of very great commercial and industrial depression, caused, it is generally claimed, by the low price of sugar and scarcity and high price of labor."

Vanderbilt Estate Must Pay.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 8.—As a result of a decision by the court of appeals the estate of Cornelius Vanderbilt must pay an additional transfer tax amounting to $118,000. The Vanderbilt estate contended that under the law no tax could be imposed on a trust fund created by the will of Cornelius Vanderbilt. This contention was upheld by the lower courts. In the decision just made the highest court rules, Judge Haight writing the prevailing opinion, that "the transfer tax still remains a tax upon succession. Each trust estate created is to be separately appraised and the tax determined according to the percentage fixed by the statute for those who are contingently entitled to the estate, and when fixed the tax is forthwith payable out of the trust estate."

Ladrones on the Warpath.

MANILA, Oct. 8.—General Jesse M. Lee telegraphs from Tacloban, island of Leyte, that ladrones have twice attacked the town of Carigara, province of Leyte, where they killed a number of native constabulary and levied contributions. The population of Carigara withdrew to the mountains. Ladrones have been active recently in several parts of the islands. Governor Taft is going to Cavite shortly for the purpose of meeting the municipal presidentes of that province to discuss with them methods for the suppression of ladronism. The municipal police of several towns in Bulucan province, Luzon, have been disarmed, and a system of volunteers has been established in their stead.

Nutmeg State Democrats at Odds.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct.—The refusal of the Democratic state convention held in this city recently to indorse the Kansas City platform and William Jennings Bryan has brought a split in the Democratic ranks, and it is now the purpose of the dissatisfied politicians to place an independent ticket in the field. They are to confer with the Economic league for the purpose of agreeing upon candidates, the latter organization also having been turned down by the convention. It is the purpose of the silver men to defeat the regular Democratic ticket at the cost of a Republican victory.

Colombian Affairs.

PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 8.—General Perdomo has been made Colombian minister of state. General Salazar, commander of the Colombian forces on the isthmus, received a telegram yesterday afternoon saying that from Honda to Barranquilla, on the Magdalena river, General Perdomo has 8,000 men in readiness to proceed for the isthmus. It is believed that General Salazar, considering it inadvisable to have these troops concentrated here at the present time, has sent a message to detain them where they are until further notice.

Air Brake Business Profitable.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—At the annual meeting of the Westinghouse Air Brake company held at Wilmerding the report submitted shows: Gross earnings exceeded $8,550,000, an increase of $689,646 over those of the preceding year, while net earnings furnished a gain of $445,949. The net profits totaled $2,928,965, or about $290,000 in excess of the dividends paid, which were at the rate of 24 per cent on the $11,000,000 capital.

Tennessee Postoffice Robbed.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—The postoffice at Sevierville, Tenn., near here, has been robbed. The burglars secured $200 in cash, $600 in stamps and about 400 blank money orders. There is no clew.

WILL NOT GO TO WORK

Strikers Generally Against President's Proposition.

SOME CONCESSIONS MUST BE MADE.

A Wide Difference of Opinion as to the Result of Governor Stone's Action In Calling Out More Troops.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 8.—The two principal features of the anthracite coal strike which claim public attention in the coalfields are, Will the miners yield to the desire of the president of the United States for them to return to work and investigate afterward and will the mine operators be able to carry out their promise to produce enough coal to relieve the situation if given the protection of the full military power of the state? After a most careful inquiry among the district officers and the rank and file of mine workers it is found that sentiment is strongly against the president's proposition in its present form. As to the other feature of the situation as it exists opinion is divided and will remain so until the real test comes.

When the president's message to Mr. Mitchell became known here, it was earnestly discussed by the striking miners and citizens generally.

An officer of the union now in the city, who does not care to be quoted in the absence of President Mitchell for fear that it would be construed as being official, said:

"The anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania appreciate the efforts being made by President Roosevelt to end the strike in the interest of the entire country, and they have only words of praise for him. However, they say that after sacrificing everything for the last five months they consider it unfair for any one to ask them to return to work without a single concession, especially when the miners see victory almost at hand. The hard coal diggers of Pennsylvania have gone into the fight to win, and they would not be doing justice to themselves or to the great body of organized workmen throughout the country and other persons who have and are financially assisting them in the present struggle."

This is the tenor of the remarks of most of the mine workers in the region. In connection with this 2,500 striking mine workers of the Prospect, Oakdale and Midvale collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company met in this city, and it was announced after the meeting that they had unanimously decided to remain on strike until they get some concessions.

A tremendous interest is manifested in the effect the presence of the entire division of the national guard will have on the strike. There is a wide difference of opinion as the probable effect. Coal company officials welcome the soldiers and say that prospects are bright for the resumption of mining under the protection of the military. The strikers received the news in a matter of fact way and, in line with the comment of their national and district leaders, say the presence of the soldiers will have no effect on the strike. Citizens outside of the controversy are also divided in their opinion. There is one noticeable thing, and that is the strikers show a firmer stand than they did before Governor Stone acted.

Action Against Coal Roads.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Counsel for Frank H. Thompson, a citizen of this commonwealth, filed today in the United States circuit court a bill in equity against the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad and the New York, Ontario and Western railroad. The bill charges these companies with having formed an illegal combination for the purpose of fixing the price of coal and controlling the coal market and asks the court to declare such combination illegal and to restrain and prohibit the respondents from meeting together for the purpose of fixing the rate at which coal shall be sold. Application was also made in behalf of Mr. Thompson to the attorney general of the state for a revocation of the charter of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company for alleged violation of the state constitution.

President's Message to Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The following statement of the president's plans has been made public at the White House:

"On Monday, Oct. 6, Hon. Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, went to Philadelphia and gave to Mr. John Mitchell the following from the president:

"'If Mr. Mitchell will secure the immediate return to work of the miners in the anthracite regions, the president will at once appoint a commission to investigate theoretically into all the matter at issue between the operators and miners and will do all within his power to obtain a settlement of those questions in accordance with the report of the commission.'"

Stone Had No Help.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—Governor Stone in response to questions said that there had been no communication between President Roosevelt and himself concerning the coal strike, that it was deemed necessary at the military council to send the entire division of the national guard to the anthracite region and, in the performance of what was believed to be a plain public duty, its political effect was not considered.

A FAINT RAY OF HOPE

Manufacturers Meet Strike Leader at Buffalo.

VAST INTERESTS ARE REPRESENTED.

Conference Secret, but Participants Express Satisfaction and Arrange For Meeting With Operators In Philadelphia Today.

BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—The conference between the committee appointed by the National Manufacturers' association and President Mitchell and his lieutenants held at the Iroquois hotel did not result in any definite plan being agreed upon for the partial resumption of work in the anthracite coalfields, but the members of the manufacturers' committee stated that they were greatly pleased with the progress made. The fact that communication was established with the operators by long distance telephone and an appointment made to meet a committee representing them in Philadelphia today is looked upon as significant, as it had been announced by members of the manufacturers' committee that there existed no understanding with the operators prior to the meeting here and no step in that direction would be taken until the negotiations with President Mitchell reached a stage where such a meeting would promise results.

The following gentlemen represented the manufacturers at the meeting: David M. Parry, president of the Manufacturers' association, of Indianapolis; George H. Barbour of Detroit, Richard Young of New York, Frank Leake of Philadelphia and John Maxwell of Indianapolis. The miners were represented by President Mitchell, Secretary-Treasurer Wilson and District Presidents T. D. Nichols, Thomas Duffy and John Fahy.

The conference was held behind closed doors.

There were two sessions, the first lasting from 9:40 a. m. until 12:45 p. m. and the second from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. The manufacturers arrived early in the day and made arrangements for the comfort and convenience of those participating in the conference. One of the large rooms of the hotel was fitted up with writing material and a long distance telephone was placed in the room.

Mr. Mitchell was appealed to by the manufacturers on the broad grounds of humanity to concede every possible point, so that the country might be saved from the hardships and sufferings incident to a coal famine, which seemed inevitable. It is also stated that a proposition of some kind was submitted to the mine workers, but the terms specified are not obtainable.

In reply Mr. Mitchell pointed out in substance that offers for conciliation already brought forth by those high in authority had been spurned by the operators. He would not place the miners in the position of supplicants for peace. They were willing to abide by the decision of fair arbitrators. As the matter now stood a proposal from the operators was the thing to be expected.

After the meeting President Parry was asked if the conference had resulted in bringing any nearer a solution of the strike question.

"We have great hopes that something definite will be done," he replied.

"How many men are employed in factories represented by the association?"

"There are 1,500 manufacturers, and each employs from 500 to 1,500 men."

Mr. Frank Leake of Philadelphia said, "I am greatly pleased with the result of the conference, and there is a decided feeling of hope among the members of the committee that something will be accomplished before we get through."

Another Colliery to Be Started.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 8.—Announcement is made by the Temple Iron company that enough men have now been secured to make a start of its big Mount Lookout colliery in Wyoming and that operations will be resumed there at once.

Choked to Death by Rare Beef.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 8.—A News and Observer special from Winston Salem says: "While at breakfast here Mr. E. A. Nelson, fifty-three years old, a printer of Columbia, S. C., choked to death on a piece of beefsteak. It was noticed that he was choking, and he was carried into the yard. A physician was summoned, but Nelson died before he reached him."

Treasurer George S. Prince Dead.

YONKERS, N. Y., Oct. 8.—George S. Prince, treasurer of the New York Central railroad, is dead at his residence in this city. He was forty-four years of age, and he had been ill about two weeks. He left a wife, a son and a daughter. Mr. Prince was born at Geneva, N. Y.

Denver Saloons Robbed.

DENVER, Oct. 8.—Two masked men held up and robbed four saloons in as many different sections of the city within an hour and a half and at the last place shot and instantly killed Charles Blykin, who started to run as they made their appearance.

Another Tunnel For London.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Another tube railroad has been projected by an English syndicate. It is purposed to run the new line from the Bank of England to the Marble Arch underneath the existing Central London railway.

Storehouses Burned.

ROANOKE, Ala., Oct. 8.—Five storehouses, and contents were totally destroyed by fire at this place, causing a loss of about $70,000, partially covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

AREA LARGER THAN ANY NEW YORK STORE.

DISPLAY OF REGAL CROWNS

ON EXHIBITION NOW

and continuing until Saturday, October 18th.

In Our Amusement Hall, Second Floor.

IF all the gold and gems that will be on exhibition next Monday at the big store were real, it would take the fortune of an Astor or a Vanderbilt to buy them. It is a collection of fac-simile copies of the crowns of the rulers of the world, and for two weeks we will have them on exhibition for the pleasure and profit of our patrons.

Every crown of note in the world will be there, from the splendid gemmed crown of the German Emperor to the queer but beautiful thing which tops the head of Siam's august ruler.

Every crown is an exact copy. It is precisely like the original in size and color of metal, cutting, color and setting of all the gems. It has taken three years to complete, and though the gold is only plate and the jewels imitation, so elaborate is the work that the collection is valued at $27,000.

It was intended for the St. Louis Exposition, but the postponement for a year enabled the Paris branch of our firm to secure the collection for exhibition at a time when crowns and coronations are of peculiar interest to the world.

In the collection are these insignia of royalty: Italy, Great Britain, the German Emperor, Sweden, Portugal, Russia, Siam, Spain, Holland, Austria and Denmark. Besides these are the crowns worn by Josephine and Napoleon I., the Pope's tiara and sceptre, the orb of England, the iron crown of Lombardy, and the great diamond star of Japan's Mikado.

Most superb of all, and the most valuable in the collection, is the crown of Germany. It is simply a basket work of gems, containing 1,250 diamonds and a sapphire cross in front. Around the border are the imperial eagles. The original is valued at $2,500,000.

Most interesting of all, however, is the replica of the crown which was placed on the head of King Edward VII, in London on August 9. It is of gold, with a cushion of royal purple and a border of ermine. Each rib of the crown is studded with a row of magnificent pearls, while every other point blazes with sapphires, rubbies and diamonds. The top is surmounted by an orb and cross.

The crowns of Holland, Italy and Spain are almost like that of England. There are the same orb and cross and the same rows of pearls. None of the others have the ermine which distinguishes Edward's from all other crowns.

Russia's Czar wears a hugh affair, twice as bulky as England's set with huge rubies and sapphires. Sweden's is conspicuous for its immense pearls, though the crown itself is one of the smallest of the lot.

The iron crown of Lombardy is the oldest of all European crowns. It was made in 547. It is a heavy circle of gold three inches high, set with brilliant gems. Within is a narrow iron band, said to have been made from nails from the true cross.

Beautiful indeed and replete with sentiment are the two crowns worn by Napoleon and Josephine. The Empress' was a simple tiara of regal pearls set in a network of diamonds. In each interstic hung a pear-shaped diamond, vibrating with every movement. Napoleon's was a crown of golden eagles, surmounted by a cross and set with sapphires and rubies.

England's orb is a golden ball blazing with diamonds, amethysts, sapphires and rubies. Siam's crown looks like a miniature pagoda, set with priceless gems and furnished with two golden flaps that come down over the wearer's ears. It is the only one, apparently, that was made to fit.

TROOPS GUARD RAILWAY.

Heavy Guard Along the Hudson Valley's Line.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The Second regiment of the national guard is patrolling the streets of Glens Falls, South Glens Falls, Sandy Hill and Fort Edward as a result of the recent riotous demonstrations brought about by the strike of the motormen on the line of the Hudson Valley Electric railway. The railway's power house near Sandy Hill is protected by a heavy guard. The regiment is encamped about a mile outside of Glens Falls on the road leading to Sandy Hill. The troops will also be stationed at different points on the line of road between Lake George and Waterford.

Over 100 alleged rioters were arraigned in Glens Falls today. It is reported here that a warrant has been issued for President Fitzgerald of the Troy Amalgamated association, accusing him of making an inflammable speech at Glens Falls on the night of the riot.

The railway company expects to resume passenger service between Waterford and Troy over the United Traction company's lines by the end of the week.

GREAT RUIN AT GUAM.

Earthquake Caused Ground to Belch Forth Water and Mud.

MANILA, Oct. 8.—Further details of the earthquakes on the island of Guam are to the effect that the most severe shock lasted three minutes and fifty-five seconds.

Most of the stone buildings were ruined, and the ground opened and belched forth water and sand.

The American marines had a narrow escape from death or injury from falling roofs and walls of their barracks. They are now camped in tents. The new hospital was wrecked.

Governor Schroeder is affording shelter to the small American colony. He sent the collier Justin to Salpan island to assist the German governor there if any aid were required. The Justin returned to Guam and reported that there had been several, but not destructive, shocks on that island.

Testified Against Her Father.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—In low, indistinct tones, broken by sobs, the ten-year-old child, Mary, told the story of her mother's murder, of which she was a witness, in the superior court, giving testimony against her father, Michael J. Kilroy, who is on trial charged with the crime. The girl's brother, twelve years old, passed through a similar experience previously. The child testified that she saw her father slap her mother and that "he danced on her face" and hit her with a chair. She went out to call a neighbor, and when she came back her mother was dead.

Wife and Children Missing.

KEOKUK, Ia., Oct. 8.—The police are searching this city and surrounding country for Mrs. Kate Houston and her four little girls. They are the entire family of William Houston, who reported to the police that his wife and the children had disappeared last Friday night when he reached his home and had left no trace. The children range from eighteen months to eleven years in age. The husband and sister of Mrs. Houston believe she is insane, and the theory that she has killed her children and herself is quite generally accepted here.

Eighteen Vessels Wrecked.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 8.—The mail steamer Virginia Lake has returned here from Labrador and brings reports that the whole coast of Labrador has been swept by a fearful gale. Eighteen vessels were driven ashore and are total losses. Some of the wrecked vessels had cargoes of fish on board. The Virginia Lake brings home 139 shipwrecked fishermen, who composed the crews of the lost vessels. The present gale, with regard to results, is the worst which has been experienced since 1888.

Much Coal Coming.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The unprecedented American demand for anthracite coal has sent the price higher than ever reached before here. Reports from Wales say that the sales for shipment to America aggregate 200,000 tons, and it is not likely that the collieries will be able to supply the demand. Twenty-five steamers are now preparing to leave South Wales ports for America, most of them going to New York. Other steamers are taking on coal at Liverpool.

White For Rome.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The president has decided to appoint Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy at London, as embassador to Rome, but the change will not be made until next spring. When George V. L. Meyer of Massachusetts accepted the mission at Rome in December, 1900, it was with the understanding that he was to be allowed to give it up within a year or two.

Texas Oilfields Ablaze.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 8.—Fire which started in the oilfield late last night has destroyed a number of derricks, estimated at fifty, and from the city it looks worse than the recent fire. The telephone operator in the field says he does not yet know whether any of the tanks are burning. The fire is located in the Hogg-Swayne tract, where the wells and tanks are thickest.

Denmark's Deficit.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 8.—M. Hage, minister of finance, has read the budget statement before parliament. He said he estimated the deficit for the coming year at $945,000 and announced that as there was no prospect of checking the steady increase in expenditure it was necessary to increase taxation.

PARADE OF THE NAVY

Grand Army Encampment In Full Swing.

SONS OF VETERANS ALSO IN CAMP.

Monument to General Wright Unveiled at Arlington—Reunions of Many Corps Are Held at Camp Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic and their friends were entertained yesterday by a parade given in honor of the naval veterans and by a number of reunions held in the big assembly tents at Camp Roosevelt. The weather was threatening during the early morning, but the sun burst through the clouds about noon, so that with the mild temperature which prevailed there was no reason for complaint on that score. The attendance has steadily increased, and the city is crowded as it has been only on very rare occasions.

The naval parade of the forenoon was not as large as many that have been seen in Washington, but it was in every way interesting. The veterans of the navy each appeared to be an embodiment of much of the nation's recent history, and every squad of them was an object of interested observation. They were generally old men, and many bore evidences of wounds received in battle. In striking contrast to them were the young men of all the branches of the present service, who marched with them as an escort of honor, as it were. This escort included representatives of both the land and naval forces, and they elicited much favorable comment for their fine appearance as men, as they did for the excellent discipline displayed by them.

During the day the Sons of Veterans began their encampment. A monument to the late General Horatio G. Wright, at one time commander of the Sixth army corps, was unveiled at Arlington.

All day long a constant stream of visitors and veterans moved by the temporary White House and looked up at the window of the room on the second floor which is occupied by the president. At times several hundred people were collected on the sidewalk opposite. Many of the old veterans ascended the steps and inquired concerning the president's condition. All expressed their gratification when told that the president would be out soon.

During the day there were a number of reunions of regiments, division corps and armies. All of them were held in the large tents at Camp Roosevelt. They began at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and there was an almost continuous flow of oratory and song from that hour until late at night. The speeches were numerous. As a rule they consisted of recitals of events of the war. There were, however, occasional deviations from this course, and in some instances striking opinions concerning current events were expressed.

Pension Commissioner Ware in the afternoon tendered a reception to the members of the Grand Army in the pension office building. The entire staff of 1,400 employees constituted the reception committee.

Oil Not Good For Naval Use.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Oil cannot compete with coal for naval use. At least that is the conclusion reached by the board of naval engineers which for many weeks past has been making a series of practical tests with various oil burners under a 2,000 horsepower boiler in this city. They have drawn up a preliminary report for submission to the secretary which will show that out of the fourteen different devices presented by American inventors for the tests not one would burn coal oil under a naval boiler and produce steam in competition with coal even were the oil sold at $1 per barrel.

Death of Samuel Arnold.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—Samuel Arnold, seventy-two years old, who was convicted in 1865 of participation in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, is dead at his home at Masonville, Anne Arundel county. Arnold, along with Dr. Mudd, Frank McLaughlin and others, was tried and convicted in Washington during Andrew Johnson's term of office. Arnold and Mudd were sent to the Dry Tortugas for life, but were pardoned by President Johnson after he had been acquitted in the impeachment trial.

Lipton's Third Challenge Coming.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton's third challenge for a series of races for the America's cup has been signed at Belfast, Ireland, by the officials of the Royal Ulster Yacht club. The Hon. Charles Russell represented Sir Thomas Lipton. The challenge was immediately posted and goes to New York on the White Star line steamer Oceanic. The terms of the challenge do not materially differ from those of 1900. The first races are expected to take place in August.

Geneva Threatened With Big Strike.

GENEVA, Oct. 8.—At a meeting of a majority of the trades unions of Geneva it was decided to declare a general strike unless the demands of the striking street car line employees were conceded at once. Representatives of the government and of the street car company have had several discussions with regard to the situation.

Postoffice Robbed In Maine.

PATTON, Me., Oct. 8.—The postoffice safe was blown open with dynamite here during the night, and the burglars secured checks and money amounting to $1,000. No stamps were taken. The residents in the vicinity, aroused by the explosion, turned out, but the robbers had escaped.

THE MAYOR'S PLAN.

Mayor Jenkins has made a very wise suggestion and the Common Council has done well to second it with official action even though it is rather unusual perhaps. The Daily Press some time ago called attention to the Mayor's ideas on the subject and pointed out the fact that he was perfectly right in saying that there are too many shade trees in many places through the city. Many may be cut down without spoiling the appearance in the slightest and yet adding considerably to the healthfulness of the immediate neighborhood. With coal at a premium, these trees offer an easy way of securing much needed fuel.

Mayor Jenkins' suggestion, as given in these columns, was that the private householders rid themselves of some of the shade trees on their property and thus better the sanitary conditions and give themselves an additionl supply of fuel. The members of the Common Council have taken up the suggestion and prepared for municipal action along those very lines. The committee on lights and trees of the Council was empowered to confer with property owners and cut down such trees as were deemed superfluous and prepare the trees for kindling wood to be sold at a nominal rate. The modest householder will thus be enabled to get fuel at a reasonable price and keep warm when the cold days come.

A mistaken idea seemed to prevail on the streets yesterday. It is not the intention of the Mayor and Council to cut down all the shade trees which add so much to the beauty of the city This is not a wholesale campaign against shade trees. It is simply a plan to remove them where they may be too thick for the good of the community. It is just as possible to have too much shade as too much of any other good thing. Mayor Jenkins' plan should, therefore, have the hearty co-operation of every property owner who is desirious of seeing the city improved and also wants to see the successful carrying out of any plan which will relieve the modest householder from distress during the cold days of winter.

Despite a few little incidents, the series of baseball games between the Plainfield Consolidated team and Westfield has been a most agreeable and interesting one. It will undoubtedly be the means of starting a like series next year. It was too bad that the weather was so unpropitious throughout the series. Everybody was not as confident as to the success of the series as was The Daily Press when this newspaper accepted the challenge of Manager Denman and took the initiative in arranging them. But John G. MacLaughlin, captain of the Y. M. C. A. team, believed there was the right material here and The Daily Press was glad to turn over the games to the Y. M. C. A. management, which has since conducted them to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Great is the gathering now being held at Washington, D. C. That vast army of survivors of the Civil War has met there for its annual encampment., But the forms once sturdy and erect are now growing old and bent. While there are a host of them yet, the number is steadily decreasing every year and it will not be long before these annual encampments are things of the past. But while they do last they serve as a strong demonstration of the patriotism which burns in hundreds of thousands of hearts.

The strange case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde has been outdone by plain William Glasgow, of Pennsylvania. He wandered through several counties of the Keystone state ostensibly as a Bible agent, but in reality to locate the barns where good horses were kept, to which he returned at night and stole. When he wasn't being pursued by constables he managed to find time enough to teach a Sunday-school class in his boyhood town.

One of the largest of the Third avenue department stores in New York is miles away from the business centre and from other department stores, remarks the Philadelphia Record. Some years ago it was a small store and depended on neighborhood trade. By advertising in the newspapers (first in a small way, but always constantly) it increased its business and is now a great concern.

It was unfortunate that the rain had to spoil the well made plans of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club for its annual fall reception Saturday. Despite the unpleasant weather, however, there were many guests who assembled and the social events at least were carried out according to programme.

There has been more talk of split tickets among the local Republicans this year than has been heard for many campaigns. One of the Republicans who is going to suffer the most from the cutting is Assemblyman Hall. There is a strong opposition to him in the local Republican ranks.

A New York policeman went insane the other day, his superiors say, over religion. His name should be chiselled in letters of stone where the lapse of ages may not efface them that future generations may read and marvel. Such things do not happen in Metropolitan police circles every day.

THEATRICAL.

Patrons of the Central Theatre are being provided with an unusually strong vaudeville bill this week. Manager Schorb has secured some of the best artists in the profession, including Fennel and Fennel, Carrol and Clark, Joe Edwards, Mlle. Delaska, and others. All of these received an enthusiastic welcome Monday night from a crowded house. Thursday night an entirely new company will appear and remain until Saturday night. It is purposed to have two complete changes of bill each week with different programmes nightly.

Donated the Remains.

A large qantity of fruit, cake and other edibles which were left over from the Exempt Firemen's banquet and reception, Monday evening, were donated to Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home. The lot included a large number of specially made cakes which adorned the centre of the prettily decorated table and which were the admiration of all beholders.

Now Making Connections.

C. M. Meeker, the contractor on the Arlington avenue storm sewer, has completed the work of laying the large pipe and is now engaged in making the twelve inch connections, comprising several hundred feet. The iron work will be completed in a short time.

MAY LOSE THE COUNTY

ONE BOROUGH REPUBLICAN TALKS ON THE SITUATION.

Thinks Republicans Should Support the Ticket to Prevent Democratic Victory.

"Across the brook" opinion is divided as to the wisdom of the "Annexation" Republican leaders in making themselves conspicuous by their absence at the G. O. P. convention held in Somerville Monday. A prominent borough Republican who, for purely business reasons, does not wish his name used, said to a Daily Press reporter last night:

"Unless the 'soreheads' stop sulking and begin to work for their party the Democrats in Somerset will land on us with a large thump next election day. Of course it is not pleasant to have Thompson treat us like a lot of naughty children because some of us wanted to annex, but I, for one, would rather support the party leaders than to see all of Somerset go Democratic. And it's bound to go that way if the present outlook comes to materialize."

This, indeed, seems to be the prevailing opinion. Many Republicans are talking openly of either cutting the ticket or not voting at all. Either course would tend to give the Democrats more than a fighting chance. A heavy cut or a light vote in North Plainfield would decide the county elections, according to political prophets.

OPENINGS AT Y. M. C. A.

Boys' and Young Men's Classes Begin With Large Enrollments.

The first meeting of the gymnasium classes in the boy's department of the Y. M. C. A. was held yesterday afternoon. The attendance was larger than at any previous opening. In the evening the young men's classes began their sessions and were also crowded. The work was very light as it will continue to be this week, the sessions being preparatory to the regular exercises.

From the heavy initial attendance it is possible new lockers will have to be built for members' use. There are already a number on the waiting list. The business men's class will begin its fall work this afternoon beginning at 5:45.

PARK CLUB MEETS.

Annual Business Session Held Last Evening, When Reports Were Read—Officers Elected.

The annual business meeting of the Park Club was held at the club last evening with a good attendance of members. All the reports showed the organization to be in a healthful, flourishing condition and the new year starts with bright prospects for success and a good winter season. The question of enlarging the clubhouse was discussed pro and con, and a decision was reserved until a later date.

The officers-elect are as follows: President, Charles L. Nichols; vice president, George T. Rogers; treasurer, Nelson A. Miller; secretary, Allan B. Laing; board of governors, George T. Rogers, S. St. John McCutchen, Joseph B. Yerkes and Everitt Murray. During the coming week the president will appoint his committees, after which work for the coming season will be planned.

FIRST FALL MEETING.

Loyal Temperance Legion Begins Sessions With Good Attendance.

The Loyal Temperance Legion held its first fall meeting yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the W. C. T. U., with fifteen members present. In the absence of the superintendent, Miss May E. Howlett, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Rufus K. Case, assisted by Miss C. R. Yates and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, each one of whom made short and helpful addresses to the children. Miss Yates gave a short sketch of a trip abroad taken by her some time ago and she related many incidents which interested the young folks.

The Legion commences work for the fall and winter under favorable auspices and a successful season is promised. A number of the members were unable to be present yesterday, but they will be at the next meeting.

Car Caught Fire.

A carload of compost composing part of a freight train on the New Jersey Central, took fire yesterday afternoon, shortly before it reached Grant avenue and was sidetracked at the South Second street freight yard. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Hose Company No. 3 responded. The blaze was extinguished with a nominal damage.

CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY.

W. W. Warnock Entertains Friends in Honor of the Happy Event.

In honor of the anniversary of his birthday, W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, entertained a party of friends at his home, last evening. Several hours were passed pleasantly in song and story, features being vocal selections, "Anchored," by William N. Runyon, and "Fare Thee Well, Molly Darling," by Thomas Muir, and an excellently rendered recitation, "Asleep At the Switch," by R. Leighton Morrow. Before the guests departed an elaborate repast was served.

HOW TO TALK.

Classes in Conversational English Being Started at Y. M. C. A.

Conversational English is needed by a great many young men. This will be one of the branches taught in the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. There will be reading and general discussion of current topics of interest, supplemented by short exercises in writing. By this method a young man will learn to speak fluently as well as to read and write correctly. Attention is called to the two advertisements of the Y. M. C. A. to be found in this issue.

Stories From the Mines.

When the thoughts of all are turning so frequently to the coal region as they are in these days, the special mid-week service in the Congregational church this evening will be timely. It will consist of readings from the new book entitled "Those Black Diamond Men," in which Wm. F. Gibbon depicts the life, the lot and the characteristics of the Pennsylvania coal miners with much the same way that Ralph Connor in his "Black Rock" and "Sky Pilot" pictures the life of the Selkirks and the Foot-hills. The programme will include: "The Cost of Mining," read by Miss Barlow; "The Probation of Archibald Hudderfield," by Miss Dorothea Bull, and "The Sulphuring of Sunderland Red," by Miss Mary Jackson.

Uniforms Expected.

Quartermaster L. T. Koons, of the Plainfield High School Battalion, received word yesterday that the military uniforms for that organization would be shipped either yesterday or today, and will probably arrive here the latter part of the week. This is considered quick delivery as more than thirty uniforms were ordered.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening in Whittier School. Minor matters occupied most of the time. The members of the Board were unpleasantly surprised to receive the resignation of Miss Flora Willguss, one of their most valued teachers. The Board thought best to accept the resignation when it was learned that Miss Willguss has secured a far better position in the schools of New York City. Miss Willguss has always been an earnest and conscientious worker and will be greatly missed by her pupils.

At the meeting of the Borough Council, Monday evening, bids were received for the work of macadamizing a portion of Chestnut avenue. P. C. Staats was the lowest bidder, the contract accordingly went to him. The ordinance for the grading of Prospect avenue preparatory to flagging it was passed on the second reading. All the members of the Council were present except Wilcox.

The fire hydrants are now engaging the attention of Water Superintendent Pierce and are being painted. The top of the hydrant is made silver and the lower part black, making a pretty contrast to the old green color.

Levering & Garrigues' factory will furnish the iron work for the repairs on the Babcock building.

The Richardson house now occupied by H. S. Garretson is recieving a coat of paint.

Thomas Burke, of North avenue, is spending a few days with Jersey City friends.

The Misses Duneen have returned home after a visit with Brooklyn friends.

Lewis Churchill has entered the sophomore class at Columbia University.

Prayer meetings will be held this evening in the local churches at 7:30.

Capt. George Liable is visiting his brother, Wililam, of North avenue.

The Bound Brook trolley cars are still running on fairly good time.

J. E. Cory, of Whitehouse, spent yesterday with relatives in town.

The Juniors met in regular session last evening in Apgar's Hall.

NEW MARKET.

Friendship dancing class held the first dance of the season, last evening, in Friendship Hall. There were a large number of guests present, both from here and out of town and the affair proved a most successful one in all respects. Music was furnished by Miss Nelson and Miss Day, and dancing was kept up until a late hour. It has been planned to hold these dances weekly through the season.

An effort is being made to raise enough money to secure the $200 offered by W. B. Smith for the decoration of the interior of the First Baptist church, which was offered with the promise that enough more be raised to finish the work.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening in the First Baptist church as usual.

The carpenters are now at work on W. B. Smith's new houses.

John Dayton has lately moved into the Calhoun house.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Denman, of the Westfield team has offered Manager Johnston, of the locals, a game on the Westfield grounds for Saturday afternoon, but it is hardly likely that the offer will be accepted as the locals are booked to meet the Hope Y. M. A. team, of Plainfield, on Saturday afternoon. While all would like to see the home team go against Westfield, still it would be unsportmanlike to cancel the Hope game to please Manager Denman, who has had many opportunities to meet Scotch Plains on the diamond this season had he wanted to.

George Baldwin, who was injured at the Campbell Press Works, Plainfield, several weeks ago, is able to get out a little every day, but it will be another week or two before he is able to return to work.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church met in the parlors of the church this afternoon. Business relating to the coming Sunday-school convention was transacted.

A number of those interested in the several Sunday-schools of the village will attend the Union County Sunday-school conventon at Elizabeth tomorrow.

The teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school were entertained last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Vincent, of the borough.

The mid-week dances at Ivamy's pavillion have been discontinued for the present. The Saturday night dances will be held as usual.

Mrs. Sarah Allen and family, who have been residents of the village for a number of years, have removed to Plainfield.

John Albert, who recently bought the Allen livery business, is carrying the mail from the depot to the postoffice.

Gone to Chicago.

C. P. Adams, of Fairview avenue, who has resigned his position as superintendent of telegraph on the New Jersey Central to accept a similar position in Chicago, will leave for the latter place today. His family will remain in Plainfield until Mr. Adams gets settled in Chicago.

Injured in Fall From Car.

Nicholas Kelley, of Cottage place, called at Muhlenberg Hospital Monday evening and asked that a scalp wound which he had received by falling from a trolley car, be dressed. It was attended by the nurses, after which he returned home.

Lost No Time.

E. B. Maynard, of North avenue, is not only a good barber, but a good citizen. Yesterday afternoon he was handed his tax bill by Collector Smith and forthwith he stepped in the tax collector's office and paid the first tax bill for this year.

Changed the Date.

Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of South Plainfield, who was to have preached in the First Baptist church last month, will preach there next Sunday. The original plans were changed to allow another divine to occupy the pulpit.

At Mission Meeting.

It is expected that a large number of Baptist women from this city will attend the semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey at the North Baptist church, Newark, Friday.

Democratic Ratification Meeting.

The postponed ratification meeting of the local Democrats will be held in the East Second street headquarters, tomorrow evening. All the county candidates will be present as will the Hon. Allen Benny, of Bayonne.

Headaches.

If the remedies you have tried fail to cure your headaches, they are probably caused by eye-strain, in which case scientifically fitted glasses will correct the trouble. Stiles & Co., 107 East Front street, this Thursday.

Accepted the Call.

Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, assistant rector of St. Michael's church, New York, has accepted the call to Grace Episcopal church, this city, and it is believed that he will come to Plainfield about Nov. 1.

Cadet Drill.

The members of the Plainfield High School Battalion met for drill today at the usual time. The time was spent in drilling the separate companies in the simpler company movements.

—Neuman Brothers have some splendid apples — Fall Pippins and Kings, which they are disposing of at a very low price.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The Paris Cloak Store on West Front street is now showing an extra fine line of women's suitings, cloaks and waists, very attractive and reasonable in price. If you desire a suit will be made to order. One rule of this store is that satisfaction is guaranteed.

There is no better showing of millinery in the State than the one at Bonn's on West Front street. His assortment this year exceeds any carried in previous years and there is such a wide range in variety and styles that it is easy to find a becoming hat.

Nelson VanWinkle, the bicycle dealer of 129 North avenue, has a couple of new Dayton wheels that he will dispose of at cost. They are a bargain for someone. Mr. VanWinkle is still storing and repairing bicycles and his repair work can't be duplicated anywhere else. His repair shop is wonderfully complete.

If you cannot get coal to heat your home, the New York Painting & Decorating Company, of Park avenue, will put some warm paper on the walls and ceiling of your rooms and this will help to make your home comfortable. They will also paint your house and thus preserve the structure against the coming cold weather.

Its a great satisfaction to know that when you send your linen to the laundry, it will be returned to you with the showy gloss that you like. The Novelty Hand Laundry, on East Fourth street, makes a specialty of a fine finish that is becoming more popular every day. A wagon will stop at your door if you drop a postal to the office.

T. S. Armstrong, the popular druggist of Park and North avenues, is making a specialty of "chap cure" and Petroleum hair tonic this week. The former will be found valuable for those who have chapped hands and faces from outdoor sports. Mr. Armstrong also has a wonderfully complete line of sponges in stock. As a prescriptiion druggist and one in whom shoppers can have absolute confidence Mr. Armstrong does credit to Plainfield.

The peach season is practically over and the lovers of fruit are now looking for other things to form their desert. In this matter Neuman Brothers are prepared to help everybody out by maintaining one of the largest fruit displays to be seen in the city. They are constantly receiving new lots of foreign and domestic fruits that appeal to all who see them. And all who have traded with Neuman Brothers know that they charge only reasonable prices.

To Be Bridemaid.

Miss Lucy White Talmadge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Talmadge, of Netherwood, will be one of the two bridemaids at the marriage of Miss Marion B. Willard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Willard, of New York, to Dr. John Egerton Brandt, of Nice, France, which will take place in the Church of the Incarnation, Madison avenue and Thirty-fifth street, New York, Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Boy's Finger Ground Off.

A finger on the right hand of William Edmundson, of West Third street, has been missing since yesterday. While he was working about a grindstone at the Pond Tool Works, it became caught in the frame and was literally ground off. He proceeded to Muhlenberg Hospital where the remaining portion was dressed.

Canvassing the Borough.

The Borough Board of Registration started its official canvass yesterday. The work will continue until every voter is "rounded up."

EXCELLENT CONCERT.

Given by Giannini's Italian Band at Casino Last Evening.

There was a good audience in the Casino last night to hear the concert given by Giannini's Royal Marine Band. The programme rendered was excellent. Six numbers were given and the concert wound up with the fourth act of "Il Travatore," sung in costume. Herbert's "Serenade," Rossini's overture "William Tell" and Herbert's American Fantasia were among the numbers played.

Still on Sale.

Reserved seats for the Y. M. C. A. Star Course are still on sale at Hodge's pharmacy. Printed matter advertising the course may be obtained at the same place upon application.

MURDER MYSTERY SOLVED.

Woodward Considered Guilty of the Camden Crime.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 8.—The police authorities of Camden county have evidently solved the mystery of the death of John Coffin and Price Jennings, the boys who were found dead in the woods near Haddonfield last week. Paul Woodward, a youth of this city who is charged with the murder of the boys, was reported to have made a confession. In this connection Prosecutor Lloyd said:

"There is absolutely no truth in the story of Woodward's confession. However, the state has enough evidence to make a clear case against Woodward."

John Farmer, a negro employed on a farm at Haddon Heights, yesterday identified Woodward as the person he had seen with the boys in the woods on the day they are supposed to have been murdered. Woodward was taken to the scene of the alleged crime, but he displayed no emotion and protested his innocence. The analysis of the organs of the boys has not yet been completed, but the police express confidence that it will be shown that the children were poisoned.

Tour of Siam's Crown Prince.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8. — The Pennsylvania Railroad company has completed arrangements for the tour of the crown prince of Siam in the United States. The royal visitor's trip will be made under the personally conducted system of the company. The special train, which will be used over almost the entire route, will consist of a Pullman combined car, a Pullman dining car, a Pullman compartment car and the private car Columbia. The itinerary of the crown prince's tour will cover a distance of 7,131 miles. The principal points to be visited are New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston, Pittsburg, Annapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak, New Mexico, Arizona, the chief cities of California, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver, where the tour will terminate.

Steel Trust Profits.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The directors of the United States Steel corporation have issued a statement of net earnings for the nine months of the year ended Sept. 30. Earnings for July, August and September, with the last month estimated, aggregate $36,764,643; total net earnings for the nine months, deducting each month's expenses for ordinary repairs, renewals and maintenance of plant, also interest on bonds and fixed charges of the subsidiary companies, aggregate $101,142,158. Deducting amount set aside for sinking funds of subsidiary companies and depreciation, with reserve funds, makes the balance of profits for nine months applicable for the United States Steel securities $90,368,053.

Heavy Damages In Auto Suit.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 8.—A jury in the United States circuit court after a five days' trial awarded $12,070 damages to Joseph B. Hughes of New York in his suit against Felix Warburg, a banker of that city and a member of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Hughes claimed damages for injuries sustained by the running away of his horses that were frightened by an automobile of Warburg's at Seabright, N. J. One of the horses was killed, and Hughes, who is about sixty years old, claimed that his spine was permanently injured.

Boy Murderer to Be Hanged.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 8.—Frank Higgins, the boy convicted of the murder of Willie Doherty near Rockwood park, has been sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 18 in this city. The boy took the sentence very coolly.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.
CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come Greeting:

Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Magnolia Springs Water Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 110 East Front Street, in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, State of New Jersey, (H. G. Runkle being agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of "An Act concerning corporations (Revision of 1896)," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.

Now, therefore, I S. D. Dickinson, Secretary of State of the State of New Jersey, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the twentieth day of September, 1902, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Trenton, this twentieth day of September, A. D., one thousand nine hundred and two.

The MATCH-MAKER

LITTLE Mrs. Blondie has been married one month. She thinks the whole world is heaven. One fine morning she calls on Miss Bachelorgirl, her friend, and finds the latter limp and disheveled over the composition of a magazine article. Miss Bachelorgirl is out of sorts. She has seen a love of a gown, but she can't afford it; the bill for the fitting of her Turkish corner has just come in, and she has discovered that morning the existence of four wrinkles.

"What's the matter, dear?" queries Mrs. Blondie sweetly.

"Oh, nothing," groans Miss Bachelorgirl, "only I have a headache, and I'm sick of this studio anyway!"

Little Mrs. Blondie looks at her sympathetically. "Bertha," she coos insinuatingly, "why don't you get married? It's the only way for a nice girl like you to live. If you only knew how happy Jack and I are! What you need is some nice fellow with lots of money, who'll buy you pretty things and"—

"I'd like to know where I am to find him!" remarks Miss Bachelorgirl bitterly, thinking of that velvet gown she cannot have.

Little Mrs. Blondie blushes. "You never met Dick Bobbington, did you?"

MRS. BLONDIE LEAVES HER VICTIMS.

she remarks hurriedly. "Awfully stunning chap Dick—six feet, broad shoulders, plays polo and all that—and my husband says he's bound to become head of the firm before long. I've told him about you, and he's just crazy to meet you. Oh, you'd like him! He's a regular Gibson man and has the most stunning eyes. Can't you come up to dinner Monday evening? And, my dear, wear that lavender gown with the big bunch of violets."

As the studio door closes Miss Bachelorgirl leaves her article sprawling on her desk and, humming a coon song, goes to look up the lavender dress, while little Mrs. Blondie murmurs to herself as she descends the narrow stairs: "The idea of Bertha living in such a beastly way! The poor girl isn't a bit happy. Any one can see that." And so she telephones sweetly to Dick Bobbington's office and asks him to drop in that afternoon on his way up from the office.

"I know your taste in girls is remarkably good," purs little Mrs. Blondie, blushing as she meets his eyes over a cup of tea; "but, honestly, I have a most stunning girl I want you to meet. None of the other men has been able to do a thing with her, but I was hoping that you, with your vast experience and that perfectly irresistible, crooked smile of yours"—

"Oh, here, here! Really, Mrs. Blondie!" remarks Dick Bobbington, with the light of conquest dawning in his eye. "But bring on your snow maiden, and I will see what my poor powers are capable of."

Monday evening Bertha Bachelorgirl is in such a state of nervous excitement that her knees are fairly knocking together. She feels the importance of the occasion.

On the other hand, Dick Bobbington gnaws his mustache nervously as he watches her cold profile.

After dinner Jack goes into his den, and Mrs. Blondie, under pretext of speaking to him, goes out and leaves her victims pointedly alone. As she rises she gives Bertha a glance which means, "Hang back and go slow!" There is freemasonry among women. Miss Bachelorgirl gives her friend a nod of perfect understanding. A moment later she and Dick are left alone gazing at each other in an embarrassed manner.

Such are the plottings of matchmakers! In case you should have any curiosity I will add that three months later Miss Bachelorgirl became Mrs. Bobbington, and the question of velvet gowns is no longer an impossible problem with her.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

She raised herself on her pillows again and looked downward, playing with her fingers. She spoke very fast, but the words are burned in on my brain.

"You must know, then, dear Wibby," she began, "that daddy did not always do as he should. He gambled, as I told you. We had less and less money. Sometimes he would come home with a great deal. Then we lived well, and he bought me lovely clothes. Then, when it was gone, and we had not enough for food, he would reproach himself dreadfully. Sometimes he would leave me at the hotel for days and go away alone. When we moved to a sort of a pension, kept by an English woman, he did the same. It was very lonely there for me. But always when he came home he would bring some money, so I bore these absences for the results that would come to us, we needed money so much. One day he came in more flush—I mean with more money than usual. We had a splendid time. We feasted and went on long drives and he took me to the theater, and things were gayer than ever they had been. Then one day, one dreadful day, when all our money was spent and we were feeling rather poor, the English consul walked in. He came to our parlor without knocking. He opened the door and came up to daddy and he just said 'Where is Robertson?' Daddy turned white. Oh, I shall never forget it, never! Dear daddy! I loved him even if he did do wrong, and I love him still."

The girl was shaken with a paroxysm of dry sobs. She writhed and groaned. "Oh daddy!" she murmured, "dear, dearest daddy." I tried to soothe her. "No, let me finish," she said, sitting up and speaking very fast. "I must—I must get this over. We had a servant, an Englishman named Haughtry. He had been with daddy. He had heard the fight, had seen the blow. For, dear Wibby, there had been a fight and a blow. Unless daddy gave him money—Haughtry, I mean—he said that he would turn evidence for the Crown. He came in just as the consul had laid his hand on my father, and stood looking threateningly at him over the consul's shoulder. Then dear old daddy got up—oh! oh! I was there! I was there! and I had to see—I had to see! 'Sir,' he said—you know daddy's courtly manner, he was ever a gentleman—'sir,' he said, not raising his voice at all, 'you have the advantage of me, but I'll be damned if I won't soon have the advantage of you.' With that, before anyone knew what he was intending, he drew his revolver and shot himself through the heart."

"Eugene Darlington took his own life?" Yes, yes, I remembered now to having heard something of the kind, but we always supposed it was after the death of little Amaranthe and because of his despair at her loss.

Again she shook with those convulsive sobs. Her face was flushed. Her features twitched. "And that man, that Haughtry, he it is who has hounded me ever since. That is where all my spare money has gone, all that I make by my nursing. He follows me everywhere. It was so in England, it has been so in America. He told them at the hospital in London that my father was a gambler and a thief, that he had killed a man, and then killed himself. Wherever I go he threatens to denounce me, and I have lived a life of the veriest torture. And now he has found me even here. I had a little money besides the amount which I gave you to take care of. He insisted upon my giving him that last night. It was our voices that you heard. I declared that he should not wring from me my last sou. When I went back into the room after my attempt at bravado with you, he was still there. He seized me, and I know not what—gave me some of that dreadful stuff perhaps,"—she pointed to the handkerchief—"I do not know. Perhaps he has my money, perhaps not. Do look, dear Wibby, the corner of the top drawer. I have been too ill. Oh! how my head spins round and round. Oh, if he has taken it, and my mother's diamond pendant, what shall I do?" I ran to the chiffoniere. I opened it. There was nothing in any corner, either front or back.

"I am afraid it is gone," said I.

At that she gave a terrible shriek and fell all in a heap in the middle of the bed, and I ran to soothe her. Aunt Jane Mary thumped overhead, Glorianna came knocking at the door.

"Oh! Oh! Do not let them come in," she cried. "Do not let anyone in. The shame of it all! Just you and me, dear Wibby, just you and me!"

Then the poor thing got out of her bed and slid down on the floor and lay her head on my knees. "Oh dear Wibby," she said, "do promise me that you will not tell a soul of what I have told you. Not a soul! Not a soul! Promise! Promise!"

"But," I cried, "my little Amaranthe, you must be protected. I cannot let this persecution of you go on. They can do nothing to you. You need not give this man Haughtry money. He cannot levy his blackmail here, in my house. I will go to President Smith, I will see the police——"

"Oh, not the police!" she murmured, "at least not yet, dear Wibby. Promise me, not yet."

"But someone must protect me," I insisted. "I cannot have such things going on under my roof. I cannot, dear child. I know of an excellent person to ferret out the whole thing. Let me go to him——"

Here again she screamed, her face hid in the folds of my dress. A shadow fell upon her yellow curls.

HE MADE A MOTION TO ME NOT TO SPEAK.

I looked up. It was Elder Wynne, his head protruding within the opening of the window. He made a motion to me not to speak. I was more than indignant with him, and had I not feared frightening Amaranthe into hysterics, I should have risen and denounced him, then and there. I gave him an angry glance and he disappeared. I helped the poor girl to her bed and hastily closed the window. Then I went and got her a soothing draught, and I had the pleasure, an hour later, of seeing that she was sleeping as calmly as an infant. Each time as I passed by the hall door I saw that Elder Wynne was sitting there in my rocker with the Star Union on his knees.

It was a long day. I went to Miss Dacres' room at four o'clock to see if she would not take some nourishment. The room was empty. Her clothes were scattered about the floor. Baldy Towner, when I questioned him, told me that her wheel was gone from the lower stable.

"Ef yer mean yer b'low-front, thet female from out Westconsin way," added Glorianna. "I guess she's lit out fer good."

At five o'clock I received a message from the Hall by John, the coachman. He had brought the carriage, and I was to return with him at once. The sudden illness of one of the ladies seemed to me the only probable cause for so peremptory a summons.

"Is it Miss Elizabeth or Miss Evelyn, John?" I asked nervously.

"I think it's both, ma'am," replied John, "but you was to see them yourself."

"Both? Both ill at once? What can it be? Oh! Why don't you speak out, John?"

"I was told not to, ma'am," replied John. So I sat tremblingly within the carriage as it whirled me along the road to the gates of the Hall. Miss Elizabeth met me at the door. Miss Evelyn was not to be seen. She, Miss Elizabeth, kissed me with a tremulous lip.

"Miss Evelyn?" I gasped. She said no word, but smiled into my face and led me, with her arm around my waist, up the broad flight of stairs. We went to the door of the litle sitting-room next that which had been the squire's bedchamber.

She stopped outside the door. I heard the murmur of voices within. "Whom do you think we have here?" she questioned.

I could only look and wonder. She pushed open the door. Ah, why could I not have guessed it? They had her with them at last! Upon the couch little Amaranthe was lying, and Miss Evelyn sat beside her, stroking those yellow, boyish curls. The mystery was solved. Little Amaranthe had come to her own.

"You dear old Wibby!" exclaimed my sometime boarder; "come here to me just as fast as you can." I ran to the couch and sat hastily down. "Ouch!" exclaimed the girl, for I had nearly fallen against her foot, which I now perceived was bandaged so that it was quite immense, and caused me to wonder why I had not noticed it before.

Miss Elizabeth stooped over and kissed her. "That's what comes of tomboy games," said she, shaking a gently chiding withered old finger at the girl. "That's what comes of tomboy actions."

"Don't, sister dear," said Miss Evelyn. "Poor child! Has she not suffered enough?" She laid her head against the cushion which supported the yellow head, and I wondered which had become all at once the most enamored of my late boarder—my boarder, alas, no more.

"I have lost you!" I cried with tears in my voice. "I have lost you!"

"Not lost, but gone before," laughed she.

At Miss Elizabeth's solemn look, "Dear Aunty Liz," said she, "forgive my flippant ways. I am only a poor girl, who has had no upbringing." God knows how truly she spoke. "You must teach me better things."

E. G. WESTLAKE WRITES OF TIMELY TOPICS OF SPORTS AND ATHLETES

Nowhere in the United Kingdom has "Parson" Davies, the famous American promoter of prize fighting, found a man who is capable of pitting his prowess in the prize ring against the best of the American prize fighters. This suave, gray-haired minister extraordinary to the courts of the foreign kings of pugilism, has returned to the United States discouraged and prepared to accept the inevitable. He can no longer give the followers of pugilism such a man as Peter Jackson, and has arrived at the conclusion that the strong characteristic of the Briton of years ago—fighting—has been vitiated by drink, golf, ping-pong, cricket and polo.

Bewailing his inability to arouse interest abroad in matters pugilistic, Davies scores the British for their listlessness—berates the able-bodied men who cannot be successfully appealed to by prize ring merchants, and in flowery metaphor and studied figures of speech likens the once proud and sturdy British disciple of the art of self-defense to Gulliver bound by the small cords of the busy Liliputians. The latter in his "overheated imagination" are golfers, cricket players, poloists, and ping-pongists. "The Briton detests everything that approaches aggressive manliness!" exclaims the veteran manager of pugilists. "Perhaps the Boer war, drink that has wrecked the commercial vigor and the intellectual activity of the British people and the minor diversions of the links and toy tennis table are what have taken the backbone from the English. Unless the nation braces up there will be no more English champions—the titles will all be held by Americans who have succeeded in pulling into the ring the unwilling British victims of their gloves."

I recall the time when managing pugilists was a precarious game even in this country for the "parson." He fought the undisputed bantam, "Jimmy" Barry, for years, and the latter has confessed that he made a bare living out of his many exploits after the manager's expenses had been paid. And "Parson" Davies had to take up the show business to replenish his exchequer. It was so much of a comedy to see Joe Choynski, the fighter, playing Legree in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to the Parson's Marks and Peter Jackson's "own and owny" part, Uncle Tom, that I remember when the meledrama houses were empty—all the throngs went to laugh over the "parson's" company.

But if Davies, in his lugubrious looks and his pessimistic remarks really has "sized up" the prize ring situation abroad, the nation that was recently in paroxysms over the coronation of a king will turn out the expressions of millions who will give thanks. It has been a consummation devoutly to be wished in England, as in other countries, for many years, that the pugilists would have to seek other walks of life. No political economist has been able to advance a successful argument for the perpetuation of "ring heroes." No ethical logic in the bruiser's behalf can stand the bombarding of the friends of law and order. The passing of the "pug" in Great Britain is welcomed by many, regretted by few.

Scientific men do a lot of playing with kites. They have taken the kite from the realm of toys and made it a useful and thoroughly practical adjunct of research. Old records tell of the use of kites in warfare, and there are all sorts of tales about the sport of kite fighting in China. Kite flying as a sport in the United States has made wonderful jumps. The possibilities of the kite in scientific lines are unlimited. The photographer relies on the well constructed flyer for pictures that could only be obtained by costly and dangerous balloon ascensions.

But in the department of transportation at the coming St. Louis fair kites will have a big place alongside the airships and balloons. At Bayonne, N. J., there is a kite corps which has applied to the world's fair authorities for permission to exhibit its kites and take part in the kite contest of the aerial tournament. Of course, the corps will be given the chance to do so. The secretary of the kite corps, W. H. Mitchell, writes as follows:

"I hope that conditions will be such that our corps can compete and not only win but establish at the contest a world's record. It may be of interest to understand how our corps is organized. Our work is twofold. Our scientific researches consist of observation and field work and have little of display in them. Our military kite work is perhaps more interesting. We signal long distances by means of flags and other devices by day, and by lights and flashes by night. We release carrier pigeons at 1,000 (or over) feet altitude, assuring a safe and rapid flight. We bridge intervening spaces such as woods, ravines or streams, with use of telegraphic and phonic communication. We also use kite string bridges over the woods, ravines and streams to transport light matter, such as dispatches, letters, etc., by means of an aerial trolley car. We furnish wireless stations, with the necessary altitude to successfully work the system or field. In fact, we do with kites, in a military manner, all the work of a signal corps and drill to this effect, being ready to cooperate with the state or regular signal corps, if necessary, on invitation in a few hours. These drills we are constantly improving and making more effective and perfect, as well as perfecting an apparatus, all of which has long passed the experimental stage."

No one who has followed baseball will deny "Rube" Waddell the distinction of being the most eccentric player in fast company. Since he stopped pitching out on the Pacific slope, because he was not given a suit of clothes—the regular reward for a home run at Los Angeles—after earning it, this big, raw-boned, but exceedingly clever twirler has once more pitched himself into a niche with "Christy" Mathewson, that other southpaw, Jesse Tannehill, and "Noodles" Hahn.

Waddell is a pitching marvel. From June 26, when he first appeared in a game for the Athletics of Philadelphia, he has struck out 127 men, had 107 hits made off his delivery—once shutting out his opponents without a hit or run, and several times getting away without more than one or two hits being made. Forty-four runs were made on him in that time—up to the middle of August—and he earned nine victories in 14 full games pitched. As he pitched 147 innings in that time his work was equal to 18 full games. And "Rube" is scarcely understood by the baseball men. He is a philosopher.

It has been my privilege when Edward—that's his "dressed-up" name—was dealing in some of his homilies to be a listener. Swatting a new fielding glove, for he always likes to break in his gloves off the field, "Rube" would push his chair back and make some observations. No one has copyrighted his aphorisms and no one has printed them. I submit a few:

Baseball is like corn—it has its fine and bad seasons. But it needs cultivating.

When I win I'm Hail Rube. When I lose its time for me to go back to the farm.

Every man struck out is so much saved on the wear and tear of the bodies of your teammates.

It is not what a ball player ought to do that draws his salary.

Every ball game ever played lasted no longer than a third of a second if it was a close contest. Games are won and lost in that fraction of time, and the rest of the exhibition is "filler."

Magnates have the trust microbe running bases for them. It won't be long before these microbes get all the ball players.

The big cities have too much of good baseball and the little towns have too little. If I was the best player in the land I'd get away to play at my country home Independence day.

My right hand does not know what my left is doing—else I would not be a southpaw pitcher.

Diamond heroes of to-day may be just plain farmers to-morrow. Keep close to the farmers; they last longer than ball players.

When you hear a ball player telling how eccentric Rube is, set him down as a fellow I can strike out.

Ball players overlook the versatility. I can play the clown in a circus and eat glass in a sideshow. With training I could cut coupons.

Opportunity only pitches them over the plate once for you in life. If you strike out, Despair strikes you into the bleachers of Oblivion.

After all, baseball is only political economy in a new garb.

ARRESTED AT WIFE'S BIER.

George LaTourette Caused Disturbance in Attempt to See The Body.

George LaTourette, a fireman employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, was arrested by Chief Marshal Campbell, last night on the technical charge of disorderly conduct.

The man is the husband of Mrs. Elizabeth LaTourette who died early yesterday morning at 27 Somerset street. For over a year the couple had not lived together, and it was Mrs. LaTourette's dying request that her husband should neither see her in her coffin or attend the funeral.

LaTourette went to the house last night, after hearing of his wife's death, and demanded to see her body. The oldest son, Richard, refused him admission and LaTourette threatened to kill him unless he was admitted into the rooms. The police were called before any disorder occurred and arrested LaTourette. He will be given a hearing before Justice Doud, Friday evening.

WANT IMPROVEMENT COMPLETED.

Or Else East Front Street Property Owners Want Their Money Back.

Residents of East Front street, near Watchung avenue, are preparing a petition to be presented the Common Council, asking that the latter thoroughfare be widened as was originally intended when it was opened to the brook a few years ago, else that the damage money which they paid at the time be returned to them.

When the improvement was put through, property owners east and west of Watchung avenue on East Front street, for several hundred feet, paid an assessment with the understanding that the large house on the east corner opposite the Y. M. C. A. building be set back. This has never been done despite requests and those who paid money want either one thing or the other accomplished at once.

Mrs. Newman Dead.

Mrs. Ann Newman, widow of the late Thos. Newman, died at 10 o'clock last night after a short illness. The funeral services will be held from the residence of Mrs. Alexander McWilliams, 527 South Second street at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

MUCH BUSINESS CONSIDERED

AT YESTERDAY'S REGULAR MEETING OF THE LOCAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

Small-Pox Case Proved Costly—Inspectors Rendered Interesting Reports.

There were many topics of interest considered at the October meeting of the Board of Health held yesterday afternoon, including the continuation of the reading of the new sanitary code. Thus far eleven articles have been read for the first time, and there are five more to go over. This will be done at a meeting to be held for that purpose on Tuesday, October 14.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow reported that the recent case of smallpox cost the city $459.32, and that this case had been closed up. Mr. Thurlow made 53 dairy inspections and examined 483 samples of milk. The general milk supply was found to be less satisfactory than usual owing to the fact that the cattle have been out at pasture and the stables were found to be more or less dirty. This evil will be corrected within a short time.

Health Inspector Addis reported that he had made 175 visits and inspections and that there are 17 people under quarantine. There are nine typhoid fever cases and the rest are diphtheria and scarlet fever. In nearly every case the disease was contracted out of Plainfield. During September there were nine marriages, thirty-five births, one still birth and nineteen deaths.

The estate of Noah Terry was granted a permit to collect garbage, as was also August Norway. During the latter part of the meeting Richard Norway, of this city, appeared before the Board and exhibited a new sanitary appliance for trolley and steam cars. He wanted to get the endorsement of the members for his patent, but the body stated that such action would be out of its province.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE MET

SET DATE FOR PRIMARIES AND APPOINTED WARD CLERKS.

Offices to be Filled at the Coming Election—The Finance Committee Appointed.

The date for the primaries to elect delegates to the city convention, was fixed at a meeting of the City Republican Executive Committee last evening. There was a good attendance of members and Mayor Jenkins, as chairman, presided. The primaries were set for Monday evening, October 13, and the city convention, Thurday evening, October 16. The poll will be open, as usual, from 5 to 9 o'clock. The places for holding the primaries and the clerk of each ward with whom all nominations must be filed, are as follows:

First ward, 152 North avenue, H. G. Adams; Second ward, Bryant School, J. E. Keely; Third ward, Casino, Robert Rushmore; Fourth ward, Reform Hall, William Newcorn. The First, Second and Third wards are entitled to nine delegates and the Fourth ward is entitled to fourteen delegates.

There will be nominated this year a city treasurer, a mayor, two members Board of Freeholders, two members Board of Education, one to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Richards, the other to take place of L. N. Lovell, whose time expires. Each ward will nominate a councilman, a justice of the peace, a constable and three members of the city executive committee. It seems to be the general opinion that with the exception of Dr. Richards, all other office-holders will be renominated.

The following finance committee was appointed: First ward, J. F. Buckle; Second ward, J. Hervey Doane; Third ward, Ernest R. Ackerman; Fourth ward, Wm. A. Westphal. Mr. Buckle was appointed a committee of one to arrange for a transparency. It was reported that the committee on naturalization had secured the adoption of 32 citizens. Nominations for all offices will be made to the clerks in the several wards, as heretofore.

Meeting of Public Library Board.

The regular meeting of the Public Library Board was held last night with Messrs. Tyler, Perkins, Gilbert, Case and Larrabee present. Nothing but routine business was transacted. The librarian was authorized to engage Miss Hifton as assistant librarian, vice Miss Kirby, resigned. A balance of $2,071.10 was reported to be in the treasury.

Great Chiefs Expected.

When Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, celebrates its anniversary Friday evening, October 17, it is expected that the great chiefs as well as many visiting tribes will be present. The committee has about completed arrangements for the affair.

WHAT CAUSED PENNA. CRASH

Officials Allege the Wreck at Menlo Park Was Due to Carelessness.

SIGNALS DISREGARDED

One Passenger Killed and at Least a Score Injured—Driver Says Air Brakes Refused to Work—Plainfielder Witnessed Accident and Helped in Rescuing Passengers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Metuchen, October 9—What the Pennsylvania railroad officials say was an inexcusable blunder, caused the train crash on the line at Menlo Park, yesterday morning, resulting in the death of one man, the probable fatal injury of a woman and the infliction of broken limbs, cuts and bruises on a score of other passengers. The engine driver of the second train which crashed into another which was standing still, insists that his air brakes refused to work but authorities claim signals had been disregarded else he would not have appoached so near.

A hot-box on one of the cars of Western Express No. 6 brought the train to a stop in front of the Menlo Park station. Men were at work on the wheel when train No. 76 from Philadelphia dashed around a curve and into the rear coach of No. 6.

There was a clear stretch of a half mile between the curve and the motionless train, and at the curve is a signal block. A flagman had also been sent back to stop the Philadelphia flyer. When Engineer James F. Kelly saw the train ahead he tried to apply the air brakes, but they failed to work. When twenty feet from the rear coach of No. 6, Fireman C. F. Coster jumped and fell face downward in a heap of sharp stones. Then came the crash.

For eighteen feet the locomotive ploughed its way into the mail coach, which was at the rear of the Western train. It tore half of the car away. Beyond the mail coach was a heavy Pullman, then a day coach and next another Pullman. The day coach was crumpled between the Pullmans and the people in it were the only ones injured.

One of the first to be taken out of the crushed day coach was Courtney J. Silpath, a Pennsylvania Company bridge tender. His head had been crushed.

Those most seriously injured were Mrs. Clark Fisher, of Trenton, N. J., shock and bruises and a possible dislocation of the spine, Presbyterian Hospital, New York; Mrs. T. B. Wrenn, Trenton, scalp wounds, shock and bruises; J. Browski, Austin, Pa., internal injuries and shocks, St. Francis Hospital, Jersey City; Brjdget Flannigan and daughter, Margaret, Providence, bruised and shocked; Mary Kean, Providence, bruised and cut; Mary Stewart, Brockton, Mass., contusions and shock; James McKenna, No. 355 Market street, Newark, left leg and knee hurt; Gertrude Oliver, No. 131 New street, Newark, shock and bruises; Mrs. James E. Norris, Trenton, scalp wound, St. Francis Hospital; E. F. Curtiss, Philadelphia, scalp wound and bruises, Wells Memorial Hospital, New Brunswick; James Kelly, engineer, injuries to head and body, Wells Memorial Hospital; C. F. Coster, fireman, No. 76, cuts and bruises on head and body, Wells Memorial Hospital; Edna Buzzer, New Brunswick, shock and cuts.

Engineer Kelly said that he saw no flagman, and that when he passed the signals they indicated a clear track ahead.

Almost directly opposite the spot where the crash occurred, there was standing at the time, Ephraim Carman, of Plainfield. He had been wheeling about the country and stopped to see the train men cool the hot-box. Like the others, he saw the second train approach and witnessed the compact.

After the crash was over, Carman sprang on the second engine and grasped a pinch-bar with which he pried out a number of unfortunates who were pinned down by splintered wood. He worked until the last passenger was extricated and was commended for his bravery by a number of officials who witnessed his efforts.

—Attention is called to the additional information in the advertisement of the first entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY TONIGHT

COUNTY CANDIDATES TO ATTEND THE MEETING IN ROOMS ON SECOND ST.

DeWitt Flannigan May be Present—James E. Martine, Candidate for Senator, to Speak.

Democrats throughout this city and county are looking forward with much expectation to the ratification meeting to be held in the East Second street headquarters, this evening. All the county candidates for office have announced their intention of being present and in addition Hon. Allen Benny, of Bayonne, will be in attendance. It is also expeced that the gathering will be graced by the presence of DeWitt C. Flanagan, candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket from this district.

The main purpose of the meeting is to bring the voters of this vicinity in touch with the men who have been nominated by the party. While they are familiar to some Plainfielders there are many who have not made their acquaintance and it is believed a personal meeting will bring good results. James E. Martine, of this city, who is opposing Joseph Cross in the race for the senatorship, is to be one of the principal speakers. The meeting is not intended for Democrats alone but all voters are cordially invited to attend.

SERIOUS CHARGE BY RELATIVE

MRS. ANNIE HOLMES SAYS FRANK HAULENBECK ASSAULTED HER.

Held by Justice Huff in $200 Bail for Trial Tomorrow Afternoon—Woman Still Ill.

On complaint of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Annie Holmes, Frank Haulenbeck, a well known resident of Netherwood, living on North avenue, was placed under arrest by Patrolman McCarthy, yesterday afternoon. He is charged with having committed an atrocious assault on the complainant to such an exent that she was in Muhlenberg Hospital for a week, having only been discharged from the institution Tuesday. The warrant was sworn out before Justice Huff and Haulenbeck was to have been given a hearing. last evening Owing to the absence of material witnesses the State asked for an adjournment and the matter was laid over until Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The defendant was released in $200 bail.

According to Mrs. Holmes, she had been housekeeper for Haulenbeck but left his home months ago. On September 29 she returned to the place to get some furniture which belonged to her and the defendant began quarreling with her. She made an attempt to leave the house when he committed the assault upon her and it was with difficulty that she made her way home. She was injured internally and was prevailed upon to go to the hospital where she remained a week, but is still under a doctor's care.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., is handling the case for the State while William G. DeMeza has been retained by Haulenbeck.

SUNSHINE MISSION BAND MET.

And Elected Secretary in Place of Miss Richards, Resigned.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church held a meeting at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The resignation of Miss Annie Richards as secretary was read and accepted with regret. Miss Margaret Leal was elected as her successor. It was decided to hold a stereopticon entertainment in the near future and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for it.

Date Set for Fair.

The date for the Saengerbund fair has been decided. It will begin on Nov. 10 and last for five days. Everybody connected with it is working hard perfecting plans, and it will doubtless be one of the most complete entertainments ever given by the society.

New House on Lake Street.

Building Inspector Doane has issued permits to J. Martone & Son for the erection of three houses on Lake street. The masonry work will be done by W. Mundy and the carpentering by William Morrey. The work of staking out the cellars began today.

Large Order for Cars.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has ordered 14,000 coal, coke and ore cars from the Pressed Steel Car Company. This is the largest order given at one time by any railroad company.

EARNEST SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS IN CONVENTION

A Two-Days Session of First Newark District Began Yesterday Morning.

IN MOUNT ZION CHURCH

THE READING OF PAPERS TOOK UP MOST OF THE TIME.

Delegates Present From Seventeen Schools—The Women of the Church Provide Refreshments—The Reception Committee.

Representatives from seventeen Sunday-schools in the First Newark District, of the Afro-American Sunday-school League, met in the Mount Zion A. M. E. church, yesterday, for the beginning of the annual two days' convention. It will last until this evening and so far, much work, for the good of those interested in Sunday-school work, has been accomplished.

Yesterday's exercises began at 10 o'clock and were as follows: Hymn, Rev. J. W. Ross; prayer, Rev. L. Sturges; scripture lesson, Rev. P. E. Steward; Liturgic services, Rev. J. C. H. Christmas; hymn, Rev. H. P. Anderson; welcome address, Rev. J. H. Bean; responsive address, Rev. H. C. Ashley and remarks by Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree, presiding elder and Rev. W. B. Derrick, presiding bishop. In the evening reports were read by Revs. J. H. Bean, Isaac Horsey, P. E. Steward, T. E. Franklin and W. H. Cheeks.

Today the convention began again at 10 o'clock and has since been devoted to the reading of papers prepared for the occasion. The subjects and those giving them were as follows: "The Spiritual Condition of the Schools in the District," Revs. J. C. H. Christmas, J. W. Ross, W. M. Middleton, W. Willis; "The Best Method of Teaching Children the Sunday-school," Miss Fannie L. Johnson, W. B. Perry, Horatio McCoy, R. S Fareira; "The Necessity of Using Our Literature," Revs. H. P. Anderson, C. R. Johnson, L. Sturges, J. J. Harris; "The Necessity of Using Turner's Catechism," Revs. T. E. Franklin, D. J. Brown, Charles Fisher, Harold Dickenson and Mrs. R. S. The church was very prettily decorated in honor of the gathering and the delegates have been taken care of by the women of the congregation. Tables have been arranged in the Sunday-school room where lunch and dinner has been served by Mrs. E. B. Maynard, assisted by Mrs. Matilday Dunham, Mrs. Emma Silbee, Mrs. Hattie Harmon, Mrs. Rebeccah Voorhees, Mrs. Mary Laine, Mrs. Henrietta Grobes, Mrs. Sarah Marsh, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mrs. Sarah Riley, Mrs. Josephine Till; Mrs. Sarah Beach, Miss Fannie Olden and Miss Evelyn Wilson. The reception committee consisted of E. B. Maynard, Samuel Till, Theodore Hooper, Sylvester Laine, Alex. Stills and Henry Williams.

Heavy Traffic on Central.

In the October issue of The Railroad Employee is the following: "The passenger traffic on the New Jersey Central during the past season has surpassed all previous records in the history of the company and General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt should feel justly proud of the record his department has made since he assumed charge."

Central Restores Passes.

The New Jersey Central Railroad has restored the passes to the employes of the Elizabethport transfer for use to and from their work. These were taken away by the Warren-Wentz management.

CROSBY A DESERTER.

Said to Have Fled From the U. S. S. Olympia—He Forfeits His Citizenship.

Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of this city, has received a notice from Captain H. W. Lyon, of the U. S. S. Olympia, informing him that John J. Crosby, who gives his address as Plainfield, N. J., has deserted from the Olympia and the U. S. Naval Service. According to the laws of the United States, every person who deserts from the Naval Service is deemed to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his right of citizenship, as well as his right to become a citizen. Mayor Jenkins is notified of the above fact that Crosby may be apprehended if in this city.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING

UNITED MISS ELILABETH BRUSH AND ARTHUR SERRELL IN MATRIMONY.

Took Place at the Home of Bride's Parents in Brooklyn Last Evening—Went South on Trip.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Brooklyn, October 9—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Brush, 1319 Dean street, Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Elizabeth Corwin Brush and Arthur Harold Serrell, of Plainfield, were united in marriage, last evening, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends from Plainfield, Atlantic City, Morristown, New York and Brooklyn. Rev. St. Clair Hester, of the Church of the Messiah, officiated.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white crepe de chine with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lillies of the valley.

Miss Florence E. Serrell, of Plainfield, and Miss Cornelia Bryant, of Brooklyn, attended her and were gowned in white point de'sprit over pink silk and carried shower bouquets of pink roses. Edgar Irving Serrell, brother of the groom was best man.

Abundant evidences of the esteem in which they are held were shown by the many useful and valuable gifts received. They departed for the sunny south amid showers of rice and on their return will reside in Brooklyn.

HEPTASOPHS ACTIVE.

Are Anxious to Have Bowling Matches With Other Orders.

Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Haptasophs, held a large and enthusiastic meeting Tuesday evening, at which time Deputy Supreme Archon John V. E. Vanderhoef was present. The new bowling outfit was used for the first time. The scores were as follows: V. W. Nash, 93; M. Armstrong, 80; J. V. E. Vanderhoef, 79; John Green, 73; A. Weber, 65, and Wm. Uhler, 64.

It was voted to invite Wetumpkah Tribe, I. O. R. M., to take part in a bowling match on October 15, also to arrange a match with a team from Somerville on November 6. A number of the members will visit Unity Conclave, at Newark, tomorrow evening to meet the Supreme Archon.

PREPARING IMPORTANT REPORT.

State Geologist Asks Co-operation in Locating Clay Deposits.

The Geological Survey, of this State, is preparing a report upon the clay deposits and clay industries of New Jersey. It is the desire of Henry B. Kummel, the State Geologist, that any one owning undeveloped or unworked deposits will communicate with him at Trenton, giving the exact location of the deposit, its extent, thickness and other facts of importance concerning it.

This report will be of great value and, with the co-operaiton of clay deposit owners, will be unusually complete.

Off With Auto Club.

Dr. M. A. Carmon, of Franklin place, started from New York, this morning, with the New York Automobile Club, for a run to Boston. The trip will consume three days each way and the party will remain in Boston over Sunday. Dr. Carmon is accompanied by G. Harry Squires, of this city, as observer.

THE MINERS' LIFE AS TOLD IN STORY

Realistic Tales From the Coal Fields Heard by Audience at Congregational Church.

THEIR HEROIC NATURE

ARE ALWAYS READY TO RISK THEIR LIVES FOR OTHERS.

Timely Meeting Which Gave an Insight to the Lives of the Men Who Dig "Black Diamonds"—The Story in Detail.

In view of the present situation as regards the coal strike, the meeting held at the Congregation church last evening, was most tmiely and served to enlighten the many who attended as to the true condition of the miner and his family. The programme consisted of readings from the new book "Those Black Diamond Men," by William F. Gibbons, who has for years known of these people by living among them.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the church, was in charge of the meeting and at the outset explained the character of it and gave a brief explanatory talk concerning the book by Mr. Gibbons. Miss Barlow read a chapter from the book, giving an idea of the cost of mining, not so much from a financial standpoint, but as to the sacrifice a miner and his family is obliged to make in order that coal may be brought to market. This chapter was filled with a pathetic story of one miner and his family, and concluded with a touching story of his death in a mine, the result of an effort to save others. This miner was obliged to pay $20 to get his job, and he then lost his life.

Mr. Goodrich read the next chapter entitled "The One Mule Man." This pictured the life of other miners who showed their heroism and courage in assisting to save a number of coal brokers, who had gone into the mine on a tour of inspection. The elevator got out of order and all hands were obliged to climb a ladder a distance of 1,100 feet to the top of the ground. This was done at great risk and the act was vividly portrayed.

"The Probation of Archibald Hudderfield," was the subject of another chapter which depicted the life and character of other miners and told of a religious revival which centered in the mining region. This chapter was read by Miss Dorothy Bull. The last chapter was read by Miss Mary Jackson, and was a supplement to a preceding chapter which told of Sunderland Red. It was entitled "The Sulphuring of Sunderland Red," and it described a heroic act and the subsequent death of this miner, who while engaged in his occupation was converted through the efforts of the Salvation Army.

In conclusion Mr. Goodrich stated that he felt sure that the readings had been the means of helping all to better understand the condition of the miner and perhaps it would prove a benefit in deciding for or against them as to whether they are right or not.

A SPEEDY TRAIN.

Travels on the P. and R. at the Rate of 73.9 Miles Per Hour.

A record of fast time is reported on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. Train No. 507, of the Reading, makes the run between Trenton Junction and Wayne Junction at the rate of 73.9 miles per hour. This train leaves Jersey City at 1:12 o'clock in the afternoon and is a heavy one, carrying a dining car. This time is not rivalled, as far as can be learned, by any other train leaving Jersey City. Train 507 is very popular with the public on account of leaving shortly after midday and is generally well loaded.

Home From the Philippines.

George A. Moncton, of this city, returned home several days ago after serving three years in the Philippines as a member of the Thirteenth U. S. Infantry. He was badly wounded in the right leg during an engagement and previous to his discharge spent several months in the military hospital at Presidio, Cal.

Citizens Offer Trees.

Already the city has been offered several trees to be cut up for firewood, as a result of the action of the Common Council last Monday evening. The lights and trees committee is conferring with property owners and it is believed that within a short time the work of cutting down trees will commence.

BENEFIT BASEBALL GAME

TO BE PLAYED BETWEEN HOPE AND SCOTCH PLAINS TEAM SATURDAY.

Hope Common Will be Scene of the Struggle—The Last of the Season.

A baseball game which will take place in this city Saturday afternoon will terminate the season for two teams that are numbered among the leaders in this vicinity. The contesting nines will be the crack Hope team and the strong Scotch Plains aggregation. It will be the first time they will have met this year and it will undoubtedly be a fitting climax to the season's career on the diamond. The game will be played on Hope Common commencing at 3 o'clock sharp and as the proceeds will be for the benefit of the players no enthusiast should remain away.

The batting order of the two teams will be practically the same as they have maintained all summer. Hewitt and Montross will pitch and Hartfelder will catch for the Hopes while the remaining positions will be covered by Dalley, Shortman, Dodge, Martin, Gordon, Roseberry, Mague and Munro. The Scotch Plains team could have had a date with Westfield but preferred to cross bats with the Hope boys.

COAL SUPPLY IS DWINDLING

FIRM HAVING LARGEST AMOUNT IS DEALING IT OUT SPARINGLY.

A Few Shipments of Bituminous Coal, But Price is High—Much Wood Being Sold.

McDonough Brothers, the coal and wood dealers, now have about 200 tons of coal in their yards. Customers who ordered coal last summer and who have been patrons of this firm will be kept supplied while the stock lasts. Others will get it on conditions, but the chances are that unless coal is received in Plainfield the latter class will not get any. Those who ordered coal last summer are paying the price prevailing at that time. This firm will not charge over $10 per ton under present conditions.

During the past few days there have been received in this city shipments of a good quality of soft coal, the price of which is $10 per ton. There is no telling just how long this grade of coal will last. There are not many Plainfield people using soft coal and as long as possible they will refuse to use it. Yesterday wood was being delivered in various parts of the city, the price being six barrels for $1.

INTERESTING MUSKETS.

Are on Exhibition at Store of J. Hervey Doane of Park Avenue.

There are on exhibition in J. Hervey Doane's show window, on Park avenue, three interesting muskets. One belonged to the 23d Regiment, and was taken upon the surrender with the other British troops under Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va., October 19, 1781. The other was captured by a Jersey trooper at the Battle of Monmouth, June 28, 1778. The third musket was carried by a soldier of the 71st Grenadiers, British Regiment, at the Battle of Cowpens, S. C. It was surrendered with the company of Captain Duncanson to Captain Taite, commander of the independent company of Virginia militia.

FIRST FALL DRILL.

Held by Company K Last Evening—Business Afterward.

Company K held its first drill of the saeson last night with Captain Browning, who has recently been re-instated, in command. Following the drill there was a business meeting at which considerable routine business was transacted. The formal election of a corporal was held, and Alfred Trenchard received the appointment with but little contest.

Improvements at North Ave. Station.

In line with the improvements at the North Avenue station, workmen are now engaged in setting the fences back on the side of the parks facing the railroad. This will give more room and remove any obstruction along the railroad which would prevent a view of approaching trains.

New Secretary Appointed.

Miss Susan S. Hubbell, of Central avenue, has been appointed corresponding secretary of the Monday Afternoon Club to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Miss Harriet R. Shreve, who will spend the winter in New York.

SURPRISES IN NAMING SLATE

Somerset County Democrats Elected Their Candidates at Convention Yesterday.

TRICKERY HINTED AT

The Names of S. S. Childs and S. S. Swackhamer for Senator and Assembly Withdrawn After All Seemed Favorable for Them—Convention Enthusiastic.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 9—The Democratic county convention, which was held in the Court House here yesterday, was a more enthusiastic one than that of the Republicans a few days previously. It also differed in many other respects from that of the other great party.

The result of the morning session was reported in yesterday's Daily Press in detail. At the afternoon session the temporary organization, Hon. James J. Bergen, chairman, and William H. Howell, secretary, was made permanent. There were no seats contested.

The platform adopted condemned the action of the Republican party in its attempt to dismember the county and congratulated the people of North Plainfield on their emphatic repudiation of the Republican scheme; condemned the Republican party for the advance in the price of living, said the trust evils should be remedied at the ballot box and indorsed the nomination of Col. Perrine for Congress.

John T. Somers, of Franklin township, was unanimously nominated for coroner.

William Prout, of Bernards, was named for Assembly and the names of Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield was withdrawn.

The name of Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, for State senator was withdrawn in favor of Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, and he was nominated by acclamation.

William J. DeMond, of Bridgewater and A. Gibby Spencer, of North Plainfield were the only names presented for surrogate. The former was elected on the first ballot, which resulted as follows:

	DeMond.	Spencer.
Bedminster	4	2
Bernards	6
Branchburg	3	3
Bridgewater	12	2
Franklin	4	2
Hillsborough	2	4
Montgomery	3	3
North Plainfield	1	4
Warren		6
	35	26

For Assembly, William Prout, of Bernards, and Rev. H. D. Opdyke, of Martinsville, were the only ones named. The former received the nomination on the first ballot, the vote standing 53 to 8 in his favor. Two Bridgewater and the Warren delegates voted for Mr. Opdyke.

The candidates were sent for and made brief but stirring addresses. Other speakers were Col. Perrine and Hon. R. S. Woodruff.

It looked very much as if Samuel S. Childs and Samuel S. Swackhamer would receive the nominations for State senator and assembly, respectively, just before the noon recess, but a deal in which trickery is claimed, seemed to have put them out of the running when the convention met in the afternoon.

The delegates from North Plainfield were William J. Conroy, John T. Case, Walter O. Linbarger and Lambert Bodine.

Chief Dougherty Complimented.

The Railroad Employee in the last issue pays a compliment to Chief of Detectives Dougherty, of the New Jersey Central, who is well-know in this city. It says: "Chief of Detectives Dougherty has been rendering valuable aid to the transfer. His ability as a sleuth is unquestioned, and his demonstration in recent cases has called many compliments from his friends."

Drum Corps Annual Fair.

The annual fair of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps will commence in Saengerbund Hall, Monday evening. Dancing will be the feature of each night, music for which will be furnished by the corps or a band. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the purchase of new instruments and uniforms.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

If you will take your feet to John H. Doane's shoe store on West Front street, he will properly fit them with a pair of comfortable shoes. His stock of shoes for men, women and children is one of the best in the State.

Because the weather is somewhat cool, it doesn't mean that Fowler's ice cream is not just as delicious as ever. If you prefer some other form of sweetness see Fowler's large display of chocolates, marshmallows and other confections.

There is nothing more refreshing than a cup of delicious tea made from the pure leaves, or a cup of pure coffee. This you can get at the oriental store kept by P. G. DuBois, on West Front street. He also keeps a complete line of delicacies.

Powlison & Jones are undisputably the largest furniture dealers in this section and carry constantly an immense stock. They are thus enabled to give customers the benefit of large lots to select from and sell cheap by buying great quantities at a time themsleves.

Don't delay in getting your new fall suit until the cold wind makes you shiver and shake. The price of them is low now but they will not remain so long. Harry Werner has an unusually large line of medium weight suitings that are stylish and are guarnateed to give good wear.

Few druggists are as deservedly popular as John P. Powers, proprietor of the Somerset pharmacy, 41 Somerset street. Mr. Powers makes a specialty of prescription work, although not to the exclusion of family trade. His line of fall medicines is excelled by nobody in the city and anybody going to his drug store can count on the most courteous treatment.

It is often a serious question at a wedding or entertainment what florist to employ. One always wants a responsible man who can be depended upon, and if those in doubt will consult Chas. L. Stanley, 124 North avenue, this serious question will be solved. Mr. Stanley is not only an excellent florist, but if he says a thing will be done one can always depend upon it.

The coal supply of the country being very small at the present time has made the householders look for other means of cooking and heating. It has been ascertained that the demand for oil far exceeds the output of any former year by the Standard Oil Company from ten thousand to eighteen thousand barrels a day. This oil company also acts as the distributing agents to dealers of the Perfection Oil Heaters, one of the most safe and reliable on the market. In the early summer months the housefurnishing buyer of Hill & Shupp's secured a large number of these heaters which they now have on sale, each one guaranteed to do exactly as represented.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

—A large number of the women from Grace Episcopal church went to Seawaren yesterday to attend a convention.

Councilman Jan. vanHerwerden has returned from a successful hunting trip in the south.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. W. Randolph.

MITCHELL HURRIES TO NEW YORK.

He Also Sends a Sealed Reply to the President's Latest Proposition. Stone Is Denounced For Sending Troops.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 9.—Unless President Mitchell's hurried visit to New York bears fruit the end of the mine workers' strike seems a long way off, and the prospect of sufficient coal being mined to satisfy the public demand is extremely poor. Every local union of the miners' organization throughout the hard coal belt has held a special meeting and resolved to remain on strike until the mine owners grant them some concessions.

While the reports of these meetings came pouring in to Wilkesbarre President Mitchell dictated a letter to the president of the United States, in which he gave his answer to the proposition that the strikers return to work and trust to have their condition improved through an investigating commission. What the answer of the miners' chief is he refused to divulge, but it is difficult to conceive that, with the replies of the local unions piled around him, he could do otherwise than respectfully decline the president's proposition.

Mr. Mitchell sent his letter to Washington before he had heard from all the locals and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, accompanied by the three district presidents, left for New York. His mission there is also a secret. As New York is the headquarters of the coal operators a rumor immediately spread that a settlement was in prospect, but Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues would not say whom they expected to meet.

It was a busy day for the miners' officials about headquarters. From early morning until late at night the returns came in constantly. In the evening the corps of newspaper correspondents stationed here were invited to examine the reports, and not one was found that was not couched in firm language. Briefly stated, the resolutions in these reports affirm the confidence of the men in the integrity and judgment of their president, praise President Roosevelt for his efforts to end the strike, denounce the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for their alleged abuse of the chief executive at the conference in Washington, denounce the employment of the coal and iron police, thank all organizations and citizens throughout the country for the financial assistance given and denounce Governor Stone for sending troops here.

Nearly all the resolutions contained a sentence to the effect that the men will remain out "though all the troops in the United States were sent here" until they are granted some concessions.

Operators Did Not Come.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The visit to this city of the committee representing the National Association of Manufacturers for the purpose of conferring with the presidents of the anthracite coal carrying roads, who last week met President Roosevelt and the officials of the miners' union at Washington, appears to have been fruitless. The committee arrived here early in the morning and spent the greater part of the day at the Manufacturers' club awaiting the appearance of the presidents, but none of the latter answered, in person at least, the request of the committee for a conference. At night the committee issued the following vague statement: "The committee of manufacturers came to Philadelphia after meeting John Mitchell and his associates at Buffalo on Tuesday for the purpose of considering measures by which the coal strike could be ended, and this committee will meet again Oct. 14."

State Guard In Camp.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The entire national guard of Pennsylvania is in camp in the anthracite coal regions. Contrary to expectations, the troops were well received, and there was no disposition on the part of the strikers to annoy the soldiers. There was only one instance during the day of any show of feeling, and this was manifest at Bethlehem when some boys stoned the second section of the train bearing the First regiment from Philadelphia. Universal quiet reigns throughout the entire region. Brigadier General Schall, who arrived in Tamaqua, telegraphed to Major General Miller that there was no disturbance of any kind in the district. The soldiers who arrived yesterday were all scattered throughout Schuylkill, Luzerne, Carbon and Northumberland counties.

Has Baer Resigned?

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—A rumor is current here that George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, has submitted his resignation to the board of directors. Two members of the board of directors, however, emphatically denied the report. The impression prevails here that United States Senators Quay and Penrose are still endeavoring to effect a settlement of the strike. The two senators have gone to New York, but declined to state the object of their visit.

Wrecked on Costa Rican Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The Kosmos line steamer Kaulyses is a wreck on Guines point, on the coast of Costa Rica. The vessel left here Sept. 18, bound for Hamburg, and news of her loss was received in a dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange. The message announces that it is thought that the cargo or a part of it can be saved.

FRENCH MINERS STRIKE.

France Is Now Brought Face to Face With a Coal Famine.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—In accordance with the decision of the national committee of the French Miners' federation a general strike began this morning.

It is estimated that 42,000 men had already struck in the northern coalfields and that 5,000 men had struck around St. Etienne.

The committee issued a manifesto addressed to the miners' comrades in the United States, England, Germany, Belgium and Australia which declares in part:

"The cause we are defending is common to all. We are pushed to the last extremity in fighting to obtain a slight improvement in our miserable condition, more equitable remuneration, with regulation of our work for the present and legislation sheltering us against the strict needs of old age. We are sure you understand your duty. We leave to you the initiative in such measures as are most convenient to you in aiding us in this struggle."

The manifesto then appeals to the troops mobilized against the miners to remember the conduct of Colonel St. Remy in refusing to obey orders during the Brittany school troubles, which were contrary to his conscience.

The decision of the national committee of the Miners' federation to declare a general strike throws the responsibility upon the mine owners, because the latter have declined to discuss the claims of the miners. The mine owners took this attitude on the ground that the questions of the regulation of work and old age pensions were now before parliamentary committees and the strike had already broken out without warning and without motives.

The Temps calculates that the French miners number 162,000 men, of whom only 60,000 belong to the federation.

The probability of a rise in the price of domestic and factory coal is beginning to be seriously discussed. The secretary of the mine owners' committee in an interview predicts dear coal in Paris this winter.

Military Reservation at Manila.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Secretary Root has issued an order setting aside a large tract of land containing 1,800 acres within five miles of Manila as a military reservation. The place is intended to be the site of the first of a system of modern brigade posts which are to be erected throughout the islands. Accommodations will be afforded at this post for one regiment of infantry, two squadrons of cavalry and two batteries of artillery. It is the purpose to get the soldiers out of Manila proper as far as possible. Probably the garrison at Manila proper will be ultimately reduced to a regiment of heavy artillery kept within the walled city for the purpose of manning the seacoast fortifications there.

Two Negroes Lynched.

NEWBERN, Tenn., Oct. 9.—Garfield Burley and Curtis Brown, two negroes, were hanged here by a mob of 500 persons. Burley on Saturday last shot and instantly killed D. Flatt, a well known farmer, near Dyersburg. Flatt had traded horses with the negro, and the latter demanded that the trade be declared off. Flatt refused to accede to this proposition and while on his way home was shot down by Burley. A posse had been hunting the murderer and last night located him in a negro cabin at Huffman, Ark. While being brought to Dyersburg Burley confessed the killing, implicating Curtis Brown as an accessory.

"Tunnel Orphan" Gets $19,000.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Rather than fight the case in the supreme court the New York Central Railroad company, by paying $19,000, has settled the action brought by Captain Woodward and the Mutual Trust company of Port Chester as a guardian of little Ada Howard, known in the Westchester courts as the "tunnel orphan," against the corporation for $100,000 damages for the killing of her father, William Howard, in the Park avenue tunnel wreck on Jan. 8.

Manchurian Lands Restored.

PEKING, Oct. 9.—The Manchurian territory lying south of the Liau river has been restored to the Chinese in accordance with the Manchurian agreement. Although reports show an increase in the trade of Manchuria, reforms are not expected there until the evacuation is completed, as Russia maintains her objection to the extension of the imperial post to the railroad and the interior and discourages trade.

Fatal Crossing Accident.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 9.—An automobile containing Harry Tod, John Tod, Frank Silver and Charles Stitt was run down by an Erie train. Harry Tod was instantly killed, and Charles Stitt received slight injuries. The others escaped injury. Harry Tod was a son of Harry Tod, a prominent capitalist and a grandson of the late Governor Tod of Ohio.

Insurrection In Macedonia.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 9.—A messenger has arrived at Rilo, a village on the Macedonian frontier, bearing a telegram addressed to the Macedonian committee at Sofia and signed by Nicoloff, one of the leaders of the revolutionists who recently escaped imprisonment, saying that a general insurrection had broken out in a dozen districts in Macedonia.

Cornell's Registration.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 9.—President Jacob Gould Schurman has announced the official figures of Cornell's registration for the year. The attendance at Ithaca is 2,415 students. This does not include some 600 students in Cornell's Medical college in New York city.

RIOT IN NEW ORLEANS

Attempt to Move Cars Ends In Bloodshed.

POLICE FIRE ON THE STRIKERS.

Governor Hoard Unites With Mayor Capdevielle In His Effort to Maintain Order and Protect the Trolley Lines.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—As a result of the continued difficulty experienced by the New Orleans Railway company in attempting to resume their schedules on account of the conflict between the strikers and those who attempted to fill the dissatisfied men's positions all the militia in this city has been ordered under arms.

The railway companies have announced that they will again attempt to run their cars, while the strikers are as determined as ever.

The attempt by the street railway company to resume the running of cars, which has been interrupted for more than a week by a strike, was attended by a series of riots and clashes between the police and mobs of strike sympathizers, in which many persons were wounded.

At 10 o'clock a car was run out of the Canal street barn. A large number of policemen were on board it as guards. Peter Johnson and Alfred Clark, who came here yesterday with thirty men imported from Chicago to act as strike breakers, were in charge.

The car had gone but a few yards when a mob of strikers which had been waiting in front of the barn closed in. Obstructions were thrown in front of the car, and stones, bricks and clubs were hurled at the occupants, several of the police being hit and badly hurt.

The car came to a stop, and the police drew their revolvers and fired on the mob at close range.

Shots were fired in return by men in the crowd, and several of the policemen were badly wounded. Johnson and Clark, the nonunion men composing the crew of the car, were both so seriously wounded that they may not recover. John Kennedy, a nonunion man who was on the car, was shot in the hand. A striker of the name of Ferguson, who had been employed as a motorman, was shot in the arm.

It is said that about a hundred shots were fired.

Governor Hoard was reached during the afternoon and after a telephonic conference with Mayor Capdevielle ordered Major General Glynn, in command of the military district, to report to the mayor. There was a consultation of the military commanders, and arrangements were made to distribute the troops today so that adequate protection will be afforded the company in its effort to run cars.

A Monument to Americans.

HAVANA, Oct. 9.—Among the many observances of Oct. 10, the anniversary of the beginning of the revolution of 1868, will be the laying of the cornerstone of a monument to be erected here in memory of certain Americans who in 1861, under Narcisso Lopez, landed in Cuba and began a revolution and who were afterward captured and shot. The house of representatives has voted to appropriate $15,000 to be distributed Oct. 10 among poor Cuban soldiers and the widows of soldiers. Of this amount $2,000 will be used to educate in the United States the son of the Cuban patriot Antonio Maceo.

Cabinet Has Not Resigned.

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 9.—The announcement made here Wednesday that the cabinet had resigned was erroneous. On the contrary, the cabinet met and the ministers decided not to present their resignations to President Romana until the special committee of the chamber of deputies submits information concerning a telegram which was sent to Chile regarding the question of Ecuador and Colombia.

Swell Wedding at Ardsley.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Miss Eleanor N. Thomas, daughter of General Samuel Thomas, and R. Livingston Beekman were married yesterday at the country residence of the bride's father at Ardsley, on the Hudson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ingham. New York city society was largely represented at the wedding.

New Line to Boston.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A dispatch received here from Bristol says it has been officially announced at Bristol docks that as a result of negotiations carried on at Bristol and Boston J. H. Welsford & Co. of Liverpool will begin a steamship service between Avonmouth and Boston. Vessels will sail from both ports once a fortnight.

Fine Home For Masons.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—A great Masonic home is to be erected in Moultrie county, by the Freemasons of Illinois. A tract of 120 acres of land in Moultrie county has been bequeathed to the grand lodge upon condition that a home for aged Masons and Masonic widows and orphans be erected upon it.

SOMERSET'S TROUBLES.

Somerset county promises to offer an even more interesting political situation than will Union at the coming election. Of late years, there has been a normal Republican majority in Somerset county. But factional disputes have threatened it. A Democratic sheriff is now in office as a result of this trouble. Heretofore the two factions in the Republican ranks have been content to fight it out at the convention and support the ticket nominated more or less earnestly. Now, however, the one faction has withdrawn and is permitting the other to "go it alone."

There is no basis for the statement that Senator Reed and his friends in Somerset county are going to support the ticket nominated at the Democratic convention at Somerville yesterday. There may be a few of that faction who will on election day openly oppose the Republican nominees as did certain of Former Senator L. A. Thompson's adherants on previous occasions but the majority of them will cease playing the role of politicians and become plain private citizens for the time being. But that is going to make a decided difference in the general result. While their votes may be cast for the Republican ticket, their efforts will be missed. The balance of power is small at best and a little less effort on the part of either party may be enough to turn the election.

It was said that the ticket nominated by the Republican convention Monday was a compromise ticket. The truth of it is, however, that there was little compromise about it. The proposition made by Mayor N. B. Smalley which would have resulted in a union of all the Republican party in Somerset was turned down without hesitation. Then the faction, which finds its leadership in Somerville, prepared a ticket and has labelled it "compromise." But it will not take the place of the other. It may not mean the defeat of the Republican ticket in Somerset county but it certainly has very much that appearance of it now.

A strong ticket was nominated by the Democrats yesterday. Headed by N. Y. Dungan for senator, the Democrats seem to have done well. It is probably on the senatorship that the hottest fight will be made and there, as far as general popularity is concerned, it looks as if the Democrats had the stronger man. Both candidates are men of integrity and honesty but Mr. Frelinghuysen, as he has figured as one of the chief lieutenants of the Thompson faction is not wonderfully beloved by all the Republicans who have happened to side differently. While he is well-known in Somerville where he comes from one of the oldest families and will probably wage an aggressive campaign, he is not so generally looked up to as one of the able men of the county as is Mr. Dungan.

These are influences which will be brought to bear as election day approaches. They make it evident that the result is going to be a close one either way and which particular way remains in doubt.

The action of the Hope Y. M. A., Monday evening, in making plans for the continuance of athletic sports, is one that will meet with the commendation of all who believe in good, healthy exercise. Athletic sports are, and have been, for years, an important factor in the upbuilding of young men and those who engage in a little recreation after a days's confinement will return to the morrow's duties with renewed vigor and energy. The Y. M. A. has done much to improve the minds and morals of its members and for two years past has interested itself in their physical welfare. With the formation of its football and basket ball teams and gymnasium classes, together with its educational instruction, the organization is carrying on a work unaided that will be realized years hence more than at the present time.

The facetious young man persists in having his joke about the coal situation. The latest says the time honored miner's rhyme

"Down in a coal mine, underneath the ground Digging dusty diamonds all the year around'" should be changed to

"Up on a hill, boys, up on higher ground
Take a dig at the militia, boys, that's always hangin' round."

It is unfortunate that the world is chock-a-block with iconoclastic individuals who pop up at the wrong time. One spoiled a good story the papers were exploiting yesterday, to the effect that a trainer in one of New York's animal shows had a terrific encounter with a tigress in its cage. The prowler discovered the fact that the animal possessed but one tooth and also that a similar affair takes place every time the show strikes a new town.

ORGAN NOT READY.

Grace M. E. Church to Reopen on Sunday, But New Instrument Cannot be Used.

Grace M. E church will be reopened, Sunday, and the pastor, Rev. E. L. Earp, will ocupy his pulpit. The new pipe organ is being set up by workmen from the factory but will not be ready for use at the opening.

In all probability the organ will be used for the first time on Sunday, November 2, when Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, D. D., L. L. D., editor of the Christian Advocate, will preach morning and evening. Dr. Buckley is, perhaps, the foremost preacher in the M. E. conference and is considered a most able speaker. Tuesday evening, November 4, a grand organ concert will be given in the church and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings following, there will probably be a reception to former pastors and a congregational sociable.

INSTALLING HUGE BOILERS.

The Improvements at Electric Light Plant Will Increase Facilities.

The huge boilers for the new engines at the local electric light station, arrived yesterday, and are now being installed by a gang of workman from Dayton, O. They worked all day yesterday and the greater part of the night but it will be several days before all are in place.

When the new engines are in running order, the plant will be one of the best equipped in the state. Despite the recent additions made to the building, serious inroads have been made on the spare room and it has been determined to close up the large front doors facing on Madison avenue. This will shut off the view of passers-by but it is done to prevent curious people from getting too near the machinery.

TO COMPLETE SANITARY CODE.

Expected Board of Health Will Do It At Next Meeting.

It is expected that the Board of Health will at its next meeting, October 14, complete the reading of the new sanitary code, after which it will be adopted as a whole. Then will the Board have something to work on in the future and guide its members when certain contingencies arise. This code also provides for the control of plumbing work and the licensing of plumbers. This clause was inserted at the request of the leading plumbers in Plainfield.

RETAIL CLERKS' DANCE.

The First Reception of the Season Was Given in Casino Last Night —Was Largely Attended.

The first dance and reception of the Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association was given at the Casino, last evening, and it was a most successful affair. There was a large number of guests present in addition to the members of the association and all thoroughly enjoyed the select programme of dances arranged, which comprised twenty of the latest compositions. The music for the occasion was furnished by Suhr's orchestra and this was a decided feature. Frequently the orchestra received an encore and the musicians generously responded.

The dancing was continued until an early hour this morning and at midnight there was an intermission when refreshments were served. The committee, to whom credit is due for the pleasant affair, consisted of H. P. Greenwood, chairman; A. C. Hoagland, James McLean, Louis Bruker, Caspar F. Waglow, W. Daly, A. Koch, and the Misses E. V. Day, T. M. Smith, K. T. Carty, Daisy Snyder and Edith Lacey.

SECURED DAMAGES.

For Being Run Down on His Wheel by a Driver of a Vehicle.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, October 9—In the Circuit Court, on Tuesday, the case of Edward S. Slack against T. A. Bellis was tried. It was a suit for damages done to the wheel of the plaintiff, who was run down by the defendant while he was out driving.

The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict of $50. Edward P. Johnson, Jr., was Slack's counsel.

Death of Joseph Truitt.

Colonel J. F. Wilson, of the borough, received word last evening, of the death of his son-in-law, Joseph Truitt, of Philadelphia, whose serious illness was announced in The Daily Press of yesterday. He had been afflicted with pneumonia and heart trouble for a month. No mention was made as to when the funeral would take place.

Bazaar and Reception.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley is attending the Republican convention at New Brunswick today. The men who will represent the Republican party at the polls on Election Day from this county, will then be chosen. Although everything is expected to pass off peaceably it is probable that friction will arise in some districts as efforts may be made to oust certain candidates.

Miss Flora Willguss will leave her position at Whittier School within the next few days. Mrs. Richard Morris, of Bonnd Brook, has been employed to fill the vacancy for a short time. After that a new teacher will be employed and several on the present staff promoted. Miss Weatherwax will take Miss Willguss' room and Miss Brokaw will take Miss Weatherwax's.

That people will not stop at any length to get coal is shown by the fact that several tons were stolen from a carload left by the Craig Manufacturing Company in Garretson & Gray's yard, for a short time.

A new grocery firm has been formed in town and will commence business shortly. The partners are William Dealaman and John Fenner. The business will be continued in Dealaman's present store.

Garretson & Gray are running their saw mill on the mountain, steady, in order to meet the demand for wood. Wood is selling for $8 a cord in town.

The boys of Whittier School have purchased a football and now their recesses are spent playing that game.

As soon as the work of grading Prospect avenue is finished, work will be started laying the sidewalks.

Wilson Fredericks is attending the Republican convention, at New Brunswick, today, as a spectator.

The Craig Manufacturing Company is having a large coal shed built back of their present factory.

Special services will be held in the Presbyterian cuhrch on Sunday as it is Rally Day.

Hudson Wilcox has slightly improved from his illness during the last few days.

Prayer meeting was held in the local churches last evening at 7:30 as usual.

L. E. Rand, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with friends in town.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its regular meeting today.

Albert Doolittle enjoyed a day's vacation yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

George Bunitng and J. B. Cleaver will go to New Brunswick, today, to represent this district at the Republican convention. Dr. M. J. Whitford's term in the Assembly ends this fall and his name will come up for renomination at the convention today.

Prayer meeting was held in the First Baptist church last evening, with the pastor as leader.

The cornet band will hold regular practice this evening in Recreation Hall.

Stanley Day had ripe raspberries out of his own garden for breakfast today.

Charles S. Day is spending today in New Brunswick on business.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The women of the Methodist church will hold their entertainment and cake sale in Excelsior Hall tomorrow night. An entertaining programme of recitations, tableaux and pantomime will be given and the committee in charge are anticipating a full house. Cake and ice cream will be on sale during the evening.

There will be no football eleven to represent the village upon the gridiron, this season. All efforts to revive the sport having failed, some of the best material for an eleven have joined out of town elevens, several going to Plainfield while others have joined the Garwood eleven.

The typhoid fever epidemic, which has been raging for the past two months among the residents of Washington Valley, seems to have abated. No new cases are reported and those who have been afflicted are all doing nicely.

Scotch Plains' Sunday-schools were well represented at the Union County Sunday-school convention held at Elizabeth today.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the town rooms.

William Alexandra has secured a position at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, Plainfield.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet in the Library rooms tonight.

John Meserole and family have removed to Brooklyn, their former home.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, of the East New Jersey Association will be held in Newark tomorrow, opening at 10 a. m. Mrs. J. A. Cubberley, who is the president, will attend.

Annoucement has been made of the recent marriage of Daniel Sofield, formerly of this town, to Mrs. Sarah Martin, of Metuchen. The bridal pair took a wedding trip to Gettysburg, Pa.

Charles S. Day, chairman of the Township Committee, has announced that the Norman house will be the new voting place for this election district.

Mr. Hough, who resides on the Endress farm, recently lost a valuable dog from an attack of hydrophobia.

Mrs. Theodore Laing and Mrs. W. H. Manning called on friends in New Market, yesterday afternoon.

Peter Latourette will sell at vendue his household goods next Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Day, a new railroad employe in town, is looking for a house.

First Fall Meeting.

The first of the fall meetings of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist chucrh, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are asked to be in attendance.

—Peaches, the last in the city, can be procured at Neuman Brothers today. Last of the season.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

EDWIN HUNT FROST WEDDED

POPULAR YOUNG PLAINFIELDER MARRIED TO YONKERS BELLE YESTERDAY.

Ceremony Witnessed by Large Assemblage of Friends—After Short Trip Will Reside at Yokers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Yonkers, N. Y., October 9—A most fashionable wedding of yesterday afternoon was witnessed at St. Paul's Episcopal church, when Miss Sarah Marguerite Scribner, youngest daughter of Hon. G. Hilton Scribner, formerly Secretary of State, of New York State, and Edwin Hunt Frost, son of Former Councilman and Mrs. George H. Frost, of Plainfield, were married in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. deF. Miel, of Hartford, Conn., assisted by Rev. Mr. Gilbert, of St. Paul's church.

Miss Sara Frances Miel, of Hartford, Conn., niece of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. The bridemaids were Miss Harriot Havemeyer, of Yonkers; Miss Georgia Hall, of New York; Miss Marguerite Van Voorhees, of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Helen Hermance, of Yonkers, while Mrs. Lawrence Sandford and Mrs. Sullivan Jones, of Yonkers, were matrons of honor.

Francis W. Frost, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Lucius L. Gilbert, Robert A. Suffern and Arthur Beebe, of Plainfield; Stephen Reed, John Kingman and Osgood Scribner, the latter a brother of the bride, all of Yonkers.

After the ceremony a supper was given at which only the members of the two families and the bridal party were present. Following a short wedding trip in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside at Yonkers. The groom has been a resident of Plainfield about sixteen years.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. Gulick, Manager, New Brunswick, N. J., Rural Free Delivery No. 2, or J. F. McIntyre, Tel. 621, Plainfield, N. J. 9 23 1m

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 12, "Fruitful or Fruitless"—Text, John xv, 1-8; Mark xi, 12-14.

"He came, if haply he might find anything thereon; he found nothing but leaves."

This is a parable in action and wonder at the sudden withering of the fruitless tree that should not distract attention from the moral truth which Jesus evidently purposed to emphasize.

The Jews made fairest and most pretentious professions of piety. They claimed to be the especial favorites of Deity and to have exclusive revelations and privileges from Him. They exhibited remarkable zeal in religion. They had an exuberance of foliage spiritual, though all the rest of the world was barren and dead in vice. Their exhibition of devotion to God gave the right to expect some genuine fruit of godliness in the matter of righteousness and justice. A tree which has premature and luxuriant foliage and no fruit is not a better tree than its neighbors whose leaf and fruit buds are living, though as yet dormant. In fact, its very leafage may be proof of its worthlessness, either as evidence of disease in itself, of lack of depth of soil and a quick springing because of shallowness or the work of worm at the root sapping life forces. Either or all these causes will produce such an effect, or the early putting forth of foliage may be the effect of an abundant vitality and an actual precocity which marks unusual virtue and produces fruit of special excellence. The show of the genuine and sham is much alike

The Jewish religious pre-eminence was one of show and largely of sham. It preferred a Barabbas to a Jesus of Nazareth. It grew an Annas, a Caiaphas and a Judas Iscariot. It produced an Agrippa, whose persuasion never reached so far as to yield anything but leaves without figs.

Jesus is making His last appeal to His people to turn to God in truth. He has come to His own and has the right to expect them to be loyal to the God of truth and righteousness.

They are eager for the kingdom of God to appear. But when the King has come they crucify Him.

Jesus calls the attention of His disciples and of all men by this lesson of the fig tree to the necessity for genuine work in religion. No form of belief which does not pass through conviction into action is of value. Men must be good as well as talk and think the good. Their inner work must appear in outward deed. "By their fruits ye shall know them," He declares.

However much men imitate and simulate virtue while destitute of it, the value of the real remains permanent, and leaves never long deceive the seeker for fruit. Detection is absolutely certain. Neither God nor men will long tolerate the spurious. Both are hungry for the soul satisfying good. The tree which will not bear it is doomed.

Does this mean you? Many admire the genuine, but will not exert themselves to produce it. They stop at imitation. Such cannot abide. You must bear fruit or go. You may not long occupy ground unless you will yield fruit. You should bear abundantly. Are you doing so? If not, why not? The Master seeks fruit of you.

The Way of the Cross.

None of us can tell for what God is educating us. We fret and murmur at the narrow round and daily task of ordinary life, not realizing that it is only thus that we can be prepared for the high and holy office which awaits us. We must descend before we can ascend. We must take the via crucis (way of the cross) submissively and patiently if we would tread the via lucis (way of light). We must endure the polishing if we would be shafts in the quiver of Emmanuel. God's will comes to thee and me in daily circumstances, in little things equally as in great. Meet them bravely. Be at your best always, though the occasion be one of the very least. Dignify the smallest summons by the greatness of your response.—F. B. Meyer.

Making a Friend.

Trust is the first requisite for making a friend. How can we be anything but alone if our attitude to men is one of armed neutrality, if we are suspicious and assertive and querulous and overcautious in our advances? Suspicion kills friendship. There must be some magnanimity and openness of mind before a friendship can be formed. We must be willing to give ourselves freely and unreservedly. The more we know of Christ's spirit and the more we think of the meaning of God's fathomless grace the more will we be convinced that the way to please the Father and to follow the Son is to cultivate the graces of kindliness and gentleness and tenderness, to give ourselves to the culture of the heart.—Rev. Hugh Black.

Christ's Words.

You never get to the end of Christ's words. There is something in them always behind. They pass into proverbs, they pass into laws, they pass into doctrines, they pass into consolations, but they never pass away, and after all the use that is made of them they are still not exhausted.—Dean Stanley.

"Oh, Glorious Sabbath Sun."

Oh, glorious Sabbath sun, thou art
A balm and blessing to my heart;
Dark sorrow flies, and in thy shine
Bursts o'er the world a flood divine.

So may the light beyond the skies
Illume and bless my inward eyes,
That each new day may bring to me
The splendor of eternity.

DOUBTFUL RUMORS.

And Still Scores of Plainfield People Accept Them As Facts.

The published statement of some stranger residing in a far-away place may be true enough, but it is generally accepted as a doubtful rumor. How can it be verified. The testimony which follows is convincing proof because it comes from a resident of Plainfield.

Mr. F. O. Smith, of 686 West Front street, contractor for painting, etc., says: "There was a distressing pain across the small of my back which clung to me all the time. When I got seated at times if I moved a sharp pain struck me in the back and loins and almost made me exclaim. Any change in the weather or if I caught the least cold always aggravated the trouble and caused me to suffer severely. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by one of my employes who had been cured of a long standing case of kidney complaint by their use. I commenced the treatment, derived benefit from it immediately and before I had finished the first box I was cured."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 12—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Fruitful or fruitless.—John xv, 1-8, 16; Mark xi, 12-14.

The purpose of the Christian's life is fruitfulness. "Ye have not chosen Me," says Christ, "but I have chosen you and ordained you that ye should go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit should remain, that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in My name He gives you." It is here declared by the Master Himself that the purpose of discipleship is service. We are saved to serve. The kingdom of Christ is to be extended in the world by the endeavors of His disciples. God might have used the angels in heaven to carry forward His work, but He has ordained that it should be carried forward by those who have been saved in Jesus Christ. We work, and He works with us. We are colaborers with God for the extension of His cause and kingdom in the world. We are not to be idlers in His vineyard; neither are we to be fruitless, but our lives are to be filled with service and with the fruits that result from the faithful endeavors of those who are Christ's to extend His kingdom in the world.

Not only is the fact of service set forth here, but in the parable of the vine and the branches we have set forth the conditions of fruitfulness. On this subject Christ says: "Abide in Me and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in Me. I am the vine; ye are the branches. He that abideth in Me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit, for without Me ye can do nothing." The branch is fruitless except it abide in the vine. So is the Christian except he abide in Jesus Christ.

If human qualifications were the prerequisites to success in Christian life and service, it is a well known fact that many would not possess them; but it is possible for every child of God to abide in Christ and to have Christ abide in him. If we accept Christ by faith and live lives of faith and devotion and of prayer, Christ will dwell in our hearts and we will abide in Him, and the requirements will be met that will make it possible for the best fruits of Christianity to be produced in our lives.

The results of being fruitful and of being fruitless should inspire us to infinitely prefer the former to the latter. The fruitless branch is cut down, cast aside and destroyed. "Every branch in Me that beareth not fruit He taketh away. If a man abide not in Me, he is cast forth as a branch that is withered, and men gather them and cast them into the fire and they are burned." This is the result of fruitlessness in Christian life and service. The possibility of such a result should warn us against neglecting to abide in Christ and the neglect to bring forth fruit in our lives. On the other hand, they that are fruitful have their capacity for fruitfulness increased. "Every branch that bareth fruit He purgeth it that it may bring forth more fruit." Thus we see that the possibilities are constantly increased by the faithful performance of duties devolving upon us. The man to whom two talents were given had them increased to four; the man to whom five talents were given had them increased to ten. This is the law in the kingdom of God. To them that faithfully perform the services required of them there come increased opportunity and increased ability, and every service has its reward. "Behold, I come quickly," says Christ in the Revelation, "and My reward is with Me, to give to every man according to his deeds."

BIBLE READINGS.

Matt. xxiv, 16-30; xxv, 14-46; xxvi, 6-13; John ix, 4; Rom. xii, 1, 2, 11; I Cor. x, 31; xv, 58; Gal. vi, 9; Eph. v, 15-18; vi, 5-9; Phil. ii, 14-17; iii, 7-15; Col. iii, 12-17; iv, 1-6; Rev. ii, 10.

Life Values.

Life is to be understood only by taking God into it and lengthening it with immortality until all the incidents of earth and time drop into their proper relative place and value. The prevailing notion of the age, that we are big enough and wise enough to manage our own affairs and the affairs of the world, receives a rude shock when we are brought face to face with some problem we cannot solve or some force we cannot control. It is well to remember that this is God's world, not ours. Do not forget that life values are determined in eternity rather than in time. Leave God and immortality out of life, and we dwell in a fool's paradise. If that were the end, it might not be so bad, but to face the fact that some time, like the other prodigal, we are coming to ourselves must give us pause. — Universalist Leader.

Leave It to Him.

Let no thought of discouragement enter into our souls, let no doubt about final results intrude itself upon our minds, let the work be wrought in God, let faith take hold upon His promises, and let the results be left with Him.—Safeguard.

A Sunrise Somewhere.

Let us lay to heart the comfort
In this sweet reflection found
That, however dense our darkness,
Somewhere still the world around
Dews are glistening, flowers uplifting,
Wild birds warbling, as reborn,
Lakes and streams and woods and mountains,
Melting in the kiss of morn.

Ne'er was night, however dismal,
But withdrew its wings of gloom
Ne'er was sorrow but a day star
Hinted of the morrow's bloom;
Ne'er was woe but in its bosom
Was the seed of hope impearled;
There is still a sunrise somewhere
Speeding, speeding round the world.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

My visits to Darlington Hall were now constant. On the next day I arrived just as they had returned from their afternoon drive. They had been to the village store, and the carriage was a mass of silk and muslin and embroideries fit for a little princess.

"We must dress our darling as becomes the heiress of Darlington Hall," said Miss Elizabeth. "These will do for the present, dear child. Later we must make a pilgrimage to the city—that is, when your foot gets better."

"Oh," said Amaranthe, as John lifted her from the open victoria, "I wonder if I shall presently awake and find it all a dream! I was a Cinderella for so long, so long!"

John carried her upstairs. "Somehow," said John to me later, "she don't clasp my neck as the little miss used to do."

"That would not be proper, John," said I. "She is a young lady now. You must get used to the thought that this is our little Amaranthe grown to woman's estate." I followed the procession upstairs, for everyone went, from old Margot to Katherine and myself. Amaranthe closed her eyes tightly. As we reached the top of the stairs, I saw the door of the squire's bedchamber had been opened, and that Miss Elizabeth was standing just within the room, which she had taken for her own, and was beckoning John to enter. This he did, and advancing towards the bed, for there was no couch in the room, laid his light burden upon it. As she felt the change from the sofa of the little sitting-room to the softer resting place, Amaranthe opened her eyes suddenly and looked around her. Then she gave a succession of piercing shrieks, as she sprang from the bed and fled unaided through the doorway and into the little sitting-room. There she threw herself upon the sofa, still giving vent to screams of hysterical anger and passion. I had seen her behave in this way a few days before, but then there seemed to be some cause for it. There was no such cause now. The poor ladies, overcome by this change in her, closed round their ruffled dove and tried to smooth her feathers and calm her spirit. "Go away!" she cried. "Go away! You are trying to entrap me, to deceive me. I am not accustomed to that—that bed. I thought he was bringing me here. My nerves are wrecked, and you are setting me wild among you. I will leave this house this moment. Call the carriage. I will go back to Mrs. Brathwaite, or the poor woman in the city who took me in, rather than stay among people who, knowing what I wish, try simply to annoy and upset me."

To say that the poor ladies were dumbfounded but feebly expresses their feelings. They wept, they implored, they soothed, they begged forgiveness, and as I left them Amaranthe was sobbing some very wet sobs, and begging them, if they loved her, never to surprise her again; to tell her always what they meant to do, which they, poor, sweet souls, promised most faithfully.

As I went up my steps, I found Elder Wynne was sitting, as usual, by the front door.

"I have not seen much of Miss Dacres lately?" said he.

I thought this an excellent time to tell him what had been the outcome of my taking Amaranthe into my house, so I sat down and told him the whole story. When I had finished he exclaimed, "Capital! Capital! Nothing could be better! What a clever young woman."

"And how do you mean she was clever?" I asked indignantly. I had made Amaranthe's cause so much my own, that I could not bear to hear a word said to her discredit.

"Why, clever, most clever, to be thrown from her bicycle exactly in front of the Hall door, and be taken in as she was, while she took them in."

"Took them in," said I angrily. "She could have walked up there any day, and with those little portraits of herself as a child, with the reminiscences of her babyhood, with the letters to her father, with her memories of the place, of the animals, of me, to say nothing of Amaranthe's eyes, and Amaranthe's hair, she could have got into their hearts just as completely as she has through her accident. Your sort of people——"

"Gently! gently!" said Elder Wynne. I now saw that Mr. Beldon was standing behind the pillar where twined the champeny cluster, and as I had not seen him come in or go out, he had probably been there ever since I took my seat. I started as my eyes fell upon him.

"Don't mind Mr. Beldon," said Elder Wynne, coughing as he spoke. "He has probably enjoyed this story much more than I have." How Elder Wynne knew Mr. Beldon was standing behind him I could not imagine.

"You have neither of you enjoyed it," said I, nearly crying. "You are so suspicious, Elder Wynne,"—it's strange how easily I kept forgetting his double personality—"you see faults and frailties in every one, and as for Mr. Beldon, he has always hated her."

"I hate Miss Dacres?" said Mr. Beldon, coming up from behind the rosebush and up on to the piazza.

"Yes, you, Mr. Beldon. What has the poor child ever done to you? Yet from the first you have disliked her. She was rude to you, I know, but you have been much worse to her."

"Still, I do not hate your boarder, Mrs. Brathwaite."

"I do not think that Mr. Beldon hates Miss Dacres," said Elder Wynne, taking his side against me.

Mr. Beldon flung a scrutinizing glance at Elder Wynne.

"And why have you any opinion at all on the subject, Elder Wynne?" he asked.

But Elder Wynne was coughing, and could not answer.

When Mr. Beldon had mounted his wheel and ridden off to town, and Elder Wynne had ceased coughing, he said, looking up at me apologetically, "I always say too much, always. Somehow I hate to miss such a chance as that. And now I have a few little curios to show you, Mrs. Brathwaite." He arose and went into the hall and turned in to the room that had been Amaranthe's.

"How did you get in here?" I cried. "I have the key in my pocket."

"And, as you see, I have the key in the lock. Don't bother your head with foolish questions, dear Mrs. Brathwaite, but just see what I have found in your cellar." He closed the door, the shades were already lowered, and directed my gaze to the farther side of the bed. There, on chairs and on the table, which he had pushed behind the bed, between it and the wall, were various articles of silver, beautiful, rich pieces, some of which I recognized as having seen in the old days at the Hall, others with monograms and crests, which I recognized as being those of various country families near, though the articles themselves I had never seen. It made a goodly showing, although the silver was dull and needed silver polish. Elder Wynne nodded and tapped the table with his fingers. "In your own cellar," he said. "It is strange that the cellar stairs should descend from Miss Dacres' room."

"Not at all," I said angrily. "There is a great deal that I cannot tell you, much that was told me in confidence, but I know exactly how those things must have got there." I had the man Haughtry in my mind. Of course it was he who had stolen the silver and had forced my boarder to allow him to deposit it in the cellar, but this I was bound by my promise to Amaranthe not to divulge.

"You seem to go about my house, Elder Wynne, exactly as if you owned it."

"I do," said he, chuckling, a queer, subdued inward chuckle, "but not as Elder Wynne, as Bob Jennings at your service. By the way, let me tell you something else. I have, I fear, had to tell you many an unpleasant thing since you have so kindly given me a home. Do you consider your aunt quite a helpless invalid?"

"She is," said I. "Every one knows it."

"I am sorry, dear lady, to disabuse your confidence in her, but she is quite as able to walk as—no, not quite as able as you are, but she walks very well." My thoughts flew to the money. "No, she did not take that," he said, reading my mind. "You have heard, I suppose, of a malade imaginaire, Mrs. Brathwaite? It's a French expression, I believe."

"Yes," I said, slowly, faintly recalling the expression met with in some of my readings long ago. "Is that what Aunt Jane Mary is?"

"No, she's not even that." I wondered why he had asked the question. "She knows perfectly that she has nothing the matter with her but fat—pure, unadulterated fat—and laziness, the one caused by the other."

"I will not have you speak so of my relatives, Elder Wynne," I said. "I am sure that President Smith would never have——"

"Oh, yes, yes, he would," said the old man in his weak voice.

Salt Codfish in Egg Cups.

Let salt codfish picked in bits (not shredded) stand over night or some hours in cold water, then drain and wring out all the water. To each quarter of a cupful of fish, add one-half a cupful of cream or thin white sauce, and a beaten egg. Turn into a buttered cup, egg stirrer or poacher, and cook standing in hot water until nearly firm. The water should not boil. Serve in the cup or turn out as desired.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

The War Upon Disease.

Medicine is engaged upon an endless combat with endless foes. One disease is banished from our midst, hydra-like another dread disorder rises in its place. To-day it seems as though, while sanitation and bacteriology were defeating the enemies which preyed upon lung and alimentary canal, the ranks of disease are to be recruited from foes whose stress falls chiefly upon the brain and upon the spinal cord.—London Lancet.

STEAMER SUNK IN FOG.

Fast Liner Cuts Down Vessel and Two Are Drowned.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The North German Lloyd steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm, which sailed from Southampton for New York, ran into and sank the British steamer Robert Ingham during a dense fog off Lizard head.

The Robert Ingham went down about four minutes after the collision, but the Kronprinz Wilhelm saved all her crew of thirteen men, with the exception of the mate and the only passenger on board.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm suffered no damage whatever and proceeded on her voyage after landing the shipwrecked men at Southampton.

The passengers of the Kronprinz Wilhelm collected $260 for the widow of the drowned mate, whose body was recovered. The body of the passenger of the Robert Ingham was not recovered.

The Robert Ingham was bound for the Tyne.

Thirty Dead Bodies Found.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9.—Thirty dead bodies have been found in a cold storage plant in the rear of an ice cream factory on Eighth street. The same pipes which were used in congealing the cream for table use were connected with a small plant in a shed in the rear, where they kept the bodies cool. The heads of the several colleges interested in the establishment asserted that the bodies were obtained legitimately from the penitentiaries, insane asylums and other institutions of the state of Kentucky. The building is a small one and is provided with numerous thermometers for maintaining the proper temperature. The bodies were found in boxes, and most of them were in a good state of preservation.

Baptists Oppose Education Bill.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 9.—The British Baptist union, which is now in session here, passed a resolution declaring that the government's education bill violates the fundamental principles of the constitution and pledging the members of the assembly to a determined endeavor to make the measure if enacted ineffective and to suffer distraint of property rather than pay the school rate. Some of the pastors present opposed the latter section of the declaration and urged a substitute of a milder character, but eventually after a long debate the original resolutions were adopted by an overwhelming majority.

Schoolmaster Went Mad.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A special dispatch from Vienna announces that a fearful tragedy was enacted at Droyssig, Bohemia, on Monday. A village schoolmaster, forty years of age, while talking to his class suddenly became insane, rushed to his desk, drew a revolver from it and ran amuck, shooting right and left among the terrified children. Three scholars were killed and three dangerously wounded. On hearing the shots and screams the villagers quickly arrived at the school and, infuriated at the sight which met them, lynched the schoolmaster.

Mr. Bryan on the Stump.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 9.—William J. Bryan yesterday began a campaign on behalf of the fusion ticket of Nebraska which will continue with little interruption until November. It is Mr. Bryan's plan to visit nearly every county in the state. He made three speeches, at Pawnee City, Table Rock and Falls City, speaking to large crowds at each place. Trusts and imperialism were dwelt upon in his hour's speech at this place, with incidental reference to the coal miners' strike and the financial question.

VETERANS PARADE.

President Roosevelt Drives Along the Line.

GREAT DAY FOR GRAND ARMY MEN.

For More Than Six Hours the Streets of Washington Resounded to the Tread of Men Who Fought in the Civil War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—For more than six hours yesterday the people in Washington hummed the chorus of the old civil war song, "Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," and for an equal time the veterans constituting the Grand Army of the Republic made good the claim. The parade was the climax of the thirty-sixth encampment of their order. The occasion was in every way worthy of the Grand Army, and the parade did not fail appropriately to delineate the spirit of the war and the memory of the glorious achievements the army seeks to keep green in the minds of the American people.

Beginning at a few minutes past 10 o'clock, when the head of the column moved from its station at the capitol, it was almost 5 o'clock when the last squad in the line had passed the place of disbandment west of the White House. None of the soldiers was marching any great part of the time, for the entire line of march did not exceed two and a half miles in length, but those who composed the rear detachments were on their feet practically all day, much of the time being consumed in waiting to take their places in the line.

The route of the parade was down historic Pennsylvania avenue, along which many of them marched as raw recruits in going to the war in 1861 and 1862 and many others on the occasion of the grand review after the close of the war in 1865. The participants in the imposing pageantry entered with life and vigor into the spirit of the occasion. Each countenance bore evidence of the joy the experience brought to the individual, and it was plainly evident that there was in the occasion much of the restoration of youth for most of them. The "old boys" for the time being evidently were reliving the days of their youth. Not many of them exhibited traces of age in their marching. Almost without exception they walked along with alacrity and kept step with precision.

If the veterans had needed any spur to their enjoyment, they would have found it easily in the crowds who thronged their pathway and in the smile which Providence bestowed on them, for the weather was perfect. The spectators were limited in numbers only by the capacity of the broad sidewalks, the stands, the parks, the windows and the housetops along the line of march to hold them. The government departments and the schools were closed for the day, and practically the entire population of Washington turned out to do honor to the veterans along with the 100,000 visitors to the city.

The crowd was enthusiastic and outspoken in admiration, greeting every division of the procession with cheers and dismissing it with a "God speed" that had in it both praise and feeling.

The president of the United States also lent his energies to the entertainment of the capital's guests. Unable to endure the strain of reviewing the column from a stand, he rose from his reclining chair and had himself driven up and down the line. The unusual interest thus manifested was appreciated by the old soldiers, and the president was everywhere received by them with loud applause.

More than five hours' time was consumed by the procession in passing the reviewing stand in front of the White House.

There were at least 25,000 men in line, and the estimate of Commander in Chief Torrance ran as high as 30,000 men.

At night the veterans held campfires in the big tents in the White lot.

The three active candidates for the honor of entertaining the G. A. R. at the next annual encampment of the G. A. R. are Saratoga, Atlantic City and San Francisco. There seems to be quite a sentiment in favor of choosing some city between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and it is said that the encampment may go to neither of the three cities named if a city in the middle west actively pushes its claims.

The leading candidates for commander in chief are General Stewart of Pennsylvania, General John C. Black of Illinois, Colonel McElroy of Washington and General Daniel Sickles of New York. General Stewart is thought to have the lead at present, though General Black's friends claim about an equal number of delegates pledged.

Governor Bliss Unhorsed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Governor A. T. Bliss of Michigan was thrown from his horse near Washington circle during the G. A. R. parade and suffered several bruises about the body. He was treated at the Grand Army hospital and later removed to his hotel. His injuries are not regarded as serious. The governor rode with his old regiment in the Michigan division.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Westfield's ball season will terminate Saturday by the identical team which represented it last Saturday going against the crack Madison Athletic Club. There has not been an enjoyable Saturday since Labor Day and each game in the Plainfield series was badly hampered by the weather conditions. To ring the curtain down appropriately no better attraction could be secured than the Madison club, they are gentlemen ball players, have a fine season's record and have badly wanted a chance at Westfield all season. Game will be called at 3:30 o'clock and there ought to be something doing with Waller in the box and his magnificent backing. Madison will bring their loyal crowd over in rigs and all of Westfield intends to turn out to give their boys a hearty "good bye."

PING-PONG.

At the Y. M. C. A. ping-pong tournament, last night, E. McCarthy defeated Brokaw by a score of 8-6.

THEATRICAL.

An entire change of bill will be seen at the Central theatre this evening when Company No. 2 makes its first appearance. Those who saw the performances of the last few evenings, given by Company No. 1, know that the acts are all new and up-to-date. Only the best artists are being engaged and the wisdom of it is seen in the increased attendances. Six big numbers will comprise this evening's programme and in addition new illustrated songs will be given. This week the sentimental ballads, "The Bridge of Sighs" and "When Molly and I Were Coming Through the Rye," are being featured.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Steadman and son, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, are visiting friends in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Russell, of Winfield, Ia., are visiting Mrs. Russell's sister, Mrs. Y. T. Brown, of 90 Summit avenue.

Lewis Willett, of West Front street, has gone to Washington, D. C., to visit relatives, also to attend the G. A. R. encampment.

Wesley Randolph, the assistant operator at the Western Union Telegraph Company office, has returned to his position, following a short illness

CHILD INJURED BY AUTO.

MACHINE KNOCKED HER DOWN AND INFLICTED BROKEN ANKLE.

Was Crossing Street at Time and is Thought to Have Become Bewildered—Taken Home.

An automobile, said to have been driven by Otto Near, ran over and painfully injured Leona Jardot, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jardot, of Belmont avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The child was crossing Mountain avenue on her way to the Watchung School, when she saw the auto bearing down upon her. She lost her head, for the moment, and, instead of standing still or going back, she darted forward and the machine struck her and knocked her down. Bystanders picked the little girl up and she was taken to her home, where it was found that her right ankle was broken and her right side scraped and bruised. Her face was also bruised and cut.

While none of her injuries are serious it will be many weeks before the child will be able to be up and about.

Fredrick R. Phillips Wedded.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Brooklyn, October 9—The marriage of Miss Grace Douglass, of this city, to Frederick R. Phillips, of Plainfield, took place last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. E. Marsland. The affair was a quiet one, only the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties being present. Following a wedding trip the bride and groom will take up their residence in Plainfield.

To Canvass Colored Voters.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, October 9—A committee of nine prominent colored Republicans has been appointed, at a meeting held in this place, to make a thorough canvass of negro voters throughout the county. The committee will work under the supervision of the Colored County Republican Committee and its work will be finished about October 24.

Court Was Lenient.

Harry Gardner and Charles, better known as "Addie" McCann, were arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged with drunkenness. They were arrested at different times last night by Patrolmen Saffron and Quaas. Both pleaded guilty but as there had been no disorder, sentence in each case was suspended.

C. Harold Rittenhouse, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Rittenhouse, died Wednesday morning after a short illness. The funeral will be private and at the convenience of the family.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

LIFE UP IN ARCTIC REGIONS IS PICTURED

Dr. Dedrick's Talk as Published in the Last Issue of Washington, (N. J.,) Star.

NOT ALWAYS UNHAPPY

GRAPHIC PICTURE OF THE EXISTENCE IN THE FROZEN NORTH.

Physician of the Peary Expedition Talks of Weather in That Region —Enjoyed His Trip—Would Like to Go Again.

The Washington (N. J.) Star publishes an interesting interview with Dr. T. S. Dedrick, whose talk before the meeting at Brookside before the homoeopaths of the State was noted in these columns.

"The public naturally thinks a man is just a little off when he starts for the North Pole," said Dr. T. S. Dedrick the other evening, "but that does not necessarily follow. The North is full of wonders and it holds locked in its ice covered surface secrets that will solve world mysteries. Scientists know how much they have yet to learn by the little they already knew, and there is no section of the earth more fruitful of knowledge in this line than that region that lies within the Arctic Circle.

"Traveling in that territory is very much like trying to make a tour of New York city by way of the housetops. There are great mountains of ice which one climbs only to see beyond other greater mountains. Some of these extend down to the sea and now and again a massive ice berg breaks loose from the mainland and drifts out into the ocean. In some portions of the north in certain seasons one can see thousands of these bergs floating about on the sea. Some of them float for months and even years and many of them drift down into the lanes traveled by the great ocean grayhounds and cause these mysterious wrecks we sometimes hear of. It was on one of these ice bergs that a part of the Hall expedition, of which young Richard Bryan of Washington was a member, escaped from the wreck of the Polaris and drifted from May until October.

"It is said that only one-tenth of the bulk of these floating islands of ice appears above water. Now and then when they strike warm water the submerged portion melts rapidly and the berg keels over causing terrific waves that sweep the ocean for many miles. The members of the Hall expedition were in constant danger of such an occurrence.

"The weather in the North," "continued the physician of the Peary expedition, "is not always bad. For weeks it will rain terribly. A cold sleety rain that beats through the little skin tents used by some of the natives, but this will be followed by the bright sunshine and one will stand and bask in this and forget all about the miseries of the past few days. Game is more than plentiful and there is no dearth of something to eat. Coffee, tea, sugar and bread are the articles of food one misses if he runs short. The natives are great hunters and are really an industrious class of people. They do not appear to feel the effects of the weather and indeed a person from the south grows more or less accustomed to the cold. It is possible to work in any degree of cold now with the clothing that is provided for the northern travelers.

"The long nights are rather depressing but some of the Arctic explorers have over estimated the effect. For many months the stars shine and the snow and ice glisten in the moonlight. Then it is that the explorer does his traveling and frequently he finds on his return trip that a hundred yards from where he worked for days to make a few miles progress, there is a smooth sheet of ice over which he might have made the trip in a few hours. The Arctic is full of disappointments.

"I do not regret in the least having gone North and I will not say that I have had too much of it. The life is full of attractions for one who has experienced it and there are few men who have made the trip but who would make another."

DEMOCRATS WHOOPED IT UP IN BIG RALLY

The County Candidates Were Present at the Democratic Headquarters Last Night.

THE STATE ENDORSED

GREAT SPEECH MADE BY "FARMER ORATOR" JAMES E. MARTINE.

Only One Unpleasant Incident and Other Speakers Tried to Make Up for That—The Big Crowd Was Very Enthusiastic.

The Democrats whooped things up in a particularly lively fashion at last night's ratification meeting. From Congressman down to coroner the entire slate was endorsed, and there was not an uninteresting minute in the whole meeting.

At 7:30, the Independent Fife and Drum Corps began to parade through the streets, and when the meeting was called to order in headquarters on Second street at 8:30 there was standing room only in the hall.

Mayor Hilton, of Summit, was chairman, and the only discordant note of the evening was one remark he made in his opening address. Referring to the striking miners he said:

"People blame the miners for using violence. Why, my friends, all that ever brought liberty to any nation was riot and mob violence." It seemed so much like an official endorsement of mob rule that all the other speakers made a particular effort to counteract the effect of the speech by making their remarks conservative to the last degree.

The best speeches of the evening were made by James E. Martine and S. S. Swackhamer. The latter was called upon first. Although entirely unprepared he made an extemporaneous address, so interspersed with pertinent and humorous anecdotes that, almost from his first word, he had the audience with him and was cheered to the echo.

Telegrams from Hon. DeWitt T. Flanagan and Allen Benny were read regretting that they were unable to be present. Charles Moore, the nominee for sheriff, then took the floor. His remarks were short and to the point. He said he wanted votes? that he was called the Bill Devery, of Elaizbeth, and he only hoped that he would be as successful in getting votes as was Bill Devery, of New York. He proved to be very popular with the crowd and was well applauded.

Charles L. Moffett, candidate for Assembly, then spoke and briefly outlined the plan of campaign. Following him came Mr. Martine.

The "Farmer Orator" was at his best and delivered a stirring address. His principal topic was the tariff and he unmercifully flayed the G. O. P. for its tariff policy. A humorous incident occurred during Mr. Martine's speech. A stranger, evidently slightly intoxicated, began to question some of Mr. Martine's statements. Mr. Martine came down from the platform, grabbed the man, made him sit down and then began to thunder Democratic doctrines at him. In five minutes he had the stranger so squelched that he got up and left the hall. Mr. Martine spoke for over an hour, and during that time held his audience spellbound. From the tariff he switched off to municipal ownership, and when he finished his address he was applauded for fully five minutes.

Directly after this address Dr. George W. McCallion, of Elizabeth, candidate for coroner, spoke and he was followed by Carl Marz, the Elizabeth aspirant for assemblyship honors. Both their remarks were brief.

The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and streamers. Fully two hundred and fifty enthusiastic voters were present. In every way the ratification meeting was an entire success and certainly did no harm to the party. At 11:30 the meeting adjourned, after which a supper was served the candidates and speakers in the dining room of the Kensington Hotel.

HOW OLD COMRADES MET

JOHN MARTIN, OF HARMONY STREET, FOUND AN OLD FRIEND.

George Haas, of New York, Looked Him Up After Parade at Washington.

The encampment of the Grand Army veterans, just completed at Washington, was the means of bringing many old soldiers together who had not met since they parted at the close of the great civil struggle, but no meeting was more touching than one that took place in this city, yesterday. Among the old soldiers who paraded at Washington was George Haas, of New York, who was one of "Billy" Wilson's Zouaves. He fought side by side through many of the greatest battles with John Martin, of Harmony srteet. When Lee surrendered these two soldiers bade each other farewell with mutual promises to keep track of each other, but crowding events prevented their doing so. Haas attended the encampment and having a vague idea that Martin was somewhere in Jersey, made inquiries among the veterans from this State and at last heard that his missing friend was living at Raritan.

Returning from Washington, yesterday, he proceeded to Raritan only to find that Martin was in this city. He reached here yesterday afternoon and without difficulty located his old comrade. The meeting between the two who had not seen each other for thirty-seven years was very affecting and their joy found vent in tears. They spent last evening together exchanging reminiscenses and it was with renewed assurances to commence visits, living so near each other, that they parted last night.

Haas brought with nim to this city, his Zouave suit and also the flag which he bore in some of the most important engagements in the war. The latter contains nineteen bullet holes but is in an excellent state of preservation and it was with great pride the old soldiers exhibited it last evening, to a large delegation of friends who called at Martin's home.

A NEW PARTY.

Rumors That Kickers of Both Parties in Somerset Will Organize and Nominate a Ticket.

A rumor is going the rounds "across the brook" that an independent political party is to be formed in Somerset. The report has it that the embryo party is going to get to work within a week or so, nominate candidates and make a strenuous effort to capture the votes of the dissatisfied Republicans and Democrats of the county.

While those versed in Somerset political lore scoff at the idea, they freely admit that, if such a party is actually formed, it will poll a rattling good vote. There are thousands in the ranks of both the big parties who would only be too glad to co-operate for the purpose of downing the "machines," and it is this big vote that is going to decide the contest this year.

Until the rumor is either proved authentic or false, it will probably keep the county leaders of both parties guessing. In any case it will make it apparent to them that harmony instead of discord would be to their best interests.

PIANO RECITALS.

Two Concerts Will be Given by Frederick Hopkins Tomorrow.

Frederick Hopkins, representing the Chase & Baker piano player, and who is giving concerts at Hill & Shupp's store, announces piano recitals for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and evening at 8 o'clock. The public is invited to inspect the piano players on which the recitals are given and additional selections will be given on request.

I. C. T. STAG.

Members Gathered Last Evening to Listen to An Entertaining Programme.

Another one of the delightful "stags" which the I. C. T. Club inaugurated at the beginning of the season, was given in the rooms of the popular organization, last evening. Informality prevailed during the evening and the members and guests enjoyed themselves until after midnight.

During the evening an excellent programme was rendered to which the contributors were "Ray Time Tom" and "Jerry," with banjo selections; mandolin selections by Wesley Randolph; piano and violin selections by Charles Suhr and Kenneth Stuart; and vocal selections by George B. Cose, Archibald Hacquer, Thomas Muir and City Judge William N. Runyon. Addresses of a congratulatory nature were made to the club by William N. Runyon and Charles B. Morse, both of whom are honorary members. The serving of refreshments brought the affair to a close.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted by George L. Apgar, V. W. Nash, Jr., and George B. Cose.

MAKING AN ARTIFICIAL LAKE

EDWARD HOOLEY IS TO HAVE PRETTY SHEET OF WATER IN HIS YARD.

Will be Five Feet Deep, and Will be Stocked With All Manner of Fish.

Edward Hooley has a gang of men at work making excavations for a lake at the rear of his home on Rockview avenue.

The lake, when completed, will be about one hundred yards in length and half that in width. Next summer it will be stocked with several different kinds of fish, and it is hoped to make it one of the most complete aquariums of its size in the State.

In the centre of the lake will be a miniature island with a couple of large shade trees growing on it. This island will be connected with the mainland by a rustic bridge, while rustic seats will be placed all around the lake

Mr. Hooley intends to make his lake not more than five feet deep. It is dug out to nearly that depth now and there are scrapers at work leveling the banks and putting the finishing touches on the bottom preparatory to covering it with white sand and pebbles.

GIRLS' A. A. ELECTS.

Young Women of P. H. S. Complete Plans for Active Basket Ball Season—The Details.

At a meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School Wednesday a new constitution was adopted for the coming year. The resignation of Miss Dorothy Waldo, last year's president, was accepted and Miss Grace E. Borroughs was elected manager of the basket ball team. The team has received a challenge from the Girls' A. A. of the Rutherford High School and at the next meeting, to be held Friday afternoon, the advisability of playing this team will be considered.

MIDDLESEX NOMINATIONS.

Republicans Name at New Brunswick Their County Candidates.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, October 10—The Republicans of Middlesex county named yesterday a county ticket here. Everything was harmonious until the nominations for coroners were reached, and then there was a mix-up that for a time threatened the peace of the convention.

The candidates placed in nomination are William Carman, of Menlo Park, for sheriff; Theodore B. Booraem, of New Brunswick, for surrogate; M. J. Whitford, of New Market; W. H. C. Jackson, of New Brunswick, and J. E. Montgomery, of South Amboy, for Assemblymen; John V. Hubbard, of New Brunswick, and Dr. E. E. Haines, of South Amboy, for coroners.

Lots of Chestnuts.

If Saturday is clear, all the small boys in the city who have no football games on hand, will probably go chestnutting. There was a good frost the other night and the burrs are mostly wide open. While the nuts are small this year there are plenty of them, and Saturday will be a gala day on the mountain.

Second Degree for Three.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to be held this evening, three candidates will receive the second degree. Other business will be transacted for which a full attendance is asked.

GAS EXPLODED AT THE CASINO

Janitor Pearson Was Hunting for Gas Leak and Lighted a Match.

SOME DAMAGE DONE.

Small Fire Caused, But Fire Department Soon Extinguished It—Manager Edwards Was Thrown Down by Force of Explosion—Pearson Slightly Burned.

A terrific explosion, caused by leaking gas, wrecked a portion of the front part of the Casino building at 1:15 this afternoon. Maze Edwards, the manager, and James Pearson, the janitor of the place, the only occupants of the place, were thrown to the floor by the force of the shock and were stunned. The explosion was caused by Pearson lighting a match in the cellar to locate the leak. He also suffered the loss of part of his hair and beard. A small fire was caused and the department was called out but it was extinguished in its incipiency.

A peceptible odor of gas has been noticed about the building for several days and this afternoon, Manager Edwards asked Pearson to locate the trouble if possible. He proceeded to the cellar and traced the smell to a dark corner just beneath the Arlington avenue entrance. Not thinking the atmosphere was surcharged with gas, he struck a match and the explosion followed.

Partitions in the basement and front rooms of the first floor were blown out and a large hole six feet square was blown in the Arlington avenue side wall, the timbers being hurled in the street, while glass in every part of the building was shattered. Manager Edwards, who was seated at his desk, was thrown down and was almost suffocated by the plaster dust. Pearson managed to stagger his way upstairs and out into the air, where he gave the alarm.

FOUR BOWLED OVER.

Knocked Down by Hook and Ladder Truck This Afternoon.

A group of half a dozen men were talking on the corner of Front street and Madison avenue this afternoon when the hook and ladder truck swung around the corner, on its way to the Casino explosion. A ladder of the truck swept the roadway, knocking four of the men down. None were badly hurt. Rev. T. Logan Murphy had his shoulder and face a trifle bruised and Joseph Farley received a cut on his forehead. The rest got off with a shaking up.

New Apparatus Received.

The new combination hose wagon, ordered by the fire department some weeks ago, was received this morning and placed in No. 3 engine house pending its inspection by the committee. It is a model machine, carries two extinguishers and will, if accepted, prove a valuable accessory to the department.

Rev. Mr. Newman to Wed.

The wedding of Rev. Fred. B. Newman, son of H. Otis Newman, of West Fifth street, to Miss Anna Watson, of Salem, will take place at the home of the bride's parents this afternoon. Many of groom's relatives and friends from this city will be in attendance.

Board of School Estimate.

It is understood that a meeting of the Board of School Estimate will be held tomorrow night to fully decide on the resolution to be submitted to the Common Council, at an early date, asking for a bond issue to pay for a new City High School.

Developing Without Dark Room.

A demonstration of the latest invention for developing in day light will be given by one of Eastman's experts at Doane's jewelry store on Monday, Oct. 13, from 2 to 6 p. m. All amateurs are invited to see this wonderful machine. 10 10 2

Funeral of Mrs. LaTourette.

The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth LaTourette were held from her late residence, 27 Somerset street, at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, officiated and the interment was in the M. E. cemetery.

COUNTY WORKERS.

Sunday-School Convention Held at Elizabeth Yesterday—Those Who Spoke.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 10—The twenty-second annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association was held yesterday in the Central Baptist church and there was a large representation from all parts of the county. A very interesting programme was presented. Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains, led an animated discussion on "How May We Meet These Needs," and in the afternoon there was a five-minute address by George E. Hall, of Plainfield.

The reports of the township secretaries were very favorable and showed much improvement since the last convention, as were also the reports of the union officers, including that of Miss Edith Cairns, primary and junior superintendent, of Plainfield. Miss Cairns was a member of the resolution committee. The various topics discussed throughout the afternoon and evening were very helpful to all. It was announced that the State convention would be held at Trenton, November 20 and 21.

TO AID THE KITCHEN FUND

DOLLAR SOCIAL GIVEN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Given by the Ladies' Aid Society Last Evening—Those Who Took Part.

What was termed a "dollar social" was given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society for the benefit of the kitchen fund. As already known the women have, for a long time past, been endeavoring to raise funds with which to build a much-needed kitchen on the church. The sum of $300 is lacking to pay for the improvement which has been made and the amount received last evening from the women, as well as the voluntary contributions on the part of the men, will materially help in this direction.

During the evening a pleasing entertainment was given. This included several amusing short stories told by Edgar Williams in the negro dialect, a vocal solo by Mrs. Charlotte Ross, accompanied by Miss Allison, of Brooklyn; piano solos by Miss Allison, a vocal duet by Miss Henrietta Englehart and Miss Mabel Townley, accompanied by Miss Clara VanFleet, a reading by Miss Leah Hammond and piano duets by Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and Miss Clara VanFleet.

After the rendition of this programme the women collected the dollars, followed by the serving of refreshments consisting of pie, sandwiches and coffee. The social committee having the affair in charge comprised Mrs. Harry Williams, Mrs. LeRoy Gates, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. J. A. Haynes, Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. Edgar Williams, Mrs. J. C. Allen and Mrs. E. T. Burroughs.

The net proceeds for the kitchen fund amounted to about $100 and the Ladies' Aid Society feels highly gratified with the success of the affair.

RIDE AND DANCE.

Thirty Young People Went to Basking Ridge for Good Time.

Thirty young people from the city and borough went in stages to Basking Ridge last evening to a dance arranged and given by Clarence Brokaw and Willard Martin, of this city. The party reached their destination about 10 o'clock and went to Dayton's Hall, where the dance was given. Music was furnished by Westervelt, of Newark. A merry time was had by all and it was nearly 5 o'clock this morning when they returned home. The affair was a decided success and may be repeated later in the winter.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The mid-week meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on Madison avenue. There was a good attendance and the remarks by Mrs. Phelps, the leader, were helpful. Among those present were a number of strangers and they assisted in making the meeting one of interest. A feature was the singing by Mrs. John Manley.

Rally Day.

Rally day exercises will be held Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school. The affair will be held in the chapel.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The Board of Trade will hold its first fall meeting Monday evening, October 20, at which time plans for the winter work will be considered.

LOST ALL AT ST. PIERRE

ALPHOUSE DAUDET IS NOW THROWN ON OWN RESOURSES.

Once Wealthy Man is Playing His Cornet in Saloons and Stores to Earn a Living.

One of the most interesting characters that has ever been in Plainfield, struck town Wednesday in the person of Alphonse Daudet, a Frenchman and an inhabitant of St. Pierre during the recent eruption.

Daudet is now an itinerant musician, playing the cornet in saloons and stores. According to his own account he was, prior to the eruption, a rich man. His assertion seems to have some foundation on facts, for he is splendidly educated, speaks seven languages and, in his music, refuses to play anything but selections from operas.

A Daily Press reporter, with some difficulty, got a complete history of Daudet's life last night. The recital, particularly that portion of it that deals with the island of Martinique, was a thrilling one. The man was an eyewitness of Mt. Pelee's outbreak. In the terrible rain of red hot ashes that followed the first eruption, Daudet pere was killed with his aged wife and their daughter. Alphonse alone escaped to Port du France and, from there, came penniless to America.

Although a man of but forty Daudet's hair and beard are almost white from his terrible experience. He hates even to speak of it, and it takes the utmost persuasion to draw from him the facts of the story, although voluble enough on other subjects. To the reporter he said:

"It was terrible—sublime. You cannot conceive of the awfulness and of the solemn grandeur of that scene. I saw my family swallowed up—exterminated—in the blackness of the day. I could not help them, I could only flee, leaving behind me my family, my friends, dead. I came here. No money, no friends—heartbroken. I turn to music—it is my one comfort. Some day I will go back to my old home and, out of its ashes, will build another home in the shadow of the volcano that killed all that I love."

The Frenchman is refined and evidently sincere. He speaks English somewhat brokenly but understandingly. He says he will stay in Plainfield a couple of days longer and then go back to New York where his temporary home is.

W. C. T. U. OFFICERS.

Elected at the State Convention Held at Cape May.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cape May, October 10—The twenty-ninth annual convention of the New Jersey Woman's Christian Temperance Union, assembled in the Presbyterian church, elected yesterday the following officers for the year: President, Mrs. Emma Bourne, Newark; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Isabel H. Demarest, Closter; recording secretary, Dr. Eva Lake, Pleasantville; treasurer, Mrs. Henry L. Caminade, Trenton.

Miss Christina Tingling, of England, spoke last evening. The afternoon addresses were made by Mrs. M. V. Grice, president of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, and Miss M. L. Orr, of Ellis Island, N. Y.

Court's Confidence Misplaced.

After promising City Judge Runyon faithfully, yesterday morning, that he wouldn't drink any more, Harry Gardner was released with a suspended sentence. While this morning's session of court was in progress, Gardner was brought, or rather carried in, by Patrolman Vanderweg giving conclusive evidence that he had broken his word. He was too far gone to be tried and will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

Gothamite Succumbs to Grape Juice.

Lambert Dickerman, an expert pipe fitter who came to this city from New York to superintend a job, imbibed too much juice of the grape, last evening, and caused such a disturbance on East Second street, Patrolman Vanderweg was forced to escort him to police headquarters. This morning City Judge Runyon made it $3 or ten days. He took the former.

Accepted Road.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders and State Road Commissioner Budd have accepted the new stone road running from Skillman Station to Blawenburg, recently completed. The stone road between South Somerville and Belle Meade is now nearly completed.

Committee Meeting.

The Y. M. C. A. committee on physical work will meet at 9 o'clock this evening. Several matters of importance will be brought up.

WEDDING BELLS RANG FOR PLAINFIELD GROOM

Marriage of Miss Grace Douglass to Frederick R. Phillips, of This City.

DETAILS OF CEREMONY

MARRIAGE TOOK PLACE AT BROOKLYN WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Groom Resides in This City and Bride Has Been Living With Her Brother on Mercer Avenue—The Bridal Party.

An interesting nuptial event of Wednesday evening was the marriage of Frederick R. Phillips, of West Front street, this city, and Miss Grace Douglass, who has been living with her brother, Daniel Douglass, of Mercer avenue. The affair took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. E. Marsland, 391 Adelphia street, Brooklyn.

The maid-of-honor was Miss Edna Lovell, and bridemaids, Miss Marguerite Phillips, sister of the groom, and Miss Harriet Marsland. The ribbon-bearers were Miss Florence Phillips, sister of the groom; Miss Elsie Silsbe, Miss Lucy Douglass and Miss Mabel Douglass, the latter from Plainfield. They were all gowned in white silk. The best man was A. J. Dowdeswell, cousin of the groom.

The bride was gowned in white crepe-de-chine, with a veil and carried orange blossoms, and she wore a pearl and diamond brooche the gift of the groom. The bride's gifts to her maids were bracelets.

The parlors were decorated in green and white, the dining room in pink and green. As the bridal party entered the parlor from a rear room, the wedding march was rendered by Miss Duncan on the piano, and a stringed orchestra. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of palms. An informal reception and supper followed the ceremony and the bride and groom left later in the evening for Old Point Comfort and other points of interest in the south. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield.

The wedding gifts included solid silver, cut glass, furniture and a gold watch to the bride from her father. There were guests present at the wedding from New York, Connecticut, Brooklyn and Plainfield, including the groom's family and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Douglass, of Mercer avenue.

The groom was formerly employed at Neuman Brothers' grocery store and is now engaged in business in New York. The bride has lived for some time past with her brother, Daniel Douglass on Mercer avenue. Both are very popular in a large circle of friends.

STRIKE SETTLED.

Iron Workers on Babcock Building Have Reached An Agreement.

An amicable settlement was reached, yesterday, in the strike of the iron workers employed on the Babcock building. The men returned to work after being off several days with the understanding that something was to be done with the non-union employes who were on the job. Yesterday these latter consented to join the Union and went to Newark for the purpose. The contractor also agreed to hire no more non-union men.

Freeholder Law Unconstitutional.

Justice Dixon, of the Supreme Court, gave a decision a few days ago regarding the act of 1900 providing for the reduction of Boards of Chosen Freeholders in first-class counties to ten members. He holds the act is unconstitutional. The act was set aside as special legislation on account of the provision that to make it effective steps had to be inaugurated to operate under it prior to March 28, 1900.

Foot Crushed at Safe Works.

Joseph Higgins, of West Front street, was the victim of a painful accident at the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, yesterday afternoon. He was lifting a heavy casting when it slipped and fell on his right foot, crushing it quite badly. A fellow-workman assisted him to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the injury was dressed and he was taken home.

Contracts Awarded.

Wyman & Haberle have received the contract for the carpenter work on Woodhull & Martin's new building, and W. T. Kirk has the contract for the iron work.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Foss & Jeter, the Park avenue seafood dealers, make a specialty of breakfast orders. Their wagons go to any part of the city and make sure of arriving at the time specified.

Frederick Hopkins, representing the Chase & Baker piano player, is giving concerts every day at Hill & Shupp's dry goods store. A varied programme is given each day and it proves a strong attraction.

There is no question as to the absolute purity of the confectionery and ice cream manufactured and sold by Campbell, of West Front street. They are noted for being wholesome and containing only pure materials.

Those who want good tailoring done at prices that are as low as is consistent with conscientious work will do well to visit S. Hirsch, 432 Watchung avenue. He has all the latest styles at his fingers' ends and knows how to use his knowledge most advantageously.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Health it was reported that the milk supply in Plainfield was a trifle below the standard. This does not apply to Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue. Their product is up to the highest standard of excellence and guaranteed to be the best that can be sold.

A well known Philadelphia man used to tell his friends not to be "a clam." J. W. VanSickle, of North avenue, goes him one better and tells his friends not be fooled into buying a poor quality of meat at a high price. VanSickle has the finest cuts of all kinds and charges the lowest market rate.

An up-to-date prescription department is a necessary adjunct to the present day drug stores. Nagle's pharmacy on West Front street has one that caters especially to families wanting their medicines properly put up as it is under the proprietor's supervision. The standard medicines are always in stock.

The grocery store of Robert W. Barnes, at 217 Park avenue, is growing in popularity every day. His stock this week is a fine one. He has just received a large consignment of Utopia flour, while his supply of fancy and family groceries is hard to duplicate in the city. Figs and dates are selling well this week, he reports. He has plenty of both.

Weddings and receptions are often flat failures simply because the floral decorations are inappropriate. Go to a good florist and you can be sure of good things. Such florists are William H. Browers' Sons, 946 Broadway, New York. They have a branch in Plainfield. John L. Brower runs this end of the business and orders may be left with him at 127 East Fifth street.

—The Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Baptist church, will meet this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. STATE SCHOOL LAW IS NOT EFFECTIVE

Compulsory Edecation is Not Secured by New Jersey's Present Statute.

ITS WEAK PROVISIONS

VIGOROUS ARRAIGNMENT OF THE ACT BY SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON.

From Advance Sheets of New Jersey Review of State Charities and Correction—Some Interesting Facts Are Given.

The following article on the new school law is from the pen of Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools of this city, and comes from the advance sheets of the New Jersey Review of State Charities and Correction, a monthly publication.

"It is, perhaps, to be expected that in framing a comprehensive school bill, that will not create too many enemies to permit its being enacted into law, many interests should fail to receive adequate treatment. It is with this in mind that I try to explain the lamentable weakness of the chapter on compulsory education in our new school law.

"A casual examination indicates that the law is weak in the following particulars: First—A child over 12 years of age cannot be compelled to attend school even though not working. The law provides that after the age of 12 he can not be employed unless he has attended school the required time and also that he can be arrested if a truant or if loitering upon the street, but the parent may allow him to stay at home with impunity. The law ought to state distinctly that, when not at work, the child must be in school, up to the age of fifteen, and it should hold the parent liable to prosecution if the child is not in school.

"Second—The provision in section 149, regarding the employment of children under the age of fifteen, is very inadequate. It contains no penalty for violation of the section, and does not provide any method of inspection by the school authorities to see whether the law is complied with or not. It ought to require employers to keep on file for each child under the age of fifteen a certificate showing age, actual days of attendance at school during the previous twelve months and the day when he must return to school, the certificate to be signed by his teacher, the form to be provided by the State school department. The law should also provide that these certificates shall be open to the inspection of the truant officer and should require the truant officer to inspect the certificates and children in each factory from time to time to see that the law is complied with. Furthermore, there should be a penalty provided for the employment of a child within the regular age without such a certificate. I presume that the factory law contains some of these provisions, but they properly belong to the compulsory education law rather than to the factory law. The condition of things recently revealed in the glass factories of the State shows what we may expect when the inspection is left to the factory inspectors. If the truant officers are required to inspect, every truant officer becomes an inspector, and the force is, therefore, largely multiplied and the law would be very much better enforced.

"Third—There is no provision for securing the enforcement of the law by a city that is indifferent or negligent, nor any provision for punishing said city for failure to enforce the law. If current rumors are to be believed, there is in many counties of the State little or no effort to enforce the compulsory education law, and the law will never be uniformly and thoroughly enforced throughout the State until there is some provision made for this enforcement by the State school department and some way provided for penalizing cities that do not constantly enforce it. Truant officers do not like to enter complaints against their neighbors; school boards do not like to stir up negligent voters; employers of labor do not like to have the sources of cheap labor interrupted. It may be that the city has insufficient school accommodations and so does not desire to enforce the law. A State officer, such as is employed in Connecticut and in New York, coming into a community, would enforce the law without fear or favor, and if a part of the school fund were to be withheld by the State board from those communities found by the State agents not to be enforcing the law, the fear of such penalty would add a spur to the local authorities.

"Fourth—The law is so carelessly worded in some places and so hedged about with conditions in others as to add much to the difficulty of enforcement. For instance, in the first section (147) an eminent lawyer informs me that the wording makes it necessary for the Board of Education to prove that the bodily or mental condition of the child is such as to admit his attendance at school and that he is not being taught in a private school or at home, instead of putting upon the parent the necessity of showing grounds for not sending the child to school.

"In the next section (148) the use of the word 'misdemeanor,' I am told, makes it necessary for the charge to be carried before the grand jury for trial. It is true that authorities disposed to enforce the law may use a certain amount of 'bluff' and act in accordance with the apparent intent of the law without meeting with difficulty, but the wording ought to be such that there can not be any escape from enforcement where the authorities are disposed to find a way to evade it.

"The intention of section 152 probably is that every child between the age of seven and fifteen shall be in school when not at work, but it does not say so, and, while it provides for the arrest of children that are absent from school and away from home or whose parents confess inability to control them, it fails to provide for the arrest of a child between the ages of twelve and fifteen who remains at home with the parents' consent, or because of his indifference. The only way I can see to touch such a case, under the present law, is again to use considerable 'bluff' and assume that the child is kept at home to work and so prosecute on that ground, but if one's legal adviser is of the excessively cautious kind this plan will not work.

"Section 153 provides that the truant officer examine cases of truancy 'when requested by the inspector of factories or by the Board of Education.' The first part is all right, although I have not heard of any factory inspector making any such request. The second part is unnecessary, since the truant officer is the agent of the board, and its presence gives excuse for the impression that the truant officer is not to act except when requested by the board. The section further provides that the pupil shall be served a notice requiring him to attend school within five days. This simply gives the pupil the right to be a truant four days and a half after being visited by the truant officer, and serves no particular useful purpose that I can discover.

"Section 154 provides for the truant officer's making a complaint when 'requested by the Board of Education,' which again gives opportunity for the interpretation that an action of the board is necessary before the truant officer can act.

"Finally—There ought to be some place other than the workhouse or the State reform school to which incorrigible truants can be committed, for, while it is probably true that every juvenile thief is or has been a truant, it is not true that every truant is a thief and there ought to be one or more parental schools, where the population shall not be distinctly a criminal population and to which truants may be sent by the smaller communities that cannot maintain parental schools of their own. In many cases the truant is such because of his bad home or the lack of anything that can properly be called a home, and he can be reformed only by being placed under new environments, that shall aid the school influence, not counteract it.

"Surely there is need for a careful and earnest campaign on the part both of the school men and of all who are interested in child-saving, to secure the enactment of a compulsory education law that shall be at the same time comprehensive, clear, and capable of effective enforcement.

"Henry M. Maxson."

DISPLAY OF REGAL CROWNS

ON EXHIBITION NOW

and continuing until Saturday, October 18th.

In Our Amusement Hall,

Second Floor.

IF all the gold and gems that will be on exhibition next Monday at the big store were real, it would take the fortune of an Astor or a Vanderbilt to buy them. It is a collcetion of fac-simile copies of the crowns of the rulers of the world, and for two weeks we will have them on exhibition for the pleasure and profit of our patrons.

Every crown of note in the world will be there, from the splendid gemmed crown of the German Emperor to the queer but beautiful thing which tops the head of Siam's august ruler.

Every crown is an exact copy. It is precisely like the original in size and color of metal, cutting, color and setting of all the gems. It has taken three years to complete, and though the gold is only plate and the jewels imitation, so elaborate is the work that the collection is valued at $27,000.

It was intended for the St. Louis Exposition, but the postponement for a year enabled the Paris branch of our firm to secure the collection for exhibition at a time when crowns and coronations are of peculiar interest to the world.

In the collection are these insignia of royalty: Italy, Great Britain, the German Emperor, Sweden, Portugal, Russia, Siam, Spain, Holland, Austria and Denmark. Besides these are the crowns worn by Josephine and Napoleon I., the Pope's tiara and sceptre, the orb of England, the iron crown of Lombardy, and the great diamond star of Japan's Mikado.

Most superb of all, and the most valuable in the collection, is the crown of Germany. It is simply a basket work of gems, containing 1,250 diamonds and a sapphire cross in front. Around the border are the imperial eagles. The original is valued at $2,500,000.

Most interesting of all, however, is the replica of the crown which was placed on the head of King Edward VII, in London on August 9. It is of gold, with a cushion of royal purple and a border of ermine. Each rib of the crown is studded with a row of magnificent pearls, while every other point blazes with sapphires, rubbies and diamonds. The top is surmounted by an orb and cross.

The crowns of Holland, Italy and Spain are almost like that of England. There are the same orb and cross and the same rows of pearls. None of the others have the ermine which distinguishes Edward's from all other crowns.

Russia's Czar wears a hugh affair, twice as bulky as England's set with huge rubies and sapphires. Sweden's is conspicuous for its immense pearls, though the crown itself is one of the smallest of the lot.

The iron crown of Lombardy is the oldest of all European crowns. It was made in 547. It is a heavy circle of gold three inches high, set with brilliant gems. Within is a narrow iron band, said to have been made from nails from the true cross.

Beautiful indeed and replete with sentiment are the two crowns worn by Napoleon and Josephine. The Empress' was a simple tiara of regal pearls set in a network of diamonds. In each interstic hung a pear-shaped diamond, vibrating with every movement. Napoleon's was a crown of golden eagles, surmounted by a cross and set with sapphires and rubies.

England's orb is a golden ball blazing with diamonds, amethysts, sapphires and rubies. Siam's crown looks like a miniature pagoda, set with priceless gems and furnished with two golden flaps that come down over the wearer's ears. It is the only one, apparently, that was made to fit.

AN ENTERTAINMENT.

City High School Battalion Will Give a Military Entertainment on November 3.

The members of the City High School battalion are progressing rapidly in their training for the coming military entertainment to be given by that organization. At a meeting of the officers held Wednesday afternoon, encouraging reports were received from the different officers detailed to take charge of the affair, and altogether it promises to be a grand success. The evening of Monday, November 3 has been decided upon for the affair and every man of the battalion is taking such an interest in the novel entertainment that an enjoyable evening may be anticipated.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting Sunday.

The men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall next Sunday afternoon will be of exceptional interest on account of both speaker and music. Miss Emily C. March, who is a powerful speaker, is to make the address and Miss Agnes McKenzie, of Orange, who has recently made a trip over the continent with Commander and Mrs. Booth Tucker, will sing. Special instrumental music will also be rendered by Mrs. George W. Saums and Elmer P. Wheeler. All men are invited.

Samuel Crouse, of this city, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Crouse, of Raritan.

MANY CONFERENCES.

Operators and Strike Leaders Closeted With Advisers.

FALSE RUMORS OF A SETTLEMENT.

Senators Platt, Quay and Penrose and Five Coal Road Presidents Have a Meeting—J. P. Morgan Urged to Act.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Coal operators, miners' representatives, United States senators and others interested in bringing to an end the coal strike in Pennsylvania's anthracite region met in informal conferences in various parts of the city last night after a day that produced conference after conference. Still others are being held today, and it is believed that the various interests are endeavoring to "get together" so that some definite action may be taken.

Various rumors were afloat last evening that a settlement had been effected, and several railroad presidents sent word to others to that effect, it was reported.

The situation, taken all in all, seems to indicate that definite action may be taken soon, though reports regarding various phases of the situation are conflicting.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers early in the day said he would return to Wilkesbarre at night. Later in the day, when Senators Platt, Quay and Penrose and Governor Odell and five presidents of coal carrying railroads were in conference, he said he would remain in the city.

A visit was made to the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. by President E. B. Thomas of the Erie railroad after the conference at Senator Platt's office was at an end. Mr. Thomas, who had been one of the conferees, saw Mr. Morgan, but no statement could be secured from either of them after the meeting.

Awaiting Mr. Mitchell at the Ashland House when he returned there was Oscar Straus, a member of the conciliation committee of the American Civic federation. They talked together and then retired to Mr. Mitchell's rooms.

Shortly after this General Benjamin F. Tracy and Albert Boardman, counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad, went to the Ashland House and were admitted to the rooms where Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Straus were in earnest conversation.

After the conference at his office Senator Platt said there was nothing to say and that another conference would be held. When or where he would not say. Governor Odell, when seen after his return to the Fifth Avenue hotel, said nothing had been accomplished and would say nothing about a future conference.

From what may be described as an inside and authoritative source it may be announced that the conference at the office of Senator Platt was absolutely without result, the operators refusing to consider the political aspect of the situation and maintaining the position that the question was one between employer and employee as to the management of the properties concerned.

During the late afternoon a delegation of Hebrews, headed by Jacob P. Adler, called on President Mitchell. They presented him with $1,210.17, the receipts from an entertainment given Monday at the People's theater. They told Mr. Mitchell the money was from persons who sympathize with the strikers and their cause.

It is stated on good authority that strong pressure has been brought to bear on J. P. Morgan by the politicians to persuade him, if possible, to use his influence to end the strike. But Mr. Morgan, it is understood, refused to become involved in the matter in any way.

Soldier Shot In His Tent.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 10.—Theodore Viouz, first sergeant of Company B, Tenth regiment, was standing in the kitchen mess tent when a bullet from a revolver pierced the tent and lodged in his right shoulder. Comrades of the wounded soldier rushed from the tent and saw four men, one holding a revolver, rush from the top of a culm bank close by and disappear in the mountain. A number of soldiers gave chase, but the men escaped. Viouz's wound is not of a fatal nature. Eighteen hundred strikers paraded the streets last night before attending a socialistic meeting.

Quiet at Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 10.—There are no developments in the mine workers' strike in this valley. The entire community remains quiet, and the troops have nothing more to do than go through their daily routine. The remaining commands of the Third brigade have arrived in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys and were stationed at various points by Brigadier General Gobin. After this had been accomplished the general and two members of his staff left for Harrisburg for the day. Brigade headqaurters have been established here.

Coal For New York's Poor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The coal operators have taken steps to relieve the poor. In order to defeat the ends of the local dealers, who have been charging the poor as high as 50 cents a pail for coal, enough coal will be sent to the poor districts every day hereafter to supply the needs of the poor and will be sold at the uniform price of 15 cents a pail. Four distributing stations will be opened immediately.

Rebuying American Coal.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—American anthracite coal imported at Hamburg last winter is being rebought for the United States.

THE PENNA'S. CATASTROPHE.

Closely following the fatal train crash on the Pennsylvania railroad at Menlo Park, Wednesday, the cause of the blunder, if there was one, should be sifted to the bottom. A life has been lost, a score of people will carry scars to their graves and the effects in many ways will be felt for a long time.

The officials of the company which prides itself on having the "standard railroad of America," should lose no time in fixing the blame. If it was impossible for the engineer of the second express to stop his train, explanations will be in order as to why he approached within the danger limit. If the signals were inadequate or at fault it remains for the company to bear the blame and set example for other roads of less magnitude by preventing so far as possible a recurrence of the catastrophe. No adequate reparation can be made to the homes that have been plunged in sorrow but the lives of millions of passengers are in the hands of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and they should not be placed in jeopardy through any cause possible to prevent.

Somewhat subdued but none the less audible come the mutterings from the Childs-Swackhamer delegates to the Somerset county Democratic convention who charge that there was trickery accomplished in having these names withdrawn when everything seemed ripe for their being presented. Such a charge would seem to have more or less foundation, from the fact that it is hardly possible that S. S. Childs would withdraw after taking years to work up to the point where his ambition was about to be realized. Certain it is, that the withdrawal was a curious proceeding and the consequences are yet to become known.

The women are certainly having an uphill road of it in New Jersey, as may be seen from a case in the Essex county court a few days ago. A man was arraigned on a double charge of smashing a saloon keeper's window and assaulting his wife. The learned jury threw out the latter charge and recommended mercy in dealing out sentence for wrecking the window. The only hopeful side to it is that the Meat Trust's influence is evidently on the wane when spare ribs are held to be of no account.

A Metropolitan paper says one of its police inspectors came home from a European trip recently with a "closed month." Now if the same thing could be accomplished with the Hon. William Devery, the advocates of unadulterated English would undoubtedly give him a cabin passage over..

—Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will hold an entertainment in the lodge rooms, West Second street, Monday evening.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to

There was a time when the name of Silas Dewey Drake, Mayor of Lincoln, was almost a household word in New Jersey, but for months it has been naught but a memory. It's a great pleasure to learn, over the telephone, from the lips of the distinguished chief executive of Lincoln himself, that he is busy sawing wood, actually as well as, perhaps, figuratively.—Newark News.

Regardless of the outcome in East Orange next month, the Citizens' Union of that place will have made an impress on the State at large as a result of its campaign in favor of the repeal of the iniquitous Meeker anti-spring election law. The denunciation of the act in the resolutions adopted by the union on Saturday night was none too vigorous, and it is to be hoped that the document, which is to be sent to the Governor and to each candidate for the Senate and Assembly, will be given the attention that it deserves.

The sentiment against the Meeker law, which was strong at the time the act was passed, continues to grow, and the politicians in power are likely to be convinced of the error they made by the success of such a movement as has been begun by the Citizens' Union. The stronger the showing made by this organization in East Orange, the more convincing will be its effect on the Republican lawmakers and the leaders in control of the machinery of that party. The arguments set forth in the East Orange resolutions are not entirely new, but this time they will be backed up by votes—a proceeding which counts with politicians.

The law was forced upon the people of this State at the behest of the party bosses, in order that they might profit by it, regardless of the effect it might have on the business-like government of mnnicipalites. The voters of East Orange now have an opportunity to show these bosses the estimate in which their partisan action is held by the electorate of an intelligent community. This will be the first direct test of the popularity of the Meeker law, and it should be made an effective one.—Newark News.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

According to the New York Sun of yesterday, the coal problem is solved, for that paper devotes a column to describing what seems to be an efficient substitute for anthracite. It is so simple that it is difficult to see why it has not been brought before the public long ago.

All that is needed is a terra-cotta brick and some common kerosene oil. The bricks are those used in the construction of fireproof buildings and are very porous. Dip the brick in oil for a few seconds or until it becomes thoroughly impregnated. Then place it in the stove, touch a match to it and begin to cook dinner. The brick, or at least the oil in the brick, will, according to The Sun burn nearly an hour, throwing out a fierce heat.

Adoly Muller is the man responsible for bringing the matter into the newspapers. Mr. Muller is in the business of manufacturing terra-cotta bricks, but he has not given the matter publicity for business reasons. He is not selling bricks at retail.

HOSPITAL ON MOUNT KIPP

MOUNTAIN CHOSEN FOR TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM NAMED AFTER DOCTOR.

He is a Member of State Commission to Select Site—Is An Ideal Spot.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Glen Gardner, Oct. 10—The range of mountains at this place, upon which it is proposed to erect the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium, has been named Mt. Kipp, in honor of Dr. Charles J. Kipp, of Newark, a member of the State Commission. Mt. Kipp has an elevation of 954 feet.

Governor Murphy came up on his approval trip Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Dr. Kipp, Dr. Austin Scott, president of Rutgers College, and J. H. DeMott, of Flemington, who has been appointed one of the purchasing agents by the State. It was the first time the Governor and Dr. Scott had visited the site, and a more disagreeable day could not have been selected, yet, in spite of the rain, the visitors heartily approved of the location, and were enthusiastic over the site.

The visitors were quite persuaded that nature could scarcely have designed a better site for an institution of the kind proposed. There is a table land near the top of the mountain where the central building could, and no doubt will be erected, and where it would be protected from the north, east and west winds. On the north of the range is another table land of about ten acres, nearly level, which would make an ideal polo ground. As for building material, there is no end to some of the finest building stone in the State. There is much large stone with a face as smooth and even as if dressed by hand.

The idea of erecting a number of cottages upon the grounds has been abandoned, and one large central building will be erected for the patients. The work of building a macadam road from the station here to the site will be commenced shortly, and it is expected that it will be completed before cold weather sets in.

The surveying of the land is a most difficult task. Much of the land has been purchased in small tracts, with several conveyances with each.

PRINCETON'S NEW PRESIDENT

THE INAUGURATION WILL TAKE PLACE THERE OCTOBER 25.

Two Presidents of the University and Two of United States Will be There.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Princeton, Oct. 10—The inauguration of Princeton's new president, Woodrow Wilson, which is to take place in Alexander Hall on the morning of October 25, will be an unostentatious affair. There will be four presidents at least present at the inauguration, and the only two living presidents of Princeton University and the only two living presidents of the United States. The four prominent men will be the four speakers of the exercises. Former President Cleveland is sure to speak, and President Roosevelt, if his sickness will permit him to attend. The President has acepted his invitation, and the certainty of his visit to Princeton hinges on his recuperation from the recent operation.

Delegates from all the colleges and universities, together with other dignitaries of this and foreign States, will be invited. The invitations go out this week. The great event in Princeton history will bring back a great number of the alumni, even though there is little chance for many of them to see the ceremony.

October 25 will be a gala day for the famous class of '79. In addition to seeing one of their classmates raised to the highest office Princeton has to offer, they will go through the ceremony of breaking the sod for the new dormitory, the gift of that generous class. The class will attend the inauguration in a body, and will march to the site of the new dormitory, where President Wilson will go through the formality of sinking the first spade in the ground. In the evening the class will give a banquet in honor of President Wilson.

CITY JOTTINGS.

NEW CHIEF CHOSEN.

General T. J. Stewart at the Head of Grand Army.

REPORT OF THE PENSION COMMITTEE

Medical Division Roundly Scored. Cornerstone of Proposed Potomac Memorial Bridge Dedicated. Many Reunions Held.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Grand Army got down to business yesterday, and the encampment of the order besides hearing an address from Commander in Chief Torrance and reports from a number of officers and committees elected a new head for the ensuing year. The new commander in chief of the G. A. R. is General T. J. Stewart of Pennsylvania, who was a leading candidate for the honor a year ago. His competitors were General John C. Black of Illinois, a former commissioner of pensions, and Colonel John McElroy of this city. The name of General

COMMANDER ELECT STEWART.

Daniel E. Sickles of New York city was presented to the convention, but he withdrew from the race. William M. Olin of Massachusetts was elected vice commander in chief and James M. Averill of Georgia junior vice commander in chief. Aside from the election of these officers the most interesting feature of the encampment was the report of the pension committee of the G. A. R. This committee severely scored the medical division of the pension bureau, declaring that it was a dead line where were executed the claims of veterans seeking pensions. It accused the personnel of this division of approaching the reports of the examining surgeons throughout the country with suspicion and distrust and as made in bad faith. It denounced the reports that extensive frauds were practiced in pension claims as absolutely baseless.

A resolution was offered by General Edgar Allan of Virginia, as follows:

"Resolved by the thirty-sixth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, That while we still mourn our country's loss when a year ago we gathered it is a source of rejoicing that Theodore Roosevelt as successor to our beloved and lamented comrade, William McKinley, is thoroughly in sympathy with all that tends to the preservation of the memories of our glorious past and recognizes the claims of the veterans who fought for the preservation of the Union and that while he cannot be of us he is with us by the ties of comradeship which he won in our country's later examples of American valor."

The Woman's Relief corps, the Daughters of Veterans and the Ladies of the G. A. R. also met in annual convention yesterday. Thousands of veterans and their wives not delegates to either of these organizations attended army corps reunions in the big tents on the White lot or spent the beautiful October day in sightseeing.

In Farragut tent last night, standing side by side, each recounting the deeds of the armies which followed them, were General Daniel E. Sickles and General James S. Longstreet, both of whom faced each other on the battlefield of Gettysburg. The wearers of the blue representing the survivors of the Third army corps gathered together last night and told again the story of the memorable conflict at Gettysburg. After both Sickles and Longstreet had spoken General Sickles told the veterans that they now had heard both sides and they could take their choice, which brought forth the remark, "We will take both."

GENERAL JOHN C. BLACK.

Other reunions were held as follows: Seventeenth army corps, Sherman tent; Twenty-third army corps, Grant tent; First army corps, Sheridan tent; engineer corps, Meade tent.

The cornerstone of the proposed memorial bridge across the Potomac to connect Washington with Arlington cemetery was dedicated at a big open air meeting in the White lot in the afternoon. The stone weighs seven tons and was cut by the Stonecutters' union of the District of Columbia. The inscription read:

"Designed and presented by the Stonecutters' union of Washington, D. C., as the cornerstone of the memorial bridge which, in connecting the national capital with Arlington, shall ever stand as a monument to American patriotism. Dedicated Oct. 9, 1902, during the thirty-sixth national encampment of the G. A. R."

Secretary of War Root presided and made an eloquent speech in support of the proposed bridge. He also read a letter from President Roosevelt, expressing deep regret because of his inability to be present and warmly indorsing the proposed memorial.

One of the largest receptions incidental to the G. A. R. encampment season was given by Mrs. Roosevelt to the patriotic organizations of women meeting in national convention during the encampment. It was held at the Corcoran Art gallery from 4 to 6 o'clock. From the time the doors were opened until the close of the reception a constant stream of members, white and colored, were introduced to Mrs. Roosevelt, by whom they were greeted with a cordial handshake.

FRENCH STRIKE SPREADING.

Antis Preparing to Resist Attacks of the Strikers.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Further information received here from the coal mining regions indicate that the strike is spreading rapidly, but, while in the Pas de Calais, Nord and other districts the cessation of work is already complete, in other regions the mines are still working at full capacity. The strikers in the Pas de Calais district number 47,600 men. The mines are working full at Montlucon, department of Allier, and Montceau-les-Mines, department of Saone-et-Loire, where a large majority of the miners are opposed to the strike. At Anzin, department of Nord, only 2,800 out of 14,000 men have ceased work.

The "yellows," as the antistrikers are called, are preparing to offer resistance in case attempts are made to prevent them from working. They are distributing pistols and cartridges and are organizing night patrols. It is probable that at the most only 120,000 out of 162,000, the total number of coal miners in France, will join the strike.

The lack of coal has already caused a number of iron works to close, and increased quantities of coal are being received in France from Belgium and Germany.

No Cars Moved In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—The New Orleans Railway company has made no attempt yet to resume its schedule for passenger service, and, although no violence occurred, the situation has become grave. Governor Heard has arrived and immediately consulted a number of gentlemen on the situation. The governor was urged by the business men to endeavor to settle the trouble without resort to the armed forces of the state. The strikers and their sympathizers massed on Canal street and Galvez street to the number of 2,500 and waited patiently all day for the first car to come out.

Autos Off For the Hub.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Automobiles to the number of seventy-two, valued at more than $500,000 and weighing in the aggregate more than 150,000 pounds, started from Fifth avenue and Fifty-eighth street for Boston yesterday. The occasion was an endurance test under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America. The machines which are able to make the Hub Saturday will rest over Sunday and start back to New York Monday morning, arriving here Wednesday afternoon.

American Enterprise In Chile.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 10.—American enterprise is about to embark in new fields in this country. A number of engineers in charge of William C. Hill, who represents certain New York capitalists, have arrived here for the purpose of building railroads and other public works in Chile. The party was received with great cordiality by President Riesco, who promised them every facility in their work. It is said that $25,000,000 is to be expended on railroads and other improvements.

Prince Henry on Vacation.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Emperor William having granted Prince Henry, his brother, forty-five days' vacation, the prince went to Hamburg and bought an automobile, with which he has started via Dusseldorf, where he will visit the exposition, for Darmstadt, at which place the prince and princess will spend their vacation, residing in one of the palaces of the Grand Duke of Hesse.

Another Peasant Uprising In Russia.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Another peasant uprising has broken out in the government of Poltava, Russia. According to news sent across the border to the Socialist organ, the Vorwaerts, fierce conflicts are taking place between the peasants and the local forces, which are now being reenforced. Many persons are reported to have been killed or wounded.

Fatal Arkansas Shooting Bee.

ELDORADO, Ark., Oct. 10.—Three men were killed, another will die and two others were wounded in a shooting affray which occurred on the streets here. The shooting, it is alleged, is the sequel to the killing Sept. 18 here by Dearing of Ri[illegible] t Mullens.

Earthquake In Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 10.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Garfield, fifteen miles north of here. Creedmore and Bluff Springs also report a slight shock. No serious damage was done.

HEADACHE
is the general term used to describe pain in the head. It may be either symptomatic or idiopathic, the latter being generally chronic and due to specific bony lesion, usually in the cervical vertebrae.
A large class of the latter come under Osteopathic treatment, generally in a very bad condition after having suffered far beyond the power of drugs to cure. The form embraces many of the kinds generally described under one or other of the usual classifications.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"How do you know all this, Elder Wynne?" I asked.

"Just the way I know all the other things. Just the way that I know about the Lost Tribes," He smiled. "But I forgot, that subject is tabooed. I learn by study, and interest in my work, and various experiments. Do you suppose that the faint creakings that are heard at night all have their origin in the meanderings of rats or denizens of the spirit world? No, Mrs. Brathwaite, I have walked about your house and grounds for many an hour after you are in bed."

"I never hear your cough," I said.

"No, I manage at such times to suppress my cough. It has its uses, but not at midnight.. As I have said, I walk about your house and grounds when all the world is wrapped in sleep, and I have never met with rats or mythical spirits as yet."

"Have you ever met with any—any—thing—one?" I asked, nervously.

"Never met with them. They know nothing of my being about, but there is a great deal going on in your house at night, dear Mrs. Brathwaite, while you are sleeping your weary, tired sleep, that you do not see, even in dreams."

It gave me an eerie feeling to think of people being about the house, our own home, being wide awake, and passing up and down the stairs or through the halls, when I was away in the land of oblivion.

"Be comforted, dear lady," continued Elder Wynne. "While I am here they shall not harm you or yours, and I shall not go until they go."

He gave me comfort, as he always did when he spoke seriously to me.

"But about Aunt Jane Mary?"

"There is not much that I can tell you," replied Elder Wynne. "I have discovered that she is a night-walker, but not a sleep-walker. I should not jump and run so fast on those poor tired legs of yours, if I were you, dear Mrs. Brathwaite, when her damned little bell rings, and I should not wind that electrical machine for an hour or two every night just to give her fat old legs a tickling sensation."

I was shocked at Elder Wynne's profanity and vulgarity. It seemed impossible that that dreadful word, which I had heard but once in my life, and that from a man whose horse had run away and thrown him out in the road by our gate, could have been spoken by this gentle appearing old man. An elder of the church. Ah! There! I had forgotten Bob Jennings again.

CHAPTER VII.

I went to my bed early that night, but not to sleep for long. At about 12 o'clock I was sent for very hurriedly. Miss Elizabeth had been taken suddenly ill. I remained with her all that night and the next day, sending word to my house that Gloriana must attend to the wants of Aunt Jane Mary and my boarders. In the early afternoon I went into the little sitting room, where Amaranthe, who had regained her calm some days ago, was lying on the couch. Her foot was almost well now, but still she humored it. She was reading, and as she laid her book down, I saw her eyes glance upward. Mine followed them. She was lying just under that mantelpiece. I saw that she was looking at the paper with which Miss Elizabeth kept the upright slab in place.

She said nothing, and neither did I. I felt then that if Miss Elizabeth intended the jewels for her niece, it would be better for her to take her into her confidence, show them to her, and then send them to a bank or some place of safe deposit. I determined to speak to Miss Elizabeth as soon as she could bear it. She had suffered great pain all day, and was forced to lie in her bed, and what worried me greatly was the fact that Miss Evelyn had also been attacked and in the same manner.

"What do you think is the matter with my aunts?" asked Amaranthe, when I went into the little sitting room to get a cup of tea.

"I'm sure I can't tell," said I. "I am somewhat anxious, as Dr. Williams is far away at his father's bedside, and this young man from the village does not seem to know much." Amaranthe now got up with my help and walked about the room and along the corridor. I was so glad of this that I begged her to go in to see Aunt Elizabeth.

Her face flushed scarlet, always a sign of agitation with her. "Don't ask me," said she, earnestly. "I cannot bear a sick room. I am afraid that you think me very heartless, but I am so constitutionally. Dear daddy was just so. It mortifies me dreadfully, but so it is. I had to do it to earn my living, but always hated it. I think we should have a nurse, don't you?"

"Yes," said I. "I think we should."

"I wish you would speak to the doctor," said she.

I went back to Miss Elizabeth and sat with her until nine o'clock. Then when she had fallen quietly asleep I returned to the little sitting room again. To my surprise a stranger arose and greeted me. It was a woman in the dress of those pious sisters who go about among the sick and sorrowful. She bowed and left the room by a farther door. I sat there wondering who had sent for her. I had not seen the doctor since an hour earlier. In a few moments Amaranthe came in.

"Who is that woman?" she asked.

"You mean the sister?" said I. "I thought that you had sent for her." For Amaranthe was assuming now the role of mistress of the Hall, as the ladies wished and urged her to do.

"No," she said. "I never sent for her. Probably it was that little doctor. Well, I don't know but it's a sensible thing, after all, only I should not have let him send for a sister of charity. I don't like them. Dear old Wibby, you must go home now, and let that woman—ugh! I don't like her looks—that sister, take the care off your hands."

I promised her, because I saw that she was determined, that I would go back to my home and rest, but I had no intention of keeping my promise.

"Very well," said I. "Good-by, then; I will come over to-morrow."

I went back to Miss Elizabeth's room. There she lay in the middle of the great bed where the squire had breathed his last. She was awake again, and as I came in she raised herself up in the bed in a very excited state, her lips trembling nervously.

THE STRANGE NURSE CAME TOWARD ME.

"What is this?" she asked, "about a nurse having come into the house? I told that little doctor—you know who he is, Sophronia, old Allibone the butcher's son; of course, he knows nothing but anatomy"—she smiled faintly—"I told him that I would not have a nurse. I positively forbade him to send a nurse to this house, and yet what does he do but go right off and get one."

"It's too bad," said I. "If you don't want her, you needn't have her. I will go and dismiss her, if I can find her. Perhaps she has gone down to the kitchen." I went towards the door, but remembered as I touched the knob that there was yet something that I ought to say. "I want to tell you," I said, "that Amaranthe is greatly distressed at your illness."

"Dear child!" exclaimed Miss Elizabeth with fervor.

CUBA UNFRIENDLY?

Washington Authorities Concerned Over New Republic's Indifference.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The situation as to Cuba is such at present as to give officials here great concern. It is feared that Cuba is drifting away, and evidence is multiplying day by day to mark the growth of a spirit of indifference toward the cultivation of friendly commercial relations with the United States that almost borders on hostility.

The best efforts of the state department thus far have failed to secure the adhesion of the Cuban government to the treaty which by the terms of the Platt amendment must be entered into between the two governments. The delay is all on one side—namely, at Havana—for Secretary Hay and the Cuban minister, Senor Quesada, have performed their part in drafting a treaty which, it is believed, carries out the intent of congress. That treaty is now awaiting the approval of the Cuban government, which approval is withheld, not with any expressed intention of rejecting the convention, but through what is regarded here as the natural inertia of the Cubans in diplomatic matters.

This treaty includes provisions for a considerable measure of reciprocity between the United States and Cuba, and while it is true that the Cubans believe that the United States has been rather niggardly in the arrangement of the reciprocity schedule these objections are not regarded as sufficient to account for the great delay in concluding the treaty. However, there is no intention, it is said, to resort to any undue pressure on the Cubans so long as there is no discrimination against the United States and in favor of another country.

It is believed that as Cuba is the principal sufferer from the lack of treaty relations with the United States internal pressure will soon force action on the pending convention.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and this explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

THE IRRIGATIONISTS

National Congress Elects Officers and Adjourns.

WILL MEET NEXT IN OGDEN, UTAH.

President Roosevelt Praised For His Aid In Securing Favorable Action of Congress—New President's Remarks.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 10.—The national irrigation congress adjourned after electing officers and selecting Ogden, Utah, as the place of next year's meeting.

The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Colonel Edwin F. Holmes, Ogden, Utah; first vice president, Governor L. Bradford Prince, Santa Fe, N. M.; second vice president, Anson J. McCune, Denver; third vice president, E. N. Libby, Clarkston, Wash.; secretary, Colonel H. B. Maxson, Reno, Nev.

The appointment of a committee to report next year on the merger proposition and the adoption of a set of resolutions completed the work of the convention.

The report of the resolutions committee was adopted unanimously. The resolutions after felicitating the American people upon the enactment of the national irrigation act says:

"The grateful acknowledgments of this congress are due to Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, for his invaluable assistance in the cause of irrigation. His message to congress in December, 1901, marked the beginning of a new epoch not only in the history of the arid west, but also in the history of the entire nation. Without his powerful aid and that of his administration it would not have been possible to secure the passage of that great act, which will put into effective motion the national irrigation policy for which we have been striving so long. Great as his administration may be, we believe that none of its achievements will redound more to the greatness of our people and the glory of our country than will the passage of the national irrigation act. We send him our greetings and give him our assurances of our most sincere respect and admiration."

Resolutions were also

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Alis A. A. and Westfield will meet on Hope Common tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. A good game is promised, as the Alis boys have been under the direction of L. R. Waring and C. Westley Abbott for several weeks.

The Emerald A. C., of Brooklyn, which was to play the Orange F. C. at Brooklyn this Saturday, has been disabled by the loss of several men, and the game therefore is called off. Despite the late notice that has been given, the Orange F. C. has arranged with the Somerset A. C. to fill this date at Orange Oval. The field is at the corner of Arlington avenue and Randolph road, the trolley passing the ground. The game will be over in time for the game between the Alis and Westfield. The O. F. C. will hold heavy practice tonight at 65 Westervelt avenue, when decided changes will be made. McVey will go back to his own place at quarterback and Sherwin will be put in as half. The O. F. C. line-up will be as follows: Emmons, left end; McNaughton, left tackle; Kenyon and Sickle, left guard; Heller, center; Joseph, right guard; Mundy and Martin, right tackle; Lake, right end; Bird, left half; Sherwin, right half; Smith, fullback.

GOLF.

There will be the weekly play for the Golf Committee and Boys' cups and the final play for the Schoonmaker and Gilbert cups on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, tomorrow. There will also be the concluding play at tennis on the club's courts in the championship and open tournaments.

Louis N. James, the Princeton freshman and holder of the national amateur golf championship, will not be permitted by the faculty to play in the intercollegiate tournament this fall. James is only a special student, and the faculty rules require him to wait until he becomes a regular student, which will take about a year. This week Princeton's golf team defeated Lawrenceville School, in a match game, by 3 up. Frank O. Reinhart made the best score, 75, and equalled the record of the Lawrenceville course.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The sun is getting low also the baseball treasury yet in consideration of the fact that there was but one respectable playing Saturday (as to weather conditions) during September, the management of the Westfield's will try to take the ragged edge from the close of the season and present tomorrow the same all-star aggregation which represented them last Saturday in a game against the Madison Athletic Club. This team has been up against Montclair, the Pearsalls, Equitable Life, Brooklyn Field Club, Cuban X-Giants and other teams of that class this season and is not at all afraid of its clash with Westfield tomorrow. Here is a chance to see rare sports and the ball curtain rung down to lively music. One of the features of the game will be the presentation of a trading stamp to each Westfield player making a hit.

BASKET BALL.

There will be a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. tonight of all those interested in the formation of a basketball team. Mr. Heywood announces that it will be the last meeting, prior to the formation of the team, at which suggestions and propositions can be brought up.

FOOTBALL.

The I. C. T. and Company K football teams will meet on the Summit avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. Both teams have been practicing regularly and a close contest is looked for. The game is scheduled to commence at 3:30.

SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

City High School Has Made Arrangements for Place to Practice.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the formation of a basket ball team. The athletic association has secured permission from the Hope Y. M. A. to use the gymnasium at Hope chapel for basket ball and while the High School will enter no team in the city basket ball league, a series of interscholastic games will be played with the neighboring high schools and athletic associations during the winter.

Stole Furniture From Porch.

Class Meets Tonight.

The first session of the class in stenography will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building, this evening. Young men interested are invited to confer with the instructor, James D. Marnah, who is also teacher of the art at the Plainfield High School.

—Fall apples are beginning to arrive at Neuman Brothers. A large consignment will be placed on sale tomorrow.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Crandall, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

BATTLING HARD IN MORRIS

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT IN THAT COUNTY WARMEST IN ITS HISTORY.

It is Flanagan's Home and Fowler is Working Hard—Republican View Outlined.

Morris county's Congressional campaign is said to be the most earnest in State's history. Morristown is Congressman Flanagan's home, and he is expecting his popularity will give him the county. Stimulated by a natural local pride he is making great exertions in Morris county, even a greater effort to realize upon his expectations than he is making in either of the two other counties in the district. Mr. Fowler is also vigorously campaigning in Morris county, in the hope of helping to keep it in the Republican line, and striving to prevent his Democratic opponent from capturing it. He has devoted nearly all of this week, and will devote all of next week to campaign work in this county.

James E. McGraw, chairman of the Republican county committee, says: "Morris county could not be in better shape for the Republicans. The Republican county convention, held at Dover on Tuesday, was made up of representative Republicans from all parts of the county, and more enthusiasm was manifested than has been known at such a gathering in a long time. Morris county gave Governor Murphy last year about 800 majority. We confidently expect to do even better than that for Mr. Fowler this year.

"All reports, whether by Republicans or others, that Mr. Fowler's opponent will receive any great number of Republican votes in Morris county are, in so far as I can see, without any stable foundation. Mr. Fowler is making an energetic campaign, and the good record he has made in Congress during his four terms in the house, by his statesmanship and unquestioned ability, which are well known everywhere, leads me to believe that Morris county will return for him about 2,000 majority.

"'It is emphatically true,' said Mr. McGraw, in reply to an inquiry, 'that there not only is no disaffection within the rank and file of the Republican party in Morris, but the leaders—or those who are called leaders by courtesy, since we all are leaders—are in full harmony in their determination to elect the whole Republican ticket. In my home town of Madison, as well as in every town and township in the county, we are preparing to give a good account of the Republican ticket, and Mr. Flanagan's hopes of Republican support from any part of Morris are built upon a foundation so slender and shaky that they will be lost in the general result of the election. Congressman Fowler will receive such a hearty support in Morris county that it will make the Warren county Democrats work hard to match it for Mr. Flanagan.'"

HILL EXPECTED.

Will be at Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, to Speak Oct. 20.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 10—Word was received here today that Hon. David B. Hill, former Governor of New York, would be in this city on Oct. 20 and would give his assurance to the county Democratic leaders in any way that they saw fit to use him. Jacobs Theatre has accordingly been engaged for that night and Mr. Hill will there address a large meeting.

If the Democrats do not win from here it will not be because they are not working hard. Plans are being made to have other speakers of National repute here during the campaign, and from the looks of things the fight will be a hard one.

BIG DEAL.

Home Real Estate Company Has Purchased 400 Building Lots in the West End.

The Home Real Estate Company, comprising Major O. L. Jenkins, J. T. MacMurray, Charles H. Hand, Andrew McCardell and F. H. Smith, has just purchased 400 building lots located on Clinton avenue, on the north and south side of West Fourth street, east and west side of Hunter avenue, east and west side of Rushmore and Evona avenues, and it is proposed to put these lots in the market at once. The lots were purchased from Isaac W. Rushmore, who has owned them for thirty years past.

The company will at once erect fifteen houses to rent at a figure between $14 and $15 per month and twenty more lots have been sold to people who will build houses within a short time. These lots are pleasantly situated in a desirable part of the city. The streets facing these lots will be improved and within a year there will be a large settlement in that end of the city. The style of houses to be erected are now in great demand and the real estate agents have for a long time been unable to supply them.

ALMOST SCALPED.

Homeless Wanderer Met With Severe Accident on New Jersey Central Last Evening.

John Stoehlenberger, homeless wanderer, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, last evening, with his scalp almost entirely torn off, through an accident on the New Jersey Central at Berckman street. Although the wound is severe he will recover.

In company with a friend, Stoehlenberger was riding on a freight train and attempted to get off opposite the Hygeia Ice Company's plant. He did not notice a mile post and swung into it. The impact drove him back against the train and inflicted the wound. He was knocked back a second time by the train and down the embankment.

An iron plate on top of the mile post was bent almost double by the force with which he was thrown against it.

Important Session.

The East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention to be held in the old historic church at Scotch Plains, October 21, promises to be one of the best sessions ever held. A programme of spiritual interest is being prepared and it is expected that the attendance will be large. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Wedded at St. Mary's.

Miss Margaret Sheridan, of this city, and George Higgs, of New York, were quietly married in St. Mary's church, yesterday afternoon, by Rev. Father Egan. Miss Margaret Beasby was bridesmaid and Peter Sheridan acted as best man. The couple will take up their residence in New York.

Funeral of Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Ann Newman, who died on Wednesday morning, was buried at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral services were held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. McWiggins, on South Second street. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. Church, officiated.

SANITARY WORKERS TO MEET

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE SANITARY ASSOCIATION CALLED.

Will be Held at Lakewood, October 24 and 25—The Addresses to Be Given.

Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey Sanitary Association, which will be held at the Laurel House, Lakewood, on October 24 and 25. The several committees having the matter in charge have provided an interesting and instructive programme which will carry the convention through three sessions.

The introductory exercises, which will begin at 3:30 o'clock Friday, October 24, will include an address on "Sanitaria for Consumptives," by Dr. Charles J. Kipp, of Newark, and an address on "Hygienic Instruction for Teachers in the Public Schools," by Dr. C. J. Baxter, of Trenton, together with such formal business as may come before the meeting. At the evening session President H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick, will speak on "Boards of Health; Their Duties Under the Law and Their Relation to the Prevention of the Spread of Communicable Diseases," and will be followed by Dr. Ernest J. Lederle, president of the New York Board of Health, who has chosen for his subject "Food Preservatives; Their Effect Upon the Health of the Consumers." Dr. S. A. Knopf, of New York, will also address the meeting on consumption and its prevention, and will explain what every one should know about the disease.

John P. Smith, of New Brunswick, will speak on "The Sanitary Aspect of the Mosquito Question" at the Saturday session, and will be followed by Dr. Henry Clay Weeks, of Bay Side, Long Island, who will discuss the question of mosquito extermination and advance some practical suggestions for the attainment of that end. The reclamation of land subject to tide overflow will form the basis of an address by Julia B. Duncklee, of South Orange, after which the business of electing officers will be taken up.

The purpose of the New Jersey Sanitary Association is the presentation of facts, the comparison of views and the discussion of methods relating to the prevention of sickness and of untimely deaths. The present officers of the organization are: President, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; vice president, Dr. John L. Leal, of Paterson; second vice president, M. N. Baker, of Montclair; third vice president, Dr. Norton L. Wilson, of Elizabeth; secretary, Dr. James A. Exton, of Arlington; treasurer, George P. Olcott, of East Orange, and chairman of the executive council, Henry C. Greene, of Arlington.

Mrs. John H. VanWinkle, of Dover street, left for Atlantic Highlands yesterday, where she will spend a few days with relatives.

C. line-up will be as follows: Emmons, left end; McNaughton, left tackle; Kenyon and Bickle, left guard; Heller, center; Joseph, right guard; Mundy and Martin, right tackle; Lake, right end; Bird, left half; Sherwin, right half; Smith, fullback.

GOLF.

There will be the weekly play for the Golf Committee and Boys' cups and the final play for the Schoonmaker and Gilbert cups on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, tomorrow. There will also be the concluding play at tennis on the club's courts in the championship and open tournaments.

Louis N. James, the Princeton freshman and holder of the national amateur golf championship, will not be permitted by the faculty to play in the intercollegiate tournament this fall. James is only a special student, and the faculty rules require him to wait until he becomes a regular student, which will take about a year. This week Princeton's golf team defeated Lawrenceville School, in a match game, by 2 up. Frank O. Reinhart made the best score, 75, and equalled the record of the Lawrenceville course.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The sun is getting low also the baseball treasury yet in consideration of the fact that there was but one respectable playing Saturday (as to weather conditions) during September, the management of the Westfield's will try to take the ragged edge from the close of the season and present tomorrow the same all-star aggregation which represented them last Satudray in a game against the Madison Athletic Club. This team has been up against Montclair, the Pearsalls, Equitable Life, Brooklyn Field Club, Cuban X-Giants and other teams of that class this season and is not at all afraid of its clash with Westfield tomorrow. Here is a chance to see rare sports and the ball curtain rung down to lively music. One of the features of the game will be the presentation of a trading stamp to each Westfield player making a hit.

BASKET BALL.

There will be a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. tonight of all those interested in the formation of a basketball team. Mr. Heywood announces that it will be the last meeting, prior to the formation of the team, at which suggestions and propositions can be brought up.

FOOTBALL.

The I. C. T. and Company K football teams will meet on the Summit avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon. Both teams have been practicing regularly and a close contest is looked for. The game is scheduled to commence at 3:30.

SCHOOL BASKET BALL.

City High School Has Made Arrangements for Place to Practice.

Much interest is being shown at the City High School in the formation of a basket ball team. The athletic association has secured permission from the Hope Y. M. A. to use the gymnasium at Hope chapel for basket ball and while the High School will enter no team in the city basket ball league, a series of interscholastic games will be played with the neighboring high schools and athletic associations during the winter.

Stole Furniture From Porch.

A singular theft occurred yesterday at the home of N. W. Pike, of East Front street. Pieces of furniture marked for shipment suddenly disappeared from Mr. Pike's porch. When the expressman called for the goods they were not to be found.

Class Meets Tonight.

The first session of the class in stenography will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building, this evening. Young men interested are invited to confer with the instructor, James D. Macnab, who is also teacher of the art at the Plainfield High School.

—Fall apples are beginning to arrive at Neuman Brothers. A large consignment will be placed on sale tomorrow.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

BATTLING HARD IN MORRIS

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT IN THAT COUNTY WARMEST IN ITS HISTORY.

It is Flanagan's Home and Fowler is Working Hard—Republican View Outlined.

Morris county's Congressional campaign is said to be the most earnest in State's history. Morristown is Congressman Flanagan's home, and he is expecting his popularity will give him the county. Stimulated by a natural local pride he is making great exertions in Morris county, even a greater effort to realize upon his expectations than he is making in either of the two other counties in the district. Mr. Fowler is also vigorously campaigning in Morris county, in the hope of helping to keep it in the Republican line, and striving to prevent his Democratic opponent from capturing it. He has devoted nearly all of this week, and will devote all of next week to campaign work in this county.

James E. McGraw, chairman of the Republican county committee, says:

"Morris county could not be in better shape for the Republicans. The Republican county convention, held at Dover on Tuesday, was made up of representative Republicans from all parts of the county, and more enthusiasm was manifested than has been known at such a gathering in a long time. Morris county gave Governor Murphy last year about 800 majority. We confidently expect to do even better than that for Mr. Fowler this year.

"All reports, whether by Republicans or others, that Mr. Fowler's opponent will receive any great number of Republican votes in Morris county are, in so far as I can see, without any stable foundation. Mr. Fowler is making an energetic campaign, and the good record he has made in Congress during his four terms in the house, by his statesmanship and unquestioned ability, which are well known everywhere, leads me to believe that Morris county will return for him about 1,000 majority.

"'It is emphatically true,' said Mr. McGraw, in reply to an inquiry, 'that there not only is no disaffection within the rank and file of the Republican party in Morris, but the leaders—or those who are called leaders by courtesy, since we all are leaders—are in full harmony in their determination to elect the whole Republican ticket. In my home town of Madison, as well as in every town and township in the county, we are preparing to give a good account of the Republican ticket, and Mr. Flanagan's hopes of Republican support from any part of Morris are built upon a foundation so slender and shaky that they will be lost in the general result of the election. Congressman Fowler will receive such a hearty support in Morris county that it will make the Warren county Democrats work hard to match it for Mr. Flanagan.'"

HILL EXPECTED.

Will be at Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, to Speak Oct. 20.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Oct. 10—Word was received here today that Hon. David B. Hill, former Governor of New York, would be in this city on Oct. 20 and would give his assurance to the county Democratic leaders in any way that they saw fit to use him. Jacobs Theatre has accordingly been engaged for that night and Mr. Hill will there address a large meeting.

If the Democrats do not win out here it will not be because they are not working hard. Plans are being made to have other speakers of National repute here during the campaign, and from the looks of things the fight will be a hard one.

BIG DEAL.

Home Real Estate Company Has Purchased 400 Building Lots in the West End.

The Home Real Estate Company, comprising Mayor O. L. Jenkins, J. T. MacMurray, Charles H. Hand, Andrew McCardell and F. H. Smith, has just purchased 400 building lots located on Clinton avenue, on the north and south side of West Fourth street, east and west side of Hunter avenue, east and west side of Rushmore and Evona avenues, and it is proposed to put these lots in the market at once. The lots were purchased from Isaac W. Rushmore, who has owned them for thirty years past.

The company will at once erect fifteen houses to rent at a figure between $14 and $15 per month and twenty more lots have been sold to people who will build houses within a short time. These lots are pleasantly situated in a desirable part of the city. The streets facing these lots will be improved and within a year there will be a large settlement in that end of the city. The style of houses to be erected are now in great demand and the real estate agents have for a long time been unable to suppply them.

ALMOST SCALPED.

Homeless Wanderer Met With Severe Accident on New Jersey Central Last Evening.

John Snekdenberger, homeless wanderer, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, last evening, with his scalp almost entirely torn off, through an accident on the New Jersey Central at Berckman street. Although the wound is severe he will recover.

In company with a friend, Snekdenberger was riding on a freight train and attempted to get off opposite the Hygeia Ice Company's plant. He did not notice a mile post and swung into it. The impact drove him back against the train and inflicted the wound. He was knocked back a second time by the train and down the embankment.

An iron plate on top of the mile post was bent almost double by the force with which he was thrown against it.

Important Session.

The East New Jersey Baptist Sunday-school convention to be held in the old historic church at Scotch Plains, October 21, promises to be one of the best sessions ever held. A programme of unusual interest is being prepared and it is expected that the attendance will be large. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Wedded at St. Mary's.

Miss Margaret Sheridan, of this city, and George Hipp, of New York, were quietly married in St. Mary's church, yesterday afternoon, by Rev. Father Egan. Miss Margaret Henaby was bridemaid and Peter Sheridan acted as best man. The couple will take up their residence in New York.

Funeral of Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Ann Neuman, who died on Wednesday morning, was buried at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral services were held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. McWiggins, on South Second street. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. Church, officiated.

SANITARY WORKERS TO MEET

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE SANITARY ASSOCIATION CALLED.

Will be Held at Lakewood, October 24 and 25—The Addresses to Be Given.

Arrangements have been completed for the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey Sanitary Association, which will be held at the Laurel House, Lakewood, on October 24 and 25. The several committees having the matter in charge have provided an interesting and instructive programme which will carry the convention through three sessions.

The introductory exercises, which will begin at 3:30 o'clock Friday, October 24, will include an address on "Sanitaria for Consumptives," by Dr. Charles J. Kipp, of Newark, and an address on "Hygienic Instruction for Teachers in the Public Schools," by Dr. C. J. Baxter, of Trenton, together with such formal business as may come before the meeting. At the evening session President H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick, will speak on "Boards of Health; Their Duties Under the Law and Their Relation to the Prevention of the Spread of Communicable Diseases," and will be followed by Dr. Ernest J. Lederle, president of the New York Board of Health, who has chosen for his subject "Food Preservaties; Their Effect Upon the Health of the Consumers." Dr. S. A. Knopf, of New York, will also address the meeting on consumption and its prevention, and will explain what every one should know about the disease.

John P. Smith, of New Brunswick, will speak on "The Sanitary Aspect of the Mosquito Question" at the Saturday session, and will be followed by Dr. Henry Clay Weeks, of Bay Side, Long Island, who will discuss the question of mosquito extermination and advance some practical suggestions for the attainment of that end. The reclamation of land subject to tide overflow will form the basis of an address by John B. Duncklee, of South Orange, after which the business of electing officers will be taken up.

The purpose of the New Jersey Sanitary Association is the presentation of facts, the comparison of views and the discussion of methods relating to the prevention of sickness and of untimely deaths. The present officers of the organization are: President, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; vice president, Dr. John L. Leal, of Paterson; second vice president, M. N. Baker, of Montclair; third vice president, Dr. Norton L. Wilson, of Elizabeth; secretary, Dr. James A. Exton, of Arlington; treasurer, George P. Olcott, of East Orange, and chairman of the executive council, Henry C. Greene, of Arlington.

Mrs. John H. VanWinkle, of Duer street, left for Atlantic Highlands yesterday, where she will spend a few days with relations.

FORM BASKET BALL LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Leal's School Organize a Local League.

OFFICERS WERE CHOSEN

Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League Formally Organized at Y. M. C. A. Last Evening—R. A. Meeker Elected President—The League to Last Twelve Weeks.

With four strong local organizations behind it, the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League formally came into existence last evening. A meeting of those interested was held at the Y. M. C. A. building when the necessary steps were taken to regularly organize the league. officers were elected and a general scheme for the schedule adopted. As a result, local interest in that favorite indoor sport promises to grow materially and those who in past years have deplored the lack of regular games will find their desires finally a reality.

Last evening's meeting was the third of a series which have been held at the Y. M. C. A. building with the organization of the league in view. At the suggestion of The Daily Press, the initiatory step was taken by Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood and through his efforts the league was finally formed. While representatives of seven different organziations have attended the meetings, this number has been reduced to four for the league. In it will be included the Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Leal's School A. A.

C. E. A. Heywood acted as chairman of last night's meeting and represented the Y. M. C. A. George Proctor Smith was the voting representative of the Alis A. A., F. Wharton was there in behalf of Hope Y. M. A. and Gordon W. Abbott as Leal's School representative. After the name of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League was adopted, Robert A. Meeker was elected president and Charles B. Morse secretary-treasurer. Mr. Meeker, who is State supervisor of roads in New Jersey, is well known as an ardent lover of all kinds of amateur sport and was selected as a perfectly disinterested person who is well acquainted with the game.

The season will open Monday evening, November 17, and two games will be played each week, one in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and one in the gymnasium at Hope chapel. The games will be played on Monday and Friday evenings except on special occasions when other entertainments may interfere. With the four teams in the league, each will thus be enabled to play one game a week. Each team will meet each other team four times during the season, twice at each gymnasium and it will require twelve weeks to complete the schedule. This will mean that the league will end about the middle of February.

Each club, with the exception of the school team, is required to file with the secretary-treasurer not later than Saturday, November 15, a list of not more than fifteen players from which the team must be picked. No others will be allowed to play in league games. In the case of the school, a certificate from the principal that the players are bone-fide students at the school will be the only requirement and no limit is placed on the number from which the team may be picked.

Another meeting of the league will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, October 24, when a schedule will be adpoted and other details arranged. A constitution and by-laws will then be approved.

Much interest has already been taken in the proposed league and there is every reason to believe that it will be a decided success. While the make-up of the Y. M. C. A. team is fairly well known, the other teams are uncertain qualities and they will have to get their candidates out for practice before they can get any idea of the personel of their teams.

Developing Without Dark Room.

DUNAVAN APPEALS.

Fireman Will Carry His Case Before the N. J. Supreme Court.

Because the Common Council would not remit the fine in the case of Chief T. O. Doane against Louis M. Dunavan, on charges preferred by Chief Doane, Robert M. Clark, counsel for the defendant, will take the case to the Supreme Court Monday. The defendant believes that he should receive pay for the time he was laid off and because this was not given to him he will appeal from the decision of the Council.

MR. MARTINE'S CAMPAIGN

IT IS GOING TO BE A THOROUGH ONE AND CLEAN.

In An Interview With a Reporter, He Tells His Chief Arguments and Plans.

James E. Martine, the Democratic aspirant for Senatorial honors, is preparing a strenuous itinerary for the coming campaign. He does not intend to leave a stone unturned that could in any way assist the party to victory. He intends to stump every city, town and hamlet in the county, and he also intends to speak in Monmouth, Somerset, Warren and Morris counties in the interests of the Democratic Congressional nominee, DeWitt C. Flanagan.

While Mr. Martine is not in any respect sanguine of a sure or easy victory he considers that he has a good fighting chance. To a Daily Press reporter he said: "I am going to conduct a good, clean campaign. If I win out it will be solely along party lines, for my opponent, Mr. Cross, is a fine fellow and nothing can be said against him."

Municipal ownership, the present labor agitations and combinations of capital will be Mr. Martine's basic arguments during his stumping tour. He is a strong exponent of municipa- ownership of works of public utility, and he thinks that this will prove a strong card in this campaign.

In Senator Cross' bailiwick Martine intends to speak once or more in every ward. He will, as he expresses it, go through Elizabeth with a rake and catch every good Democrat in the town. Incidentally he hopes to catch a number of good Republicans although he does not say so.

There is little doubt, in Mr. Martine's opinion, that he will secure a majority of votes in Plainfield and vicinity. If he does this and holds his own in Elizabeth he thinks that he will stand a good chance for election.

TROLLEY EMPLOYES MET.

Benevolent Association Held Its Annual Election Last Evening.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Union Trolley Employes' Benevolent Association, held in the parlors of Gottschalks' hotel at Westfield, last evening, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Samuel Ayers; vice president, Thomas Orr; treasurer, Mark Hipp; financial secretary, Charles Hepner; recording secretary, P. F. Maguire; sergeant-at-arms, Thomas Malone; trustees, John H. Conroy, Martin Lantz, Richard Powers, J. A. Sylvester, A. D. Potter.

It being the third anniversary of the association refreshments were served after the election. It was also decided to hold a ball within the near future, to take place, probably, in Elizabeth.

Politicians in Auto.

Hamilton Kean, Frank Bergen and Surrogate George T. Farrott, the latter a candidate for re-election, visited Plainfield, yesterday, in an automobile and made a tour of the city. While here they called on some of the political leaders and secured their support for the entire Republican ticket.

Committee in Charge.

The good and welfare committee from Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., has in charge the arrangements for the celebration of the council's fifteenth anniversary. The affair will be held Thursday evening and a big time is looked for.

Future of City Park.

There will be a meeting of the Town Improvement Association at the home of Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, West Eighth street, Monday afternoon, when the association will discuss the future care of the city park.

At Rahway Tonight.

James E. Martine, Democratic nominee for State Senator, will speak in Rahway tonight. The Rahway Democratic Club will be his host and the society is preparing to give him a rattling reception.

TROUBLE WHEN SHE MOVED

MRS. ANNIE HOLMES CLAIMED HAULENBECK STRUCK HER.

He Declared Injuries Were Received From a Chair—He Held for Grand Jury.

The case of Mrs. Annie Holmes against Frank Haulenbeck, on a charge of atrocious assault, was given a hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice Huff. W. L. Hetfield, Jr., represented the plaintiff and W. G. DeMeza the defendant. After hearing the evidence on both sides, Justice Huff decided to hold the defendant for the Grand Jury in $200 bail. The bail was furnished by Haulenbeck & Hazard.

In her story the plaintiff told how she had been engaged by her brother-in-law, the defendant, to work at his home for $18 a month. She said that during the month of July, August and September she did not receive her wages and she could not afford to live without it. She then obtained another position and informed the defendant to that effect. Having no money she had H. Bennett, a friend, remove her few belongings to her new place of work.

It was while moving the goods, Mrs. Holmes said, that the trouble occurred and she claimed that Haulenbeck grabbed her in the throat and kicked her in the ribs. The injury gave her much trouble, she said, and Dr. Zeglio was called to treat her. He said that the injury was the result of a blow or kick. She was subsequently obliged to go to the hospital, being discharged from there last Tuesday. The time of the alleged assault was in the evening of September 29.

Dr. Zeglio was put on the stand to testify to his treatment of the woman and her condition, but the defendant claimed that it was while he and the plaintiff were tussling over a chair, claimed by the plaintiff, that the injury was inflicted by the chair which accidentally struck the woman.

COAL MEN BURN OIL.

Employes of Boice, Runyon & Co., Have No Coal for Office Use.

The employes of Boice, Runyon & Company learned to their sorrow, this morning, that they had been penny wise and pound foolish. A few days ago they sold the last bit of coal contained by the yards and, this morning, the office force wanted a fire to combat the chill.

A search about the premises failed to reveal the smallest bit of the precious article used for the purpose and in desperation they resorted to an oiled brick, which answered the purpose in a smaller way. Bricks are still being used while the employes are searching every crack and crevice in the big yard for stray pieces of coal that have been dropped at odd times.

Once Too Many.

Harry Gardner, the individual who celebrated his release from jail by getting drunk and was arrested, pleaded guilty before City Judge Runyon, this morning. He begged for leniency or suspension that he might go to Philadelphia, but as he had already broken a promises he was given his choice of $5 or twenty days. He took the latter.

Fists and Teeth.

Robert Skinner and Morris Culhane, the two West Enders who engaged in a fist and teeth fight, last Sunday, were arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning. Both pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $3 each in preference to taking ten days. Culhane still bears evidence of the fight as in the tussle Skinner, he says, bit him on the nose.

Lecture of the Philippines.

Dr. Alice B. Condict, a former missionary in India, will give an illustrated lecture on the Philippines in the Crescent Avenue church next Tuesday evening. Dr. Condict is thoroughly conversant with her subject and the lecture will undoubtedly be of great interest.

Tomorrow's Meeting.

Miss Emily C. March will speak and Miss Agnes McKenzie will sing at the Y. M. C. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. George W. Saums and Elmer P. Wheeler will render violin and flute selections with piano accompaniment.

Increased Rate of Interest Deposits.

The Plainfield Trust Company yesterday notified its depositors that owing to the prevailing high rates at which money is loaning that it would increase its interest rate on checking accounts to three per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg, of West Fifth street, returned home last evening from Washington, where they have been spending several days.

STATE LIBRARY MEETING

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NEW JERSEY LIBRARY ASSOCIATION PLANNED.

Will be Held at Trenton, October 15—The Plans Arranged for the Day.

The New Jersey Library Association will hold its thirteenth annual meeting in Trenton, October 15. The association has felt for a long time that the many towns without libraries in the State only need to be interested to start libraries of their own. So in connection with the State Library Commission the association is ready to talk up plans by which this interest may be aroused.

The main topic of discussion at the fall meeting will be "The Establishment of Libraries in Small Towns." It is hoped a large number of the librarians in the State and of all people interested in libraries will be present at the meeting and help in the discussion. The meeting will be held in the public library from 10:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. It is hoped that all the visitors will lunch together and take this opportunity to become acquainted and to discuss the problems of library work.

In the afternoon there will be an opportunity to visit the new public library, the State library, and, thanks to the courtesy of the Street Railway Company, of Trenton, the library of Princeton University.

BOROUGH BUILDING.

Plan to Convert Old Warren Engine House Into a Jail and Municipal Building.

When Warren Engine Company secures the new quarters that the Borough Council has granted an appropriation for, those interested in police work are planning to remodel the present engine house and transform it into a jail, court room and meeting place for the Council.

The space now occupied as a stable will be wainscoated, the big doors bricked up and barred windows put in. The floor will be concreted and six cells installed.

Where the engine and hose cart now stand will be transformed into a court room. Up-stairs will be the Mayor's office and the Council chamber. The present jail will be abandoned or used for a store room.

As yet, of course, these plans are unofficial, but without doubt they will be carried out in their entirety as soon as Warren Engine Company removes to its proposed new home. The engine house is commodious and in a particularly desirable location. It will be a great advantage to have the jail with a frontage on Somerset street instead of being located in an alley as at present.

MORE LOCKERS.

Y. M. C. A. Physical Work Committee Ordered More—Other Things.

The physicial work committee of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting last night at which considerable important business was transacted. It was decided to purchase thirty or forty new lockers. At present there are a number of boys barred from membership in the physical class on account of a scarcity of lockers. Last night's action will settle this difficulty.

Much satisfaction was expressed by the committee over the baseball record. After purchasing suits for the team and paying for the banquet of a week ago, there is still a good balance in the treasury.

It was decided to start a students' class from the High School. This class will use the gymnasium twice a week.

ACTED AS SECRETARY.

Rev. O. G. Norseen Returned From Conference of Swedish Ministers.

Rev. O. G. Norseen, of the Swedish Pilgrim church, returned home today after a week's attendance at the fifteenth annual conference of the Swedish Congregational ministers, held at Providence, R. I. In the election of officers which took place he was honored with the position of secretary. Mr. Norseen assisted in the installation of two ministers, one of whom was from Perth Amboy.

Parents' Story.

The parents of Leona Vardot, of Belmont avenue, who was knocked down and run over by an automobile on Mountain avenue, Wednesday, declare that she was not crossing the street but was walking along the pathway used by pedestrians, as there is no sidewalk. They also condemn the action of the chaffeur who, they say, kept on his way without waiting to assist the child or learn the extent of her injuries.

WEDDING IN SOUTH JERSEY

REV. FRED B. NEWMAN MARRIED MISS ANNA M. WATSON, AT SALEM.

Pretty Wedding of Former Plainfielder, Now Pastor of a Church in Trenton.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Salem, October 11—Wedding bells rang merrily in Salem, yesterday afternoon, when the marriage of Miss Anna Wheeler Watson and Rev. Fred B. Newman, the latter of Trenton, took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler, cousins of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Louderbaugh, of the Presbyterian church.

Miss Watson was attended by her two sisters, the Misses Helen and Jean Watson, and the ushers were Captain Frank Watson, U. S. A., and Rev. Frank Eaton Newman, of Philadelphia. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Newman left Salem with hosts of good wishes following them.

The invitations were limited to relatives and most intimate personal friends. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Watson, of Othello, N. J., and the bridegroom is the son of H. Otis Newman, of Plainfield.

He is pastor of the East Presbyterian church, of Trenton, and will make his home at that place. Previous to being ordained to the ministry he was an earnest worker in the interest of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of Plainfield.

PRESIDENT RESIGNS.

First Fall Meeting of First Baptist Young Ladies' Missionary Society.

The first fall meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the church. Miss Harriet Shreve, president of the society, tendered her resignation on account of her removal to New York for the winter. No effort was made at the meeting to elect a new president. The matter will be taken up later.

An interesting paper was prepared by Mrs. W. B. Vail from the story of the "Schonberg-Gotta Family," and this was read by Miss Elizabeth Wilson at the request of the writer. The next meeting of the society will be in the nature of a social and it will be held at the home of Miss Grace Yerkes on West Seventh street, Friday afternoon, October 24.

GEN. ABERNETHY'S FUNERAL.

Impressive Services Held at Jersey City Yesterday.

Funeral services were held in Jersey City yesterday afternoon over the remains of the late Gen. H. H. Abernethy, of Jersey City, whose death occurred Wednesday. Gen. Abernethy is well known in this city, where he has spent several summers on West Seventh street. He is the father of Mrs. F. K. Fish, Jr., of Grant avenue.

The funeral services were very impressive and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Cronin, of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member. There was a magnificent collection of floral offerings, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held. The body was arrayed in the uniform of colonel of the Fourth Regiment and a large number of medals decorated the breast. An American flag was draped over the coffin.

Today military services will be held over the body by the Fourth Regiment which the General once commanded and a detachment will then take the body to Easton, Pa., where it will be interred with military honors.

Electing New Members.

The Ladies Sewing Society, of the Swedish Lutheran church, met at the home of Mrs. Brostrom, of Madison avenue, Thursday, and in addition to transacting considerable routine businses, elected several new members. The members listened to an excellent address given by Rev. A. Arnfeldt. Monday evening Rev. Mr. Neilsonius, of Brooklyn, will confer with the trustees of the church.

Dr. Carman Still Going.

Dr. M. A. Carman, of Franklin place, who took part yesterday in the reliability run of the Automobile Club of America, experienced long delays and was thought to be out of the race. He managed, however, to reach Hartford very late and continued the run. The trouble was caused by a punctured tire.

Reception and Social.

Miss Blanche Coles gave a most enjoyable reception and social last night at her residence on West Third street. A large number were present and there was music and dancing.

WORKMEN LOSE TOOLS.

Valuable Articles Have Disappeared From New Pederick-Ayer Works.

Since carpenters have commenced working on the new buildings for the Pederick-Ayer Company at Clinton avenue, they have been greatly annoyed by petty thieves. Tools have been disappearing regularly and so far not the slightest trace has been secured as to the whereabouts of the articles. Many of the stolen articles were of considerable value, and to prevent a further loss a strict watch will be kept on the place at all times.

WHAT A SINGLE PENNY DID

HOW MRS. E. R. TAYLOR USED MISS RACHEL MAIR'S GIFT.

That Original Penny Was the Means of Finally Raising Ten Dollars.

An evidence of what one penny will do for the cause of missions, is illustrated by an act of the late Miss Rachel Mair, when she departed on her last trip for Africa.

Just before the steamer sailed Miss Mair wanted to send a message of love to Mrs. Taylor in the form of a Scripture text, and to weight the little piece of paper she placed therein a penny. She then threw it from the steamer to the wharf, where Mrs. Taylor stood. Then and there Mrs. Taylor determined to give a good account of the penny. That was in August, 1901.

The penny first purchased some tracts which were sold by Mrs. Taylor and netted a small sum. Then some mottoes were purchased and still a greater amount was obtained. Thus the penny grew until $10 was realized. Yesterday Mrs. Taylor sent this amount to Miss Arms, the companion and co-worker of Miss Mair, who is now doing missionary work at Wissika, Africa. It will be used in mission work there. Mrs. Taylor will still continue the work of selling mottoes and thus secure money to further the cause of missions both at home and abroad.

Mrs. E. R. Taylor, formerly engaged in city missionary work with her husband in this city, has returned to Plainfiled and is now again engaged in this worthy mission. Mr. Taylor is still in the Elmira Sanitarium under treatment for knee trouble, but he is steadily improving and hopes to be out within a reasonable time. Mrs. Taylor is now living on East Fifth street, near Washington street.

DEMAND FOR WOOD.

Local Dealers Are Hardly Able to Meet the Unprecedented Demand for the Fuel.

Local coal dealers who also sell wood state that there is an unprecedented demand for that article at the present time. Many families are purchasing it by the cord or half cord and are sawing and splitting it themselves. The great majority, however, are buying it by the barrel.

It is probable that for the first month or so of cold weather, the dealers say, wood will be the principal substitute for coal, and if the strike lasts throughout the winter wood and gas will be used in enormous quantities. One dealer stated this morning that, with plenty of gas, wood and coke, no private family need have any fear of not being able to heat their houses.

While hard wood has gone up considerably over summer prices it is still reasonable enough to be within the reach of all.

Mr. McKelvey Made Moderator.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, has been appointed moderator of the Session of the Presbytery, following the departure of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards from Plainfield. Dr. Richards has been released by the Presbytery and he will leave Plainfield soon after Sunday, October 19, when he will preach his farewell sermon.

First Train of Coal.

Thursday afternoon a full train of hard coal passed through Plainfield on its way to New York. So far as known this is the first train of anthracite coal to go through Plainfield since last May. It has given rise to the belief that unless the coal operators expect to get more hard coal this would not have been shipped to New York.

"Mother" Bird Coming.

"Mother" Bird, a well-known Christian worker in the Bowery Mission, New York, will speak at Warren chapel Monday evening at 8 o'clock. She is a woman of culture and refinement and gave up her wealth to enter this mission work. Everyone should be interested in hearing her.

DUNGAN AND DEMOND REFUSE

Filed Their Declination to Democratic Nominations in Somerset This Morning.

A NEW COMPLICATION

Expected That County Committee at Its Meeting This Afternoon Will Arrange to Reconvene Democratic County Convention and Select Two Other Candidates.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 11—The political problem in this county has become more complicated than ever. This morning Nelson Y. Dungan, Democratic nominee for State senator, filed his declination before the County Clerk. Ten minutes later William J. DeMond, of Bridgewater, appeared before the same official and made affidavit that he would not accept the nomination for surrogate from the same party.

Later this afternoon the county committee will meet. As a result of the consultation it is almost certain that a call to reconvene the convention will be made, as no committee on vacancies was appointed at Wednesday's convention.

Mr. Dungan was seen by a Daily Press representative shortly after his official withdrawal from the race. He was reticent about his action, but stated that he has had it in mind ever since he received the nomination. Two days ago he signified his intention to withdraw to the members of the county committee, so that it has come as no surprise to them.

From a statement Mr. DeMond made to the reporter there is no ulterior reason for his withdrawal. He simply does not want the nomination for surrogate.

Trickery at the convention is undoubtedly the cause of the whole trouble. Samuel S. Childs was tacitly understood to be the one to receive the senatorial nomination. He was not present at the convention but waited in a nearby hotel to receive word that he had been selected as the standard bearer of his party. Without his knowledge or consent, or without the consent of Mr. Dungan, Childs' name was withdrawn and Dungan 's substituted. This action on the part of a few delegates deeply offended both Mr. Childs and Mr. Dungan, and those who were in a position to know, stated at the time that the latter would never consent to retain the nomination.

It is thought here that A. Gibby Spencer will be the next nominee for surrogate. What will be done with the senatorial nomination is hard to say. Mr. Childs will probably refuse to run, and it is thought by some, that if the next convention re-nominates Mr. Dungan without trickery he will make no objection to reconsidering his determination to keep entirely on the outskirts of the battle.

Teachers in Session.

The one hundred and third annual meeting of the Union County Teachers' Association is being held today from 9 o'clock in the morning to 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, in Public School No. 2, Morrell street, Elizabeth. An interesting programme has been prepared.

Woman to Preach.

A woman will preach at the Mt. Olive Baptist church tomorrow evening. She is Rev. L. Vigal, of England. It is said that she is one of the greatest women speakers in that country. Rev. J. W. Mitchell will be in charge of the service.

Rally Day.

The rally day exercises of the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be special music including a violin solo by Miss White, of New York, and selections by a special orchestra.

Sermon for Young Men.

Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, will preach a strong sermon especially for young men of the city at tomorrow's evening service. The Y. M. A. of the chapel will attend in a body and all others interested are asked to attend.

Concert by Quartette.

The concert to be given at the First Presbyterian church, October 21, by the male quartette, assisted by other talent, will be for the benefit of the kitchen fund started by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

When Farmer Orator Martine goes down to defeat before Senator Cross, there is a belief that the last vestige of Bryanism will have been removed from the Democratic party in Union county.—Newark News.

The ice dealers of Plainfield are becoming philanthropic. Realizing the dreadful situation caused by the scarcity of coal, they have decided to do all in their power to make it warm by doubling the price of ice.—Newark News.

Mayor Jénkins, of Plainfield, makes a suggestion to property owners of that city which is equally applicable to the citizens of Bound Brook at this time. If the people who are in moderate circumstances will look about their homes, the Mayor says, they will find that there are several trees which can be well spared and not injure the appearance of the place in the slightest. Too much shade is unhealthy and affects the turf as well. By the removal of these trees, he says, not only would a step be taken to better the health and improve the appearance of the property, but persons in moderate circumstances could thus obtain a supply of fuel at little or no cost. There are many trees in Bound Brook which could well be spared, for the purpose of heating if for no other reason.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

County Superintendent of Schools H. Brewster Willis has been re-appointed by Governor Murphy for a sixth full term. Mr. Willis' efficiency as an educator has been recognized by both parties and there has been no disposition at any time to give another his office. Mr Willis' father, Rev. Ralph Willis was made county superintendent here in 1867 and held the office until 1886, when he resigned and his son, the present incumbent, was appointed. In 1887 the younger Mr. Willis was appointed for a full term and re-appointed in 1890, 1893, 1896 and 1902. Under his inspection the schools of Middlesex county have come into the front rank, and for the sake of pubilc education it is to be hoped that Mr. Willis will continue at the helm for a good many years longer.—New Brunswick Home News.

Former Senator James Smith has had his plans for the nomination of State Senator disarranged, for the first time this year, in Somerset county. The slate that had been made satisfactory to him by the Democratic leaders of Somerset was broken at the last moment in Somerville yesterday, and instead of making Samuel S. Childs, the restaurant man, the candidate for Senator, the convention nominated Major Nelson Y. Dungan, a step that was entirely unexpected. This was no fault of the leaders, and there are charges made that "treachery in the ranks" was responsible for what is designated as a "dirty trick." There may be no truth in this allegation, but it was so firmly believed that an effort was made to do violence to the person who was charged with being the head and front of the defection.

It is difficult to tell as yet whether Mr. Smith will interest himself this fall in the election in Somerset with as much vim as he had expected to do. Major Dungan, the Senatorial candidate, is a good lawyer, a distinguished member of the National Guard, and has a fine record of service in the field during the Spanish-American War, but he is more widely known as one of the few leading Democrats of Somerset county, who refused to desert Bryan and follow in the footsteps of the men who now control the machinery of the Democratic party in Somerset. The major is too stubborn to be led around by the nose, and too high spirited to be driven. In fact he is not Mr. Smith's style of candidate at all. But that need not grieve the people of Somerset county.—Newark News.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Corson, of Clinton, have been visiting friends in Plainfield for a few days.

THEATRICAL.

Minnie Dupree's metropolitan debut as a star was successfully inaugurated at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, Monday night. The play chosen for the event was "A Rose O' Plymouth-Town." It had enjoyed a very successful tour of a month on the road and came to town heralded as the one real success of the present season. The new star was welcomed by a large and appreciative audience and realized the high hopes of her friends and admirers in a most convincing manner. As the title indicates, the play deals with a colonial subject. As a play "A Rose O' Plymouth-Town" has much to recommend it. It is clean cut, atmospheric, follows an even current of interest and can be truthfully said to be a dainty vehicle for such a bright and vivacious personality such as Miss Dupree possesses. The character of Rose is skillfully drawn, and spiritedly depicted by Miss Dupree. The rest of the cast is adequate, and the stage settings are historically and artistically correct. Matinees are given on Saturdays only.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre's bill of continuous vaudeville for next week introduces a new sketch team as headliners, alhough both members are individually old in public favor. They are Emily Lytton and William Gerald who will be seen in a new comedy, "A Child of Nature." "Mr. Barnes of New York" will be revived with new scenery by a special cast at the Fifth Avenue. The Proctor Stock Company will present "Lost in Siberia" at the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre with a full complement of new and elaborate scenery. Up in Harlem "A Celebrated Case" will be presented by the Permanent Stock Company with Adelaide Noim and New Howard Towler in the leading roles. Proctor's, Newark, is presenting vaudeville bills hard to equal and certainly unsurpassed in this vicinity. Twice daily the pretty theatre on Military Park is crowded to the doors, the daily bargain matinees being especially popular. James J. Morton, in his original monologue, will be the feature of next week's programme.

LITERARY.

Richard Whiteing, whose novel "The Yellow Van" is to appear in The Century during the coming year, beginning in November, made his first striking success with "No. 5 John Street." Mr. Whiteing is in his sixtieth year, and from time immemorial his ancestors have been farmers living in Yorkshire. He was born in London, studied art in the Government School of Design and became an engraver; but at twenty-five he made a hit with a short story in the London Evening Star, and so took up journalism, which finally led to authorship. "The Yellow Van" opens with the marriage of an English duke to an American "school-ma'am."

OUR ROYAL GUEST.

Crown Prince of Siam Arrives for a Tour of the Country.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Prince Chowfo Maha Vajiravudh, the crown prince of Siam, arrived on the steamer Fuerst Bismarck, from Southampton and Cherbourg. He was met by Herbert H. D. Peirce, third assistant secretary of state, and D. B. Sickles of New York, formerly consul general at Bangkok, representing President Roosevelt, and Edwin V. Morgan of the state department, secretary to the president's commission.

The prince left the steamer at quarantine on the navy yard tug Powhatan and landed at the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City, where a special train was waiting to take him to Washington.

CROWN PRINCE OF SIAM.

The prince will after his visit to Washington return to New York Oct. 21 for a week, during which he will be given a dinner by Mayor Low and by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and will probably give a dinner himself.

It is expected that the crown prince's tour of the United States will occupy about two months, but no date has been set for his sailing for the orient from San Francisco.

In many respects the young crown prince is far and away the most interesting visitor to these shores in many years. His father, King Chulalongkorn, has 300 wives, and his children are said to number 236, of whom 132 are sons.

The crown prince is making a tour of the world in order to study economic conditions. It is the desire of his father that when he ascends the throne of Siam he shall be properly educated in order to elevate the civilization of his native country and bring it to a point where it will be possible to meet the encroachment of western civilization on somewhat equal terms.

With this object in view the crown prince has been a resident of England since 1893. He was educated at Eton college and Oxford and is well qualified to study the customs of the United States. It is said to be his intention to write a book entitled "The Travels of a Prince."

The crown prince is twenty-two years old and 5 feet 1 inch tall. He has a clear brown skin, stiff black hair and is rather good looking.

No Indictment For Illinois Rioters.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Oct. 11.—After having examined nearly 200 witnesses and consumed more than two weeks the grand jury of Saline county has failed to find an indictment against any one of the mob that has terrorized the negroes in the county and driven many away from Eldorado. As a result the words of Governor Yates in this city have been made good, and the troops stationed at Eldorado have gone into winter quarters. It is understood that a movement has been started among the colored citizens of the state to probe the matter further. Much indignation is expressed among the colored citizens over the action of the grand jury.

Hamilton Bars "Trots."

CLINTON, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The faculty of Hamilton college has announced that students found using English translations in the preparation of language lessons would be suspended from college and for a repetition of the offense would be expelled. The stock of Latin and Greek literal translations on sale at the college bookstore has been confiscated, and the professors in Greek and Latin have been directed to break up the use of translations by an insistence on the technical points in the texts.

Member of Parliament Sent to Prison

FRISCO NEXT YEAR.

Grand Army to Meet on Pacific Coast In 1903.

A SPLIT IN UNION VETERANS' UNION.

Action of General Torrance Asking Aid For the Confederate Soldiers' Home is Warmly Commended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic for 1903 came to a close yesterday. San Francisco was chosen as the next place of meeting, and the election of officers was completed. Resolutions were adopted by the encampment having in view liberal treatment of veterans in the matter of public office and pensions. The kindred bodies to the parent organization also brought their several conventions to a close, the Sons of Veterans, Woman's Relief corps and other bodies choosing officers for the ensuing year.

The Union Veterans' union had a decidedly lively day, and the final result was a split of the organization. The first row was over a question of eligibility to membership. A resolution was adopted that let down the bars too much to suit some of the state delegations with a large membership in the order. This caused ill feeling. Later the friction in the union developed rapidly in consequence of a committee of the order which had been investigating the character and conduct of Commander in Chief Dyreuforth adopting a report recommending the suspension of the commander in chief.

Before adjourning the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic adopted a resolution submitted by Past Commander in Chief Burdette indorsing the position taken by Commander in Chief Torrance in his recent address calling for assistance from members of the Grand Army for the Home For Confederate Soldiers at Mountain Creek, Ala., and urging on the veterans generally the adoption of an attitude of brotherly kindness toward their foes of the civil war.

Since his arrival in Washington General Torrance has received many assurances of appreciation of the spirit of that address from his comrades of the Grand Army. Among the letters received is one from Major J. M. Falkner of Montgomery, Ala., who is interested in the Mountain Creek home, from which the following is an extract:

"Contributions as a result of your inspired and inspiring letter continue to reach me from nearly every part of the Union. But better than all the money that could be sent me is the brotherly love, good will, gentleness and kindness which prevades every letter that I have received, and I have yet to hear of any adverse criticism anywhere in Alabama, either as to your action or as to mine in receiving the funds contributed.

"In my opinion down to this date nothing has ever been done that is so calculated to obliterate all the scars of war and to wipe out forever all the bitterness between those who wore the blue and the gray as your action in this matter, and while there may be a few who came in late and did not get enough of war that are still treasuring up animosities, yet there are few indeed who are not ready to say in the language of that illustrious and magnanimous victor, General Grant, 'Let us have peace.'

"My friends and comrades throughout the state wish for you and every member of the Grand Army of the Republic a great meeting at Washington, and if we could meet you there there would be such a union of hearts and shaking of hands that it would be impossible to distinguish between the blue and the gray."

A National Grocers' Combine.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—The Interstate Grocer of St. Louis says that a combine, to include every wholesaler of groceries in the United States, is in the course of formation. That paper says that the details are not yet public property, and they will not be until after Nov. 5 next, when the initial steps toward forming the combination will be taken in Detroit. George D. Hanford of New York city is engineering the deal. Already a large number of the leading wholesale grocers in the east have been seen by Mr. Hanford or his representatives, and nearly all have expressed their willingness to be present.

New Orleans Strike Still On.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 11.—The strike situation shows no material change. The governor is understood to have presented to the committee of the strikers whom he met an offer of the New Orleans Railway company of ten hours and 20 cents an hour. At the canal bank, where the great majority of the strikers were assembled, they were informed of the nature of the proposition, and its announcement was greeted with loud negative shouts. The trial of the sixteen strikers for interfering with the mails was continued until Monday.

Texas-Mexican Road Still Tied Up.

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 11.—The strike of the Texas-Mexican railroad and the National railroad firemen is still on, and, with one exception, not a wheel has turned over either road out of the city. Passengers from the north remain around the hotel corridors, anxiously asking when a train will move in the direction of the land beyond the Rio Grande.

CONFERENCE FAILS.

Heated Interview In Senator Platt's Office.

GOVERNOR ODELL'S BRAVE STAND.

Tells President Baer He Will Use Every Power at His Command to End the Strike and Relieve the Suffering.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—After two days of conferences between the anthracite coal mine operators on one side and the governor and senior senator of New York and the two senators from Pennsylvania on the other the strike of the United Mine Workers of America is apparently as far from a settlement as the day it was declared.

Governor Odell laid before the operators the proposition that if they would concede to the miners an advance of

GOVERNOR ODELL.

5 cents a ton in the price paid for mining coal he would promise that the miners would resume work. Being told further that the concession would carry with it recognition of the miners' union, the operators promptly refused to entertain the proposal and took their leave. Later in the day they and the Pennsylvania senators departed from the city, the latter going to Harrisburg.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, took no part in any of the conferences, he being in New York, it is understood, in order that he might be within reach should the negotiations reach a stage where his decision for the miners would be required.

"What do you mean by politicians? I want you and all the other operators to understand that I am the governor of New York, the chosen representative of 7,000,000 people, and that I am here in this matter solely in that capacity and to relieve if possible an intolerable situation. And, what is more, I intend to use every power at my command to do it."

Governor Odell made this statement to President Baer of the Reading Road in the presence of United States Senators Platt of New York and Quay and Penrose of Pennsylvania. It was the culmination of a rather heated interview in the office of Senator Platt and the result of the first meeting between Governor Odell and President Baer.

Mr. Baer was not in the best of humor when, accompanied by E. B. Thomas, chairman of the board of directors of the Erie railroad, he entered Senator Platt's office. The conference was begun by a statement made by Senator Penrose that the situation was becoming so serious that some solution must be found at once. He suggested that the operators should incline to some concessions toward a settlement.

"If you mean by that," said President Baer, "that we are to recognize the existence of a labor union, I tell you right now that the operators will consider no such proposition."

Governor Odell was on his feet in an instant. Holding a half burnt cigar in his hand and white with excitement, he said:

"Are we to understand that no kind of a conciliatory proposition will receive consideration at the hands of the operators?"

"I did not say that," answered Mr. Baer, "but I do say, and I reiterate it, that we will not accept political advice or allow the interference of politicians in this, our affair."

Then it was that Governor Odell made the statement attributed to him at the beginning of this article.

President Baer, evidently appreciating that he had gone too far, bowed to Governor Odell and said:

"Governor, I beg your pardon. No personal affront was intended, and we will listen to any suggestion you may have to make, but again I repeat that we must refuse to recognize the union as represented by Mr. Mitchell."

"I believe," said the governor, "that your position from a public view is absolutely untenable. If coal operators, railroad men and other business men can combine for mutual profit and protection, there is no reason why laboring men should not."

"What is the proposition?" said Mr. Baer coldly.

"Just this," said Governor Odell. "I am sure that the labor organization of which Mr. Mitchell is the head desires him to be fair with the general public. If the operators will consent to give the men 5 cents a ton increase, I will personally present it to the miners, and I believe they will accept it. It is a fair proposition."

"Does this mean, Governor Odell, that we are to recognize the miners' union?" Mr. Baer asked.

"It certainly does," answered Governor Odell quickly, "and there is no reason why you should not."

Mr. Baer and Mr. Thomas rose to go, Mr. Thomas remarking that the matter would be presented to the other operators and that an early answer would be forthcoming. Mr. Baer said:

"We are to meet a committee of the Manufacturers' association on Tuesday, and we may have an answer then."

The conference broke up, Mr. Baer and Mr. Thomas withdrawing. Senators Platt, Penrose and Quay talked over the matter for a short time, and then they, too, separated, the two Pennsylvanians announcing that they would go back to Harrisburg and discuss the situation with Governor Stone.

Governor Odell was not in talking mood when he left the conference. He went directly to the Fifth Avenue hotel and during most of the afternoon received callers. Mayor Low, Anson G. McCook, Edward Lauterbach, Congressmen Lessler and Littauer and Senator Platt were among his callers. To one of these the governor said:

"The coal operators may postpone this matter until Tuesday, but I don't propose to postpone it. They are not acting fairly toward the people. I believe I shall find some remedy."

There is nothing to justify the assertion that negotiations will be resumed next Tuesday. As one of the coal presidents put it, "the incident is closed."

"The publicists," said this gentleman, "made a number of suggestions, all of which we turned down. These included a 10 per cent increase in pay, a decrease of working hours and recognition of the union as well as a number of other propositions which we regard as equally undebatable. In fact, we found it impossible to negotiate with them and said so.

"What their next step will be I cannot say, but they understand that we cannot be moved. I repeat we will not meet them again. It is frivolous and is bound to result in further ill feeling."

Another operator said:

"It is not for us to consider mere matters of political expediency. Had so called statesmen kept their hands off the strike would have been settled long ago. We have taken a stand for principle, and no amount of argument will budge us."

Governor Odell at a late hour was asked whether he had determined on any further move. He said, "I have not received any official notice of the rejection of our propositions."

"Has it been suggested that you call an extra session of the legislature?" was asked.

"I have not thought of it as yet. As I said, I am waiting for an answer from the operators."

The governor said that he would go to Newburg to register and return here on Monday morning. Then he said he would again take up the matter actively if no decision was arrived at by the miners and operators.

Government Interference Demanded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—David Wilcox, counsel for the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company and one of those present at the recent conference called by President Roosevelt, has sent to the president a letter demanding that the federal government proceed against the miners' organization in the courts on the ground that it is a conspiracy to prevent interstate commerce. Mr. Wilcox represents all the coal operators in this action and was selected as their spokesman. President Roosevelt has received the above communication and has referred it, together with the former one, of which Mr. Wilcox speaks, to the attorney general.

Welsh Coal For Maine.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 11.—A cargo of 3,800 tons of Welsh coal has just arrived by the British steamer Charlemont. Another steamer carrying coal is expected at this port in a few hours. The coal will be sold here for $12 a ton.

Geneva Strike Leaders Arrested.

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—Several leaders of the strike who are also anarchists have been arrested and imprisoned by order of the government, and numerous undesirable foreigners have been expelled from Switzerland. There was a repetition of disorderly demonstrations last night. Troops and police charged the mob, and sixty arrests were made.

Austrian Bank In Trouble.

PRAGUE, Austria, Oct. 11.—The death of an official of the St. Wenceslaus Loan bank has been followed by the discovery of alleged defalcations amounting to $500,000. Herr Drozd, president of the bank, and Herr Kohout, a bookkeeper, have been arrested.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Business Good In Spite of Strikes and Financial Stringency.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Favorable symptoms still predominate, and the business outlook is encouraging despite the adverse factors of labor controversies, fuel shortage and tight money That these drawbacks have not seriously checked industrial progress testifies to the strong position attained during recent months of uninterrupted activity and growing confidence. Manufacturing plants dependent upon steam for motive power are finding profits curtailed by the high prices for fuel, and unless normal conditions are soon restored it will be necessary to secure better quotations for products. The problem of adequate transportation is also disturbing, as there is already congestion in the coke region.

Weather conditions were exceptionally favorable during the past week for securing the nation's abundant agricultural yield. There is no longer any question as to the enormous quantity of grain, but in some cases there has been a decided loss in quality. Wheat comes to market freely, western arrivals for the week amounting to 7,958,283 bushels compared with 7,426,651 a year ago, but for the crop year thus far the movement has not equaled last year's.

Failures for the week numbered 245 in the United States, against 231 last year, and 21 in Canada, compared with 34 a year ago.

The Hudson Valley Strike.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Protected by the Second regiment, the Hudson Valley Railway company is operating its full schedule of trolley cars in Saratoga, Washington and Warren counties. The striking motormen and their sympathizers are exhibiting a more belligerent attitude than ever. It is feared that the mass meeting of strikers and sympathizers called at Glens Falls for tonight will cause a riot of a much more serious nature than the one that occurred there last Saturday night. The First battalion of the Second regiment is on duty between Sandy Hill and Fort Edward. The Third battalion is encamped at Mechanicsville. The Second battalion remains at Glens Falls.

Meadows Expelled From Austria.

VIENNA, Oct. 11.—John W. Meadows, a qualified American dentist of Philadelphia, has been fined $50 and expelled from Austria under an old law which prohibits foreigners from practicing dentistry in Austria. Mr. Meadows was skillful and acted as assistant to Carl Pichler, a prominent dentist in Vienna. The American was apparently the victim of a plot of one of his former employers, who sent his servant to Pichler with the special request that Mr. Meadows extract a tooth. This is contrary to the law which permits foreigners to act as assistants, but forbids them to perform operations.

Boiler Inspectors Not Qualified.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Ninety per cent of the men who inspect boilers throughout the United States are not practical boiler makers and consequently are not qualified for the work. This is the conclusion arrived at by members of the Master Steam Boiler Makers' association, and at sessions being held here they are arranging for a campaign that may result in new laws being enacted. The charge of unfitness is said to apply also to a large number of the men who make boilers, and it is one of the purposes to have such workmen licensed when they shall have shown their competency.

COLOMBIA'S PLIGHT.

Attitude of the United States Causes Irritation.

CASEY'S ORDER THOUGHT HARSH.

The Government Said to Be Rapidly Approaching a Crisis—Funds For Carrying on the War Are Nearly Depleted.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 11.—The following information concerning affairs in Colombia has been received from a reliable authority at Colon:

The Colombian civil revolution within the past few weeks has assumed certain new phases, the most noteworthy of which are the resumption of hostilities in the interior of the republic and the nature of the attitude of the United States government with reference to the interpretation of the treaty between New Granada and the United States of 1846.

With regard to hostilities in the interior General Uribe-Uribe has again appeared in the field and is now said to hold the important strategic point of Tenerife, on the Magdalena river, where he has mounted cannon. The number of General Uribe-Uribe's followers is not known.

The river at Tenerife is narrow, and transit on it is completely blocked and will remain so as long as the revolutionists hold their position.

It will be difficult, however, for them to hold Tenerife unless they are well provisioned with all the necessaries of war, as that part of the country cannot support an army. If General Uribe-Uribe succeeds in holding Tenerife, there can be no communication between the isthmus and the Atlantic coast and Bogota.

In the matter of the attitude of the United States on the isthmus, the arrival at Colon of Commander McLean and his subsequent declaration of his intention to fulfill the obligations of the treaty by landing United States marines and bluejackets to maintain free transit over the railroad caused intense irritation in all Colombian circles, where it is not admitted that the present situation warrants such action.

This feeling of irritation was further intensified when a thousand government troops entering Colon from Panama were forced to lay aside their arms temporarily and travel under the escort of American marines and bluejackets. Since this occurrence and presumably after having communicated with the revolutionary general Herrera Admiral Casey of the United States battleship Wisconsin has adopted a position of the strictest neutrality.

The American admiral has notified the government that no military employee whatever, regardless of rank or arms or ammunition, will be allowed to travel or be conveyed by rail across the isthmus without the special permission of the American commanding officer.

It is not easy to describe the extent of the Colombian ill feeling resulting from these occurrences or the scope of the privileges the Colombians have lost.

There are clear indications that the Colombian government is approaching a serious crisis with regard to its ability to continue the war.

Nothing more forcibly illustrates the extreme financial stress of Colombia, which entails extreme hardship upon all classes and untold and abject misery on the poor, than the evidences of the utter destitution and pitiable condition of the government troops who are from time to time sent out from the interior. Many of these soldiers are boys, their ages ranging from seven and eight years up.

COLOMBIA'S PROTEST.

Washington Authorities Say General Casey's Order Is Misunderstood.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The Colombian government on complaint of General Salazar, in command of its forces on the isthmus, has remonstrated with the United States minister at Bogota respecting Admiral Casey's reported refusal to allow troops and munitions of war to cross the isthmus. The Colombian government said it did not see how it could suppress the rebellion if it were not allowed to move troops freely in its own territory.

The officials here are confident that Admiral Casey's order has been misunderstood. They feel sure that if he stopped the transit of Colombian troops or war munitions it was only for some temporary reason. The Colombian government has been assured in a courteous manner that the United States government has no intention of trenching on Colombian sovereignty, which has been guaranteed by special treaty provision.

Irish Landowners Oppose Conference

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The landowners' convention in session here by a vote of 77 to 14 refused to adopt a resolution proposed by the Earl of Mayo in favor of a conference between landowners and tenants for the purpose of discussing proposals to transfer the ownership of lands to the tenants. The Duke of Abercorn presided at the convention. The proceedings were private. Considerable feeling was displayed against Captain Shawe Taylor, who first proposed a conference between landowners and tenants.

Roosevelt Booked For Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Judge Hammond of the United States court has received positive assurances from President Roosevelt that he would be here Nov. 19 to participate in the public welcome home to be extended to Vice Governor Luke E. Wright, now en route home from the Philippines on a vacation.

THE TIME TO ACT.

The Board of School Estimate meets this evening. It is expected that the board will then take formal action on the request of the Board of Education for funds with which to build a new High School for the city. A resolution will be passed which will be forwarded to the Common Council for its approval. As a matter of fact, the latter act is very close to a formality as the action of the Board of School Estimate will surely be approved by the Council.

It is not likely that there will be any public hearing on the question of the new High School. It is pleasing to note, however, that there has been no attempt to "railroad" the scheme through. There has been the fullest kind of publicity so far and there is reason to believe that no change will be made in the policy while the remaining steps are being taken. If there is any objection to the made, it should be brought to the attention of the Board of School Estimate or any of its members. Of course the members from the School Board have put themselves on record as being in favor of it but Mayor Jenkins and Councilmen George P. Mellick and Jan van Herwerden are all available and can be easily reached in person or by telephone.

Although the board meets tonight, if there are any objectors they would do well to communicate their ideas to these members without delay so that the arguments may be brought to the attention of the board at its meeting. It is not too late if it has not already been done. This answers, to some extent at least, for a public hearing and the argument cannot be fairly advanced that there was no opportunity given for the citizens to express their ideas of the plan.

Any one who is acquainted with the personnel of the Board of Education will not question for a moment the sincerity of the members of that body in their demands. They are all men of integrity and probity and the possibility of any crooked work, as in some cities, is not to be considered. The only thing is that, in their enthusiasm in the work of the schools, they may have gone a little too far. If such a state of affairs does exist, it is not at all likely that such men as Messrs. Jenkins, Mellick and vanHerwerden will allow it to pass unnoticed. It seems reasonable to believe that these three members of the Board of School Estimate will not allow any request to go before the Common Council which they are not fully convinced is to be best interests of the city.

The world is certainly becoming educated. A Fordham father who discovered his twenty-year-old daughter had been secretly married to a boy three years her junior didn't fly to the courts for annullment of the compact. Instead, he invited his son-in-law to call on him, they talked the matter over and when the interview terminated the boy had promised to go to work, with the privilege of calling on his wife twice a week, and when he becomes of age the cermony is to be performed again to make it more binding.

It used to require ingenuity to induce people to read advertisements, declares the Philadelphia Record. Now, however, people understand that it is just as much to their interest to know what the advertiser has to sell as it is for the advertiser to tell them. Therefore the advertisements in a popular newspaper are read by the great majority of the buying people.

These municipal bon fires are getting to be great factors in amusing the people of the "new" south. Last week a negro was burned to death by a huge mob in a Mississippi town and yesterday the police of Richmond, Va., amused 5,000 people by setting fire in the street to as many dollars worth of gambling parphernalia captured in raids.

The Brooklyn Bridge Commissioners have approved of a plan whereby four more loops are to be built at the Manhattan terminal of the big structure. As the poor unfortunates who are compelled to use it have been "looping-the-loop" for years past its only piling on the agony.

GOAL! GOAL! GOAL!

Everybody wants coal. It is the crying need of the hour. We can't supply you with coal—we have none for our own use; but we can you supply with many other comforts. If you can't buy coal, buy warm clothing for yourselves and the children. Buy warm blankets and comfortables. All of these we can furnish in best of goods and in any quantity. We are willing to do all in our power to make you comfortable.

"MUNCY" BLANKETS.

We control the sale of these goods in this city. They are the best medium-priced goods made. Good wool is used in their manufacture, and they shrink less than other blankets.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

M. C. VanArsdale, the East Front street footwear dealer, wants every woman to try the "Dorothy Dodd" shoe. It is made for comfort and style and is guaranteed to be one of the best wearers on the market.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company is carrying a superior make of oil heater and if you cannot get coal you will find this heater a most desirable thing to have in your home. The expense of running it is nominal.

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, sells diamonds, not black diamonds, but the kind that have the right sparkle and brilliancy. He also sells the best makes of watches and he carries a complete line of jewelry.

If you want a satisfactory job of painting or wall papering consult Charles Conover & Company, of Elmwood place. They will do the work right and charge you a fair price consistent with first class workmanship.

W. W. Warnock, the confectioner, is making a specialty today and next week of delicious kisses, Charlotte russe and other pastry. Warnock's cake is admitted to be light and wholesome and not the kind that when eaten is followed by nightmare.

It will be necessary that you should keep warm this winter and if there is to be a coal famine, you will need warm clothing. You will find this kind at M. Weinberger's clothing store on West Front street. The prices are so low that everybody can have good clothes.

There are many particular men who keep up a prepetual search for good stores in which to purchase goods. These will all be suited if they will take the trouble to visit the New York Bargain Store at 324 West Front street. All men's furnishings there, and moreover they are all first class.

No need of your going to the city to purchase medicines when Hodge can sell you all the standard preparations at the same rate and sometimes a lower one. Hodge's store in the Y. M. C. A. building is considered one of the best equipped in the State. He is agent for the famous Belle Meade sweets.

Now is the time to order your winter clothing. With many people it is a serious question by whom to have your clothing made. Why not try John G. Bantle, of 428 Watchung avenue? He knows how to fit out both men and women. Having all the latest fall and winter styles he can guarantee satisfactory work.

With his greater facilities, since opening the new annex, I. H. Boehm, whose big store is at Nos. 109-111 and 113 West Front street, is carrying on an enormous business in dry goods and women's furnishings. His store is deservedly popular with every one, as Mr. Boehm spares no pains in giving all customers courteous treatment.

WINTER HOTEL FOR HORSES—The Buena Vista Stock Farm.

I am prepared to keep a limited number of horses during winter on my farm of 150 acres, situated on road leading from New Market, N. J., to New Brunswick. I have recently erected two large barns especially for the care of horses, with well ventilated box stalls; also large sheds attached for the use of horses a little foot sore, or to be used for exercising during stormy weather. Buildings are all supplied with running water from a well over 200 feet deep forming a complete water supply. Yard for exercising enclosed with high board fence. Plenty of good wholesome food, with good care guaranteed at a reasonable price. All horses called for and returned free of charge. For terms call at farm or address C. F. LASH FOR INDOLENCE

Georgia Negroes Form Unique and Determined Society.

To Whip Those of Their Own Race Who Fail to Provide for Their Families—Much Good Already Accomplished.

Negroes living in the neighborhood of New Providence church, a few miles from Dublin, Ga., have distinguished themselves by forming a society which for originality probably has no equal in the whole country. The society is, of course, composed entirely of negroes and has for its object the betterment of the race, the inculcation of right principle and right living in the negroes, especially those who are members of the society, and the making of better citizens of those who live in the neighborhood of the headquarters of the society.

The plan of the society is to inquire into the mode of living of its members and to correct, if possible, any defects found in the character of those who belong to the society. To that end any erring brother who fails to right any wrong he has been guilty of is, on conviction, soundly thrashed in the presence of the other members of the society.

As soon as charges are preferred against a member he is at once notified. If he corrects the evil complained of by the next regular meeting all well and good. If he fails or refuses to correct his faults as seen by members of the society, if not of all men, he is tried by court-martial. A court is formed, evidence is taken and his guilt or innocence established. The one under charge is allowed to procure counsel from among the members and is given every opportunity to prove his innocence. If proven guilty the punishment is always a whipping, which the erring one submits to with the best possible grace.

Since the formation of the society a few weeks ago three of the members have been guilty of failing to prove themselves good citizens and provident husbands and have been whipped. It was reported to the society that Mark Cadwell's wife was badly in need of a wash pot. He was ordered to show cause why he had not provided his better half with this most necessary utensil. He failed to buy a pot before the trial came off or to show when tried that his wife could manage without one, and still not be put to any great amount of inconvenience. Conviction therefore, resulted and Mark was whipped. The fact that he is a brother of the secretary of the society did not save his hide.

In riding past the home of Early Burch it was seen by one of the members of the society that his front gate had fallen down. From all appearances he had made no effort to put it up, although to swing it again would require but little work and but a small outlay of money for hinges. On the trial of Early the facts were brought out that the gate had been down some weeks and that his wife had made repeated efforts to get her husband to take more pride in the care of his home. Conviction followed and Early will remember a long time the corporal punishment he received at the hands of the other members of the society.

The next meeting of the society will be held at an early date and it is said that at that time several members will be tried if previously they do not correct the things complained of. One of the members, Lewis Burch by name, has been summoned to show cause why he has not provided a tackle for his well so that his wife can draw water with more ease than at present. It is said that the society is doing a world of good in the neighborhood where it has headquarters. It is making better citizens of the blacks who are members.

Even those who have not joined have caught the spirit of the thing and are trying to live the lives of more useful citizens and to take better care of their homes and their families. The white people living near New Providence church in no way interfere with the workings of the society. They are well-wishers in the object of the society and hope that its results will be far-reaching. They are watching with much interest the results, but are offering no suggestions, preferring that the negroes work out their own salvation in this unique way if that is their purpose and intention. The existence of this strange society, says the Chicago Chronicle, is vouched for by James Roach and other reputable white men living near New Providence church.

WASHINGTON'S STONE TROUGH

Picturesque Basin in Philadelphia, from Which the General Watered His Horses.

The famous old stone basin from which Washington watered his horses in revolutionary days is no longer used as a pump trough. It has been removed from the obscurity of the old frame pump house adjoining the Bartram mansion (where for nearly a century it collected the waters from the cooling springs of the old well) and has been given a position of honor just outside of the historic mansion, says the Philadelphia Record.

At first glance it seems to have been placed thus in order to serve as a huge stone cistern to collect the rain water from the projecting eaves, but closer inspection shows that the rain spout is turned away from it, and it is not intended to serve any practical purpose, but is simply preserved as a treasured relic. In giving it a position of honor, where it will attract the attention of the visitor soon after entering the famous gardens, the place has been carefully chosen. For although it had been taken from the old well which, perhaps, seemed a more appropriate place for it, where it stood when Washington's horses drank from it, it has been placed near the famous "Washington arbor" on the river front of the Bartram house. Only a few yards away in the long ago there stood the Washington arbor, overlooking the shining stretch of Schuylkill.

Close by this mammoth stone basin or trough, on the lawn on the river front of the house, are two noble boxwood trees sent from Smyrna, Turkey, to Mr. Bartram by the earl of Bute, over 160 years ago. Appropriate surroundings these for the historic old stone trough.

STEADY GOING VOLCANO.

Small One in Santa Barbara County, California, That Has Been Active for Many Years.

Santa Barbara county is naturally divided into a northern and a southern half by a range of rugged mountains varying from 2,000 to 4,000 feet high. The city of Santa Barbara, Montecito and other health resorts are along the coast in the southern half. Los Alamos is near the middle of the great valleys comprising most of the northern part of the country, and is about 60 miles from the city of Santa Barbara, with a big mountain range intervening, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

For many years there has been a small, active volcano on the Los Alamo side of the mountain. It is almost within sight of the old Los Alamos-Santa Barbara stage road that crosses the mountain by the San Marcos pass. Hunters and cattlemen of the vicinity and prospectors are familiar with it. Smoke and steam constantly issue from various fissures along the summit of a plateau or shelf near the northern slope of the mountain. Viewed from the distance of the old stage road, these manifestations appear like small campfires. They have never developed any alarming tendencies and have attracted very little direct investigation. And yet they may become vent holes from which long-confined ashes and lava will spout.

VERY LONG PLUMB LINES.

Two of Piano Wires 4,440 Feet in Length Suspended in Michigan Mine Shafts.

Some singular experiments have been carried out recently by hanging what are probably the largest plumb-lines ever used anywhere in two of the shafts of Tamarack mine at Calumet, Mich. At first two lines of No. 24 piano wire, each 4,250 feet long, and carrying a cast iron bob weighing 50 pounds, were suspended about 12 feet apart in shaft No. 5. Careful measurements showed that the lower extremities of the lines diverged eleven-one-hundredths of a foot, or three-quarters of an inch. This was a surprising circumstance for which various explanations were offered. To avoid possible magnetic repulsion, bronze wires, carrying 60-pound lead bobs, were hung in shaft No. 4. These wires were 4,440 feet in length. They showed a slight convergence at the bottom, but when they were hung in shaft No. 5, instead of converging, they diverged, as the steel wires had done. These facts, together with other considerations, led to the conclusion that the cause of the divergence was neither gravitation nor magnetism, but the influence of almost imperceptible air currents in the shafts.

An Interesting Moment.

A German has discovered, according to the London Express, that on Saturday, August 2, in the early morning, at one minute and one second past one o'clock, a most interesting moment arrived. It was the second second of the second minute of the second hour of the second day of the second week of the second month of the second half of the second year of the second decade of centuries A. D.

Diseases in Alaska.

An English physician who has been making a study of diseases in Alaska reports that cerebro-spinal meningitis is very prevalent, scorbutus is widespread, rheumatism is frequent, pneumonia is almost unknown, strange to say, and insanity is by no means rare. His report indicates that a vigorous physique is required to resist the Alaskan climate.

MEMORANDUM SYSTEM.

The Only Safe Plan For Busy or Absentminded Women.

Woman has a hard time of it in this busy world because her interests are so divided. The dizzy round of small things she has to remember is truly appalling. Her day means a continual whirl—marketing, morning clubs, shopping, visits to the dentist, the manicure, the dressmaker, hunting up music teachers, governesses, servants, writing replies to invitations, making calls, sending cards, etc. The wonder is that she does not forget more than she does.

A SLATE ON THE KITCHEN WALL.

One clever woman of my acquaintance has solved the problem by placing on the wall of each room a small slate from which a pencil hangs. The one in the sewing room, for instance, will keep the record of silks, needles, etc., needed and of the different materials required for the fixing of different gowns. A slate on the kitchen wall will be a great help in the morning marketing, for by consulting it the mistress of the house may find out exactly what ingredients and what utensils are needed. The slates in the bedrooms will contain the laundry list, that in the nursery or in the living room the necessary school-books and duties and engagements of the children.

The elder people will keep their engagements in a book and their addresses in an alphabetically arranged address book. A good idea is to place unanswered letters in a special receptacle and to note on the outside of each the special questions to be replied to.

It is also a useful plan for a woman to carry a little notebook with her. This may be easily slipped into the purse, and in it may be noted anything worth while, even new jokes and witticisms, so that there will be nothing wasted and no strain on the mind in trying to bring back things to the memory.

By using a little method in this fashion the busy woman's life will be rendered far more pleasant.

THAT SKYLIGHT ROOM.

How It May Be Furnished So as to Be Quite Attractive.

Of all the undesirable rooms the one lit from above is the worst, and it takes a clever woman to make it cozy.

The illustration shows a particularly happy arrangement. The color scheme is white and green. The paper is green, and the palms, which are scattered here and there through the room, are in green pots. The furniture is of linen cretonne, which closely imitates tapestry. A lively shade of old rose predominates over pale green, and there are also touches of pale yellow. There is an empire screen of old rose and gilt. The furniture is empire, and there is an atractive writing table with gilt accessories.

The general aspect of the room is livable, and it offers inducements for fancy work, reading and conversation. On the walls there are many pictures in both oil and bright water colors.

Cotton and Linen Fabrics.

There are so many different cotton and linen goods to choose from that it is no wonder that one feels it a thankless task to try to tell of them all, but the cotton cheviots, the mercerized chambrays, the percales and numberless designs in madras and zephyr ginghams give the best satisfaction. The principal object of the cotton shirt waist is to have a constant succession of clean, fresh waists for summer, and with these goods so cheap one has no excuse for not having them. Three yards are required for a shirt waist, and this will allow for a cravat in the prevailing style. There are also thousands of white ties and ascots made of washable materials.

Generous Sisters.

Two sisters, Mrs. M. E. G. Biddle and Mrs. Thomas Newbold, have presented a park to the town of Warren, Pa. This is worthy work for wealthy women.

MYSTERIOUS MISS DACRES

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

"She said that had her foot and ankle been all right, she should have come in here and taken the entire care of you. She referred to her calling as a trained nurse."

"No child of Eugene Darlington's should ever have worked for her living, Sophronia," said Miss Elizabeth, sternly. "Tell the child so, and tell her that I should not allow her, weak as she must be, to stand over me and nurse me. When I am better, please God! to-morrow, I shall be glad to have her come in."

"She has been to see Miss Evelyn," said I, for Amaranthe had told me so, "and sat with her for a half hour."

"Dear little girl! So sweet! so unselfish! What a treasure we have found, Sophronia. What a treasure! Now, Sophronia, do you go and dismiss that woman and then come back here. If there is anything to pay, pay it out of this purse." Miss Elizabeth took a fat pocket-book from under her pillow and held it out to me. I went back and took it from her hand, and passed out softly, closing the door. I went straight to the little sitting room, expecting to find Amaranthe there still. The room was but poorly lighted. As I opened the door the strange nurse came towards me from the fire-place.

"Is Miss Darlington here?" I asked. The woman hesitated, looking inquiringly at me. I now noticed how very black was her hair, smooth and flossy under her white coif, and saw also that one of her front teeth was gone.

"Miss Amaranthe, perhaps I should have said."

"Oh, the young lady with the yellow hair. She went out of that door just now." The woman was thin, as thin as Amaranthe herself, and she spoke in a queer, cracked voice with an almost childish lisp. Her whole appearance filled me with distrust.

"I will look for her later," I said. "At present I have come to tell you that Miss Elizabeth Darlington is quite nervous, and prefers not to have strangers in the house, and she has asked me to tell you so."

The young woman drew herself up stiffly.

"This is a very strange proceeding," she said. "The Doctor—by the way, has he left the house?"

"He left at eight o'clock," said I. "He said that he should not return before nine in the morning."

"I am sorry that he is not here," said she freezingly. "Then he would have to bear the brunt of bringing me into a house where I am not wanted."

"I think myself that it is a great piece of presumption," said I, as I pictured little Johnny Allibone having had the assurance to even step foot inside of Darlington Hall. "But the regular doctor, always called in by the family, is away, and we had to take this young man or nothing. From where did he obtain you?"

"At the sisterhood just outside of the town," said she. "I shall feel very much mortified, naturally, to return there so late at night. Can I not stay until the morning? They will think that the blame lies with me, that I have committed some breach of etiquitte, or have made some mistake in the case; really, it is very mortify——"

"No one can be more sorry about it than I am, and than Miss Darlington herself is," said I. "She has commissioned me to offer you——" I began to open the pocket-book.

"Does Miss Darlington think that she can soothe my wounded honor with money?" It seemed to me that the subject did not call for so much dignified anger. "No! kindly tell Miss Darlington that I could not accept a penny at her hands. Good evening! I shall reckon with Dr. Allibone for this," and she swept out of the room.

It was all very unpleasant, extremely so! What unpleasant things do happen in this world! There was Aunt Jane Mary, always considered the soul of truth and probity, getting out of her bed and wandering round the house at night. There was that tiresome Elder Wynne, for I had become very weary of Bob Jennings and his double personality, showing me things that he said he had found secreted in my cellar, Heaven knows when, perhaps by those men who had chloroformed Amaranthe; and between Baldy Towner, and Bill's being dead, and my almost wishing that Glorianna was, I felt that life had become a pretty problem.

I sat me down upon the sofa, which always stood against the fireplace—I don't know why, but on those hot days and nights there was a pleasant draught across and under it up the chimney. I lay my head back upon the pillow. I was tired, tired! Should I sleep? I raised my eyes and encountered the under side of the marble slab that rested upon the two upright slabs, and as I looked my glance fell upon the loosened one which Miss Elizabeth had said, which in fact I knew, concealed the case of rubies. The paper which had held it in place was gone, the least touch would loosen it. I shook the slab. It fell forward against the sofa. I arose in tremulous haste, and, pushing away the sofa, lowered the slab upon the floor. There was nothing behind it. The cavity was empty!

I arose to my feet at once. Whom should I suspect? The Sister of Charity, of course. There was no one else to suspect, except Miss Elizabeth's maid, Katherine, and she had lived in the family for 17 years. She was as careful a guardian of the family honor and the family possessions as any born Darlington of them all. My thoughts, try as I would, reverted ever to the Sister of Charity, and I was quite right as events will show. Just here I heard a shout. The sound of men's voices. Then came a piercing scream, a single revolver-shot was fired, and then I heard the sound of running feet. The steps were coming toward the great door of the Hall. I ran swiftly down the stairs, unbarred and unlocked the door, for I heard John's voice among the rest, and Mr. Beldon's in mild protest. I came out upon the broad top step of the stone flight in the brilliant moonlight. A group of people were below me. A woman had just sprung upon the lower step as I opened the door, and had run a little way upward.

"No use, Josie," said a voice, which I recognized as the voice of Bob Jennings. Ah, it was the Sister of Charity whom he had captured. I was right after all. He sprung up the two or three steps, caught her in his grasp, and snapped something upon her wrists with a click, and then she gave another piercing scream which had something of familiarity in it.

I remember hoping that she would not awaken the ladies and Amaranthe. All three would be terrified—poor, nervous little Amaranthe more than all. Behind Jennings came two men in policemen's uniform, and between them they dragged, almost carried, a man in the garb of a priest. His hat had fallen off, and I could see his tonsured head. His face was smooth shaven, and pale from fright and anger. They came, all of them, part way up the steps. I remember what a dreadful picture they made in the clear moonlight. It was terrible to me to see a detective holding a woman as a prisoner, and that woman a sister of a religious body. I remember that Jennings said, "No, no! don't go in here. The ladies are ill." I wondered how he knew. "Let us go round to the kitchen door. Mrs. Brathwaite, can you let us in?" I started back through the hall. I ran to the back of the house, and through several rooms and passages I took my hurried way until I came to the hall-door leading into the kitchen apartments. This I unbolted and unlocked, and the detective, the two policemen, and their captured prey came into the house together. Jennings marshalled the party into the kitchen, where the still hot stove gave forth a little glow. Old Margot had awakened and ran down stairs to us. When she saw the priest and the nurse she threw her apron over her head and gave a succession of screams, worse, even than the one which had told of the Sister's agony.

The detective seized the priest and whisked him round, facing me.

"Do you know this man, Mrs. Brathwaite?" said Jennings.

"No," said I, "I do not."

"Nor this lady?"

"I never saw her before," said I, "at least until this evening. She is a perfect stranger to me."

Jennings raised his hand towards the Sister's white cap. She bent her body in futile struggles. He held the gyves upon her wrist, as if in a vice, with one of his strong hands. The priest was pale at this treatment of the Sister.

"How dare you?" he said, almost foaming at the mouth. "Had I my hands free, priest of the church as I am, I would brain you, you coward, where you stand."

"Yes, I dare say you would," said Jennings, "but, you see, your hands are not free." He again raised his hand towards the Sister's coif; again she dodged, bent double, strained backward, to avoid him, but all to no purpose, for, with a quick and dexterous upward throw of his arm he knocked the white cap to the floor. The dark hair went with it. I turned sick and chill. My knees gave way under me and I sank upon a box standing near the wall, for whom should I recognize, freed by the detective from her hateful disguise, but Amaranthe Darlington.

"Oh!" I cried, "but this is some mistake. How dare you? She is only masquerading!"

"Wibby! Wibby!" said Amaranthe, trying to stretch out her manacled hands to me, "save me from this indignity. My aunts will save me. Go and tell them, Wibby, go and tell them."

"Now don't get excited, Josie," said Jennings.

"So you don't know that gentleman, Mrs. Brathwaite," continued Jennings, nodding at the priest—"Father Darby!"

I withdrew my eyes from little Amaranthe, dazed and wondering, almost too weak to speak, and only gasped, "No."

"Try your lightning change, Hoyt, won't you?" said Jennings to the ——

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

STRONG ARM NEEDED

Uncle Sam Has Been Far Too Patient in Past Ten Years.

Monroe Doctrine Calls for Exercise of Power and Authority, in Justice to Ourselves and Other Nations.

[Special Correspondence.]

EUROPEAN publicists have had considerable to say lately about a new American political disease which they call "Monroe doctrinitis." As loyal citizens of the United States we should not be ashamed to admit the existence of the ailment, if such it be, because we have both the willingness and the means to effect a cure, whenever national judgment may deem it expedient to apply heroic remedies.

The isthmian canal bill, passed by the last congress, imposes new obligations upon us in the matter of maintaining peace in the Central and South American republics, as well as in the negro states of Hayti and San Domingo. The application of the Monroe doctrine, which renders the acquisition of territory on the American continent and the islands belonging to it by a European power casus belli, virtually compels us to exercise a sort of police power over the turbulent and rebellious peoples of the Latin-American states, and we cannot much longer delay the enforcement of measures calculated to insure peace and tranquility in Colombia, Venezuela and Hayti.

The recent destruction of the Haytien revolutionary gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot in the harbor of Gonaives by a German war vessel has opened the eyes of many hitherto conservative Americans to the necessity of applying drastic treatment to the blustering buccaneers of the irresponsible West Indian governments, and regret has been expressed that a foreign nation had to teach the negro admiral, Killick, who made an opera bouffe attempt to interfere with foreign commerce and shipping, a lesson which will prove of great benefit to other would-be heroes of his type.

MODERN STEEL BRIDGE ON THE PANAMA RAILROAD.

Both Hayti and San Domingo have been a source of annoyance for many years, and it is doubtful if they can be made to behave themselves, unless annexed to the United States or, at least, placed under the protectorate of this country. American merchants and capitalists are deeply interested in the two negro republics, and should they be allowed to continue their present disastrous revolutionary policy for another decade the island which they occupy would be a desert waste and the people mobs of barbarians. Humanity, commerce and statesmanship alike demand emphatic action, and it is probable that as soon as congress convenes a bill will be introduced having for its object the acquisition of Hayti, and probably San Domingo as well.

COLOMBIAN BOY SOLDIERS.

Another squabble which must be settled by the United States before long is the revolution in Colombia, which has made property and shipping rights unsafe since October 17, 1899. This struggle has been one of the fiercest in the bloody history of Central America, and has cost over 50,000 lives. The so-called regular government has at various times placed 75,000 men under arms, and the revolutionists are believed to have mustered 35,000. How a country with a total population of less than 4,000,000 could have raised such a huge army might seem inexplicable if it were not known that the government has from time to time forced boys of 10 and 12 into the service. Some of these valiant soldiers are hardly able to carry a gun, but they are doing good service in securing provender for the older men in the field. Naturally, the republic is bankrupt.

Since the outbreak of the war the Colombian peso has declined in value from 25 cents in gold to about two cents. There are now about 250,000,000 pesos of inconvertible paper currency in circulation, which is legal tender for all debts and obligations. Confiscation of property, forced loans and contributions of war have been required of the people, and especially from those known to sympathize with the revolutionary party. Industry of every kind has been paralyzed, agriculture destroyed, many of the farmhouses burned and once prosperous villages abandoned. The revolutionists assert that they will die, but never give up their alleged struggle for liberty. They charge the conservative party, which rules the country, with having established a despotism. The president, they say, cannot be called to account for his actions and possesses arbitrary power to issue legislative decrees and to execute the laws by what is known as the "administrative process." He appoints his cabinet, the governors of the states and all executive officers, who become his personal agents. The church question is also involved, the liberal party asserting that the favors shown to the Roman Catholic clergy and orders in exemptions of trials before the common courts and from the payment of taxes, import duties, etc., are unjust to the rest of the population and should be abolished. The conservatives, on the other hand, charge the liberals with opposition to the Roman Catholic church, not so much on account of disliking the exemptions granted and the privileges given, as on account of opposition to all religion, and because they desire to lead immoral lives.

About 400 engagements have been fought by the two forces, in the course of some of which valuable property owned by foreign merchants and corporations has been destroyed, and several times the United States has had to interfere to protect the interest of its own citizens and those of European countries. Under a treaty made many years ago the United States assumed the responsibility of keeping the Panama railway open, and that is why we have had to keep war vessels at the Atlantic and Pacific termini of the road for several years. Should the commission, which is now trying to secure a clear title to the property of the French Isthmian Canal company, be successful in its efforts the Washington government would have to end the revolution, either by force or the outright purchase of the territory adjacent to the railway and ship canal. Certainly, Uncle Sam's patience has been tried to the verge of exhaustion.

Another pestiferous country which has been giving the United States much trouble is Venezuela, where Gen. Matos is directing a revolutionary campaign against President Castro, one of the most obnoxious of Latin-American tyrants. The so-called rebel forces have recently captured a number of important towns on and near the seacoast, and the outrages which the victorious soldiers committed compelled the United States and Germany to land marines at Barcelona and other points. Venezuela is the deadbeat par excellence among nations. Its disposition to repudiate honest debts has several times led to serious friction with European powers, and nothing but the Monroe doctrine has saved the tottering republic from annihilation and absorption by foreign creditors. Hitherto the government at Washington has succeeded in avoiding a clash, but unless our diplomats manage to bring Castro and his gang of boodlers to time the miserable little country may force us to go to war with one or the other of the great powers; because no self-respecting nation can afford to be bulldozed by such a government as that of Castro and the United States cannot permit the conquest of any part or portion of soil on the western hemisphere.

Truly, the Monroe doctrine has its ugly side, and to carry it out in spirit as well as letter Uncle Sam must act as the world's policeman in Central and South America. And this duty calls for the exercise of wise statesmanship and a liberal construction of the rights of foreign countries whose interests in the region named are, necessarily, more or less at the mercy of our state department.

SELLING HOTEL FURNITURE.

Old Equipment Being Disposed of at Hotel to be Entirely Refitted.

Hezekiah Hand, the auctioneer, opened the sale of the furniture in the Hotel Plainfield at 10 o'clock this morning. A large crowd was present at the auction and all the articles brought up for sale were disposed of at good prices.

At noon more than $400 had been realized on the fittings of the house and not half the things had been disposed of. The sale will probably last until about 8 o'clock tonight. Buyers must remove their goods by Monday at the latest, to make room for the new furniture that Mr. Rosell will put in. From today the Hotel Plainfield becomes a thing of the past. From now on it will be known as the Hotel Rosell.

DEATH OF THOS. COTTER.

Young Man From West End Died at His Home Last Evening.

The death of Thomas Cotter, a well-known West End young man, occurred at his home on West Sixth street, last evening. His demise was unexpected, as although he had been ill for a year past with lung trouble, he was about town yesterday morning. The immediate cause of death was a hemorrhage.

Cotter was twenty-five years old and was employed at the Pond Tool Works. He is survived by a stepmother, a sister and brother. The funeral services will be held from his late residence Monday morning at 9:15 and from St. Mary's church at 9:30.

Dr. Hurlbut to Speak.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will celebrate its anniversary on Friday evening, October 24. Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, formerly of Plainfield, at present at Morristown, will be the speaker. Neighboring chapters of Epworth League will be invited to be present.

Damage to Casino $400.

It is announced after an investigation at the Casino that the damage caused by yesterday's explosion will amount to $400. As soon as the insurance is adjusted, Charles J. The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

SCHOOL BOARD'S ACT APPROVED

Board of School Estimate Decided to Recommend New $125,000 High School.

WILL NOTIFY COUNCIL

A Meeting of the Board Was Held Saturday Night When the Request of the School Board Was Unanimously Seconded—How the Money Will be Raised.

The School Board of Estimate, consisting of Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Councilmen George P. Mellick and Jan. vanHerwerden, and School Commissioners L. N. Lovell and Charles F. Abbott, met Saturday evening to take up the question of the erection of a new High School in Plainfield, as recommended by the Board of Education at a recent meeting. The question was thoroughly discussed in every detail, after which the Board decided unanimously to recommend to the Common Council that such a school be built at an expense of $125,000.

During the meeting Superintendent of Schools H. M. Maxson presented a statement in explanation as to why a new High School is needed and giving those present some idea of the present school facilities and the urgent need of more room.

It was stated at the meeting that no money would be required this year for the project, the plan being to raise $50,000 by bonds next year and the balance of the amount in the succeeding year, 1904. By this plan, it was explained, the expense would not come as a hardship on the taxpayers and it can be gradually paid off so that no one will feel it as a burden. There was no talk as to the probable location of the new school building. That subject will be taken up later on by the Board of Education, which will no doubt have some recommendation in the matter.

OUGHT TO SETTLE.

Coal Strike Would Be if Both Sides Had Golden Rule in Their Hearts Said Dr. Schenck.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, delivered a strong appeal for the settlement of the coal strike yesterday morning, taking for his text the well-known Golden Rule, "Therefore, all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so into them, for this is the law and the prophets," Matt. vii:12.

Dr. Schenck did not take sides with either party, the operator or miner, but the general inference of the congregation was that he rather favored the miner in the strike, although he took no decided stand for either. He did advocate, with all the fervor of his soul, the settlement of the strike at once in order to prevent the untold suffering that will surely ensue if it continues after cold weather sets in. He proved conclusively that if the men on both sides had the words of the text in their hearts before the strike, it would have never been ordered or even now, while they are fighting like two big bull dogs, it would soon be settled.

Men's Social Club.

The first fall meeting of the Men's Social Club of the Congregational church will be held in the church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. There will be an interesting talk on Japan by Claude L. Severance, of New York, who spent five years in Japan, and solos by Willard Wadsworth, who was the leader of the Harvard Glee Club and most popular soloist at Harvard last year. A social hour, with refreshments, will be enjoyed.

Nugent Makes a Fight.

At the regular meeting of the Pond Tool Beneficial Association, held Saturday evening, Patrick Nugent, a deposed treasurer, presented a demand, through counsel, for re-instatement to the order and also preferred charges against the executive committee. The matter was referred to an investigating committee of six, which will report at the next regular meeting.

Fifth Birthday Party.

Mrs. G. R. Smith, formerly of Grant avenue, who recently moved to Somerville, gave a birthday party to her daughter in honor of her fifth birthday anniversary, Friday evening. Among those present were Miss Ida Furman, Miss May Squires, the Misses Anna and Rae Warnock.

RAIN MADE TROUBLE FOR LOCAL GOLFERS

Only a Few Ventured Out on the Hillside Course Saturday Afternoon.

GILBERT CUP POSTPONED

A VERY SMALL FIELD PLAYED FOR THE GOLF COMMITTEE CUP.

Six Pairs Competed for the Schoonmaker Cup in Approaching and Putting Contest—D. H. Bulkley Won the Honors.

A driving rain storm kept many golfers away from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday, and only a few entered the events of the day. The final play for the Gilbert cup, mixed foursomes, was postponed for two weeks, and the golf committee will receive entries for that event up to the day of play.

In the afternoon there was the final play for the Schoonmaker cup, putting and approaching contest. This was won by Miss vanHerewrden and W. L. Glenney with a score of 6. The other scores were as follows:

Mrs. J. R. Blake and Robert Abbott, 8; Miss Gilmore and H. deP. Wright, 8; Miss Gladys Kaufman and Dudley H. Barrows, 9; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Patterson, 10; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, 10.

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup D. H. Bulkley won first honors, while Olaf Saugstad and C. W. Abbott finished second and third. There were only four contestants that turned in scores. According to the standing kept by The Daily Press, this gives C. W. Abbott a lead with 15 points.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

D. H. Bulkley, 95, 15—80; Olaf Saugstad, 102, 15—87; C. W. Abbott, 95, 4—91; C. A. Stover, 110, 15—95.

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
C. W. Abbott	15
E. T. Newkirk	13
W. L. Glenney	10 1-3
D. H. Barrows	9 5-6

Coal for Trolley Cars.

It is a question of some importance to the trolley company as to where they will get coal to heat their cars with in case a cold snap should appear. It is said the company has no coal in stock, and no doubt considerable difficulty will be experienced in getting the proper size for the small stoves used in the cars. There is some talk that oil heaters may be used.

To Talk on Philippines.

Dr. Alice B. Condict, missionary to India and lately from the Philippines, will give an illustrated lecture in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow evening, on the Philippines. It will be given under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the church.

Fuel for Pond's Men.

As a means of keeping their employes supplied with fuel, the officials of the Pond Machine Tool Works have decided to let the married men have soft coal at $3.60 per ton, the sixty cents is charged for carting. George O. Stevens has been engaged to deliver the coal.

Getting Wood Gratis.

During the past few day many poor folks have been engaged in removing the old wood from the Babcock building. This wood is of no particular use, except to use as kindling wood, and the contractors are glad to have it carted away.

TO RECONVENE OLD CONVENTION

Attempt to Settle Troubles Among the Democrats of Somerset County.

WILL MEET TOMORROW

Expected That Childs Will be Nominated for Senator, DeMond for Surrogage and N. Y. Dungan for Assembly—The Latter May Refuse to be a Candidate.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 13—The political situation in Somerset county is decidedly muddled from a Democratic standpoint just now. Although a county convention has been held the party is without a ticket, those nominated having resigned, as told in The Daily Press.

Saturday afternoon the Democratic county executive committee met at Fury's Somerset Hotel and decided to reconvene the convention for the purpose of refilling the places on the ticket. The following notice was sent out to the delegates, signed by Jacob Shurts, chairman of the county committee:

"Owing to a very serious misunderstanding with reference to the manner in which the nominations were made at the last Democratic convention, Messrs. Dungan, DeMond and Prout have filed with the county clerk notices that they have declined the nominations, vacancies having thus been created which must be filled by the county convention, the county committee directed me to reconvene the convention on Tuesday, October 14, 1902, at the Court House in Somerville at 11 o'clock sharp, and you are earnestly requested to attend this convention."

It has been rumored that Mr. Prout is responsible for the present state of affairs, but he denies this emphatically and it is said will make disclosures against certain leaders if pressed too hard.

On the morrow it is probable that Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, will be named for State senator, Wm. J. DeMond for surrogate and Nelson Y. Dungan for Assembly, if he will have it. There was a rumor that Mr. Childs would not take the senatorial nomination after all the trouble there has been, but this seems to be unfounded.

As for Mr. DeMond his many friends demand his renomination. He won on his own merits in the convention, having a majority of the delegates. No trickery can be charged in the way he was named. If Dungan will not go from the top to the bottom of the ticket it is very probable that Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, will be named for Member of Assembly. He was in line for the nomination in the convention when the trick was sprung and is considered a very strong candidate.

Almost everybody believes Mr. Dungan will refuse to serve.

AFTER MORE FORESTERS.

Twenty-Four Received by Court Plainfield and More to Come.

At the regular meeting of Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. F., held Friday evening, one candidate was initiated and twenty-four propositions for membership were received. The degree team will confer the initiation ceremonies at the next meeting which is to be held October 31. It is expected many more members will be added to the order as special inducements are being offered. Following the initiation ceremonies, a smoker will be held, during which an informal programme of music will be given.

New Uniforms Arrived.

The uniforms for the Plainfield High School battalion have been received and were issued today by Quartermaster Koons. Major Murphy is well pleased with the work and thinks that D. Klein & Company, of Philadelphia, the firm which had the contract, deserves great praise on account of the quickness with which it handled the large contract. Klein & Company is the same firm which supplied the uniforms last year.

W. C. T. U. Service.

The Gospel service at the W. C. T. U. rooms, yesterday afternoon, was largely attended. John Manley conducted the meeting and his remarks were interesting.

WEDDING WAS HELD AT A DAY'S NOTICE

Sudden Change Necessitated Holding Marriage of Miss H. Lincoln on Saturday.

A SIMPLE CEREMONY

SHE WAS WEDDED TO FREDERICK H. SCHAUFFLER, OF NEW YORK.

Ceremony Took Place at Mrs. Lincoln's Beautiful Home on West Eighth Street—The Bride Was Unattended—The Guests.

The beautiful home of Mrs. Caroline T. Lincoln, of West Eighth street, was the scene of a quiet gathering, Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Lincoln, to Frederick Herrick Schauffler, of New York, took place. Devoid of all ostentation, the ceremony was none the less pretty from the mere fact of its simplicity. It was performed by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, assisted by Dr. A. F. Schauffler, of New York, an uncle of the bridegroom.

Miss Lincoln, who was very prettily gowned, was unattended. The best man was Charles Schauffler, of New York, a brother of the groom. This completed the wedding party.

At the completion of the ceremony, a wedding supper was served in the dining room, which had beautiful decorations for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Schauffler afterward left on a wedding trip, the destination of which they did not make known. They are also undecided as yet, as to where they will make their home on their return.

Mr. Schauffler is a son of Dr. Henry Schauffler, the missionary, whose home is in Cleveland, O. The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Rufus P. Lincoln. The young people have been engaged for some time and the wedding was set for November, but a sudden change of plans made them decide to have the ceremony performed last Saturday. It was acted upon within twenty-four hours after their determination.

But eighteen guests witnessed the ceremony, of whom the greater part were from New York. Those from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Morgan Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler, and Miss VanBoskerck.

FIELD DAY.

Plans for City High School's Meet to be Held Friday Afternoon, October 24.

The committee, which was appointed to arrange a field day for the Plainfield High School Athletic Association, has completed its preliminary work and announces that the field day will take place at the track of the Plainfield Driving Park Friday afternoon, October 24, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

The events will be run off in the following order:—100 yard dash, running broad jump, 440 yard run, running high jump, 220 yard dash, putting the shot, 60 yard dash for boys of 15 years or under; 880 yard run, throwing the hammer, pole vault, class relay race, half a mile. Entries have to be made with Herbert Monro on or before Wednesday morning, October 22, at 11:20 o'clock. In the contest for the all-round championship and The Daily Press medal, first place will count three points, second place two, and third place one. There will also be prizes for the first three men in each event.

ORGANIZING CLASSES.

Young Women's Club is Getting Ready for Winter Season.

The Young Women's Club is planning to have classes during the winter, in dressmaking, stenography (followed by type-writing), physical culture, dancing, singing and any other subject for which there is sufficient demand.

The club room in the Love building, will be open Monday evenings in October and the club will be glad to welcome all who are interested—especially those who would like to become members and join one or more of the classes.

—No better coffee has ever been placed on the market than Neuman Brothers Java and Mocha. It is simply delicious.

—The singing of "The Holy City," last evening, by Miss Ethel Derby, soprano soloist of Trinity Reformed church, was very much enjoyed.

CHOOSE CITY TICKET TODAY

Republican City Primaries Will be Held in the Four Wards This Evening.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES

Little Likelihood of Any Exciting Contests—Councilmen Tolles, Mellick and Randolph May be Renominated—The Primaries Will be Open From 5 to 9 o'Clock.

Republican primaries to elect city candidates will be held in Plainfield this evening. Each ward will select candidates for ward councilman, justice of the peace, constable and three members of the city executive committee and delegates to the city convention, which will be held Thursday evening, to nominate a mayor, a city treasurer, two chosen freeholders, a member of the Board of Education for a full term of five years and one for a term of two years to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

This evening's primaries will be conducted on the usual lines. They will be open from 5 to 9 o'clock and the business session will be held at 8 o'clock. The First ward will meet at 152 North avenue, the old U. S. Express headquarters, the Second ward in the Bryant School, the Third ward at the Casino, the the Fourth ward at Reform Hall.

At the present writing there does not seem to be any likelihood of many fights at the primaries. A few small contests may develop at the last moment but there are no signs of any factional disturbances. In the First ward, it seems very likely that Councilman R. I. Tolles will be returned. Great pressure is being brought to bear to persuade Councilman George P. Mellick to stand for re-election in the Second. In the event of his refusal, the councilmanic candidate is likely to be either W. A. Garrigues or Daniel Ginna, probably the former. J. B. Mills is conducting an active campaign for the nomination. William S. Tyler will probably be nominated to the Council in the Third although Dr. F. C. Ard has been prominently mentioned. Col. Frank D. Randolph is slated to go back to the Council from the Fourth.

Delegates to the city convention are not likely to be pledged to support any particular slate. Present reports indicate the renomination at that convention of Mayor O. L. Jenkins and City Treasurer W. F. Arnold. L. N. Lovell will probably go up for candidate for the Board of Education for five years more and E. M. Cave as a candidate for Dr. Richards' unexpired term.

Captain J. Frank Hubbard will undoubtedly be renominated for the Board of Chosen Freeholders of which he has been the director for many years. It is probable that his present companion in the board, William A. Westphal, will also be renominated.

FRELINGHUYSEN WON.

Made Chairman of Somerset Republican County Committee After a Contest With Mayor Smalley.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Oct. 13—At a meeting here Saturday afternoon the Republican county committee organized by electing Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, the candidate for Senator, chairman. Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, made an attempt for the office but failed. Senator Reed, as at the recent convention, did not appear. Hon. L. A. Thompson was elected a member of the committee. The Democratic mix-up has greatly encouraged the Republicans, who believe the whole ticket will now be elected.

Veteran Surprised.

Edward Burdick, of Westerley, R. I., a veteran of the Civil War, who was at the G. A. R. encampment in Washington, last week, visited Plainfield, Saturday, and called on his nieces, Mrs. Amy Lorton, of Watchung avenue, and Mrs. Mary J. Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue. Mr. Burdick had not been in Plainfield in over twenty-five years and was astonished at the many changes he saw.

Fire in Bakery.

A small fire occurred in the rear of Geo. Voehl's bakery yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Box 12 was pulled and the department responded. The chemical engine extinguished the blaze. There was no damage.

TELLS OF PERSONAL GLIMPSES OF MINERS

First of Series of Sermons on the Coal Strike by Rev. John McMurray.

FIRST SUBJECT "MINERS"

DECLARED THE OPERATORS NOT AS BLACK AS THEY ARE PAINTED.

Many Entertain a Wrong Impression of Lot of Underground Miners—Most of Them Are Foreigners—What the Fight is Over.

Thoroughly familiar with them by personal contact and not by reading alone, the miner of the Wyoming Valley region in Pennsylvania was dwelt upon in a discourse given by Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, last evening. It was the first of three sermons which the West End divine proposes giving, all dealing in some way with the present coal strike.

As a seminary student Rev. Mr. McMurray spent several years near Wilkes-Barre and during his spare moments visited the miners at their homes and also at their daily toil beneath the ground. In this way he learned all about them and probably understands the situation as clearly as any resident of the city.

First of all, the speaker referred to the much maligned operators, who he said, were made to take all the blame for opposing the miners. These upper men, referring to Presidents Baer, Truesdale, Fowler and others, he stated, were simply smart men who had been elected to the head of the coal companies by the board of directors. This board is composed of stockholders and the stockholders are oftentimes the miners themselves, who have saved enough to purchase a few shares in the company they work for. Thus it is that the operators are called all manner of names when they are simply taking care of the interests of the people they represent.

People not acquainted with the anthracite mining region, Mr. McMurray said, entertain a wrong impression of the lot of the underground toilers. For the most part they are Slavs and Huns, who in recent years have driven out the old and better class of Welsh and Irish miners, and who live in squalor simply to put by enough money with which to return home and end their days in peace. The better educated of them and also the other nationalities have neat houses and comfortable homes.

At the present time, he said, a miner makes an average of $3 per day, but works only two hundred days in the year. His day is oft times but six hours long as the brunt of the work is borne by his helper. These latter make from $1.75 to $2 a day of ten hours.

The present strike was brought about, he said, through the operators refusing to grant one of five demands which the miners made. This one gives the right to the miner to hire whom he shall choose, to the exclusion of the operator. They have been willing to give more money and shorter hours and other things asked but they will not in regard to the hiring of men. Mr. McMurray expressed the wish that all laborers might get more money when they deserved it and he also expressed the hope that the other matter might be settled in the near future so that the men may return to work.

Next Sunday evening his sermon will deal with "Operator."

Literature to Hospital.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, has sent a barrel of papers and magazines to a hospital in East Twenty-second street, New York, and another barrel of literature to Reese Kericaide, at Weatherford, Ohio.

Lots of Flagging.

Street Commissioner Gavett is getting matters in shape to lay a considerable amount of flagging. The work was ordered done by the Council in front of such properties, where the owners have failed to comply with the city ordinance.

Famous Mission Worker.

"Mother" Bird, an earnest Christian worker in the Bowery Mission, New York, will speak at Warren chapel, this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Company K. Drill.

The members of Company K will meet Wednesday evening to hold the regular weekly drill. There is no other business of special importance.

TRAINS RUN TO STATEN ISLAND

First Regular Railway Service With Island Opened Today With Local Trains.

TWO TRAINS A DAY

Radical Departure Made by Staten Island Rapid Transit Which Now Runs Its Cars Over B. and O. and Jersey Central—The Initial Trip Made This Morning.

For the first time, Staten Island is connected with the rest of the world by a regular railway service. This morning, the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad started a train from its terminal station at St. George and ran it over its lines to the B. and O. bridge over Arthur Kill and thence over the B. and O. tracks to Cranford Junction where it connected with the Jersey Central and enabled it to reach Plainfield, its destination. It is so timed to connect directly with a Blue Line train for Baltimore, Washington and the west.

This new train is an experiment but, if it proves a success, it is declared that additional trains will be run. It serves to give the Staten Island people a railway outlet to the west and south and also offers an opportunity for people of this part of New Jersey to reach Staten Island and its resorts in a short time. Heretofore, all passenger trains which have passed over this line have been excursion trains only.

It is planned to run two trains each way each day, except Sundays. The first will leave St. George at 8:08 in the morning, reaching here at 9:07, and connecting with the Blue Line train due to leave here at 9:14. This train will return, leaving here at 12:02, having waited for the 11:51. It reaches St. George at 12:50. The second train leaves St. George at 3:10 and arrives here at 4:06, connecting with the 4:11 west bound. The return is made from here at 5:24, reaching St. George at 6:10.

On the initial trip, this morning was Col. C. H. Kohler, superintendent of ferries of the S. I. Co. and several newspaper men. The train will regularly consist of two Rapid Transit coaches and a locomotive.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES.

Will be Started at the Y. M. C. A. Under Mr. Heywood's Direction.

Arrangements have been made by Principal Travell of the City High School whereby the young men of the school have been granted permission to form a student class at the Y. M. C. A. This class will meet three times a week, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays in the afternoon and will be under the personal instruction of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood.

Arrangements have also been made whereby the young men of the school may use the gymnasium basket ball floor as a place to practice afternoons and as a place where the coming inter-scholastic games may be played off. Classes will begin tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and it is probable that many of the High School boys will gladly seize this opportunity to secure beneficial exercise during the winter months.

To National Convention.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, local president of the union, will leave Wednesday for Portland, Me., to attend the National W. C. T. U. convention. Mrs. Parse goes as a delegate from Union county. They will return home next week.

New Official Here.

Superintendent of Telegraph F. G. Sherman, of the New Jersey Central, made a visit of inspection to the Plainfield office of the Western Union Company last week. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the condition of the office.

Ticket Sale.

The sale of tickets for the Duss Band concert to be given at the Casino Thursday afternoon, October 23, begins at Armstrong's today. All seats reserved, all one price.

Prof. Griggs' Lecture.

Prof. Edward Howard Griggs, of Brooklyn, will lecture before the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church Tuesday evening, October 21.

PEOPLE ARE FACING THE FUEL PROBLEM

New York Sun Gives Some Valuable Hints as Obtained From Manufacturers.

POSSIBLE MAKESHIFTS.

WHAT FURNACE AND STOVE MANUFACTURERS HAVE TO SAY.

Great Difference Between Hard and and Soft Coal—A Few Furnaces and Stoves Prepared for Burning Bituminous Product.

Statements of interest were given today, says the New York Sun, by manufacturers of stoves, ranges and furnaces regarding the question raised by the scarcity of anthracite coal, whether or not bituminous coal could be used in the various kinds of heating and cooking apparatus designed for burning hard coal, which are in almost universal use in this city and nearby towns and in fact in all this part of the country.

The consensus of opinion was that it is altogether impracticable to introduce soft coal into general use hereabouts unless householders either purchase new ranges, stoves or else have those they now have materially altered. In some cases, it appears, it would be a simple enough matter to have the necessary changes made, but in others almost impossible; for so accustomed have the middle states become to anthracite and so dependent upon it, that its use has influenced even the plans of buildings. A furnace or large range burning anthracite requires a flue measuring eight by eight inches; for burning soft coal a flue measuring eight by twelve inches, and the majority of the private dwellings in this section of the country have been built accordingly.

The manufacturers declared that they saw no way at all to solve the problem confronting householders who have no hard coal and cannot get it, except, possibly, in the question of small kitchen ranges. Such ranges, it is said, by alteration could be kept going by using a combination of coke and soft coal. The coke, it is said, acts upon the bituminous in such a way as to reduce the soot and smoke of the soft coal, if not the greatest, to its general use as a domestic fuel.

To wood, too, objections were mentioned by the manufacturers, and they pointed out reasons why it could not be used to meet the situation. Both, aside from the question of its possible value in the present situation, the matter of price has been raised. A cord of wood is barely equivalent to a ton of coal, and costs $15 or $16, as much as is now demanded for a ton of anthracite

A large maker of furnaces, who has establishments in nearly all big cities throughout the country, had this to say regarding the adaptability of hard coal furnaces to use as burners of soft coal:

"Like most concerns manufacturing furnaces, we make, generally speaking, two kinds, one for burning coal and another for bituminous. The hard coal furnaces are all that we ever sell here in the east to householders, but in the western and southern states the others are about all that are used. Between the two there are many very essential differences. The most important of these differences are that the flues of the soft coal furnaces are larger; they have combustion chambers, which are not necessary for burning anthracite coal, and they are also equipped with air injections.

"The variations in construction of the two kinds of furances are made necessary by the inherent differences in the two kinds of coal. The soft coal and the hard coal compares about as one of the old sulphur matches compares to a "parlor" match. The bituminous is hard to burn and when once started generates much more smoke. It also requires much air to keep it going.

"Now, if soft coal were put into a hard coal furnace it would ruin it in about two hours. For one thing, it would not take long to clog the flue which built right into the house. For another, the fire would smoke and go out quickly for lack of air. No heat either could be got out of the fire, and I should strongly advise any one considering the question of using soft coal in a hard coal furnace not to do so. Different obstacles along the same lines would be encountered with the introduction of coke and wood. A mixture of soft and hard coal would result, only in a less degree, in the same way as the use of bituminous alone.

"The hard coal furnaces cannot be successfully altered to meet the requirements of soft coal. The flue is a difficulty not to be overcome, and one which also makes impracticable the introduction of a new heating plant. A whole new section would have to be inserted in the body of the furnaces, even if the poblem of the flues could be overcome. All in all, it does not seem either possible or practical to me for householders to hope to get around the anthracite question as far as furnaces are concerned. We are bound hand and foot to the use of hard coal as a fuel."

In the matter of stoves and ranges the difficulties do not appear so great. A manufacturer of them said:

"Ranges are all a good deal alike, and as far as the introduction of soft coal as a fuel is concerned, just the same. The fire chambers, the flues and draughts are where difficulties will arise with bituminous coal. Alterations which will greatly improve matters are possible, but, all in all, soft coal in the stoves and ranges are built and sold in this part of the country would be at the best unsatisfactory.

"Bituminous should have a shallower fire chamber than anthracite. That, however, may, in a degree, be overcome by putting in less coal. But then the chambers of the ordinary ranges are not wide enough to permit much coal to be spread in a thin layer on the bottom. Flues are an almost insurmountable difficulty and draughts, too, are a bad problem. But if bituminous simply has to be used I should suggest that the brick lining be removed and as much air as possible be admitted to the fire chamber. With heating stoves, if possible the magazine inside should be taken out. The soft coal, however, will not give much heat any way if it is tried in an ordinary stove and will undoubtedly emit a most unsavory odor."

The manufacturer then spoke of the mixture of coke and bituminous. He said that many foundries were now using the combination with moderate success. If wood is to be used, he said, the same changes should be made in the range as for soft coal.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. Its attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation, removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures cough, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung trouble. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga.: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." L. Men Who Held Up ... Express Train and Took $50,000 Not Easily Caught.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 13.—The three masked men who held up the Burlington train near this city and robbed the express car safe of $50,000 are still at large, though a posse, with bloodhounds, was at once put on their trail. The robbery was well planned.

Midway between here and Woodlawn the engineer saw a red light waved across the track and brought the train to a standstill. Two men sprang quickly into the cab, covering him and his fireman with revolvers. Under their orders the express car was cut from the balance of the train and sent ahead a short distance. A heavy charge of dynamite then tore the safe to pieces, and the robbers lugged the plunder to the side of the track, covering everybody in sight with pistols while waiting for the third masked man.

Meanwhile the third man had been busy. He walked alongside the track by the passenger coaches, firing his revolver occasionally to keep inquisitive passengers quiet. A brakeman who went ahead found a revolver pushed in his face, with a warning to go back where he belonged. He ran the four miles to the Lincoln yards and was the first to give the alarm.

The robbers, who seemed to be old hands, went at the work methodically and chatted pleasantly with the trainmen, warning them to look out when the safe was blown open and not get hurt. All the time, however, cocked pistols were in the trainmen's faces. A reward of $1,000 has been offered, but the robbers had a good start.

Some of the Lincoln policemen are of the opinion that the robbers are hiding in this city or not far from here. What strengthens this belief is the fact that Saturday night three horses were stolen at the town of Raymond, not far from the scene of the holdup, ridden hard in a roundabout way to this place and abandoned. A house near Raymond is declared to be a rendezvous of thieves and hard characters, and some of its occasional occupants have caused the police much trouble. The theory is after the holdup the robbers drove rapidly to this place and by their friends were kept in hiding during the day. One of the Raymond men whom it is thought may have some knowledge of the holdup, though not actively connected with it, was seen in the vicinity of the robbery Friday. He but recently completed a term in the penitentiary, the police say. Nothing further is known as to the amount secured from the express safe.

This was the third and most successful attempt to hold up this train, which has been in service about three years. Officials of the road say it was the best planned robbery in the history of western railroads, and its execution showed that the desperadoes were not amateurs.

PRINCE VAJIRAVUDH'S VISIT.

Siamese Royalty Entertained In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—His royal highness Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh, the crown prince of Siam, who has arrived in this city from New York, spent Sunday in his apartments at the Arlington and in driving about the city. No visitors were announced. In the morning, accompanied by his brother, Prince Chakrabongse, the Siamese minister and one of his aids, he drove through the Soldiers' home grounds. Returning he was driven through the chief residence portion of the city. After luncheon the prince and the members of his party went for another drive to Arlington. The prince is particularly interested in soldier life, he himself having had a thorough military training.

The second in the series of dinners in honor of the royal visitors was given last evening in the banquet hall of the Arlington. The table was nearly hidden from view by a profusion of American Beauty and La France roses, and the entire room was a bower of roses, chrysanthemums, palms and ferns.

This afternoon the prince is at Annapolis to inspect the Naval academy. He will return to Washington at 6 o'clock.

Bulgarian Insurrection Growing.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 13.—General Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, has again escaped from prison and has gone to Macedonia. The Macedonian committee asserts that the insurrection is growing daily. It claims that the rebels have destroyed several villages and that they attacked the town of Jumaya, European Turkey, where they captured three Turkish guns, but were finally repulsed. Consular and official news, while declaring the reports of the Macedonian committee to be greatly exaggerated, confirms the statements of desperate encounters in the district of Djumabala and Detvitch, where many were killed, wounded or taken prisoners.

Meeting of Methodist Preachers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—The forty-fifth annual meeting of the National Association of Local Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church has begun. Prominent clergymen were present from every section of the country and two from England—Charles Heap of Caldershaw, Rockdale, and Thomas Walker of Southfield, Bolton. The opening sessions were devoted to routine business.

Mistook Arsenic For Baking Powder

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 13.—Arthur Moran and three children, aged seven, nine and eleven years, have been poisoned by eating cakes in which arsenic had been placed by the mother, who mistook it for baking powder. The two younger children are in a critical condition, and it is thought they will die. The oldest child and the father probably will recover.

CAR STRIKE SETTLED

Governor's Ultimatum Is Accepted In New Orleans.

TROLLEY LINES AGAIN RUNNING.

For Two Weeks All the City Roads Had Been Completely Tied Up. A Partial Gain For the Striking Workmen.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—The street car strike begun by the dissatisfied employees of the New Orleans Railway company has been settled here, the carmen's union on a secret ballot unanimously accepting the governor's ultimatum. The car lines resumed operations this morning.

The basis of settlement is that the men will go back to work at 20 cents, ten hours to be a day's work, with a minimum of seven and a half hours a day, no discrimination to be made against any of the men under charges and as many to be taken back as are needed for the operation of the company's lines.

There is widespread rejoicing in the city over the settlement of the strike, which began Sunday morning two weeks ago and has been the most effective tieup attempted in this city. Not a single passenger has been carried on a car since it began, and not a passenger car has got more than five blocks from a barn.

The credit for settlement is largely due to W. S. Parkerson, who labored indefatigably all night trying to convince the strikers that they could not hope for anything better and that they could not prevail against the militia massed here.

United States Senator Foster, Governor Heard and Mayor Capdevielle were all instrumental in some degree in bringing about the final result.

Geneva Strike Ended.

GENEVA, Oct. 13.—The strike has collapsed, the strikers' syndicate having called upon all trades to resume work. The striking employees of the street car line have resumed work, and there is complete tranquillity in Geneva.

Election Riots In Austria.

VIENNA, Oct. 13.—Serious election riots occurred at St. Poelten, thirty-five miles from here, after a meeting of the supporters of the Christian Socialist candidate for election to the provincial diet. Several trainloads of anti-Semites under the leadership of Herr Lueger, burgomaster of Vienna, left here to attend the meeting. Herr Fermar, burgomaster of St. Poelten, who is a Nationalist, refused to allow the anti-Semites from Vienna to march through the center of St. Poelten and compelled them to take a circuitous route. After the meeting the anti-Semites attempted to force their way through the principal streets of the town and broke through a cordon of police and gendarmes. A regiment of infantry was called out and restored order. Many persons were arrested.

Three Boys Missing.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 13.—A Free Press special from Traverse City, Mich., says: Three boys of well known families—Jack Corbett, aged fifteen; Elliott Ashman, aged fifteen, and Milan Morgan, aged fourteen—are supposed to have been drowned in Traverse bay. The boys went for a sail on the bay. They did not return, and several hours afterward their boat was found on the shore about half a mile from the city. Later a coat was found which has been identified as Corbett's. It is believed that the boys lost control of the boat in the heavy sea and that it capsized.

Hopes For Reciprocity.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 13.—The fact that Sir Robert Bond, premier of Newfoundland, still remains at Washington encourages the hope here that he will succeed in effecting a reciprocity arrangement with the United States on the basis of the Bond-Blaine convention. In spite of the reports that Premier Bond has failed in his mission nothing has yet arisen to warrant such a conclusion. Owing to the many interests involved the finalizing of the negotiations, it is thought here, would entail considerable delay.

Woman Called to a Missouri Church.

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 13.—Miss Mary Andrews, daughter of ex-Sheriff Robert N. Andrews, has been notified of her election as pastor of the Universalist church at Kansas City, Mo., an influential organization. She succeeded Rev. Luther McKinney and will be the first woman pastor ever in Kansas City. Miss Andrews has been studying at the University of Chicago, and her engagement is the outcome of a trial sermon before the congregation last summer.

The President Gets Out.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Availing himself of the delightful weather which prevailed yesterday, the president took a long drive throughout the city and suburbs. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt. The wound on the president's leg is reported to be healing nicely, and his general condition is said to be satisfactory.

Honors For Captain Sverdrup.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 13.—Emperor William has bestowed the decoration of the Prussian Royal Order of the Crown of the first class upon Captain Sverdrup, the arctic explorer. King Oscar of Norway bestowed the grand cross of St. Olaf on Captain Sverdrup last week.

Senator Hanna to Rest.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—Upon the urgent advice of his physicians Senator Hanna's engagements for the present have been canceled, so that he may recuperate from a threatened illness.

Said to [illegible] Making Supreme Efforts Open Mines.

COLLIERIES START THIS WEEK.

General Quiet Prevails Throughout the Mining [illegible]gion at Present and Troops Ha[illegible] Little to Do—The Strikers [illegible]o Not Weaken.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 13.—This week, it is generally believed, will put to a test the claim of the operators that they will be enabled to start up their collieries if given protection and the counter claim of the United Mine Workers organization, as expressed in Wednesday's resolutions, that the strikers will not return to work without concessions, even though the entire military force of the United States should be here to protect them.

With a determination to prove their claim the operators have been for the past week making a supreme effort to secure men. That they have succeeded to some extent is evidenced by announcements made with some positiveness that various collieries will resume operations in the course of a few days. The Delaware and Hudson company made a start this morning at the Bellevue. The Green Ridge Coal company will open up its Green Ridge colliery early this week. Other companies say they are figuring on a resumption at certain collieries, but decline to give their location. Claim is also made on the operators' side that the forces at collieries already working are to be largely increased during the week.

The United Mine Workers' leaders continue to assert that the military can do nothing towards inducing men to return to work and that all the men who could be induced to go back to work without concessions are already back.

Strike disorder is now almost wholly wanting. During the past two days the soldiers have had nothing to do further than their regular patrol duty, not a single call having come to any of the three regiments in this county to deal with disorder or threatened disorder.

Quay Sees the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Senator Quay of Pennsylvania saw the president for an hour yesterday, and at the close of the conference the statement was made that there was "nothing to say." Of course it was known that the senator came to discuss the strike situation, but what information he conveyed or what suggestions he received cannot be stated. The senator departed immediately after the conference for Philadelphia. Little information as to the strike situation can be obtained in Washington. It is understood that the operators are glad to have their side of the case laid before the president and especially the work they are doing to supply coal. It is said that they have divided the country into districts and will attempt to equalize the supply so that no one community will suffer; also that the railroads will make special arrangements to handle soft coal so as to supply all who can make use of it in place of the anthracite.

A White House Conference.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Secretary Root spent some time at the temporary White House last night in consultation with the president regarding the coal strike. Nothing could be ascertained as to what took place, the secretary declining to say anything about his visit and the officials at the White House being equally reticent. Earlier in the evening the president received Professor J. W. Jenks of Cornell university, who was accompanied by Mr. Marcus H. Marks, a New York attorney. Professor Jenks was formerly a member of the industrial commission and has made a study of economical subjects. The visit of these two gentlemen had to do with the coal strike, although just what is not known. At the temporary White House the officials say there is absolutely nothing to say for the press on the coal strike situation.

Quiet at Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 13.—Nothing that is new has developed in the strike situation here. Not one soldier was sent out from the camp located in this city. There are rumors in circulation that an extraordinary effort will be made this week to start the collieries, but no information to this effect can be learned from the companies' officials here. An order to make extra effort to resume operations must first emanate from New York, and the superintendents will then try to carry it out. The strikers and citizens generally are not expecting anything to develop in the strike affected territory, but are eagerly following events in New York and Washington. There is a feeling, which is growing quite general, that some development in the direction of a settlement is near at hand.

Coal For Importation.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—The Brauer Line steamship company, operating between Philadelphia and New York and Hamburg, is reported to have purchased for importation to this country 20,000 tons of anthracite coal from Germany and 15,000 tons of anthracite coal from southern Russia. The latter is to be shipped from Mariupol, south Russia, during October and November. The bulk of the coal that will come from Germany will be reimportations of Pennsylvania stove and chestnut grade exported to Germany and purchased from the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company.

Four Trainloads of Coal.

READING, Pa., Oct. 13.—Four trainloads of washery and mined coal consisting o[illegible] 70 tons, passed [illegible] during the night. [illegible] headed for sale to the [illegible] employees and for use in the [illegible]tives. This was the heavies[illegible] shipment since last May and is greater than Friday night's run, which was 189 cars.

Many Substitutes For Coal.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Gas and oil stoves and heaters, bricks soaked in kerosene, chemically prepared bricks and everything in the heat producing line is being used here as a substitute for coal. Wood is scarce and high. People of moderate means cannot afford to buy anthracite and are getting along with as little soft coal as possible. It is feared that hospitals and factories where the supply of fuel is very limited will be compelled to close temporarily. Dr. Seward Webb, president of the Mohawk and Malone Railroad company, is to present to the employees of the road in this city ten carloads or 200 cords of wood, cut in the Adirondacks, to be distributed here.

CONSTRUCTION RETARDED.

Work on New War Vessels Far Behind the Contract Time.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—"Progress upon new vessels under construction during the past year has not been satisfactory," says Rear Admiral Bowles, chief of the naval bureau of construction, in his annual report to the secretary of the navy. All the larger vessels, he says, have been delayed by nondelivery of structural steel, while the vessels building at San Francisco were set back by the ten months' strike, and the hold out of the workmen at Seattle prevented any actual progress on the structure of the hull of the battleship Nebraska building there. The delay in the deliveries of armor for the battleships Maine, Missouri and Ohio and the monitors Arkansas, Florida, Nevada and Wyoming has retarded the completion of these vessels concurrently with other causes. The inability of shipbuilders to obtain a sufficient force of skilled workers also has been in many cases an important factor in the slow progress of the vessels.

A table is submitted showing in concise form how the work on vessels under construction has fallen behind. For instance, the battleship Ohio is shown to have been twenty-nine months behind her contract on the 1st of July. This is not an isolated case. The battleship Missouri is over twenty months behind, the majority of the battleships and cruisers are over ten months behind, and some of the torpedo craft are more than forty months behind the date of completion stipulated in their contracts.

Admiral Bowles says there continues to be an urgent necessity for an increase in the number of officers of the construction corps. The principal navy yards, it is stated, have an insufficient number of officers for the performance of regular duties. This lack of officers is particularly hurtful just now in view of the construction of the battleship Connecticut at the New York navy yard. Rear Admiral Bowles renews his recommendation for an increase of his corps from forty to sixty members.

FATAL COLLISION.

Pennsylvania Flier Crashes Into a Freight Wreck, Killing Two.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 13.—An express train ran into a wrecked freight train near Barre, three miles west of Petersburg. The passenger engineer and the freight brakeman were instantly killed, and the passenger fireman was probably fatally injured.

An eastbound freight train broke in two, and the parts coming together with great force fourteen cars were broken and overturned across all the tracks. At the same moment the fast train running east about fifty miles an hour came along on the adjoining tracks and crashed into the wreckage. The locomotive was completely stripped and a postal car, baggage car and four coaches containing 120 passengers were derailed and broken. The wrecked freight cars immediately caught fire, and three were burned. The four Pullman cars remained on the track, and the occupants were uninjured.

The postal clerks, baggage men and passengers in the coaches were all severely shaken up, but no one received more than slight bruises except one lady who had her ankle sprained. All the passengers proceeded east on the next train.

Commissioner Moses Will Retire.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Hon. Bernard Moses of California, a member of the Philippine commission, will retire from that body on the 1st of next January. Following that Professor Moses will make a tour of portions of the old world, shaping his affairs so that he will be able to reach his home and take up his college work in the University of California by the beginning of the next scholastic year, at which time his leave of absence expires.

Brisk Money Order Business.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The annual report of Superintendent J. T. Metcalf of the money order bureau of the postoffice department for the fiscal year ended June 30 last shows the money orders issued by the postoffices of the United States increased over the previous year 4,951,171 in number and $41,907,072 in amount. The average daily sale of money orders during the year was $1,028,160.

Belgian Miners Want More Pay.

CHARLEROI, Belgium, Oct. 13.—The national committee of miners of four of the great Belgian coalfields has passed resolutions in favor of demanding an increase of 15 per cent in the wages of coal miners, the object of the demand being to create a diversion in favor of the striking coal miners in France and to prevent the supplying of Belgian coal to France.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk or this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

1. At the end of paragraph 1, add the following:

The court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out paragraph 3.

Section VI.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraphs 1 and 2, the following:

The court of common pleas shall be constituted and held in each county in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE VII.

Civil Officers.

Section II.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. Judges of the court of errors and appeals, justices of the supreme court, the chancellor, the vice-chancellors and the judges of the circuit court and of the court of common pleas shall be nominated by the governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate; all persons now holding any office in this paragraph named, except the judges of the court of errors and appeals as heretofore existing, shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective offices according to their respective commissions or appointments; the judges of the court of errors and appeals, except those first appointed; the justices of the supreme court, the chancellor and the vice-chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this state or the United States; the judges of the court of errors and appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years; judges of the court of common pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

Strike out paragraph 2.

COLOMBIAN CONDITIONS.

General Cordovez Tells of a Government Victory.

PANAMA, Colombia, Oct. 13.—General Julio E. Cordovez of the government has arrived here from Bogota by way of Barranquilla. He came through with troops and gives the following account of conditions on the Magdalena river:

"We left Bogota Sept. 24 and arrived at Honda the 27th and met there the forces under General Perdomo. We advanced by land to Magague, where we were informed that the revolutionary general Uribe-Uribe, with 500 men and two cannon, was strongly entrenched at Tenerife and that he was preventing steamboats from traveling up or down the river. When we reached San Juan, however, we received information of General Uribe-Uribe's flight toward the mountains. He is accompanied by a rebel named Munoz, whom I consider more of a highwayman than anything else. He is the same man who recently robbed an American citizen named Pontier who was on his way up to Bogota. We arrived at Barranquilla Oct. 2.

"General Margarita has defeated the rebel forces under Castillo at La Cienaga. Castillo also fled to the mountains, where the scarceness of food will probably compel him to surrender.

"General Ferrocaiz, minister of war, has asked each department of Colombia to contribute 2[illegible] men for the purpose of pacifying the cabinas. A number of these troops are already at Barranquilla under General Pardomo. The men from the departments of Cundinamarca and Cauca are at present at Honda awaiting transportation down the river. Six thousand more men will come from the departments of Antioquia, Tolima and Santander. The interior of the republic is entirely pacified. The people there are at work and are protected by the guarantees offered by President Marroquin in his decree of amnesty."

The foregoing statements of General Cordovez are confirmed by Senor Tarias, a former government official, who also reached Panama from Bogota.

Reported Government Victory.

COLON, Colombia, Oct. 13.—Persons who have arrived here from Cartagena say that forces of the government have defeated the revolutionists at La Cienaga. There is no further news of the situation at Santa Marta. It is reported also that the government has driven the revolutionary general Uribe-Uribe from the strategic position he held near Tenerife on the Magdalena river. General Uribe-Uribe is said to have been forced to retreat with all his forces toward the interior of the country. The Magdalena river is now reported to be again open to traffic.

AMERICAN JOCKEYS SHUT OUT.

French Jockey Club Excludes Henry and Reiff, Alleging Fraud.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Le Soir announces that the Jockey club has withdrawn the licenses of the American jockeys Milton Henry and J. Reiff, excluding them from riding on any French race course.

This action is an outcome, says the paper, of a very careful investigation made by the detective department, which secured proofs that Henry and Reiff upon several occasions have prevented favorites from winning. The owners of the horses in question are innocent of any part in the transactions. The detective department is powerless to interfere with jockeys for such offenses and therefore put the matter in the hands of the Jockey club.

Le Soir adds that the action of the Jockey club will be welcomed by every one and that it will put an end to the suspicion involving all American jockeys in France, among whom there are several very honest men. Today's action by the club, continues the paper, will serve as a lesson to those jockeys "who still frequent night saloons surrounded by shady racing characters."

"The only regret which might be associated with this measure of the Jockey club," says Le Soir, "is that we are to be deprived of two incomparable artists who often gave a spectacle of palpitating struggles in which shrewdness and skill had replaced the brutal methods of former times."

Milton Henry and J. Reiff have been the two most successful jockeys on French race courses this season. Henry headed the list of winners. Not a day passed without his securing several wins and places. J. Reiff yesterday got two firsts out of four mounts at the Bois de Boulogne, while Milton Henry got a first and two seconds out of five mounts. Reiff got a first and second out of four mounts at Maisons Laffitte Friday, while Henry got two firsts and one second out of six mounts at the same meeting.

French Strikers Divided.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The principal feature in the strike situation is the division which is forming in the ranks of the strikers. Those of the Pas de Calais district and the Department du Nord, who are the most numerous, decline to mix the questions of an eight hour day and old age pensions into the strike, as the central committee of the Federation of Miners decided to do, and declare they are striking purely for an increase in wages. The local committees of the miners in these districts have asked the prefects to intervene, with the mine owners with a view of securing a settlement.

Burglars Played Sharp Game.

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Oct. 13.—Jewels valued at $15,000 and a pocketbook containing $700 have been stolen from the country home of Arthur Coppell, a banker, whose office is in 24 Exchange place, New York. A few hours before the burglars called Mr. Coppell attended a meeting of citizens to discuss means of protecting their homes from robbers.

SULTAN WANTS WAR

Peace Overtures of General Sumner Flatly Rejected.

AMERICA'S FRIENDSHIP IS SCORNED

A Force Will Be Sent to Capture and Reduce the Bacolod Strongholds—Counterfeit Silver Dollars Made in China.

MANILA, Oct. 13.—The sultan of Bacolod, Mindanao, has rejected the friendly overtures of General Sumner, commander of the American forces on Mindanao, in a defiant letter, in which he invites war. The sultan says:

"The sultan of Bacolod desires war forthwith. He wishes to maintain the religion of Mohammed. Cease sending letters. What we want is war. We do not desire your friendship."

Friendly Moros report that the sultan of Bacolod is fortifying his strongholds. He is in possession of many rifles. It is expected that an American column will be sent from Camp Vicars to capture and reduce the Bacolod strongholds. It has not been decided when the move is to be made.

Counterfeit American silver dollars are being made in China and circulated here extensively. The suspicion is held that some of this money was shipped from San Francisco. The dollars are of silver and of standard weight. They have been detected through the improper stamping of the word "Liberty" on the goddess. The low price of silver insured to the makers of this counterfeit money a profit of 100 per cent. American silver circulates as gold in the Philippines.

The Buffalo Returns.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The United States steamer Buffalo has arrived from Manila and ports on the Asiatic station with 42 officers and 568 men. The Buffalo left New York June 5 last with 30 midshipmen of the class of 1902, 750 men and 800 tons of stores for the Asiatic fleet. She had a very pleasant run, making the usual stops at Gibraltar, Malta, Port Said, Colombo and Singapore. At Gibraltar ten midshipmen were transferred to vessels of the European station. Arrived at Cavite (Manila) Aug. 2, the Buffalo transferred about 450 men to various vessels and received 280 who had served the required two years in the Philippines. She also landed stores for the southern squadron and took on stores for the northern squadron.

French Officials Deposed.

LE MANS, France, Oct. 13.—M. d'Ormescheville, government commissioner on the council of war of the Fourth army corps, has been relieved of his functions. M. d'Ormescheville was prosecuting counsel at the first court martial of former Captain Dreyfus. He also conducted the prosecution against a soldier named Voisin several years ago who was charged with murdering and robbing a woman at Cherbourg. Voisin was condemned to penal servitude for life and was transported to Cayenne. The real murderer of the woman for killing whom Voisin was sentenced confessed recently, and Voisin was brought back to France and pardoned. He demanded a revision of the court martial proceedings, however, and secured an acquittal.

Haitian Rebels Win.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 13.—The revolutionists at Montrouis were attacked by forces of the government Saturday. While the armored government steamship Nouvelle Voldrogue bombarded the rebels' positions the government troops attempted to effect a landing. The rebels resisted with energy and succeeded in repelling the attack. There were many casualties. St. Foix Colin, minister of the interior under the provisional government, has called the population at Port au Prince to arms. General Colin will soon leave here at the head of a strong force for a second attack upon Montrouis.

Drunken Man's Terrible Crime.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Oct. 13.—Lloyd Nelson Young, a white planter, crazed by drink, went on a rampage near Pembroke after being put off a train that he had flagged. He secured an ax and brained Rebecca Macray, an aged negress, whom he met in the road. Leaving the ax with the body, he sprang on Joseph Landy, colored, aged seventy, and cut his throat, fatally wounding him. After terrorizing the citizens for two hours he was overpowered by a posse and brought here for safe keeping to escape a mob of several hundred negroes that had been formed to lynch him.

Gladstone Statue Unveiled.

GLASGOW, Oct. 13.—Lord Rosebery unveiled a statue of Mr. Gladstone in George square, representing the statesman as attired in the robes of lord rector of Glasgow university. An immense crowd was present. Lord Rosebery made an eloquent address, but avoided commenting upon Mr. Gladstone's political career for the reason that men of all creeds had contributed to the memorial. He, however, eulogized Mr. Gladstone's character, talent, industry and labors along the lines of religion and literature.

Fire at Middletown, N. Y.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Gordon & Horton's lumber and coal yards, together with a portion of Swift & Co.'s meat storage plant, have been swept away by fire. A stubborn fight on the part of the firemen saved the central section of the city. It is believed the fire originated in a pile of lime slaked by rain. The loss is about $30,000.

Weather Probabilities.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

The Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League has been organized and will open its season Monday evening, November 17. It will be composed of four local clubs, the Y. M. C. A., Alis A. A., Hope Y. M. A. and Leal's School A. A. To the winnner, The Daily Press will give a suitable trophy.

Basket ball has long been a favorite game in Plainfield but the chief trouble has been that so few games were played that the interest was allowed to die out. Suitable places in which to play are very few and the city has heretofore depended almost entirely on the Y. M. C. A. for its games. Even there basket ball might have continued but for the fact that the directors of the Y. M. C. A. preferred to encourage all round gymnastic development instead of featuring any special sport. So the basket ball games were comparatively infrequent. Whenever there was a game, a large crowd as the rule. The series between Leal's School and the City High School last year attracted particular interest and started the movement which has this year resulted in the formation of a league. Unfortunately, however, the City High School is not represented in the league.

It was with the idea of arranging a regular schedule of games among the local teams, that the suggesion of a local league was made in this office. The support of the Y. M. C. A. was secured and with the active co-operation of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, the league was organized. Without the assistance of the Y. M. C. A. the league would not have been possible. The games this winter will be conducted on the same lines as have the contests at the Y. M. C. A. in the past and every possible effort will be made to keep the game up to the present high standard and eliminate any of the rough features which are to be found in basket ball in some other cities.

North avenue is once more in excellent condition and travellers thereon are no longer compelled to bump along over the rocky way. North avenue probably sees more travel than any other city street as it is the approach to the depot as well as an important business street. The street committee of the Common Council should therefore see to it that North avenue is kept in condition and is not allowed to get as bad as it was a few months ago.

The straits of the present coal situation can be realized when one hears that a local coal dealer has to utilize a brick dipped in oil in order to heat his own office. When the operators find themselves in that predicament there is likely to be a speedy settlement of the coal strike.

The veterans were very fortunate in the ideal weather which attended their annual encampment at Washington. The lovers of outdoor sports have not been so lucky. Rainy Saturdays are becoming a regular feature this fall.

RALLY DAY.

Exercises Held at First Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church held rally day exercises yesterday afternoon, when an informal programme was presented consisting of recitations by the little folks, a tenor solo by Elmer E. Cutting, a duet by Mr. Cutting and E. Maxwell Honeyman and a vocal selection by the male quartette of the church, Elmer E. Cutting, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Sydney R. Titsworth and Howard Lewis.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Richard VanArsdale, of Orchard place, is rapidly recovering from an operation for appendicitis and he hopes to be out within a short time.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

Another Communication Points Out Need of Higher Salaries for Local Teachers.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Apropos to the salary of Plainfield's teachers let me add a word. The boarding house keepers in Plainfield have most of them advanced the price of board owing to the coal famine and the high rate of food products. Many teachers have been obliged to pay higher board. When the month's school check is received, there is a very small sum on the credit side, after paying for board, rubbers, umbrellas and car fare.

Our women house servants demand from $16 to $20 per month. The teacher who has paid from $500 to $1,000 for her education is working for $50 per month. Some of them "start in" at $47 per month. She is obliged to dress well. She is supposed to be lovely in disposition after spending from 8 o'clock until 5 in her class room.

When the last dress and trouser fades from view, the "red tape" is to be wound. Who does extra work without ever a "thank you?"—not plumbers, nor painters—but school teachers.

The grammar grades furnish a nice little amusement o' nights for tired teachers—a game of solitaire (the cards are rather thin "test" sheets.)

Any tax payer who thinks he cannot pay a few cents more per hundred on his bill, wants to play teacher for a day. Then look out for broken glass and broken heads—but never mind, it can all be charged up as "sundries."

CLUB WOMEN TO GATHER

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE FEDERATION OF WOMAN'S CLUBS.

Will be Held at Jersey City, October 30 and 31—The Plans for the Meeting.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in the Bergen Reformed church, at Jersey City, Thursday and Friday, October 30 and 31. Representatives from twelve of these clubs in Hudson county met last week in Jersey City to make arrangements for the sessions and the entertainment of visiting clubs.

It is the plan of the club members to have this meeting equal to any of its predecessors, but realizing that it is a club gathering they do not propose to narrow its scope in any way. For this reason it was the unanimous voice that all the sessions be held in the church. In the interim between the morning and afternoon meetings, programme for which will be arranged by the State Federation, luncheon will be served. This will be in charge of Mrs. Joseph A. Dear and she will be assisted by members from each of the other clubs and the members of the reception committee of the Woman's Club, of which she is chairman. It will probably be served by Morrow & Day.

The work of finding places for the out-of-town delegates to stay over night has been placed with Mrs. A. J. Newbury and a member of each of the other clubs. A letter will be sent to all the clubs in the State, telling them of the intention of the Hudson county women to provide for the visitors from distant cities, and as soon as the ladies ascertain how many will desire such accommodation they will be placed.

On Thursday evening, October 30, the hostesses will give a reception. This will doubtless be a musical programme and a short address by some prominent woman, either a well known author or public speaker. Following this programme will be a social meeting with refreshments. But little of the detail of this, nor of the plan for decorating the building, could be arranged. Miss Crowen was chosen as chairman of the entertainment committee and two representatives of each club will meet with her within a few days. Full care of decorations, cloak rooms, ushers and all things pertaining to the building and the evening entertainment was delegated to this department. That the work might be further facilitated a press committee was appointed, with Miss Ada Fuller as chairman. The clubs will each meet within the next few days and representatives will be appointed then. These names are to be sent to Dr. DeHart not later than October 10, and by the 13th meetings will be held and all put in working order.

The interest in these State meetings is widespread. Women from all parts of the State will be here, as well as many prominent women from New York and other States. The programme will include several good addresses on topics that are attracting general attention and concerning which the thoughtful woman is giving attention.

OFFICERS NAMED.

At Annual Meeting of Women's Society for Christian Work.

The Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon, when officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: President, Mrs. George H. Babcock; vice president, Mrs. David E. Titsworth; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas B. Titsworth; recording secretary, Mrs. A. T. Maxson; treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Dunham; chairman missionary committee, Mrs. I. N. West; tract committee, Mrs. David E. Titsworth; directoress committee, Mrs. H. M. Maxson; entertainment committee, Miss Ernestine C. Smith.

The reports from the various departments showed improvement and were encouraging. The first regular meeting of the society will be held October 22, when the work for the fall and winter will be taken up.

SECRET MARRIAGES.

Evils Attendant Upon Them Pointed Out by Rev. J. O. McKelvey.

The evils attendant upon secret marriages were treated by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, last evening, in a clear and forcible manner, Mr. McKelvey deplored the common practice of young people getting married, only to announce the fact several months later. He spoke of the frequency of this practice in Plainfield during recent times and he hoped that so far as his young people are concerned they would not be a party to such practice.

DUNELLEN.

The coal situation in this place has been slightly relieved for a time. Garretson & Gray have received a carload of furnace coal which they are selling in half-ton lots. The price is $4 a half ton, which is a very low rate compared to other places. This coal is all that some boroughites have and many are taking in supplies of wood.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, preached last evening in Trinity Reformed church at Plainfield. His text was taken from Isiah lv:11, and was the "Certainty of Victory." Mr. Livermore gave statistics showing the growth of Christianity from the early ages to the present time. His sermon was a very able one and much appreciated.

Rev. Frank Fletcher preached yesterday morning to a large congregation. His subject was: "Fear Not." In the evening services were conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society. A woman missionary was present and gave a talk.

The sale of land forfeited to the township for non-payment of taxes was held Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Nelson, under charge of Collector W. J. Nelson.

Rev. Frank Fletcher spoke in the Dunellen Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon.

The water got so high in the pond yesterday that the dam had to be opened.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coriell entertained a number of friends yesterday.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH REOPENED

AFTER BEING CLOSED TWO MONTHS FOR REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

All Was Ready Except Pipe Organ Which Will be Used Nov. 2—The Changes Made.

Grace M. E. church was reopened yesterday for the first time in several months, the edifice being closed for repairs and improvements. The members of the church were delighted to return to their house of worship and the attendance at the morning and evening services was large, as was also that at the Sunday-school session in the afternoon.

In the morning and evening the pastor, Rev. E. L. Earp, took occasion to speak of the remodelled edifice, together with the improvements, new carpet, painting and decorating. There was one regret that the new pipe organ was not ready for the opening. It was announced that it would be completed for Sunday, November 2, when a special musical service will be held. The organ is now here and the work of putting it up is in progress. It will be located on the pulpit platform.

At the Sunday-school session, Superintendent John Valiant also spoke of the improvements made and he hoped that all would thoroughly appreciate them and feel that each one had a part in the work. The interior is papered with a handsome shade of red paper, while the carpet is of an olive shade of green. They harmonize well together.

The woodwork has also been painted its natural color. The carpet was purchased in New York. The New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, did the painting and papering, while William Pangborn did the mason work.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The weather on Saturday interfered with the local ball teams plans again. For five weeks it has rained every Saturday afternoon but Manager Johnston has not given up hopes and promises to extend the season until one or more games are played. Saturday afternoon it is proposed to play the postponed benefit game with some team from Plainfield if possible, but Manager Johnston promises a game for certain.

A piece of anthracite coal, weighing possibly two carats, was found on Park avenue Sunday afternoon. Owner can have same by applying to Township Clerk Edward L. Hand and proving property.

The heavy winds of Saturday night and Sunday helped make a good harvest for the many chestnut hunters who swarmed the woods on Sunday.

"Fruitful and Fruitless," was the topic of an interesting meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held in the parlors of the Baptist church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Riley, of New York, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. Riley's father, James Riley, have returned home.

The registry board, which has been making a canvass of the voters of the township for the coming election, finished its duties Friday.

A number from town journeyed to Bayonne, yesterday afternoon, to see the Stars, of Elizabeth, cross bats with the Bayonne team.

Miss White, of Carisle, is spending a few days with her brother, Prof. Howard D. White, at "Home Dawn."

The teachers of the public school attended the Teachers' Institute meeting held at Elizabeth, Saturday.

The regular weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist church last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Metuchen, spent Sunday with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Manning.

Rev. Mr. Crowen, preacher at the Baptist church yesterday, was entertained by Mrs. Fred Latourette.

The infant daughter of Justice Weaver died Saturday night.

The weekly prayer meeting will be omitted Tuesday evening.

Miss Estelle Boss, of Craig place, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, undergoing medical treatment.

Mrs. Ella Genung, of Madison, was the guest yesterday of Mrs. Mary L. Force, of Duer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Stillman, of Troy, N. Y., are the guests of Miss L. W. Stillman, of West Fourth street.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Fred Endress calls attention to the specialties in his seafood department this week. Like his meat store, it has some excellent bargains which will save money for buyers.

If you want your feet properly clad in the right kind of a shoe you should purchase them at Willett & Son's on Park avenue. They have a large stock of shoes for men, women and children.

"Asparox," the new hot soda, is one of the latest attractions at L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street. It is a delicious beverage. A fresh supply of licorice has just been received.

There is economy in trading with Putnam & DeGraw, the West Front street dry goods merchants. They carry a superior stock of dry goods and notions, also an attractive line of men's furnishings.

Hawe's hats still continue to attract a great deal of attention at J. R. Blair's store at 205 Park avenue. Mr. Blair has also a fine stock of men's furnishing goods. His neckties are the "real thing" and are worth looking at, as is his hosiery for men.

All the staple and fancy goods, prompt service and low prices, are necessary points to be observed by every modern grocery house. Not one is missing at the store of Callahan & Son, of Richmond street. It has been the means of their building up one of the fines trades in the city.

October is ordinarily a pleasant month but it generally brings with it some very chilly evenings. If you find it inconvenient and a great bother to start a fire temporarily, why not save time, money and trouble by using a Backus heater. Gavett, the West Front street crockery man, sells them.

W. W. Dunn, of Duer street and Lincoln place, not only has one of the largest grocery stores in North Plainfield but also one of the best appointed. This week he has an unusually good supply of pears, apples, grapes and other choice fruits, besides his usual fine stock of fancy and family groceries.

If good coal is difficult to procure these days, good meats are not, providing one goes to a first-class butcher store. Such a one is that at 147 North avenue owned by Smalley Bros. It is almost too well known to say much about, but if there are a few people that have not visited it they should lose no time in looking over Smalley Bros'. supply this week.

BRIDGE APPROACH.

Middlesex Freeholders Said to Have Failed to Comply With Conditions of Gift Deed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Woodbridge, October 13—In explanation of C. W. Boynton's claim that he owns the northern approach to the bridge recently erected by the Middlesex county Freeholders over Woodbridge creek bridge, attention is called to the deed which Mr. Boynton gave the township for the land in question. It was necessary to build the road to the creek before the county would build the bridge. Mr. Boynton offered to give the land free of charge. He gave a deed in which it was set forth that the township should have six months in which to build the road. It is claimed that it took longer than the time specified to build the road and the land reverted to the donor.

The extension of the tracks of the Raritan Traction Company is important to Mr. Boynton's interests, and it has been held up by an injunction secured by the township. It is believed that a settlement of the squabble with the traction company on terms satisfactory to it will be followed by a new assignment of Mr. Boynton's interest in the land.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Use Press Want Ads.

—Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of South Plainfield, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church, yesterday, morning and evening.

—Young men interested in the study of English and mathematics are requested to call at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow evening.

—Street Commissioner Gavett's men have been repairing the crosswalks about the city and putting them in good condition. Constant wear had depressed them below the proper grade.

Look Out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tonic and strength to the glands. L. W. Randolph.

Rally Day Exercises Were Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The pupils of the First M. E. Sunday-school held their annual rally day exercises, yesterday afternoon. They were given under the direction of James R. Joy.

Responsive readings and singing led by the Sunday-school orchestra were features of the programme and a talk by Stephen H. Tugwell and a violin solo by Miss Theo White, of Brooklyn, were greatly enjoyed. The primary department contributed with a part, "The Model School" and the members responded to questions regarding their studies put to them by the superintendent.

—Fifty baskets of extra fancy quinces will be disposed of by Neuman Brothers tomorrow at an astonishingly low price.

HAD THE SYMPTOMS.

Why the Young Woman Knew a Proposal Was Coming.

The Youth Who Wanted to Make Her His Own Asked Questions About Clubs and Smoking and Read Some Literature.

They happened to meet in a shop the other day, ..., according to London Tit-Bits, ... and a conversation which sent one of them away with floods of light illuminating her soul. She was one of those girls who are adored by old ladies, and constantly invited to tea by them to meet bachelor sons, and who count all the beaux they ever had on the fingers of one hand. The other—well, she was different. She was one of those maddening creatures who are always mysteriously supplied with roses and bonbons and escorted to the theater on the first nights, in spite of the fact that all the other girls are agreed that "there is absolutely nothing in her." The latter young woman was meditating over some silks when the other one greeted her.

"I suppose you are trying to decide between the old rose and the pale green?" she said.

"Well, no," replied the other girl, frankly. "You see, I am getting my wedding things, and I think I'll have both." Then she gazed down to blush and looked up to see the effects of her words.

"Is it possible? I—"

"Yes, dear, and you can't imagine how nervous I am."

"I only hope you—"

"Will be happy? Of course I shall. Why, I can always make him do just what I choose."

The other girl pursed up her lips and looked envious. "Oh, I shouldn't like that at all. The man I marry must be one that I can obey."

"Not at all, my dear. It is all very nice to talk that way to the men. They like it, and it sounds pretty, besides doing no harm, until you are really going to marry one of them,

"HE HASN'T DONE IT YET!"

when you want your own way, just like any other sensible woman."

"Well, do tell me how he—" began the other girl, dreamily.

"Proposed? But he hasn't done it yet!"

"But I thought that you—"

"Were selecting a trousseau? So I am, goosie. You see, it is just this way. He will call at eight this evening, and by nine at latest we will be formally engaged."

"But how do you know?" helplessly asked the other girl.

"Simply by precedent. When a man asks you in an anxious tone if you think a married man ought to give up his club, you may know that his intentions are serious, and when he follows it up a few days later by asking you if you don't think a man has a right to smoke all over his own house it is high time to decide when the wedding shall be."

"My goodness!"

"Yes, but that wasn't what convinced me."

"Oh, do tell me about it!"

"No, it was simply like this: I met him in the street yesterday, and he was reading a paper so intently that he didn't even see me till I spoke. Then he blushed violently, and in great confusion thrust his paper into his overcoat pocket. Well, he went home with me and—now, you must never tell this as long as you live!"

"I never, never will."

"Well, I was so curious to see what he had been reading that confused him, that I made an excuse to slip out into the hall where his coat was hanging and took the paper out of his pocket, and what do you think it was?"

"Oh, I can't imagine."

"It was a household paper, and the article that he had been reading was one which proved conclusively that two people could live a good deal more cheaply than one. Now do you see why I am commencing to select my trousseau?" she asked triumphantly.

"Yes, I do," meekly replied the other girl.

Burglar Did Reporter Act.

A professional burglar in Berlin found a new and original way of adding to the ordinary profits of his profession. After each burglary he sent a full account of it to one of the daily newspapers, and for this he received payment in the usual way. But he tried his plan once too often. The editor became suspicious and gave information to the police, who soon found how this amateur reporter was able to beat all rivals in the way of early information.

Court Danger All the Time.

Eighty thousand people live within the danger radius of Mount Vesuvius.

A COSTLY CIGARETTE.

The Confiding Young Man Who Smoked It Was Loser by a Very Large Amount.

Constantin Kardax, a young Pole, was going to the imperial bank, in Warsaw, recently, with the intention of depositing a roll of rubles worth about $12,000, when suddenly he was accosted by an elegantly dressed man, who politely asked him if he could show him the way to the bank, reports a London exchange.

"I am going there," replied Constantin, "and we may as well go together."

The stranger thanked ... offered him a cigarette, which he took and began to smoke. A few minutes later he became very sick and fainted in his companion's arms. When he recovered consciousness he found himself in a drug store, and soon saw that his elegantly dressed companion and his roll of rubles had disappeared. While he was wondering what had become of them, the druggist told him that he had certainly been robbed.

"Your companion vanished as soon as he brought you here," he said, "and, of course, he took the money with him. I suspected nothing at the time, but I soon noticed a peculiar odor from the half-burnt cigarette, which you held between your fingers, and when I examined it I saw plainly enough that you had been drugged."

FUTURE OF THE PANAMA HAT.

Recent Indications Point to the Abandonment of It as a Summer Headgear.

The future of the panama is a fit subject for speculation. Each man has his own method of curing a cold and preserving a panama, states the Chicago Tribune. Some declare that a careful course of kerosene followed by the use of a quart bottle of Florida water is the only method worthy of being followed, while others allege that the true student of economy will this year wind whole yards of bath towel fringes around the straw, and hand over the white elephant to the negro who attends to the furnace.

As a matter of fact the indications point to more or less of an abandonment of the panama by society people during the next year or two. It is expected that a return to the domestic straw with the addition of bands of quiet colors, will be noted during the late days at Newport and Lake Forest.

It may be that the panamas will be brought out two years hence for the first of the presidential election parades, but one thing is almost certain, which is that the linoleum imitation at $2.98 has done much to discourage the wearing of the genuine article to any extent during next season.

RAILROAD SIGN LANGUAGE.

Signals Communicate What Needs to Be Said as Perfectly as It Could Be Told in Words.

It is not deaf mutes alone who employ the sign language. Railroaders have a tongue of this sort that, since railroading began, has been growing until now anything that needs to be said in it can be expressed as perfectly as in words, says the Philadelphia Record. The signals of railroaders are made with the hands and arms in the daytime, and with a lantern in the dark, the lantern signals, by the way, being comprehensible at a far greater distance than the daytime ones. The latter are made with one arm or with both, at the brakeman's option. To go ahead, to stop and to back are the leading ones. The arms moved horizontally and vertically make the two first signals; the back turned and the arms pushed out makes the last one. The main lantern signals are an up-and-down, a crosswise and a circular movement. There are, of course, a hundred other minor signals, and these vary slightly in different parts of the country. But the main ones are as common and as intelligible everywhere among American railroaders as the English language itself.

NEW SPORT WITH A BULL.

An Innovation of the Arena Which Is Not Well Received by the People of Spain.

Weary of ordinary bull-fights, some young men in Madrid recently invented a novel sport, reports a London paper. Procuring a wild bull, they managed to saddle and bridle it in the same manner as a horse and then drove it out into a large arena, where a popular jockey was waiting with the intention of trying to mount the infuriated animal.

The seats around the arena were filled with spectators, and great was the excitement as the jockey approached the bull and dexterously endeavored to vault on its back. For a few minutes the animal foiled him successfully, but finally the jockey got into the saddle and then there was a wild race around the arena.

Unfortunately, one of the girths broke just as the bull was beginning to grow tired and the jockey was thrown to the ground.

As the officials who have charge of the bull-fights have expressed their disapproval of this novel sport, it is scarcely likely that it will become popular in Madrid.

A Versatile Genius.

An enterprising rural artist in Georgia says in an announcement to the public: "I will paint your house, your old barn, or your portrait on short notice. Also, will give lessons on a piano, if you have one."

New Woman Facts and Fancies

IN some of the large cities preparations are making for exhibits of women's work in the various departments of industry and art. The wisdom of such expositions is more than doubtful. The right way is to face facts squarely. As a mark of woman's progress a collection of woman's work is always disappointing. Her art is apt to be feeble, her mechanical product out of square. Woman as a producer of anything but children is too new as yet to be exploiting herself collectively. There are exceptional women who can do great things. These are the heralds of the woman that is to be and show what she will be capable of when fully developed, but woman's full development is not yet. Edith Griswold, the patent lawyer, is a born and bred mechanician; Rosa Bonheur was the greatest animal painter of her century, not even excepting Landseer; Anna Dickinson during the civil war thrilled hundreds of thousands with an oratory that was matchless. What one woman has done another woman may do at any time, and the feminine sex is moving forward faster than it ever did before toward the goal of achievement. Let us be satisfied with that and each do her best and grandest in her own field to help along. The only evidence of progress shown in an exposition of woman's work is the fact that there is such an exposition at all. It was not heard of in the world's history till the last century. But don't you see that an exposition of woman's work alone is an admission that she cannot compete on equal terms with men and so must flock by herself? The only right way in the arts or industries is to ask no odds for ourselves because we are women, but to strive on nobly and faithfully, full of hope and aspiration, letting our work stand for what it is worth before men and gods.

Know this—woman will never come into her true kingdom till women stand together and stand by one another.

The right sort of mother is a perpetual consolation and inspiration to the right sort of daughter.

The lady remonstrants against woman suffrage are as amusing as Artemus Ward's kangaroo.

The meanest man I have heard of in a long time is a certain one whose second wife died, leaving him twice widowed. The lady's children, whose father was her first husband, placed over their mother's grave a neat monument. The widower lifted it out of the ground, erased from it the second wife's name, caused to be chiseled instead his first wife's name and put it upon the said first wife's grave. Moral.—A woman cannot be too careful how she marries a close fisted widower.

A lady in New York fashionable society lately went down a steamer's side by an iron ladder in the darkness to the deck of a steam tug. Thereupon toadyish New York newspapers exploited this simple performance as something no woman had ever done before and exalted this rich and fashionable lady to the skies for her courage and muscular activity. The truth is the feat is nothing at all. I have known women to do it several times, and nobody thought anything uncommon of it, and the ladies themselves thought nothing of it. It is something women do every day in the year somewhere in this wide world, but they are seldom millionaire women, with the representative of a toady newspaper close at hand to chronicle their simple feat.

Three girls are taking the course in civil engineering at Cornell university. This is a fine profession for women.

A Chicago man writes to a newspaper: "For four years I have been shaved exclusively by women barbers. I cannot see a single point of superiority for the men, but I do see many points for the women. Their mouths, faces and hands look and are vastly cleaner than those of the men barbers."

The best all round college girl athlete in the world is Helen Downes of Elmira college, who has made a running broad jump of 12 feet 6 inches. She says she has found athletic training an essentially good thing, that she has improved in health since she took it up and that she can also do better work in her studies.

Professor E. Benjamin Andrews, for all his learning, appears to be a poor logician. In a recent address to the students and teachers of Chicago university he advised all the single ones to wed because, he said, nearly all the world's great successes had been achieved by married people, blinking the fact that this is only so because nine-tenths of the world's adult inhabitants happen to be married. Some of them, like Socrates, achieve greatness in spite of being married.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

By MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD.

Copyright 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Co.

The priest stood sullen and pale. Whereupon one of the policemen, handing the bound wrists to his companion, took certain stage properties from the pocket of the priest, not without something of a struggle, however, then with the grasp of a giant and with a great rip, he tore away the clerical coat, in which the man was garbed, and exposed to view the old worn brown suit which I knew well, aye, even to the papers sticking from the pockets. Ah, I recognized them all, the journalist's coat, the pencils, the incriminating pad. Then with a dexterous movement he snatched from the priest's head the skin which covered his hair, he clapped a whiskers and mustaches upon his face, and held them there. The man struggled, but to no purpose. All at once it was my lower back, Mr. Beldon.

"I SWEAR I NEVER MEANT IT."

"But these are my boarders; I know them well," I cried.

"Not very well, I fear," said Jennings. "Let me introduce you to Mr. Parky Hoyt and his wife Josie, I should say, as I am now in polite society—Darlington Hall, you know—Mr. and Mrs. Parkington Hoyt, the cleverest jail-birds that we ever sent up the river for a summer's vacation. I'm afraid, though, Josie," said he, turning and smiling pleasantly at the girl, "it will be a longer trip for you this time. The old gentleman, you know—we've proof enough——"

"I swear before God," said Miss Dacres, "that I never meant to—it was just to keep him quiet. He was weaker than I thought he——"

"St," said the priest warningly.

"You needn't incriminate yourself, Josie," said Jennings.

"But his credentials—Mr. Beldon's" I said. "They were so excellent—from Mr. Haight and from Mr. Everett, both of the Star Union."

"It's very easy to write a recommendation," said Bob Jennings, smiling and showing his beautiful teeth—"the easiest thing in the world. Did you ever see Mr. Haight's signature, Mrs. Brathwaite?"

"No," I admitted, "except the letter that Mr. Beldon brought me."

"Perhaps it would have been wiser to have put on your bonnet one fine morning and made a little trip to the city and to the sanctum of the editor of the Star Union."

"I never thought of that," I cried.

"He knew you wouldn't."

"I trusted him from the first."

"He knew you would."

"Oh! I have a piece of your property here, Josie," said Jennings, turning to her; "I forgot that." He drew from his pocket the purse which I had found on the stone near the Swedes' church and had never thought of again until this moment. She tried to clutch it. My God forbid that I shall ever again see so sickening a sight as that yellow-haired girl turned to a maniac with frenzy.

"Not just yet, Josie," said Jennings; "just wait a moment. Mrs. Brathwaite, will you kindly open that pocket-book? Pardon my throwing it, but Josie isn't as quiet as she should be under the circumstances. You'll be quieter a little later, Josie, my dear."

"My God! My God!" ejaculated Mr. Beldon.

Jennings threw the purse into my lap, and with weak and trembling fingers I pressed the clasp. "Where did you get it?" I asked, faintly.

"Out of your pocket, madam. The pocket of the dress that you wore when we took that charming drive together." I had not worn it since. "Please see what is inside." I took from the purse some money.

"Open and count it, madam."

There were but two bills. I recognized them at once. I had thought of them so often. They were of the denominations of one hundred dollars and fifty dollars. "Examine them closely, Mrs. Brathwaite, please," said Jennings.

I did so.

"What do you see?"

"Two letters," said I.

At this the girl writhed afresh, but Jennings held her with tight grasp. As for Mr. Beldon, he had sunk in the chair all doubled up in a heap, and hung his head upon his breast.

"The letters," said I, "are A. D."

"Did you ever know anyone named A. D.?"

"No," said I, "no. Oh, yes! why, of course I have—A. David Darlington."

"Yes, A. D."

"I know that his letters to the ladies were often signed A. D.," said I, "that is before—before—they—Adam David his name was——"

"That doesn't prove they were his," said Miss Dacres.

"No," said Jennings, "it doesn't, but perhaps the squire's diary may. Margot, where is that little red book that you showed to Elder Wynne last week?"

"What has Elder Wynne to do with this case?" said Miss Dacres, flashing an enraged look at the company generally.

"Everything," said Jennings, quietly. "Now, Mrs. Brathwaite, turn to the last page, will you, and read, kindly read aloud." I did as he told me. I read aloud:

"April the 17th, Darlington Hall.

"I am afraid! afraid! Margot has slipped in— She has given me pen and ink. I have set my initials in the corner of some notes. What good that will do me I know not, but it will be proof—in case——"

Here the writing stopped.

"Is that the writing of Adam David Darlington?" asked Jennings.

As he asked this question I was aroused by a low, moaning cry. Miss Dacres began like a little crying child, but her tones rose higher and higher, until her sobbing and wailing filled the old kitchen.

"Wibby, Wibby," she said—she had flushed crimson, as she always did when experiencing great emotion—"you don't believe it, you won't. Oh Wibby! Wibby!"

"She stole those and the letters," interpolated Jennings—"and Heaven alone knows how much more—and stole the money from you again so you'd have to keep her. Stole the letters and studied them carefully. Margot remembers when the consul sent them home—the letters, I mean after Eugene Darlington's death. The squire had them in that small black desk of his; he used to read 'em over and over—didn't you say so, Margot?—and you saw him, didn't you, Josie, probably read some of 'em to him yourself. So you can still blush?"

Beldon spoke again.

"Have you got the doctor, Jennings?" he said, in a low voice of inquiry.

"Yes, quite safe in Mrs. Brathwaite's cellar. But then, as you know, he has been there for some days past. Oh! now, come! come! dear Mrs. Brathwaite, don't. I beg of you, be nervous on his account. Don't you know I told you that much went on at night of which you knew nothing, but didn't I also say that I would take care of you, and haven't I? Haven't I, now? It is only Haughtry, Miss Dacres' faithful servant, or unfaithful one, so called, the Dr. Lestrange of this most interesting case. He was here, as you know, with Squire Darlington. He posed as a good Catholic, and brought this pious priest, and more pious sister, into the house to help him in the care of the squire's physical health and family possessions. He has made your cellar a place of safe deposit. You know I told you what I had found—yes, Josie, my dear, I had it all up in the lower front while you were masquerading as the heiress of Darlington Hall. I must restore it to-morrow. It will take me quite the whole day. Some for 'The Larches,' some for Lawyer Parsons, some for 'The Beeches,' some for Marchbank, not to speak of the church service from Wehauken Town. I really think, though, that Dr. Lestrange should be made to polish the silver before I return it. It would look much better for a little hot soapsuds and silicon, but at present he is incapacitated, I fear, as he has broken into a case of old brandy which you had probably forgotten, Mrs. Brathwaite, left there by the judge in the dark ages, so that his imaginary companions are those pleasant creatures of natural history, the snake, the rat, the black beetle, and others of equal interest. In fact, Mrs. Brathwaite, our dear Dr. Lestrange considers that he is residing for the present within the boundaries of a zoological garden, but I shall relieve you of him early to-morrw morning."

"Will you stow it, Jennings?" asked Mr. Beldon, who seemed all at once to have forgotten his literary style, "and get away from this?"

And now Amaranthe, or Josephine Dacres, or Mrs. Parkington Hoyt, as they now called her—I got very much confused with all these changes of names—Josephine Dacres turned and looked at me. She stretched out her hand while something like a smile played round her lips.

"Good-by, Wibby," she said, and then she laughed aloud.

She went on: "The game is done," she said, "finished, played out to the end! If they will only believe my plea, and not find me guilty of murder. I had no thought of killing him, any more than I had of making the two old ladies so ill. What a muddy night it was when I left the Hall! You remember about the muddy shoes, don't you, Wibby? and Baldy Towner?" she began to laugh. "I only wanted to quiet him—the old gentleman, I mean—while I searched for——"

"Stt," said Mr. Beldon warningly.

"While you rummaged," interpolated Jennings.

"If I can only be sent where Jim is," continued Miss Dacres recklessly. "There I——"

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

SOME INDIAN MYTHS.

They Are Intensely Poetic and Full of Sentiment.

Why Some of the Tribes Refer to the Grand Canyon of Arizona as the "Waterway of the Gods."

[Special Grand Canyon (Ari.) Letter.]

ALREADY this year nearly 10,000 people have visited the Grand canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona. The journey is now made with ease by railroad to the very edge or "rim" of the canyon, consequently interest is increasing at a wonderful rate in regard to everything pertaining to this marvelous "waterway of the gods." As there are many Indians living in the region of the Grand canyon, there are, as might well be expected, many legends pertaining to it. The Paiutis, Utes, Pieeds and Commanches on the north, the Hopis and other Pueblo Indians, together with the Navahoes, on the east; the Apaches, Pimas, Maricopas, Papagoes, Wallapais, Havasupais on the south, and the Mohaves, Chemehuevis, Yumas and a score of other tribes on the west, all have their myths and legends, connected directly or indirectly with the great gash in the earth's crust that makes this preeminently "The Grand Canyon" of the world.

Take the very name that I have just used for it, viz., "waterway of the gods." There is in this name a very interesting story which Maj. Powell collected from the Paiutis. Numa, a great chief, had a beautiful and loving wife who was the pride of his eyes and the joy of his life. No couple was happier; no pair so much envied for their never ending honeymoon. Children came to bless them, yet Numa never ceased to love their mother because he gave a wealth of affection to the children. It must have been that the gods envied Numa his joys, for ere long his wife sickened, and, before he could believe it possible, she had passed on.

A NAVAHO OF THE COLORADO RIVER.

Poor Numa was heartbroken. He wailed for his beloved for the prescribed length of time, but he felt as sad at heart at the end of his wailing as he did before. He could not be comforted. He was great and wise and good and his people all loved him. They had never once regretted making him their chief, but now he was too sad and oppressed to give them any thought or care, and when anyone came to talk to him, to ask his advice, to seek his counsel, the far-away look in his eyes made clear without words that he scarcely knew of their presence or heeded the words they said.

This made his people sad and mournful, for they knew not how to bring him comfort. At last they all pleaded with the sun god to take away poor Numa's sorrow. The sun god came to the earth and told Numa to cease his weeping. His beloved wife had gone to a far more beautiful land than the one he was dwelling in. In this new land there were fruits and flowers and plenty of water. The sweet singing of birds filled the air and all was delightful and happy. "Ah!" replied Numa, "you tell me of all this, but how can I believe it. Could I but see my own, I should know, and were she happy I would never mourn again."

"Then," said the god, "you shall go and see her." So he made a trail from the mountains to the far-away fair land where Numa's wife had gone, and then set forth with Numa. When the chief saw his wife in that earthly paradise (it was Southern California), he dried his tears, smiles came again to his face, his eyes brightened and he said to the sun god: "Take me back. I know now that she is happy. I will never weep again!"

So the two returned, the god of the sun exacting a promise that he would not tell his people too much of what he had seen, lest they should grow discontented with their desert living place and desire to go to the paradise of the dead. Then, to prevent the possibility of anyone ever finding his way down the great trail, the god turned the mighty Colorado river into the gorge. This is why the Indians keep away from the great chasm. I do not believe that any white man ever succeeded in exploring its wonders.

On the south "rim," not far from the Bright Angel trail, where most of the present visitors go, are some Indians who have a legend of a different character, and yet it speaks of the land to which the god led Numa.

These people know of the land of charm and delight, and they believe the time will come when their god will come and lead them away from the sandy desert region and the high plateaus where few food plants grow, into this fertile and fruitful land where food abounds. They say he will come at a certain time of the year, and they point to two rocky peaks that are to be seen from the Bright Angel trail, and say that is the gateway through which the gods are to come. So every year at a certain time some of the shamans, or medicine men, with the elders, come and sit and watch this gateway, hoping for the coming of the gods. The younger Indians laugh at this superstition, but, as I tell them, it is far better to have religious hopes than to believe there are no powers higher, wiser, better than themselves.

This gateway I have named "Angel Gate," and all who see it should know its interesting story.

The Wallapais have a legend in which a great flood figures. All their land was flooded and most of the people drowned. One of their mythical heroes (with a fearfully long name which I now forget), fled to the San Francisco mountains for refuge, and, when the flood began to subside, the hero walked boldly into the deep waters, taking with him a large stone ax. Then, bidding the waters go, he smote several heavy blows into the soft and muddy earth. Each blow went deeper than its predecessor, and each step took him further away from the mountains. At last he had hacked a great trench into which the waters flowed, and soon flooded an outlet into the level desert land where the Mohaves and Chemehuevis live. Thus the waters escaped and the land became dry and habitable again.

The Havasupais believe the roaring noise of the river is the voice of Hachataia, the god of the raging storm. They call the roaring of the wind, Hachataia, and the canyon, they also call Hachataia, because of the noise which ever fills its solemn depths from the onward sweep of its mighty current over rapids and cascades. I know of but one Havasupai Indian, of the more than hundred bucks of the tribe, who has ever been across the Colorado. They were all afraid.
